The respective camps of J. Austin Chamberlain and Walter Hume Long developed such bitterness of feeling that soon it was evident that the selection of one of them at the expense of the other would leave behind too many raw places, and both are understood to have declared their readiness to serve under the Law banner.

Mr. Law, who comes from New Brunswick, only entered Parliament in 1900. He vacated a safe seat in the Dulwich division of Camberwell in the last general election to fight in Northwest Manchester on the tariff reform platform but failed of election, and in March last found a safe seat in the Bootle division of Lancashire, Southwest.

The Evening News to-night says the appointment of Mr. Law is assured.

Andrew Bonar Law, the son of Rev. James Law, M.A., was born in New Brunswick on September 16, 1858. He was educated in New Brunswick, at Gilbert Field School, Hamilton, and at the Glasgow High School. He became an iron merchant in Glasgow and entered politics in 1901. From 1902 to 1906he was Parliamentary secretary of the Board of Trade. Mr. Law was first elected to Parliament from the Blackfriar's division of Glasgow and continued to represent that constituency until 1906. He is chairman of the Glasgow Iron Trade Association. In 1891 he married Miss Annie Pitcairn, of Glasgow.

You will find that druggists everywhere speak well of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. They know from long experience in the sale of it that in cases of coughs and colds it can always be depended upon, and that it is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.

THE WEATHER.

Generally fair and cold.

PECK'S RALLY

There will be another rally to-night in Mr. Peck's Central Committee Rooms, on George street. A number of speakers will address the electors.

WILL PETERBOROUGH GET A NEW INDUSTRY?

The Guy Carriage Company, of Oshawa, has decided to locate an automobile industry in this city, providing they can dispose of a certain amount of stock to Peterborough citizens. The Board of Trade will hold a meeting next Tuesday evening, when the company's proposition will be discussed.

On Tuesday evening the Board are looking for a final report from their committee who engaged the late Industrial Commissioner.

It is to be hoped that a good gathering will be present at the forthcoming meeting, and that the well known capable business and energetic character of its President, Mr. Vincent Eastwood, will stimulate the members of the Board to a renewed recognition of the responsibilities of what SHOULD be an important body, representing the business, commercial and manufacturing interests of Peterborough.

EAST CITY RATEPAYERS OPPOSED TO SCHOOL SITE REPORTED ON

East City Ratepayers, whilst gratified at the arrangements under consideration by the Board of Education for the erection of a new and modern school building in their ward are bitterly opposed to the site at present in view—at the head of Hunter St. on the Armour Estate. And they are going to leave no stone unturned to convince the Board's Building Committee that if their wishes are consulted the new structure will be more centrally located. They object in no uncertain terms to a modern school building that is to afford educational facilities for possibly generations to come being erected on the top of a hill at the extreme limit of the town. The climbing of this hill, it is freely offered, would be a hardship, especially in winter, for many little folk, to say nothing of its distance from many parts of the Ward. The Times is also advised that East City ratepayers desire the new school erected on the old school site, and that contingent thereto there is sufficient purchasable property to assure adequate play grounds.

In this connection our readers should understand that no definite arrangements have been reached by the school board as to either perfected plans or site. The Building Committee is anxious to expend its appropriation in the best interests of all concerned, and will no doubt be pleased to receive any practicable suggestions as to school sites in both East and West City. A concrete report is yet to be submitted to the School Board as a whole for approval.

YOUNG WOMAN MURDERED FOR SEVENTY DOLLARS

White Plains, N.Y., Nov. 10.—A posse of Sheriffs, farmers and laborers on the New York aqueduct rounded up late yesterday four Italians in connection with the murder of Mrs. Henry Hall, the young wife of a superintendent of the aqueduct near Yorkton. Mrs. Hall was attacked and robbed of $70 by several men who invaded her little cottage near Yorkton while her husband was at work upon the aqueduct, a mile and a half away. She was stabbed twice one wound being near the heart.

EVERYONE SHOULD BUY A TAG TODAY

This is Tag Day and all actively interested are optimistic that Peterborough citizens' liberality of last year will be repeated—with a substantial increase—to-day. The object is to augment the funds of the Children's Aid Society, an organization that cares for and promotes the future interests of homeless and neglected little ones. Everyone approached by the young lady agents of the society is expected to do his or her duty and buy a tag. Give what you please, but act as generously as possible in support of so commendable a cause. The young ladies authorized to sell the tags will be readily distinguished by the society's official colour, worn on the arm. Drivers of horses will be offered rosettes with which to decorate their steeds.

MISS CHALMERS' RECITAL

DELIGHTFUL MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT AT CONSERVATORY HALL.

An Appreciative Audience Who Thoroughly Enjoyed the Very Fine Programme—Miss Chalmers Assisted by Dr. Frederic Nicolai.

The Vocal Recital given last night in the Conservatory of Music Hall, by Miss Mary G. Chalmers, assisted by Dr. Frederic Nicolai, 'cellist, was attended by an appreciative audience. The programme was of unusual excellence, and was most enjoyable throughout. Miss Chalmers possesses a remarkably sweet and cultured voice, and was loudly applauded after each number, in which she appeared, while Dr. Nicolai rendered his 'Cello selections in a way that met with the hearty approval of the appreciative audience. The following is the programme :

Chaminade—"On the Shore."
Schindler—"The Dove."
Brackett—"Proposal."
Popper (Cello)—"Andacht."
Schubert—"Die Forelle."
Debussy—"Nuit d' Etoiles."

ORDERED A GENERAL SLAUGHTER OF PEOPLE

Nanking, China, Nov. 10.—Historic Nanking this evening is the shambles of the Manchu butcher. The sun set upon a scene of fire, rapin, desolation and butchery unrecorded in modern history.

To-night 12,000 Manchu and Imperial old-style soldiers hold Purple Hill, where they are entrenched, while from beneath their stronghold they are driving before them hordes of Chinese out of the city.

Soon afterwards the carnage commenced. Since the night of November 8, when the first attack was made by the revolutionists, the Tartar general has endeavored to terrorize the inhabitants by wholesale executions. Those whose queues had been cut off were beheaded by the dozen, but to-day when the of a general slaughter was given the whole native city was invaded by the Manchus who ruthlessly massacred men, women and children. The aged and young, and babies in arms, were shown no mercy.

Thousands of Chinese poured from the gates until noon to-day it was estimated that fully 70,000 persons had escaped. Before nightfall 20,000 more representing every class, the merchants, the gentry, the coolies, had gotten away. Meanwhile the Manchus scoured the narrow streets of the city and the houses of wealthy merchants were sacked.

The correspondent of the Associated Press saw several women executed and their children stabbed and trampled under foot.

PEACE FORUM IN TOKIO

Tokio, Nov. 10.—Dr. John Wesley Hill, pastor of the Metropolitan Temple, New York, successfully organized a Japanese branch of the International Peace Forum to-day. The meeting was attended by more than 50 representative persons including Viscount Kaneko, former Minister of Justice, Baron Sakatani, ex-Minister of Finance, and Baron Kanada, a member of the Japanese Commercial Commission. The purpose of the Forum was enthusiastically endorsed.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

At George Street Methodist Church —Rev. Dr. Armstrong, of Toronto Will Preach.

The anniversary services of George street Methodist church will be held to-morrow. The services will be of a very interesting nature. Rev. Dr. Armstrong, of Toronto, will preach both morning and evening. The choir will provide special music for the occasion.

Is Warning to Catholics.

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 10.—The Canadian Freeman (Roman Catholic) in discussing the life sentence imposed upon Farquhar McRae for the killing of a young Carp druggist, claims that the sentence was out of the ordinary under the circumstances connected with the case, and intimates that Mr. Justice Sutherland's ideas may become a matter of question later. However, the Freeman says that Catholics who are travelling towards the mixed marriage destiny should seriously reflect and think of this unfortunate outcome.

A BUTCHER'S DILEMMA.

A small boy of tender years, yesterday morning handed a local butcher the following pathetic note :

"Give the little boy 20 cents worth of tender stake, please don't give him bad stake, but give him good stake—give him the round stake."

We will leave our readers to imagine the butcher's dilemma in answering the anxious ladies note with a piece of "round" steak that embodied the several palatable qualities insisted upon. However, it was exceedingly unkind of the mother to hint at the possibility of her meat vendor sending her "bad" steak. No self-respecting butcher these days would sell a piece of round steak that isn't good and rich and tender—ahem !

A SMALL FIRE.

About 8 o'clock last night a live wire set the awning over Tully & Co's drug store on fire. An alarm was sent in and the brigade used a couple of chemicals to extinguish the blaze.

MIETTO HOT SPRINGS.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Station formerly known as Fiddle Creek, mile 997.8 West of Winnipeg, has been changed to Mietto Hot Springs. It will be in this locality that the first of the Grand Trunk Pacific Mountain Hotels will be erected, and is within seven or eight miles of the Mietto Hot Springs that are situated just beyond the famous Roche Mietto Mountain which looms up to the West of this station.

The whole of the territory in the vicinity of the Mietto Hot Springs Station will, without doubt, become one of the greatest meccas in America for the ever increasing tourist traffic, with the mountains as an objective point, as everything that goes to make up an attractive mountain resort is found in this locality.

The Mietto Hot Springs will become famous the world over, as the efficacy of the waters of these springs for medicinal purposes has been proved, and for bathing purposes are without comparison.

There are four springs with temperature as follows :—
111, 116, 122, 127 degrees.

INDIANS NOT DECREASING

Official Figures Indicate a Good Increase

SANITARY STATE BETTER

The Health of the Indian Is Much Improved — Better Educational Facilities and Healthier Employment.

The Times is in receipt of the report of the Department of Indian affairs from which we learn the Indian population of the country to be 106,-261. Of this number 4,600 are Esquimos. The increase of birth over deaths in the past year, in those portions of the country heard from, is 346, showing that the prevalent notion that the Indian is gradually disappearing is not sustained by the facts. In fact it has been found that in any country where the Indians have passed through that period of exhaustion that must be met by any aboriginal race in contact with civilization the population is either stable or on the increase.

The Indian's Health.

The health of the aborigines throughout the year has been about normal. There was, however, a prevalence of smallpox. These outbreaks were not of a virulent nature, but rendered quarantine necessary. Tuberculosis is still the greatest foe of the Indian race and the difficulty of combating it is still existent. Indians dislike the restraint necessary for hospital treatment, and the experiments that have been carried out with tent hospitals have, owing to this reason, not been very successful ; but the nature of this disease and the means of preventing its spread are gradually becoming disseminated amongst the Indians.

Unsanitary Conditions.

The report states that one active source of disease is the unsanitary condition of dwellings and premises, and the improvement of health will

was incorporated by Special Act of the Parliament of Canada for the purpose of carrying on the business of Fire Insurance, as outlined in the Insurance Act and the Special Act of Incorporation.

Capital Stock Authorized by the Board.....$2,000,000
Capital Stock Subscribed to date $1,650,000

The Head Office of the Company is in the city of Winnipeg, and, in addition to this, Branch Offices and Agencies will be established throughout the Dominion.

It must be generally conceded that, owing to the satisfactory conditions at present prevailing throughout not only Western Canada, but the entire Dominion, this Company is being organized at a most favorable and opportune time.

Canada, and particularly the Western portion of the Dominion, is advancing in population and wealth more rapidly than at any other time in its history, and every indication points towards a period of great prosperity and development.

The great influx of settlers into Western Canada is resulting in tremendous activity in every line of business. Railroad construction is proceeding on a scale hitherto unknown in this country, and as adequate transportation is of vital importance in moving our immense crops with a proper degree of facility, it is highly encouraging to see so much well-directed energy along the lines of railway extension.

Coincident with railway expansion, we find many new districts rapidly filling up with desirable settlers, bringing with them a good supply of cash and effects. With the settlement of the rural districts, new towns and villages are springing up, which will, during the next few years, become, in many instances, important business centres.

With such unprecedented growth in Western as well as Eastern Canada, involving an expenditure of millions of dollars in building operations, it is at once evident that there is a very extensive and profitable field for a new Fire Insurance Company which will have a thorough organization throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, and more particularly in the four Western Provinces.

As a great volume of our business will be transacted in the West, it is a matter of the greatest importance that the Head Office of the Company, as well as the Directors, should be located in the West, so that the affairs of the Company may be conducted to the best possible advantage.

DIRECTORS.

The Board of Directors consists entirely of Western men with a very intimate knowledge of Western conditions, and they are, accordingly, well conversant with the financial and general business requirements of the West. They are thoroughly representative of the various important branches of financial, commercial, industrial and professional life in Western Canada, and with their wide reputation for business ability and integrity, as well as financial standing, combined with a long and varied experience, and practical knowledge of business affairs, they are exceptionally well qualified to render excellent service to a large financial institution.

As the Directors have valuable connections with extensive business interests and are also Directors of other financial corporations, as well as being otherwise identified with large and influential companies which control a great deal of high-grade fire insurance, they will be instrumental in placing a large portion of this desirable insurance with the new Company, so that we may safely conclude that from the very beginning of operations a large and profitable business will be secured.

Under these favorable conditions, and with a strong, energetic, as well as experienced and conservative management, combined with the fact that each Director has subscribed for eleven thousand five hundred dollars ($11,500) of the Capital Stock, on which all calls have been paid, and takes an active interest in the welfare of the Company, there is only one conclusion to draw, and that is that the affairs of the Company will be conducted in such a careful, conscientious and intelligent manner that the interests of both policyholders and stockholders will be fully protected.

IT IS WORTHY OF NOTE THAT $1,650,000 OF CAPITAL STOCK HAS ALREADY BEEN SUBSCRIBED BY PROMINENT BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN THROUGHOUT THE DOMINION AND ELSEWHERE.

No commission has been paid to anyone for securing stock subscriptions, and no expense has been incurred in the promotion and organization of the Company, except the expense in connection with securing the Charter and other necessary expenses.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE.

The Canada National Fire, being organized in the West, MAY BE TRULY CALLED A WESTERN COMPANY, and, as such, should receive the liberal patronage and hearty co-operation of the citizens of Western Canada, as well as the support of people from Eastern Canada who desire to become associated with a strong and progressive Canadian Company.

When promoting this Company the Directors were fully convinced that there was a splendid opening in Western Canada for a Company prepared to carry on the business of Fire Insurance on a large and comprehensive scale, and which, at the same time, could offer ADEQUATE PROTECTION TO BOTH POLICYHOLDERS AND SHAREHOLDERS. Accordingly, when making application for a Dominion charter, the Company was incorporated with a capital of $3,000,000.00, of which amount the Directors decided to offer for public subscription the sum of $2,000,000.00.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT FEATURE IN FIRE INSURANCE IS PROTECTION, and with the LARGE CAPITAL, combined with the high standard of Reserve, which will be maintained through careful selection of risks and profits from judicious investments, the Directors and Management feel confident that this Company will be accorded a very hearty reception by Canadian citizens, and will soon rank as one of the leading Fire Companies.

WITHOUT A LARGE AND SUBSTANTIAL CAPITAL FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE POLICYHOLDERS, A FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY IS SERIOUSLY HANDICAPPED, AND DOES NOT AFFORD THE POLICYHOLDER THAT PROTECTION TO WHICH HE IS JUSTLY ENTITLED, and the Directors of this Company, being fully aware of this most important fact, are adopting a very wise policy in OFFERING FOR SUBSCRIPTION SUCH A LARGE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL STOCK, and when our entire stock is subscribed and paid in full it will represent the largest amount of subscribed and paid-up capital of any Canadian Fire Insurance Company, and will be a tower of strength and of very material benefit to the company in carrying on its extensive operations.

GENERAL AGENT FOR CANADA :

W. E. FUDGER, ESQ.

It shall be the policy of the Company to use the UTMOST DISCRETION in the selection of desirable risks, and, at the same time, to so widely distribute its business that any danger arising from a possible conflagration at any point may be reduced to a minimum.

The investment of the Company's funds will be given the GREATEST OF CARE AND ATTENTION by the Board of Directors.

Only GILT-EDGE securities will be considered, such as first mortgages on improved, productive real estate, stocks, bonds and debentures of companies of high repute, as well as Dominion securities and municipal, county and school debentures of well-established districts.

As a LARGE PERCENTAGE of these securities is READILY NEGOTIABLE, the Company will have abundant LIQUID ASSETS to meet any possible contingency that might arise.

Our first mortgage investments will be confined to Western Canada, and as the rate of interest obtainable on first-class productive real estate is FULLY TWO PER CENT. greater in the West than in Eastern Canada, the Company will have a DECIDED ADVANTAGE over Companies operating exclusively in the older portions of the Dominion. A fixed policy of the Company is to loan NOT MORE THAN FIFTY PER CENT. of a conservative value of the property, and to stipulate for a definite return of principal, together with interest, each year during the term of the loan. With these periodical repayments of principal, and with land values in Western Canada steadily increasing, the Company's first mortgage securities will continue to improve year by year.

With the active development in Western Canada, a great deal of capital will be required for many years to come, and the Company will, therefore, experience a very ready demand for its funds on high-grade securities and at a profitable rate of interest.

The Directors decided to issue the stock at the price of ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTEEN DOLLARS PER SHARE, being at a premium of fifteen per cent.

THE TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION ARE :

On application, $25.00 per share, which shall include the premium of $15.00 per share, and the balance, payable in ten consecutive half-yearly instalments of $9.00 per share, the first of such half-yearly instalments to become due and payable six months from date of allotment of shares.

Shares may be PAID IN FULL at time of subscription, but if purchased on the INSTALMENT PLAN the subscriber shall have the privilege of paying any or all of the instalments prior to due dates.

The Following Table Shows the Amount of First Call as Well as the Subsequent Payments :

No. of Shares.	Amount of First Call.	Half-yearly Payments.

50	5,750.00
100	11,500.00
300	34,500.00

NO BONUS STOCK shall be issued for any purpose whatsoever, and even the Directors, who are very heavy stockholders in the Company, have paid the SAME PRICE for their shares as the general public. NOT ONE SHARE has been or will be issued to any person at a price less than $115.00 per share.

THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY to secure some of the Capital Stock of a Western Fire Insurance Company. With a large amount of desirable and profitable business so readily obtainable by the Company through its valuable and extensive business connections, rapid progress should be made, and with investments carefully selected and unexcelled in earning power, the Company will be enabled to not only pay substantial dividends, but build up a large reserve, and thereby materially increase the value of the stock.

The Directors firmly believe in the policy that EVERY SHAREHOLDER SHOULD CO-OPERATE WITH THE MANAGEMENT of a Company and take an active interest in its welfare. For that reason, it is their intention to WIDELY DISTRIBUTE the CAPITAL STOCK, and by that means obtain the support of the leading business and professional men throughout the country.

With the rapid development of the West during recent years, involving an outlay of many millions of capital, it has become generally recognized that WESTERN CANADA IS VERY MUCH IN NEED OF MORE LARGE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND ESPECIALLY OF WESTERN ORIGIN, to properly meet the growing requirements of the West, and to not only improve the present financial situation, but to materially assist in retaining, as much as possible, desirable business, with its resultant profits, within our own Western borders.

The business of fire insurance has now grown to such large proportions that it has become a very important factor in the financial and commercial world, and as its scope and influence is so general and widespread it is only natural to find that the question of AMPLE PROTECTION TO POLICYHOLDERS, which is the PRIMARY FUNCTION OF FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES, should be so GENERALLY DISCUSSED AT THE PRESENT TIME.

This important subject has given rise to a very STRONG FEELING in Western Canada that the TIME HAS NOW ARRIVED when the Western people should organize a Fire Insurance Company of such strength and proportions that it will soon rank as one of the leading fire companies of America, and command general respect and confidence, which is so ESSENTIAL to a company that solicits the support and patronage of all classes of the community.

The Directors have every confidence that they will receive the hearty co-operation of not only Western citizens, but of people from every part of the Dominion, to build up a GREAT fire insurance company with AMPLE PROTECTION for the people, and which will be a source of pride and credit to our country.

The following Canadian Government Insurance statistics should prove of ESPECIAL INTEREST :

In the year 1909 the total amount of fire premiums collected in Canada was $1,785,539.00, whereas in the year 1909 the total premiums charged amounted to the large sum of $32,293,636.26, and of this amount $6,551,644.41 was charged by Canadian Companies, $11,518,267.45 by British Companies, and $4,223,721.39 by American Companies.

During the last forty-one years the aggregate amount of fire insurance premiums collected in Canada reached the immense total of $280,740,466.00, of which the large sum of $218,310,047.00 represents the amount of fire premiums collected by FOREIGN COUNTRIES, and which, therefore, was taken out of the country to build up foreign companies and enrich foreign shareholders.

Notwithstanding that a considerable portion of the fire premiums collected in Canada by Foreign Companies has been repaid to Canadian policyholders, through fire losses, it must be evident that the larger the proportion of Canadian fire insurance that is placed with Canadian Companies, the larger is the amount of capital retained in the Dominion and always available for investment purposes, to build up our Canadian financial institutions, and thereby add to the general wealth and prosperity of our country.

The above figures are most significant and clearly demonstrate that while the CANADIAN FIRE COMPANIES have been doing a satisfactory business they HAVE SECURED only a SMALL portion of the Fire Insurance transacted in Canada, or, to be more exact, ONLY TWENTY-TWO PER CENT. of THE TOTAL FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN IN CANADA, covering a period of the last forty-one years. With the extraordinary progress which Canada has been making during recent years, the field for financial institutions has become so widely extended that there is a CONSTANTLY INCREASING DEMAND for new large financial corporations.

By further reference to our Government statistics it will be observed that at December 31st, 1909, the total number of Canadian Fire Companies operating under Dominion charter was ONLY TWENTY-ONE, and of this number ONLY TWO HAD A PAID-UP CAPITAL IN EXCESS OF $500,000.

In promoting this large Canadian Company the Directors are fully confident that the new organization will, with characteristic Western energy and enterprise, soon come to be recognized as an important factor in the insurance world, and as The Canada National Fire will be instrumental in RETAINING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF CANADA a large amount of money which would otherwise be taken out of the country to build up foreign corporations the people of the growing Dominion will readily see the advisability of giving this Company their MORAL AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT, in order that we may build up a STRONG and VIGOROUS Company which will prove a valuable acquisition to our Canadian monetary institutions.

This is the last opportunity to secure, direct from the Company, some of this desirable stock.

It is worthy of special note that the demand for the stock has exceeded the Directors' most sanguine expectations ; in fact, of the $2,000,000 of stock to be issued, $1,650,000 has already been subscribed, and, from present indications, with the large number of applications for stock being received daily, the Directors are confident that the balance of the issue, which is now only $350,000, will be subscribed by August 26th, 1911, the date appointed for the closing of stock subscriptions.

For this reason, the Directors strongly recommend the investing public to mail their applications for stock at their earliest possible opportunity.

Subscribers are requested to kindly fill in attached application form, stating name in full, number of shares desired, occupation and address, and mail the application, along with the first call of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) per share on the stock, direct to the Head Office of the Company, Winnipeg, Man., or, if so desired, application may be made for the stock at any of the Company's Branch Offices or at any Branch of the Royal or Imperial Banks, where application blanks and any additional information will be readily furnished. Applications for stock will be considered in the order received, and on approval of the same by the Board of Directors a certificate for the number of shares subscribed will be issued and mailed the shareholders forthwith. Cheques, Drafts, Money Orders or other remittances on account of stock subscriptions should be made payable to The Canada National Fire Insurance Company.

KING EDWARD VACUM CLEANER
You cannot clean carpets, rugs and furniture by beating. If you think you have, just try a KING EDWARD VACUUM CLEANER and you will find the article full of dust, which breeds disease.
The KING EDWARD HAND MACHINE has no equal as compared with other hand machines. It is lighter to operate and its suction is much stronger. Its suction is stronger than many of the power machines, and the dusting is done away with. On account of the short stroke one person can operate it on carpets and rugs equally as well as two, and it is about half the weight of other hand machines to carry up and down stairs or from one room to another. It is sold for less money than any of the hand machines. All machines are guaranteed.

Caring for the Train-Crews

Welfare work on the Canadian Pacific Railway has reached a high state of perfection. The railway believes that it is to its advantage to carefully look after the bodily welfare of its men and so everything possible is done to further the interests of its employees. At Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver there have been put into commission in connection with the Dining Car Department three new buildings which are the only ones of their kind on the continent. The new buildings which have been erected at a cost of $15,000 are for the use of the employees of the Dining Car Department. Coming into these cities after a long run the men will not have to look up a hotel or boarding house to pass the night in as under the old conditions. Instead they will go to the C. P. R.'s new buildings where they will be cared for in a way that was impossible before.

The new buildings are built to accommodate sixty two employees each and are of the most modern construction in every respect. Everything is free even to their laundry. Conductors chefs and waiters all have separate quarters and these quarters include baths, showers, lavatory, bedrooms, reading rooms, libraries, cardrooms and billiard rooms. Nice lawns and gardens beautify the premises and the men have all the comforts of home.

A feature of the new system is that the men will always be clean and tidy. It is compulsory for the men to take a bath and a change of underwear after each trip. A check system has been installed which makes it necessary for the men to comply with this rule.

Not only does this system guarantee that the public will have clean tidy men to attend to their wants but it also enables the company to keep a strict account of its men. When a car is called away on short notice at night it is not necessary to seek for a crew and the new system, it is expected, will be such a success that the C. P. R. will build these bungalows at all divisional points. As a matter of fact a building of this nature is now projected for Moose Jaw, and it is practically only a matter of time before there is a whole chain of them at all necessary points between Halifax and Vancouver.

Why the Stars Twinkle

The stars appear to twinkle because the rays of light, coming to us from those distant bodies, pass through strata of air of varying density. The ray of light is bent or refracted on passing from a rarer to a denser medium, and vice versa. All objects viewed through heated air—such as that arising from a brick or lime kiln, or even the vapour near the surface of the earth on a hot day—appear to quiver and tremble. The rays of light, coming from the stars, are, so to speak, shaken to and fro by passing through media of varying densities. The light of the planets is similarly affected, but to a less perceptible extent, on account of their comparative proximity.

Geologic Work of Ants.

The immense importance of ants as geologic agents, especially in tropical regions is being recognised. Ant burrows have been found at a depth of four yards, and they ramify over vast areas. The geologic work performed by earthworms has long been recognised, but Prof. Branner believes that the ants and termites of the tropics bring a greater amount of earth to the surface than do the earthworms of the temperate zones and are in many ways an equally important factor in the changes that are going on in the upper strata of the ground.

Smithson Institution Gets Canada Specimens

Four Naturalists Explored Wild Country Surrounding Mount Robson for Months.

Washington, D. C., November 1.—The Smithsonian Institution gets nine hundred specimens from the Canadian wilds. The Smithsonian party which accompanied Dr. A. O. Wheeler, president of the Alpine Club of Canada, on his topographic survey of the British Columbia-Alberta boundary line and the Mount Robson region, has just returned to Washington after a successful tour.

The new collection, is quite complete, and covers practically all the birds and animals inhabiting this previously unworked territory.

The party, consisting of four members, included the assistant curator of Mammals and Mr. J. H. Riley, of the division of birds of the National Museum.

Assembling at Edmonton, Alberta, early in July, the party proceeded on the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad to the end of the line, where they found it necessary to take pack horses to penetrate the Mount Robson region. The land to be surveyed included the territory lying about this mountain in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, comprising the most rugged and broken country imaginable.

Amid this wonderful scenery Mount Robson rises in titanic outline the highest peak in the Rockies, probably between 14,500 and 15,000 feet, and surrounding it for a distance of fifty miles in all directions lies the field of survey.

"In this wild and unclaimed country the party of naturalists remained nearly four months, protected by special permits from the Canadian Government. The natural history work was divided up, Mr. Hollister and Mr. Riley collecting the birds and small animals, while the other two collectors hunted big game.

The collection includes some 900 specimens of birds and mammals, the latter ranging in size from mole-like creatures called "H. H. Rews," to full grown caribous and bears. One enormous grizzly bear was obtained by a fortunate shot. Much fine material for exhibition groups was secured, including a series of caribous, mountain goats, mountain sheep, beavers, and many varieties of small animals.

Besides birds and mammals, a large number of plants and insects were collected. All the specimens have been turned over to the National Museum, where they will be put on exhibition.—Montreal Star, Nov. 1, 1911.

"Army Illiterates"

According to statistics recently published the number of illiterate recruits in the French Army has attained the astounding total of 14,000. On the other hand, the German newspapers point with pride to the fact that in the whole of Germany they have only 46 illiterates; that is, recruits who can neither read nor write. Ten years ago the number of illiterates in the German Army was 218. Going back another decade, the number was 360. The French journal from which these facts are taken, further states that the percentage of illiterates in the English Army—the last figures available being those for 1907—showed 1 per cent; France, 3.5 per cent.; Austria, 22 per cent.; Italy, 31 per cent.; and Russia, 62 per cent.

Electrocuted Eggs

It is possible that the peculiar taste of a cold storage egg, which is something not easy to mistake, may be removed if experiments now being made by an electrical company are successful. It is claimed that when fresh eggs are placed in cold storage the eggs are alive; that they are slowly frozen to death, and that in spite of the preservation qualities of the ice the eggs do not taste good when cooked. It is now believed that by electrocuting the eggs the natural fresh taste may be retained and not removed when the eggs are placed in cold storage. The eggs are "killed" by placing a metal cap on each end of the egg and then passing through them a current of 500 volts.

House Was Ransacked While Family Sit on Doorstep.

While Mr. Ovide Tanguay, in company with his family was enjoying the fresh air on the front doorsteps of his on Gilford Street, Montreal, a nervy second story man introduced himself through a window in the rear, and ransacked the place from top to bottom. When Mr. Tanguay made up his mind to retire he was dumbfounded to note the appearance of his bedroom. All the drawers had been emptied and contents were strewn pell-mell on the floor while all the jewelry and other valuable articles had been taken. Two watches, a watch chain, two stick pins and three rings are missing.

GOOD WORDS FROM ARABIA

Wise Men of the Desert Can Throw Some Words of Wisdom to the Twentieth Century Philosophers.

Acmar Ben Kharidja, an Arab historian who flourished about 1584, wrote a work on conjugal felicity. Here are some of the words of counsel which he gave to his readers:—Do not in any circumstances marry the following—(1) The one constantly complaining, full of tears, fancying that she is ill; there is nothing good in her. (2) The obsequious woman, who is always saying, "I have done this or that thing for you, as I wanted to please you." (3) The covetous or extravagant one, who wants everything she sees and abjures her husband to buy it for her.

This Arabian critic places in the fourth category the brilliant woman. She is one who keeps herself to herself in the home, and in public is always trying conclusions with someone to make herself shine.

Whatever may be thought of the wisdom of his advice in these particulars, he is certainly out-of-date when he declares that it is necessary that the wife should be in a state of inferiority to her husband in order that the union should be happy.

FACING THE FUTURE

By way of trying to accommodate the crowds that are calculated to keep on crushing into Calgary, the Canadian Pacific Railroad management has programmed a big extension.

In addition to a two hundred feet widening out to the west side of the old depot, with a seventy feet workout to the east, the Company's engineers have prepared plans for the erection of a building to cost between $50,000 and $100,000 at the northwest corner of Tenth Avenue East and First Street, one block north of the new Canadian Pacific Irrigation Company's building now nearing completion at Ninth Avenue and First Street East. This will be used for the storage of dining and sleeping car supplies and for general offices.

With the completion of the hotel, the Canadian Pacific Irrigation Company building, the proposed dining and sleeping car storage supply building and the extensions to the depot, the group of buildings in the square bounded by Ninth and Tenth Avenues and First Streets East and West, is calculated to be the finest of any in the West.

Business is Waiting

In Western Canada the track-layer is still a busy man. Hundreds of gangs are at work in the various provinces. Slowly but surely, the C. P. R.'s net work of new lines is stretching out and as fast as they are built they are being opened for traffic. The new lines are strong inducement and to meet the expected demand the story goes that in course of next year the C. P. R. will rush nearly four hundred miles of new lines in Alberta and Saskatchewan. These lines will bring into touch with other points of civilization such places as Kerrobert, Weyburn, Estevan, Swift Current, Wilkie, Kinimvie, Bassano and the Kipp branch extension.

What's in a Name!

There is a bandit chief in Morocco named Gilulli. He claims as his ancestor an Irishman of the name of Gilhooly, who was caught and enslaved by Arab freebooters some two or three hundred years ago. Of course Gilulli is agin the government of Morocco.

A Des Moines man had an attack of muscular rheumatism in his shoulder. A friend advised him to go to Hot Springs. That meant an expense of $150.00 or more. He sought for a quicker and cheaper way to cure it and found it in Chamberlain's Liniment. Three days after the first application of this liniment he was well. For sale by all dealers.

THE EARTH'S COLORS

Lowly Mosses and Lichens Contribute Chiefly to Most Striking of the Planet's Color Scene.

The two great elements of difference in the same landscape in winter and summer are, of course, the presence of snow in winter and of leaves and grass in summer. If we could look at our globe from the moon the variation in its aspect due to seasonal changes would perhaps be even more striking than it appears to those on the surface.

In fact, we sometimes lose sight of the very important part which vegetation plays in giving color to what might be termed the countenance of the planet.

It is not the higher forms of plants that always produce the greatest effect in this way. Some of the most striking scenes upon the earth owe their characteristic features to mosses and lichens. The famous "crimson cliffs" of Greenland, which extend for miles northward from Cape York, derive their splendid color from the growth of red lichen that covers their faces. The rocky pass called the Golden Gate in the Yellowstone National Park owes its rich color and name to the yellow lichen covering its lofty walls.

Considered as a whole, the vegetation of a planet may give it a characteristic aspect as viewed from space. That its broad expanse of forest and prairie land causes the earth to reflect a considerable quantity of green light to its neighbors is indicated by the fact that at the time of the new moon a greenish tint has been detected overspreading that part of the lunar surface which is then illuminated only by light from the earth.

SUSPENDED TROLLEY CARS

Latest Model If Torpedo Shape, Propeller-Driven, and Indications are it will Prove a Success.

While the use of a suspended car is not altogether new, yet the one now being tried out in California is unique in many ways. The chief point of interest is the fact that it is driven by a huge propeller, itself of novel design, which is operated by a 36 horse-power gas engine. The car is no mere toy model, but a fifty-foot structure of steel and aluminium, which has a carrying capacity of 56 passengers. It is built in a torpedo shape, and will be covered with a light, flexible covering, with celluloid windows. In addition to the propeller in the rear, another will be placed in the front of the car, doubling its power, and acting as an auxiliary in case of break-down.

The short length of overhead track, about a quarter of a mile, has made it impossible to test the new device for speed, but it operates perfectly, showing that it is no mere theoretical invention. Forty people have been carried with ease at one time.

A number of ingenious devices, tilting planes to lighten the car while in motion, apparatus for raising and lowering the car at stations, etc., have been designed to perfect this new vehicle.

A Remarkable Chimney

A chimney two miles high with a brook running through is certainly something of a novelty. Such a chimney exists in connection with the copper works at Cwmavon, near Aberavon, in Glamorganshire, Wales. This is how it came to be built:

About sixty years ago the copper smoke from these works was the plague of the neighboring countryside. It settled upon and destroyed the grass for twenty miles round, while the sulphur and arsenic in the fumes affected the hoofs of cattle, causing gangrene. The company tried all sorts of devices to remedy the trouble, but in vain. Finally Mr. Robert Brenton, who was later engineer of the Sind Railway in India, solved the problem.

The copper works are at the foot of a high, steep mountain. Mr. Brenton constructed a flue or chimney running continuously from the base to about one hundred feet above the summit, following the natural slope of the ground. The brick which lined it and of which it was largely constructed was burned close by. A small spring, rushing out near the mountain top, was turned into the chimney, and allowed to flow through almost its entire length to condense the smoke. Once a year it is swept out, and about a ton of precipitated copper obtained. Its top can be seen for between forty and fifty miles.

A World in the Forming

The planet Jupiter, whose volume is 1279 times that of the earth, and superior in dimensions and weight to all the other planets put together, is just now attracting the attention of astronomers. M. Giacobini, of the Paris Observatory, who has made a special study of Jupiter, has described a red spot which possesses a relative fixity, but within the last year its mobility has increased in great proportion, and its longitude by about 30 degrees. It is possible this may be the forming of a new continent, but who can say so with certainty? M. Camille Flammarion, however, expresses himself with confidence in the matter. "We are assisting at the creation of a world. Under our troubled eyes a new world is being created in the infinity, and in Jupiter we hail the world of the future."

THE FEMALE WAGE-EARNER.

"Is it possible for a female wage earner to save from her monthly wage an amount which in the aggregate will be sufficient to provide her with an income from the time her earning days are over?" was recently the subject of an interesting discussion at a Women's Club, and the conclusion come to was, that if the wage-earner were earning less than $500 a year this would be extremely difficult. For the purpose of illustration, the period of accumulation was assumed to be from 23 to 60, and the amount of capital required $6000, in order to yield an income of $300 a year, which was considered to be the minimum amount on which she could maintain herself with comfort and respectability. All this may be quite true. But there is another plan of investment of which the ladies had evidently not heard, namely the Canadian Government Annuities system, which is not only absolutely safe, but which will give a much larger return for a much smaller investment, and larger it may be said than any other plan available will give as a means of making provision for old age.

For example, if a woman of 23 were to deposit with the Government yearly the sum of $39.24 until she was 60; which she could do by weekly or monthly instalments if she preferred, or a total of $1451.88 only, the Government would pay her $300 a year or $75 every three months so long as she might live from, and after 60. If she died before attaining that age, the total payments made, with 3 per cent. compound interest, would be refunded to her heirs. If she died at 58 they would receive $2425.77, or $1052.37 more than she had paid in up to that time.

If she had no one dependent upon her and was concerned about herself only, she could secure under the "B" plan the same quarterly income of $75 for an annual payment of $29.67, or for a total paid in of $1097.79,—a yearly return for life, no matter how long that may be, of nearly 30 per cent. of the sum invested.

Mark the enormous difference: on the one hand she would require at 60 a capital of $6,000 invested at 5 per cent. to yield her an income of $300, with all the accompanying anxiety of making safe investments, while on the other hand she could provide the same income for about one-fifth of the purchase money spread in easy payments over the accumulating period. In ninety-nine cases out of one hundred she would not, having regard to the recurring temptation to use the money, have the capital at 60 which would be necessary to give the income. You have only to write (postage free) to the Superintendent of Canadian Government Annuities, Ottawa, to obtain full information in regard to this provident scheme.

Baboons Hold Man Prisoner

council of war. I fell down cold with terror. It was awful. To see these fearful faces in the moonlight and listen to their infernal chattering almost drove me mad. I must have fainted, for it was daylight when I saw them again. They squatted round me and offered me bananas and pineapples to eat. They seemed to have sentinels some yards away from where I was lying.

"They did not leave me all day. Perhaps they thought I was a relation of theirs, for one big fellow treated me as though I was his child. I found a can of pressed meat which they hadn't been able to open, but I was not hungry or thirsty; I was scared stiff. How the day and following night passed I don't know. It seemed a year to me before the chief and the native police found me."

Chief Finishes Story.

Chief Wooster took up the story at this point and explained he thought Horne was romancing when he came back to the ship and said that Griggs had been kidnapped by baboons. "But he was so serious that all hands were called on deck, a posse of natives impressed and off we started to trail the monkeys.

"It was the third night after Griggs left the ship that our guides brought us to the monkey camp. At their suggestion we had brought a pile of ship's rockets with us and after lighting a fire to windward we threw the rockets in the blaze, piled on a heap of red pepper and started to yell. As they started up, one by one the baboons yelled in chorus, sighted the fire, sneezed at the pepper and tore away through the jungle like so many mad men. Then we advanced and found Griggs almost naked and shivering with fear. A dose of Scotch put him on his pins and away we started for the old Kasenga."

go hand in hand with the improvement of houses and their surroundings. If it were possible to use the tribal funds of Indians who have moneys on deposit with the government for the purpose of building better houses or putting those already erected in a more sanitary condition, the result would be most beneficial.

Education.

During the year there were 324 schools in operation among the Indians. These were classified as follows: 251 day schools, 54 boarding schools, and 19 industrial schools. There was a total enrolment of 11,190 pupils, 5,607 boys, and 5,583 girls. There is an increase of ten day schools over last year and a decrease of one industrial school. There is an increase in the enrolment of 565 pupils as compared with last year. There was an attendance of 7,348 in the day schools; 2,269 in the boarding schools.

The Indian as a Worker.

There is an increase in the revenue from both wages and various industries and the Indian is a sufficient factor in the labor market to account for a million and a half dollars spent annually as a reward for his labor. In many provinces they are engaged as farm laborers and their services are sought after. This absorption in the industrial life of the country will tend to the solution of the Indian problem more than any other cause, it is stated.

By Provinces.

The following statement gives the population by provinces and districts: Alberta, 8,088; British Columbia, 24,581; Manitoba, 6,104; Nova Scotia, 2,026; New Brunswick, 1,802; Prince Edward Island, 292; Ontario, 22,496; Quebec, 11,462; Saskatchewan, 9,439; Northwest Territories, 12,625; Ungava, 1,246; Yukon, 3,500; total Indians, 103,661; Eskimos, 4,600; total, 108,261.

SIR JAMES WATSON

This eminent English physician is one of the greatest authorities on diseases of the respiratory organs.

In a recent address, Sir James Watson stated that the commonest of all disorders is Catarrh, and that not one person in ten thousand passes the winter without an attack of some sort.

Sir James advocates local treatment very strongly, and says that it is all nonsense trying to treat Catarrhal diseases by stomach medicines, atomizers, douches and snuffs.

Local treatment is applied most scientifically by Catarrhozone, which is inhaled into the nose, throat and lungs, and drives the disease completely out of the system.

Catarrhozone is a rational, common sense treatment; it clears the air passages, makes breathing easy, and relieves at once. Physicians prescribe Catarrhozone with gratifying results, and pronounce it a specific for Catarrh in any part of the system.

Mr. Thos. Cox, one of the most prominent citizens of Minden, Ont., says: "I want to recommend Catarrhozone. It is a nice, clean cure for Catarrh. Cured me perfectly, and is well deserving of a trial from everyone at all affected by Catarrh or throat trouble."

Mr. G. F. Fadden, of Royan, Que., writes: "In my opinion Catarrhozone is the only cure for Catarrh. I had the disease in its worst form but only got relief from Catarrhozone. It cured me quickly and permanently, and I have no fear of the Catarrh ever returning.

The foregoing brief extracts, like thousands of others that the proprietors of Catarrhozone have received, prove that the proper remedy to use is Catarrhozone. It is quite different from the ordinary Catarrh preparation, and is warranted to prove entirely satisfactory. If it fails your money will be refunded, so if not benefited you won't be out of pocket.

TURN SAHARA INTO BIG SEA

The Idea Not a New One—Fear That it Might Prove Disastrous to Europe—Would Mean a Great Colony for France.

Paris, Nov. 6.—A sensation has been caused in Paris by the proposal made by Prof. Etchegoyan, a distinguished scientist, who declares that France ought to lose no time in converting the Sahara Desert into an inland sea. The plan has been suggested before, but never in so detailed and convincing a manner.

Prof. Etchegoyen points out that about a quarter of the whole desert is below the sea level and that a canal to the north coast of Africa some fifty miles long, which would not present any great mechanical difficulties, is all that is required to create a sea about half the size of the Mediterranean.

The consequence of this engineering work, he declares, would be gigantic. All the arid regions now surrounding the desert and those parts of the Sahara which are above the level of the sea would be rendered as fertile as Europe, since the present sterility is no fault of the soil, but caused solely by lack of water. Millions of human beings could thus support themselves in comfort, who now lead a miserable existence on the verge of starvation.

Great New Colony for France.

A great new colony, it is stated, could be added to France's possessions, of which the political and economic importance cannot be exaggerated. A fleet of steamers would navigate the Sea of Sahara, the depth of which would vary from ten to sixty fathoms, and produce a flourishing traffic between Algeria and French West Africa.

The most remarkable result of all, it is added, would be the alteration of the climate of the whole of Northern Africa, lowering its temperature to that of Natal and thus enhancing its value as a colony for Europeans.

Might Alter European Climate

The Professor's scheme has of course, provoked much comment, and objections are not wanting. Any tampering with weather conditions in Africa, say meteorological experts, would affect those of Europe. If tropical Africa became temperate Europe would become arctic, and an alarming picture is drawn of England, Belgium, and Denmark lying under several feet of snow and their inhabitants either emigrating in a body to milder countries on being forced to lead the lives of Eskimos.

But the most striking reason given for leaving the great desert alone is the argument that by the displacement of so many billions of tons of water the equilibrium of the earth would actually be affected, and that the engineers who undertook the task of adding a new sea to the map of the world would be cursed by humanity for having altered the globe's axis.

Savants consider, however, that these objections are exaggerated, and the French are rejoicing in a magnificent idea originating in the country which conceived the Suez and Panama canals.

Department of Militia and Defence

General Repairs to Cobourg, Ontario Armouries.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALED TENDERS, marked on envelope "Tenders for General Repairs, Cobourg, Ont. Armouries," and addressed to the Director of Contracts, Department of Militia and Defence, Ottawa, will be received until noon, 18th day of November, 1911, for General Repairs to the Cobourg, Ont. Armouries.

Specifications may be seen, and full particulars obtained, at the offices of the Officer Commanding the 3rd Division, Kingston; Lieut.-Colonel N. F. MacNachtan, Cobourg, Ont. and the Director of Engineer Services, Headquarters, Ottawa.

Tenders must be made on the forms supplied by the Department and accompanied by an accepted cheque on a Canadian Chartered Bank, for ten per cent. of the amount of the tender payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Militia and Defence, which amount will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into, or fails to complete the contract in accordance with his tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

EUGENE FISET, Colonel,
Deputy Minister.
Department of Militia and Defence,
Ottawa, Ont., October 27, 1911.

Newspapers will not be paid if this advertisement is inserted without the authority of the Department.

The Fort Garry.

The work of constructing the second of the Grand Trunk's System of palatial hotels has begun at Winnipeg. It has been definitely and finally decided that the Winnipeg hotel, which will be of the same style of architecture as the magnificent "Chateau Laurier" at Ottawa, shall be called "The Fort Garry."

WHO'S WHO IN CANADA

HON. JOHN DOUGLAS HAZEN

New Brunswick loses her Prime Minister by the recent appointment following the Federal election, but the transfer of Hon. John D. Hazen to the important office of Minister of Marine and Fisheries for the Dominion is calculated to work out for good to Canada as a whole. Amongst the duties falling to him will be the somewhat delicate task of smoothing out matters in connection with Canada's Navy, and in this section of his office alone, he will probably find more red-hot propositions than are comfortable before there can be emerged a schedule calculated to please the majority on both sides the argument.

The Hon. gentleman was born at Oromocto, Sunbury County, N.B., in June of 1860, was educated at Fredericton Educational School, and at the New Brunswick University, and was called to the bar in 1883. Other honors thrust upon him around this time, included membership of the University Senate, registrar and treasurer of the same scholastic institution, alderman of Fredericton for three years and a two years term as mayor.

HON. J. D. HAZEN,

In 1890 Mr. Hazen removed to St. John, and at the general election of the following year was returned to the House of Commons as representative of that city and county. In 1896 he was turned down by the electors, however, but three years later stood for, and captured the Sunbury seat in the New Brunswick legislature, re-election following in 1903 and 1908. In response to a summons from the Lt.-Governor he formed a Government in 1908 when he assumed the portfolio of Premier and Attorney-General, prior to which he had been for a number of years leader of the opposition.

M. J. O'BRIEN
Canadian Railroad Builder

The sturdy Mr. O'Brien well known over the Dominion as a railroad contractor, comes of Irish parentage, but he is Canadian born, Antigonish County in Nova Scotia, that little Province which has produced the new Premier, being the place where he first saw the light, now more than half a century ago.

He had to earn his own living almost from the beginning, and while many boys were yet at school he was hard at work in the humblest of capacities on the Intercolonial Railway. He gradually worked his way up to the position of timekeeper, then to foreman and later to walking boss. Here he got a fine experience in the principles of railway construction — experience which he afterwards put to good use by becoming a railway contractor.

His first big undertaking on his own account was the construction of a section on of the Canadian Pacific Railway between Montreal and Ottawa. When he took this contract he moved permanently from Nova Scotia to Ontario, making his home at Renfrew, and there his home still is, though his working headquarters are at Montreal.

Since that first contract he has been connected with the building of practically every piece of railway of importance in the Dominion. He assisted, for instance in building the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, and the Northern Pacific Junction Railway in the Nipissing district; the Baie des Chaleurs Railway in the extreme East of the Dominion; the Central Counties Railway in Eastern Ontario; the Crows Nest Pass branch of the Canadian Pacific in British Columbia; the Midland, the Richmond and the Inverness, and part of the Halifax and South Western Railways in Nova Scotia; the La Tuque branch of the Quebec and Lake St. John Railway; a big section of the Canadian Northern in the Province of Quebec, and Quebec, Montreal and Southern Railway. In the building of the National Transcontinental he has taken such a large part that his contracts run into some fifteen million dollars.

But the carrying out of these big contracts has formed but a part of the development work in which Mr. O'Brien has figured. He has done much in the development of the lumber industry, and he was one of the first to realize the significance of the discoveries of silver in Cobalt. He got in on the ground floor there, and is owner of the O'Brien Mine.

As showing how wide is the range of Mr. O'Brien's vision it may be mentioned that he is now the active president of a company which is building a railway to develop the Gaspe Peninsula, while 3,000 miles west of that scene of activity, he is taking the initiative in a project for the development of coal in the Yellowhead Pass Country.

Cross-Firing

Many are the stories told of "Bobs." Here is one of the best (says a "Daily News" writer), although I do not vouch for its accuracy. He was watching the firing at Bisley and noticed two or three errors on the part of the markers. So he went to the telephone and rang up the officer in charge. "The marking is very bad," he observed. "It's the best you'll get," retorted the officer. "Do you know who I am?" sternly demanded Lord Roberts. "No, I don't." "I am Lord Roberts." "Well, I am Lord Wolseley," came the reply. Lord Roberts loves a joke, but how he took this one is not recorded.

Repeat from the first row for length required.

DAINTY AND GIRLISH

Chiffon Frock with Double Flounces Bordered with Mauve and Cerise.

The dancing nights are here and the gayest of the year if you are a young girl and popular to the extent of having all your dances "taken" before the party night comes.

Double flounces are effectively used in a charming model of white chiffon. The flounces are bordered in delicate cerise and mauve tints. The flounced effect is used also in the low-necked bodice. The flounced effect is used also in the low-necked bodice. The sash is of the cerise.

Date Pudding

How quickly the months pass along. Here we are almost within measurable distance of winter, and fresh fruits are no longer easily obtained. Date pudding is among the first of our winter sweets for the children, and there could not be a more wholesome one. Wash and stone half a pound of the fruit; then chop it rather small, and sprinkle with lemon juice, a very little sugar, and cinnamon. Mix together ¼ pound each of flour, breadcrumbs, and minced suet. Add the dates, and as they are sweet, there is no occasion to add more sugar, but this you can decide for yourself. Stir in a beaten egg, and a little milk if necessary; pour into a greased mould, and boil for two hours.

Dumplings in Broth.

When fresh meat has been boiled the broth should be set aside and next day be re-boiled with the addition of dumplings. The broth may be flavoured with carrot, onion and parsley. To make the dumplings: Take 12 ozs. of flour, 3 ozs. of dripping (or suet), three-quarters of a teaspoonful of baking-powder, a little salt, and water to make a stiff paste. If liked a little finely minced onion may be added. Mix flour, salt, and baking-powder; rub in the dripping; mix to a firm dough with water. Cut it into pieces the size of a walnut, throw them into the boiling broth, and simmer the dumplings in it for three-quarters of an hour, or a little less. Children relish this dish very much.

His Mistake

Maria, the new cook, was one of those very stout "culled ladies," one of the sort who are most particular about the social relations between the family and themselves. Mrs. Bennett had been visiting friends in Boston for a week and her husband didn't get along at all well with Maria. He could stand it no longer, and one morning he called her into the dining-room. "Confound it, you, I want my meals cooked better hereafter or out of the door you go. I don't propose to pay you $30 a month to burn my meals for me." "Look a-here," retorted Maria. "Don't you talk that a-way to me. You jes' 'member who I is. I don't like your tone o' voice and I aint no trash for yo' to holler at. Yo' mustn't take me fo' your wife."

To-Day.

We shall do so much in the years to come
But what have we done to-day?
We shall give our gold in a princely sum,
But what did we give to-day?
We shall lift the heart and dry the tear,
We shall plant a hope in the place of fear,
We shall speak with words of love and cheer,
But what have we done to-day?

Wife (displaying her new bonnet)—"This is the very latest fashion, John." Husband (sighing)—"I wish it were but I know it isn't. There'll be another out next month."

Animal Love.

Mother love is universal, and there is no love like the mother love. Most of the high and lofty loving in this world is done by mothers. Apart from this the work of wooing falls to the male members of the family whether it be the human family or some one of the other animal tribes. We read how, ages ago, a Bulbul, or Oriental Nightingale, wooed a white rose until it blushed red, and that was the beginning of the red rose. The Spanish Cavalier stands out in the rain and serenades his "Dulce Mia" until there is a crick in his neck, while she sits sheltered in a window above.

The cackle of the loon may be a love song for all we know. Maybe that's what made him loony in the first place.

The wild moose bellows his passion across the lake, and as likely as not the answering call is from a bark horn in the hands of a hunter, luring him to death.

It seems a sizzling shame, but if you will take a Grand Trunk train and travel into the "Highlands of Ontario" you will find men doing that very thing; arguing, doubtless, that all is fair in love and war.

MUNICIPALITY OF TOWNSHIP —OF— NORTH MONAGHAN

Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in section 8 and 9 of the Ontario Voters' List Act, the copies required by said sections to be so transmitted or delivered, of the said list made pursuant to the said Act of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said municipality to be entitled to vote at said municipality at elections for member of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal elections, and the said list was first posted in my office on September 27th, 1911, and remains there for inspection.

Electors are called on to examine the said list and if any omissions or other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

CORONATION,

ALBERTA

The Pacific Realty Co., Limited
154 Bay Street, Toronto, Phone Main 2435

has been authorized by the Land Department of the Candian a Pacific Railway to sell to the public CORONATION town lots.

Plan and map may be inspected at the office of The Pacific Realty Co., Limited, 154 Bay Street, Toronto, from 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p.m., except Saturday, when the office closes at 1.00 p.m.

Facts About Coronation

Coronation is the first divisional town east of Lacombe, and is splendidly situated about twenty miles east of Castor, in the centre of some of the finest farming districts of Western Canada. Its natural advantages, combined with important railway developments, assure to it a future of considerable importance. Engineers are now locating two branch lines north and northwesterly from Coronation, and a third line is projected southeasterly to connect with the branch running northwesterly from Swift Current.

CORONATION will be:

A divisional centre on the great new railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton.

An important junctional centre, as three branch lines are already projected.

A distributing centre for a large and wealthy district.

A purchasing centre for thousands of Western Canada's most prosperous farmers.

If you wish to go into business or make a safe and profitable investment you cannot do better than purchase lots at Coronation, which is bound to rapidly become one of the most important towns of the West.

Seemed to Give Him a New Stomach

"I suffered intensely after eating and no medicine or treatment I tried seemed to do any good," writes H. M. Youngpeters, Editor of The Sun, Lake View, Ohio. "The first few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gave me surprising relief and the second bottle seemed to give me a new stomach and perfectly good health." For sale by all dealers.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that most infectious diseases such as whooping cough, diptheria and scarlet fever are contracted when the child has a cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will quickly cure a cold and greatly lessen the danger of contracting these diseases. This remedy is famous for its cures of colds. It contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given to a child with implicit confidence. For sale by all dealers.

Mexico Oil

The Mexican Oil Fields, will probably break all records in the production of oil. The largest oil wells in the world are now flowing in the Tampico field, and development is just fairly begun. We offer an exceptionally attractive investment in the stock of a conservative Company, just organized, which controls 3500 acres, in the midst of the big producing section of the field. We are certain we can convince any one of the merits of the enterprise, and we want you to

INVESTIGATE

It will only cost you two cents to secure maps, booklet, and full description of what we have to offer. The stock is being sold for the purpose of drilling the property. Oil is now being produced on all four sides of this property. We will give you every opportunity to investigate the proposition itself and the officers in charge of its affairs. WRITE US for full information.

SPEND A WEEK AT ALGONQUIN.

The popularity of the Algonquin National Park, Ontario, has been pronounced this year, and it has been necessary to use at least 25 large tents as an auxiliary to the accommodation of the Highland Inn, at Algonquin National Park Station.

Most people return to their homes in the early part of September, but as this is one of the most delightful months in this territory, those who can make it convenient are advised to spend a week or two there. The hotel is also open all the winter and with the bracing air of this locality (1700 ft. above the sea) a most delightful sojourn can be spent even in the winter months.

A handsome illustrated booklet may be had on this territory upon application to Mr. A. E. Duff, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

When you have a billious attack give Chamberlain's Tablets a trial. They are excellent. For sale by all dealers.

You will find that druggists everywhere speak well of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. They know from long experience in the sale of it that in cases of coughs and colds it can always be depended upon, and that it is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.

J. W. Copeland, of Dayton, Ohio, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for his boy who had a cold, and before the bottle was all used the boy's cold was gone. Is that not better than to pay a five dollar doctor's bill? For sale by all dealers.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Lad Injured While Hunting.

While out hunting with several of his companions on Thanksgiving Day George James, of 505 Sherbrooke street was the victim of a painful accident. One of the party stumbled over a stump and having his finger on the trigger of the gun, discharged it, with the result that George, who was standing nearby received the shot in his leg. When he was taken home, Drs. Young and Boucher were called. They extracted the bullet which had passed right through the bone. The boy is now doing nicely.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered stomach. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and correct that and the headaches will disappear. For sale by all dealers.

Real Estate, Mining and Industrial Investments

HOW $100 GREW TO $31620

The value and importance of any enterprise must be based on the profits and dividends it can earn. In this respect the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, is without a parallel in the line of investments.

It combines the attractive factors which are needed to make the perfect investment—viz., safety, large earning capacity and low cost of the stock at the start. It is not at all uncommon for oil stocks to begin at a few cents a share and jump to hundreds of dollars a share—sometimes thousands.

	Started at	Has Sold at
Central	10 cents	$2.10
Monte Cristo	10 cents	$4.00
Lucile	10 cents	$16.00
Silver Tip	25 cents	$4.00
San Francisco and McKittrick	40 cents	$28.00
Kern River	50 cents	$8.75
Peerless	50 cents	$8.75
Puente	$10.00	$150.00
Home	$10.00	$5000.00

This list, taken from San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchange records, could be added to almost indefinitely.

Fortunes have been made from stock increases. stock is $200, YOUR YEARLY PROFIT ON AN INVESTMENT OF $300.

When we have ten wells sunk you can reasonably figure on AN ANNUAL PROFIT ON YOUR HOLDINGS OF $2000.

$2000 A YEAR. DOESN'T THIS APPEAL

Many a case could be cited similar to that of Richard Ellis, clerk in a store in Los Angeles, whose investment of $100 became worth $31,620 in a short time. There are hundreds of such cases in Los Angeles alone.

$2000.00 Profit a Year

Do you realise that stock in the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, at the present price of 30 cents a share is not merely the opportunity of the year—IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

If you have $10, $50, $100 or $500 YOU SIMPLY CAN NOT AFFORD TO PASS IT UP.

If we develop only a 1000 barrel well of 26 gravity oil, this production alone will be sufficient to enable the corporation to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. and at the same time have sufficient capital to continue the drilling of wells.

1000 shares of stock at the present price of 30c costs only $300.

20 per cent. dividend on the par value of the TO YOU? Wouldn't you like to be coming up to this office every three months and getting your dividend cheque for $500?

Remember, too, that your stock holdings in Midway Maple Leaf, if you should want to sell them should be worth $18,000 or sixty times the amount of your original investment.

Consider These Facts

The Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company is working in proven gusher territory, the richest oil zone in the world, controlling 40 acres on one-eighth royalty, with the great advantage of the option to purchase at only $1250 per acre after oil is struck, and the ground must then be worth at least $5000 per acre. This means a clean profit of $150,000 over purchase price. It has been demonstrated completely by gushers on adjoining Standard and Honolulu ground, that this portion of the Midway field is not only the richest portion of the whole district, but that it produces the highest grade of oil found in the entire vicinity, and worth 30 per cent. more per barrel at the well.

Present Allotment of 25,000 Shares at 30c Going Fast

Call at my office at once and get your order in for the amount of stock that you want. If it isn't convenient for you to call, either wire and let your remittance follow by mail, or get your remittance in by the first mail possible.

$30 cash, or $6 down and $6 a month for four months, buys 100 shares.

$60 cash, or $12 down and $12 a month for four months, buys 200 shares.

$120 cash, or $24 down and $24 a month for four months, buys 400 shares.

$480 cash, or $96 down and $96 a month for four months, buys 1600 shares.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY IN VANCOUVER REALTY

Investors seeking an opportunity to secure large returns for their money will find an exceptional chance offered by Keith Park Land Co., Limited, of Vancouver, B. C. This company has placed on the market for immediate sale the choicest piece of property on the North Shore.

This tract known as Keith Park, D. L. 676, lies at the junction of the Pipe line Road, (owned by the city of Vancouver) and the Keith Road and is the Junction point for North side traffic.

The Second Narrows Bridge, which is to connect Vancouver and North Vancouver will be constructed so that Keith Park will be in the line of its northern end.

It is confidentially expected that a new town will be created at this point. Dominion, Provincial and Municipal subsidies to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars have already been secured for the bridge project and plans are now being drawn for the bridge. It is expected that actual workwill be started within the next ninety days.

Keith Park presents the best chance to buy ahead of the important municipal and government projects that are planned for the North Side. It will stand the most critical investigation.

Full information and maps supplied upon request. Lots range in price from $200 upwards. Terms one-quarter cash, balance in six equal quarterly payments.

FROM WEST TO EAST

The last rail on the Canadian Pacific Railway's new grain route from Victoria Harbor to Bethany has been laid and soon the line will be ready for regular traffic. The completion of this line is of much importance as it will play an important part in the transportation of the grain crops of the West to Montreal and the East. The grain at present is brought from Fort William and Port Arthur either all the way by the Great Lakes or via Owen Sound and Toronto, but when this new line is operating a new alternative route will be offered, as the traffic can be forwarded from the head of the lakes by steamer to Victoria Harbor on the Georgian Bay, the Western Terminus of the line, and from there forward to Montreal by rail. This means a saving of nearly one hundred miles haulage.

Freight apart, the new branch will have considerable value as a passenger line, as it will tap a country which the Company has not heretofore entered, and give good transportation facilities to a large farming populace. The new line starts from the docks at Victoria Harbor and crosses the Toronto-Sudbury line thirteen miles out. At Bethany fourteen miles west of Peterboro it forms a junction with the main Toronto-Montreal line.

Proposed South African Emblem

A few years ago when there was talk of choosing for the Cape Colony a national emblem like the thistle or the rose or the maple leaf, the everlasting known by the Dutch as the "Eeven-jaartje" was suggested by some. Thereupon it was pointed out that the immortelle was the symbol of death — a sinister emblem for any land. As it chanced ere seven years had gone by, the Cape Colony, as such, was no more, and it now rests with the Union of South Africa, in which the Colony is merged, to choose a truly national emblem, representative of a great United Dominion, not of a single, separate State. What flower or plant will be selected, time alone will tell, but it would be difficult to make a better choice than the erica heath, so well known throughout the Union. What fitter emblem could there be, it is asked, of a young and sturdy nation, full of fresh vigour and hope?

If the Union of South Africa should take as its national emblem this hardy heath, which grows so freely within its borders, the Scot who makes his home in the sub-continent will ever feel that he has but exchanged the land of the bonnie heather for the land of the lovely heath.

The Moose and the Lilly Pad.

The moose's love for the lily pad that floats on the surface of the northern lakes make him appear reckless and unafraid. In summer, even in September, the fishermen often cut him off from the shore, drive him into deep water and have fun with him. Sometimes, when the moose reaches shoal water and gets his hind feet on the bottom, he has fun with the fisherman, smashes his canoe and makes him swim for his life.

However, after the shooting season opens the moose becomes more cautious.

There are thousands of moose around Lake Temagami. At North Bay you change from the Grand Trunk to the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario and get off at Temagami Station.

The Fort Garry.

The work of constructing the second of the Grand Trunk's System of palatial hotels has begun at Winnipeg. It has been definitely and finally decided that the Winnipeg hotel, which will be of the same style of architecture as the magnificent "Chateau Laurier" at Ottawa, shall be called "The Fort Garry."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE COMFORT OF INDEPENDENCE ASSURED THE B. C. FRUIT GROWER

In British Columbia Fruit Growing is synonymous with Success. The fame of the five-acre fruit farms of the Fraser Valley is spreading to every corner of this continent. Already "Fruit" suggests the Pacific Coast, soon it will direct the thoughts instinctively to British Columbia, particularly to the lower Fraser River Valley.

FLESHERTON GARDENS, which I am now selling, is the cream of this Valley land. The soil is a rich deep chocolate, humous and friable, free from weeds, stones or stumps. Good roads lead to the property and two railways are ready to carry the fruit to market. The Chilliwack line of the B. C. Electric Railway CUTS THROUGH FLESHERTON GARDENS, and the Victoria, Vancouver and Eastern is only a few yards away. Over a dozen trains pass the property every day, and the traffic will increase in the immediate future.

BIG PROFITS IN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES.

Do you know that you can make immense profits in fruits, tubers and vegetables on the Coast? To-day last year's potatoes are selling at $70 a ton in Seattle, only a few miles from here. In Westminster and Vancouver the price is from $60 to $65 a ton. Cherries fetch 50c a pound and strawberries 25c a box. All other fruits are high in proportion. Remember these are NOT FANCY PRICES, but to-day's quotations. There is no difficulty in selling the fruit, for people here have the money and don't mind the price.

IT'S EASY TO SECURE THE LAND

I have placed FLESHERTON GARDENS on the market on very easy terms, $300 cash and the balance spread over several years. You can have your pick of these five acre farms at from $150 to $350 per acre. You cannot find a better investment anywhere; no matter how rosy other prospects may be, this one leads them all.

Sign this blank, and mail it to me NOW. I can tell you a great deal more about FLESHERTON GARDANS in a personal letter. It's to your advantage to get all the information you can.

CITY AND DISTRICT

GLEANINGS HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS.

No Wild Rice.

It is said that the wild rice this year is a total failire. This will be more keenly felt by those living in the vicinity of Rice Lake than by others who have not been accustomed to this delicious food.

Private Greeting Cards.

Select the card you want and have your own greeting over your own name and address printed on same. Your friend receives an exclusive remembrance from you. Beautiful styles at The Times Bookstore. Place your order at once.

Pipe Burst.

Yesterday morning the water pipe under the Grand Trunk track at the corner of Romaine and George streets burst. The water was shut off and the necessary repairs were executed. Several hours elapsed before normal conditions were restored.

Veterans Want Land Grants.

The Fenian Raid Veterans, who defended their country in 1866-70, are requesting the Dominion Government to have land grants set apart for them. Of 3,000 men, who battled for their country 45 years ago, there are 240 now living. The veterans, in their petition, say that if something is not done for them in the near future they will soon be all gone, as most of them are old men now.

Deer Not Plentiful.

Quite a number of local hunters at present in the north country, pursuing deer, seem to be doomed to disappointment this fall. Reports from the northern section of the province indicate that the deer are scarce this season and that wolves have played havoc with the herds, very few carcasses having been shipped to the city this fall.

Canal Work Progressing.

Hastings Star: The pumps have been shut down in the basin where the four piers and slide for the new dam have been constructed, and the stop logs put in place. The dredge is down taking out the filling she put in for a coffer dam in the summer, and filling up in front of the dam farther south to help the unwatering of the remaining space. The No. 7 dredge is out on the railway as also is one of her dump scows, and the tug Lake. The tug Grosbeak is laid up close by. The old dam filling has been taken out and the water is now going over the new dam.

Started in Port Hope.

Mr. Roland Johnston, formerly with Richard Hall & Sons, Peterborough, but latterly of Lakefield, where he conducts a large dry goods' business, recently purchased the dry goods business of J. F. Clark & Sons, Port Hope. The opening took place a few days ago, and notwithstanding the inclement weather a large crowd visited the store. Everything was neatly and attractively arranged and many favorable comments were passed upon the taste displayed. The musical program was a new idea in Port Hope, but was much appreciated by the visitors.

Y.M.C.A. Notes:

The First Aid to the Injured class have elected T. E. Gilchrist, president and A. Harper secretary-treasurer. The class will meet every Wednesday evening at 9.00 o'clock, for instruction, by Dr. S. I. Spicer. Quite a number of men have enrolled.

Junior Boys' Gymnasium class this morning at 9.00. Two games will be played in the basketball league—the Fairies vs. Weary Willies, and Beavers vs. Stars.

There will be a demonstration of physical work by the men of the association on Friday, Nov. 17.

A lecture will be given next Wednesday night in St. Paul's church by the Rev. W. Dickey, B.A., Pioneer Missionary to the Klondyke. The title of the lecture is: "Pioneer Days with the Gold Seekers of the Klondyke." It will be illustrated by 70 Stereoptican Pictures made from photographs taken on the spot, and will deal with the humor and pathos romance and tragedy of camp and trail.

WEDDING BELLS.

Hudson—Leflar.

St. James' church was the scene of a very pretty wedding yesterday morning, when Miss Mary Hudson, of Orillia, formerly of Peterborough, was united in marriage to Mr. John Leflar, of Shelmont, Manitoba. The bride looked charming in a gown of white silk, with silver lace and silver fringe trimmings, wearing the customary bridal veil and carrying a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid Miss Louise Hudson, sister of the bride, wore a pretty cream voile, trimmed with cream lace, and white satin trimmings, with white hat to match. After the ceremony a sumptuous repast was partaken of, at the home of the bride-s parents, Mr. R. G. Hudson, Mississaga street. The happy young couple left on the 4.40 train for Peterborough, where they will spend their honeymoon. On returning they will reside on Mississaga street.—Orillia News-Letter.

Billington—Wilson.

A quiet wedding took place on Tuesday evening, at 7.30, at the home of Mr. J. Billington, 545 Sherbrooke street, city, when his sister, Miss Billington, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Manley Wilson, of Smith. The bride was attired in a handsome navy blue broad cloth suit. The contracting parties were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Brown and the officiating clergyman being Rev. G. Brown. The wedding march (Mend.) was rendered by Mr. Charlie Garsied in a very commendable manner. A dainty dinner was served in the prettily decorated dining room, after which the guests were entertained by a very pleasing musical programme. The presents were numerous and costly, substantially testifying to the high esteem in which the happy couple are held by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will reside for the present at 545 Sherbrooke street.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. S. J. Knapman is visiting friends in Uxbridge.

Miss Rose, this city, is visiting Miss McBurney, of Havelock.

Miss Annie Barrie of Peterborough has returned home after spending a week's vacation with her sister, Mrs. J. E. Fowler, of Havelock.

Miss Kathleen Vincent of Lakefield, will take a course in the Peterborough Business College.

Miss Burnette, of Quebec, is the guest of Miss Eleanor Morrow, Water street.

Mrs. A. S. Elliott, of 421 Bethune street, has been called to Detroit, Mich., where her mother is seriously ill.

Mr. James Bullied of Peterborough and son of John, of Carrievale, Sas., is spending a few days in town and vicinity visiting friends. Mr. Bullied is down on a business trip, having brought two carloads of potatoes to Peterborough and purposes taking back one or two carloads of young hogs.—Port Hope Guide.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

The steamer Geneva arrived in town yesterday with a cargo of wheat from Gore's Landing.

The services at the Salvation Army Temple to-morrow will be addressed by Brigadier and Mrs. Hargrave, Provincial Commanders for Eastern Ontario and Quebec, who have been transferred to a district as yet not made public.

Returned From Laymen's Missionary Convention.

Rev. Mr. Couch returned last night from the Laymen's Missionary Convention held in Hamilton. There were 1200 delegates present and an immense amount of progress was made in connection with the future plans of the movement. A splendid time was spent by the delegates in attendance.

Funeral of the Late Mrs. John Sandy

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Sandy left the late residence of the deceased, 260 Stewart street, yesterday afternoon and proceeded to the Little Lake cemetery for interment. Rev. Mr. Manning officiated and conducted an impressive service at the house at 2 o'clock. A large number of relatives and friends were present to pay their last sad respects to the memory of a lady, who in life enjoyed the high esteem and affection of an exceedingly large section of the community. The floral tributes were many and of a beautiful and costly nature. The pall-bearers were Messrs. W. J. Martin, J. Penrose, J. Brownlee, W. Buller, P. E. Harding, T. Goard.

MRS. JOSEPH BATTEN INJURED.

A Bad Runaway in Which a Party of Three were Thrown Out.

Mrs. Jos. Batten, wife of ex-Ald. Batten, will be confined to her home for some time as the result of injuries sustained in a runaway accident last Wednesday evening. It appears that the unfortunate lady and her niece, Miss Watt, of Milwaukee, had been visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Albert Dunford, at Gilchrist Bay, Stoney Lake. The three ladies drove off Wednesday evening to visit a second niece and in descending a steep hill the harness became entangled in some manner causing the team to bolt. The rig was overturned and the occupants thrown out. Mrs. Batten sustained a severe scalp wound, requiring nine stitches to close, and was also severely shaken up. Miss Dunford sustained a broken shoulder bone, while, with the exception of a bad shaking up, Miss Watt was uninjured. The team received no injury.

After the injuries of the ladies had been medically attended to, Mrs. Batten returned home.

DOCTORS FAILED. RESTORED BY PERUNA.

Catarrh of the Lungs Threatened Her Life.

Miss Ninette Porter, Braintree, Vermont, writes: "I have been cured by Peruna.

"I had several hemorrhages of the lungs. The doctors did not help me much and would never have cured me.

"I saw a testimonial in a Peruna almanac of a case similar to mine, and I commenced using it.

"I was not able to wait on myself when I began using it. I gained very slowly at first, but I could see that it was helping me.

"After I had taken it a while I commenced to raise up a stringy, stinky substance from my lungs. This grew less and less in quantity as I continued the treatment.

"I grew more fleshy than I had been for a long time, and now I call myself well."

A POOR KIND OF PROTESTANT.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I happened to notice a letter in the Lakefield News, signed "Protestant", which I think is deserving of an answer. The writer finds fault with the action of the Orangemen in celebrating the anniversary of the Gunpowder Plot, and preaches a sermon on the evil of stirring up party strife. He claims that the burning of Guy Fawkes in effigy, is an insult to Roman Catholics.

It appears to me that "Protestant" might look up history and ascertain what the event which all loyal subjects should mark means. If he would read the story of the Plot, he would learn that it was an event which should be celebrated by all loyal subjects, Protestant and Catholic alike. Is it not decidedly proper to show our displeasure and abhorence of the attempt which was then made to destroy the King and his Parliament?

I fear that "Protestant" is misnamed, for he is indeed, a poor sample.

Patriot.

DO NOT HOLD UP RAILWAYS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—In The Times of Friday an item appears to the effect that members of Parliament get passes from railways, &c. This is not the case. Railways, etc., do not give passes to members of parliament. The law of Canada as laid down by statute is that an M. P. is entitled to free transportation. The card that entitles an M. P. to travel free with baggage, is a card of identification, signed and attested by the Clerk of the House of Commons only, and reads: "No. ——, 1911 (Arms of the House of Commons of Canada underneath). ——— is a member of the House of Commons of Canada, and is entitled by law to free transportation with his baggage, upon all railway trains in Canada."—Chap. 37. This I trust, will do away with the idea that M.P's. take advantage of their positions to hold up railways, who expect favors in return, which would undoubtedly, be a most reprehensible practice!

Yours,

—M. P.

SO SAY WE ALL.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I wish to congratulate you and the management of The Times on the rapid progress you are making in building up a great and powerful Protestant newspaper in Eastern Ontario. Such a journal has long been needed and its influence must necessarily be very widespread. Your motto (Equal Rights to all and Special Privileges to None) naturally appeals to the better judgment of Protestant and Catholic alike.

I hope that you will continue to work along these lines and I am sure your reward will be great.

—An Appreciative Reader.

BODY OF FISHLEIGH RECOVERED

Was Drowned Last January—Lost His Way and Fell into the Harbour.

The Port Hope Guide says:

The body of John Fishleigh, who was drowned in the harbour here on January 6th, was found this afternoon. The dredge was working just west of the freight sheds and the body was brought up in the large dipper.

It will be remembered that deceased came here from the west on January 6th and registered at the St. Lawrence. He left the hotel late that night, stating that he was going to stay at Mr. Jacob Greenaway's. It is supposed that he lost his way and fell into the harbour. Mr. Elliott, night foreman at the Standard Ideal was attracted by his cries, but was unable to reach him before he went down. From the description given by Mr. Elliott it was almost certain that John Fishleigh was the unfortunate man, but every effort to recover the body proved fruitless. When found to-day the boots were gone, but all the rest of the clothing was in place and very few marks upon the body. The remains have been identified as those of John Fishleigh and the question of an inquest has not been decided.

The body was recovered at the exact spot where Fishleigh was supposed to have fallen in.

FUNERAL.

The remains of the late John Fishleigh who was drowned on January 6th, were taken to Mr. A. W. Georges morgue, and $93.35 was found in the trousers pocket of deceased. There were three $5 bills, two $2 bills and one $1 bill, and 35 cents in silver and a post office order for $75. His watch remained in his pocket and was stopped at half-past one.

Mr. Samuel Bebee, Peterborough, a brother-in-law of deceased, took charge of the remains and the interment took place in Welcome cemetery yesterday afternoon.

Every Spoonful of Grape-Nuts FOOD

Gives strength to "do things" and a clear brain to do them intelligently.

Grape-Nuts and cream for breakfast is the healthy habit of many and many a man who is "making good."

STRENGTH
Without Overloading the Stomach.

The business man, especially, needs food in the morning that will not overload the stomach, but give mental vigor for the day.

Much depends on the start a man gets each day, as to how he may expect to accomplish the work on hand.

He can't be alert, with a heavy, fried-meat-and-potatoes breakfast requiring a lot of vital energy in digesting it.

A Calif. business man tried to find some food combination that would not overload the stomach in the morning, but that would produce energy.

He writes:

"For years I was unable to find a breakfast food that had nutrition enough to sustain a business man without overloading his stomach, causing indigestion and kindred ailments.

"Being a very busy and also a very nervous man, I decided to give up breakfast altogether. But luckily I was induced to try Grape-Nuts.

"Since that morning I have been a new man; can work without tiring, my head is clear and my nerves strong and steady.

"I find four teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts with one of sugar and a small quantity of cold milk is delicious for the cereal part of the morning meal, which invigorates me for the day's business." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

VOL XXXIV NO 60 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 12 1911 PRICE TWO CENTS

TAG DAY NETS CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY $1468.38

The Liberality of Willing Citizens Shows an Increase of Approximately $200.

The young ladies entrusted with the duty of selling tags on Saturday in support of the Children's Aid Society, worked like trojans from early morning until late in the evening, and with gratifying results. The net result of their labors amounted to $1,468.38 as against a trifle over $1200 gathered in the first tag day last year. And it must be gratifying indeed to not only those who were actually engaged in "tagging" on Saturday, but also to our citizens, who submitted to the process with graceful monetary recognition of the worthiness of the cause, to learn that Peterborough this year extended its liberality to the extent of some $268 in advance of that collected last year.

Saturday afternoon and evening it was difficult to find any person on the streets not wearing the society's tag. Of course many funny incidents occurred, chief amongst which was the Fire Chief being "tagged" with a horse's rosette. This incident was the result of a local lawyer offering $5 if any of the young ladies succeeded in thus decorating him. Well, the money was easy earned for the society, as Chief Howard is one of the best natured citizens in this city, and readily falls in line with a joke.

THOUSANDS MURDERED BY IMPERIAL TROOPS

Nanking, Nov. 11.—The Imperial troops yesterday descended on the innocent chinese of this city, and before their awful work was done thousands had been murdered and their bodies had been left to lie in the city streets.

With the excuse that they were striving to put down the rebellion, every person suspected of having revolutionary tendencies was killed. The Manchu soldiers did not stop with the killing of men who wore no queques. They slew women and children as they ran terror-stricken through the streets.

Thousands managed to escape from the city and find refuge behind the lines of the rebel soldiers, who are gathered about the city in numbers larger than those of the Imperial troops within, but ineffective against the Imperialists because of the lack of ammunition.

VEGETABLES VERSUS MEATS

The Wonderful Results of a Tramp Across the Continent

VEGETABLES WIN EASILY

Test Made in the Interests of Science by Harvard University — Warren Buffum, Living on Plants, in Better Condition Than Jesse, on Flesh Diet.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 12.—Let vegetarians sound the cymbals and loudly rejoice. The Buffum brothers, Jesse P. and Warren H., are here. They are the scientific tramps whom Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, physical director of Harvard University, set to walking across the continent from Boston to San Francisco on July 19 last. Dr. Sargent wishes to test the relative value of meat and vegetables in sustaining men under physical strain. Jesse must eat meat. Warren must live on vegetables, both must sleep outdoors, whatever the weather may be; neither must touch alcohol. Jesse is 26, Warren 23; both are normal, healthy men.

And, arriving here, Warren is in much the better physical condition.

Jesse's face is drawn and he has not the healthy glow in his cheeks, nor the elastic step that his brother has. When they started out, Warren weighed three pounds more than his brother; now he weighs 15 pounds more.

Value of Vegetables.

So let vegetarians make merry at a banquet from which all flesh meats are excluded, from soup to nuts. But while Warren Buffum acknowledges the value of vegetables as fuel for the human mechanism, he is not a true vegetarian, for he longs for the flesh pots of Egypt.

"I am in much better condition than my brother," said Warren Buffum to the Times' correspondent, "I am convinced that my diet keeps a man in better physical trim than his does.

"But when we sit down to eat, I envy him. When I see him getting away with juicy beefsteaks, fried chicken tender mutton chops or boiled fish, I feel as if I could not stand my diet another minute.

Jesse Buffum was laughing at his brother.

"He's a kicker," said Jesse. "He lives like a prince. And I'm in fairly good condition and certain that I shall finish this trip.

The Buffums registered at the Albany Hotel.

"A double room, gentlemen ?" asked the clerk.

"We want sleeping space on the roof," answered Jesse.

They plan to leave Denver to-day.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. J. T. Wainwright.

Mrs. J. T. Wainwright, grandmother of Mr. G. C. Wainwright, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Ottawa, passed away at Halifax, N. S., November 10th, at the age of 83 years. Deceased lady was a member of one of the oldest families in the Maritime Provinces.

Mrs. Richard Patten.

Annie Maria Leggatt, wife of Mr. Richard Patten, passed away at the family residence, Lot 7, Con. 12, North Monaghan, Friday night. The deceased was a native of England and had reached but her twenty-ninth year. She was well known and highly respected in Barrie, where she lived for some years, removing to her late home last spring.

The late Mrs. Richard Patten, leaves a husband and an only son, Harold, to mourn her early demise.

The funeral will leave the residence of her father-in-law, Mr. John Patten, of Lot 7, Con. 12, North Monaghan, on Monday, November 14th, at 2 o'clock, to the Little Lake cemetery, where interment will take place. Service at the house at 1.30.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.

The Y.M.C.A. Determined to Get 1189 New Members.

The authorities of the above praiseworthy institution are responsible for the following official announcement:

There will be something doing in Peterborough for the next couple of weeks. First there is the membership campaign to be carried on by the Y.M.C.A.; and secondly, there are the provincial elections. We put these two events in their proper order. At least, that is what the fellows at the Y say. Of course, Mr. Hall and Mr. Peck will be here, there and everywhere looking for voters. But the boys—well, they intend to scare up every male over 12 years old in the city of Peterborough. Just think, over 100 boys! Surely they can make things move faster than two mere men.

The Y.M.C.A. must have 1,189 new members before November 30th, 1911. And they intend to get them. And as many more as possible. Competition is the life of trade. It is the life of an election, we all know. It is also going to be the life of this membership campaign. The senior members under the old and experienced leader, Dug. Loomis, have sworn to do battle royal with the intermediate members, led by W. Hastie, for new members.

Of course, the seniors do not want the "kids" to beat them. And the "kids" would like awfully well to get a fall on their elders, the seniors.

Anyway there is going to be something doing now. Just watch the Y.M.C.A. membership grow for the next couple of weeks.

THE CAUSE OF HIGH PRICES.

Editor Mornings Times.

Sir,—I notice that some politicians are making statements regarding the high cost of living. I would be very glad if someone would answer in your paper this question: Who is responsible for the high price that householders have to pay for milk ? The price of milk the year round looks to me to be too high for a good farming country like Canada. Some people tell me that the farmers get a low price for milk. If that is true, the middleman must get a great profit. If there's a big difference between the price the farmer gets and the price the consumer pays, it ought to be possible to pay the farmer a little more and charge the consumer a little less. Anyway, I'd like to know why I have to pay such a high figure for such an easily produced article of food as milk ?

—Housekeeper.

RAFFLES ARE ILLEGAL.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—My attention was called to a case where a shot gun was being disposed of by raffle, and I write to ask if such is not against the law.

By answering this question you will oblige,

—A Reader.

Reply—Games of chance of every description are not permitted. Criminal Code, Chap. 146, Sec. 23, deals with the matter as follows:—

"Everyone is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to two years' imprisonment and to a fine not exceeding $2000 who makes, prints, advertises or publishes, or causes or procures to be made, printed, advertised or published, any proposal, scheme, or plan for advancing, lending, giving, selling, or in any way disposing of any property, by lots, cards, tickets, or any mode of chance whatsoever; or conducts or manages any scheme, contrivance or operation of any kind for the purpose of determining who, or the holders of what lots, tickets, numbers, or chances are the winners of any property so proposed to be advanced, loaned, given, sold or disposed of.

"Everyone is guilty of an indictable offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine of $20, who buys, takes or receives any such lot, ticket or other device as aforesaid."

There is a saving clause in relation to the above section, but which would not include the "raffle" as is commonly seen.

BIG HOTEL NEEDED IN PETERBOROUGH.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I would like to suggest, through the columns of your widely-read paper, the advisability of your Board of Trade taking up the matter of the construction of a modern hotel in Peterborough. The present hotel accommodation is alright as far as it goes, but it is entirely inadequate for the requirements of a growing young city like Peterboro'. There is scarcely accommodation at the present time for the ordinary every-day trade, and when anything special takes place, visitors are obliged to sleep on shake-downs, and such like. Besides, Peterborough is admirably situated for a summer town, where people would undoubtedly come each year to spend the heated term. You have fine water trips, good fishing, splendid roads for automobiles, and in fact, Peterborough possesses advantages in this regard, not to be found in many other places.

I see that Kingston, which is about Peterborough's size, proposes to assist a big hotel enterprise to the extent of $100,000. Cobourg is a shining example of the advantage of catering to the summer tourist trade. A Kingston paper, in speaking of this, says: "An architect, whose business calls him to Cobourg from time to time states that the average residential home being erected in that town by the American colony costs from $15,000 to $35,000 and Cobourg is not in it with Kingston for natural advantages. The water here is better for sailing, motor-boating and canoeing and the numerous lakes back of Kingston are still teeming with fish and attract tourists from all parts of America. He claimed that it was the good hotel accommodation that was attracting people to Cobourg and predicted that a first-class hotel would have the same effect in Kingston."

If this argument will apply to Kingston, it will, I know, apply with even greater force to Peterborough.

—Knight of the Grip.

SATURDAY'S MARKET.

The market on Saturday was largely attended. Eggs were scarce. Potatoes found ready buyers at $1.50 per bag, an advance of 5 cents since last Saturday. Poultry was by no means plentiful, but prices did not advance. The following prices prevailed:

Butter, 30c.
Eggs, 30c.
Geese, $1.10 to $1.25.
Ducks, 60c to 75c each.
Turkeys, $1.30 up according to the size.
Guinea fowl (per pair live), 60c.
Potatoes, $1.50.
Apples, per bbl., $3.
Little pigs, $6 per pair.
Lamb, 11c and 13c.
Pork, 10c and 12c.
Loose hay, $14 and $15 per ton.
Baled hay, 85c per cwt.,
Live hogs, $6.40.

A NEW TRANSATLANTIC LINE

C.P.R. Organize Line of Steamers to Operate Between Rotterdam and Canadian and United States Ports

London, Nov. 11.—The Times' Rotterdam correspondent reports The Nieuwe Rotterdam Sourant as announcing anew line with fortnightly sailings to Canada and the United States from Rotterdam. The line will be operated under C.P.R. auspices, and has been financed by C.P.R. and French bankers at Rotterdam.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M.P., PRESENTED WITH A GOLD HEADED CANE

At the close of Mr. Burnham's remarks to the electors at the rally held in Mr. Peck's central committee rooms on Saturday night, Mr. Jas. Kendry, on behalf of the Liberal-Conservative Association of West Peterborough, presented Mr. Burnham with a handsome gold headed ebony cane, suitably engraved. In making the presentation, Mr. Kendry said that he had been called upon by the Association to perform a very pleasant duty on their behalf, and that the people of West Peterborough both Liberal and Conservative were exceedingly grateful to Mr. Burnham for coming out as their standard bearer in the past conteat and his untiring efforts, had redeemed the riding. The people of West Peterborough looked upon Mr. Burnham as a man of honor and integrity and were proud to have a representative that possessed such stirling qualities. He hoped that Mr. Burnham would be long spared to represent this riding in the House of Commons. Mr. Burnham, who was taken completely by surprise, thanked the members for their kindness and assured them that he would do all in his power to merit their confidence, and hoped at the end of his career that it could not be said that he had done anything to discredit their trust in him.

THE POWER QUESTION

Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals, has set apart Friday next, November 17th, as the day he will meet a deputation from Peterborough on the question of power for municipal purposes in this city.

The City Fathers are to attend in a body and take the question up with the newly created Minister.

The Times would suggest that the deputation be not confined to members of the City Council, but that other representative citizens accompany them. Such deputations cannot be made too weighty, especially in this instance, when hundreds of Peterborough citizens are freely expressing their opinion that before the next municipal elections the community must exactly understand what reasonable hope there is of next year's council actively taking up the power question with a view to municipal ownership of electric power in the very near future. Hon. Adam Beck has assured this city that power is still available for Peterborough as a municipal owned utility, notwithstanding the frequently expressed conviction in some quarters that we have let our opportunity entirely pass, and citizens will anxiously await similar assurances from Ottawa.

One citizen on Saturday night said, had time been taken by the forelock, Peterborough people might by now be in a position to switch the heat on in their premises by means of a button, instead of feeding furnaces and self-feeders with BLACK DIAMONDS.

NEED MORE MEN LIKE MR. BURNHAM

The Bobcaygeon Independent says editorially of Mr. Burnham:

All parties would be the better of safe sound criticism such as Mr. Burnham offers, and were there more men like Mr. Burnham in public life, political parties would be strengthened by higher ideals.

Princess Coming.

London, Nov. 11.—Princess Patricia returns here from Sweden to-morrow and will sail for Canada about a fortnight later to join her parents at Rideau Hall.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT MR. PECK'S MEETING

There was a large attendance at the Saturday night rally in the interests of Mr. Peck. The meeting was addressed by several speakers.

Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., occupied the chair and after afew remarks called on Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., who in a spirited address dealt with the progress made by the Ontario Government, under the leadership of the greatest general who ever led a Government. The speaker dealt with many of the reforms instituted by Sir James Whitney, and pointed out that not one instance of graft or abuse, that was so abundant in the Liberal Government, could be laid against the present administration. Mr. Burnham took occasion to answer the charges made by Mr. Stratton in the Liberal committee rooms and in the Examiner, in regard to catering to the liquor men's vote. The public take little stock, however, in these assertions of Mr. Stratton and the Examiner, as they were well aware of the methods used in this city when the Liberal Government was in power, and the scandalous way in which the law was enforced, if there was any law at that time. Mr. Peck was then called upon and dealt with the old Liberal Government's pet measure, the "Compensation Act." The speaker also dealt with the planks of the platform submitted to the public by the new Liberal leader, Mr. Rowell, and which were all reforms instituted by the Whitney Government and were at present being worked out. Mr. Thompson, M.P.P., of East Peterborough was present and gave a splendid account of the stewardship of Sir Jas. Whitney, dealing with the progress made in New Ontario, the changes made in the liquor laws which were now being enforced, and also the splendid public and charitable institutions which were receiving large grants from the government.

ONTARIO BUREAU OF COLONIZATION'S EXHIBITION CAR IN PETERBOROUGH

The Ontario Bureau of Colonization Exhibition Car reached this city on Saturday. It is located at the Grand Trunk station where visitors will be welcome until 9 o'clock this evening. The car contains an interesting exhibit of the products of that portion of New Ontario known as the Temiskaming district, and is in charge of Mr. R. A. Jones, Toronto, and Geo. Palmer, of Englehart. New Ontario is operated by an Ontario Government Commission composed of Messrs. J. L. Englehart, chairman; D. Murphy, Frederick Dane, Geo. W. Lee, and A. J. McGee, who is secretary-treasurer. Englehart is the centre of an important clay belt, where the exhibits were obtained and promises to be the most important city in New Ontario.

Those who failed to visit the Exhibition car on Saturday should certainly do so to-day. The car is in charge of Mr. G. E. Palmer and an assistant. Mr. Palmer is one of those gentlemen who make one feel at home at once and he is only too pleased to show visitors to his car, the fruits, cereals, roots, etc., and to furnish them with any information concerning prospects of Northern Ontario. One's first impression in listening to Mr. Palmer is that he is very enthusiastic over New Ontario, but after hearing facts and figures as given by him, one feels he certainly has good grounds for his enthusiasm. Mr. Palmer extends a hearty invitation to everybody to come and inspect his car and all who avail themselves may be assured of a very interesting and instructive time. We strongly advise all our readers to take advantage of this opportunity of hearing of the great advantages New Ontario offers. One comes away with the conviction that New Ontario offers far greater inducements and advantages to the settler than the much vaunted Great West. For one thing the climate is much better than out West. The root crops are all gathered in before the first of June. In the Government greehouse at Englehart, Mr. Kerrigan, the florist, has over 60 varieties of chrysanthumums, one large specimen measuring 14 inches across. Also varieties of roses, carnations and many other flowers. As an example of what has been done in New Ontario, Mr. Palmer tells of an old country coachman, green to land, work, who came there seven years ago. To-day he has a farm all cleared from expense and owns the deeds. Last year he cleared $375 on strawberries alone and refused an offer of $3,500 for his farm. Three Englishmen settled there three years ago, to-day they possess two horses, two cows, 50 head of poultry. Last year they were $1,000 to the good and this year their profits were $2,000. The picture of these Englishmen and their house is on view in Mr. Palmer's car. The land regulations are very similar to those of the West. Mr. Palmer gives a lot of interesting information as to the lines of railways now in existence and in course of erection. He explains a map showing the good roads and waterways of New Ontario. Only settlers can get land there at 50 cents an acre, reside on it six months in the year, and for three years. The first instalment of $20 is paid when application is filed; the balance is paid during three years. Five acres have to be cultivated every year and a home 16 x 20 has to be erected. Settlers starting in the fall can cut the pulpwood on his lot, deliver it to the track and get enough to enable him to get a good start in the spring. Price of pulpwood delivered to the track $4.50 to $5 a cord. From 16 acres in the winter of 1905-6-7, a settler cut and delivered on the track 225 cords of pulpwood and the profit came to the handsome sum of $550. Immigration at the rate of 200 families a week is going on. An idea of the size of Northern Ontario is gathered from the fact that there are 20,000 (quare miles more land there than in the whole of England, Ireland and Scotland put together. No less than 20 million acres are surveyed for settlement. Many other proofs of the superiority of New Ontario over the West for settlers and a mine of useful information and advice is given in the most pleasant manner by Mr. Palmer and he extends a very hearty invitation to all Peterborough citizens to visit his car to-day on G. T. R. siding, near King street.

BISHOP OF CALGARY ALARMED

Growth of Mormonism in Alberta has Been Rapid and Increased by Utah Exiles.

Calgary, Alta., Nov. 11.—The Bishop of Calgary yesterday before the Alberta Synod delivered an address on the alarming growth of Mormonism in Southern Alberta, and urged all denominations to take united action to suppress it. The Mormons in Alberta are very prosperous. Their growth has been raised by exiles from Utah, following federal prosecution for violation of the Edmunds Act against plural wives began.

KING AND QUEEN START FOR INDIA

London, Nov. 11.—King George and Queen Mary started this morning on a journey which has no parallel in the history of the British throne. For the first time a reigning Emperor of India is going there to be crowned and to receive the acclamations of his subjects.

After saying farewell to their younger children at Buckingham Palace the King and Queen with their suite drove in three open landaus to Victoria station. The weather was typical for a London November morning, a gray mist prevailing.

The King, in a uniform of an Admiral, rode in the first carriage. With him was Queen Mary with a blue dress and furs. The Prince of Wales and Princess Mary also rode in this carriage, which was escorted by a detachment of the Horse Guards.

Cheering crowds greeted the royal procession along the route to Victoria station. The station, from which the public had been excluded, was filled with members of the Royal Family and prominent dignitaries. Among these were Queen Alexandra, Prince Christian, Princess Louise of Argyle, the Duke of Fife, the Duke and Duchess of Teck, Prince Arthur of Connaught, Prime Minister and Mrs. Asquith, Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Minister, Viscount Morley, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and practically the entire diplomatic corps in their brilliant uniforms, the Lord Mayor of London, and the flower of British aristocracy, including the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, the Duke of Norfolk, Earl and Countess Granard and Lord Strathcona, the Canadian High Commissioner.

The Band of the Coldstream Guards played the Royal Anthem, and as the Imperial special pulled out of the station at 10.30 o'clock on its way to Portsmouth, there was a remarkable demonstration of affection.

The special crown of India which the King will wear at the Durbar on December 12 and other state jewels are all ready aboard the vessel.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 11.—A heavy snow covers Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The mercury stands at 3 below in Manitoba, and 10 below in other parts further west. All threshing is held up indefinitely. About 30 per cent. of the Western crop remains to be threshed in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

was incorporated by Special Act of the Parliament of Canada for the purpose of carrying on the business of Fire Insurance, as outlined in the Insurance Act and the Special Act of Incorporation.

Capital Stock Authorized by the Board.....$2,000,000
Capital Stock Subscribed to date $1,650,000

The Head Office of the Company is in the city of Winnipeg, and, in addition to this, Branch Offices and Agencies will be established throughout the Dominion.

It must be generally conceded that, owing to the satisfactory conditions at present prevailing throughout not only Western Canada, but the entire Dominion, this Company is being organized at a most favorable and opportune time.

Canada, and particularly the Western portion of the Dominion, is advancing in population and wealth more rapidly than at any other time in its history, and every indication points towards a period of great prosperity and development.

The great influx of settlers into Western Canada is resulting in tremendous activity in every line of business. Railroad construction is proceeding on a scale hitherto unknown in this country, and as adequate transportation is of vital importance in moving our immense crops with a proper degree of facility, it is highly encouraging to see so much well-directed energy along the lines of railway extension.

Coincident with railway expansion, we find many new districts rapidly filling up with desirable settlers, bringing with them a good supply of cash and effects. With the settlement of the rural districts, new towns and villages are springing up, which will, during the next few years, become, in many instances, important business centres.

With such unprecedented growth in Western as well as Eastern Canada, involving an expenditure of millions of dollars in building operations, it is at once evident that there is a very extensive and profitable field for a new Fire Insurance Company which will have a thorough organization throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, and more particularly in the four Western Provinces.

As a great volume of our business will be transacted in the West, it is a matter of the greatest importance that the Head Office of the Company, as well as the Directors, should be located in the West, so that the affairs of the Company may be conducted to the best possible advantage.

DIRECTORS.

The Board of Directors consists entirely of Western men with a very intimate knowledge of Western conditions, and they are, accordingly, well conversant with the financial and general business requirements of the West. They are thoroughly representative of the various important branches of financial, commercial, industrial and professional life in Western Canada, and with their wide reputation for business ability and integrity, as well as financial standing, combined with a long and varied experience, and practical knowledge of business affairs, they are exceptionally well qualified to render excellent service to a large financial institution.

As the Directors have valuable connections with extensive business interests and are also Directors of other financial corporations, as well as being otherwise identified with large and influential companies which control a great deal of high-grade fire insurance, they will be instrumental in placing a large portion of this desirable insurance with the new Company, so that we may safely conclude that from the very beginning of operations a large and profitable business will be secured.

Under these favorable conditions, and with a strong, energetic, as well as experienced and conservative management, combined with the fact that each Director has subscribed for eleven thousand five hundred dollars ($11,500) of the Capital Stock, on which all calls have been paid, and takes an active interest in the welfare of the Company, there is only one conclusion to draw, and that is that the affairs of the Company will be conducted in such a careful, conscientious and intelligent manner that the interests of both policyholders and stockholders will be fully protected.

IT IS WORTHY OF NOTE THAT $1,650,000 OF CAPITAL STOCK HAS ALREADY BEEN SUBSCRIBED BY PROMINENT BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN THROUGHOUT THE DOMINION AND ELSEWHERE.

No commission has been paid to anyone for securing stock subscriptions, and no expense has been incurred in the promotion and organization of the Company, except the expense in connection with securing the Charter and other necessary expenses.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE.

The Canada National Fire, being organized in the West, MAY BE TRULY CALLED A WESTERN COMPANY, and, as such, should receive the liberal patronage and hearty co-operation of the citizens of Western Canada, as well as the support of people from Eastern Canada who desire to become associated with a strong and progressive Canadian Company.

When promoting this Company the Directors were fully convinced that there was a splendid opening in Western Canada for a Company prepared to carry on the business of Fire Insurance on a large and comprehensive scale, and which, at the same time, could offer ADEQUATE PROTECTION TO BOTH POLICYHOLDERS AND SHAREHOLDERS. Accordingly, when making application for a Dominion charter, the Company was incorporated with a capital of $3,000,000.00, of which amount the Directors decided to offer for public subscription the sum of $2,000,000.00.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT FEATURE IN FIRE INSURANCE IS PROTECTION, and with the LARGE CAPITAL, combined with the high standard of Reserve, which will be maintained through careful selection of risks and profits from judicious investments, the Directors and Management feel confident that this Company will be accorded a very hearty reception by Canadian citizens, and will soon rank as one of the leading Fire Companies.

WITHOUT A LARGE AND SUBSTANTIAL CAPITAL FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE POLICYHOLDERS, A FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY IS SERIOUSLY HANDICAPPED, AND DOES NOT AFFORD THE POLICYHOLDER THAT PROTECTION TO WHICH HE IS JUSTLY ENTITLED, and the Directors of this Company, being fully aware of this most important fact, are adopting a very wise policy in OFFERING FOR SUBSCRIPTION SUCH A LARGE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL STOCK, and when our entire stock is subscribed and paid in full it will represent the largest amount of subscribed and paid-up capital of any Canadian Fire Insurance Company, and will be a tower of strength and of very material benefit to the company in carrying on its extensive operations.

GENERAL AGENT FOR CANADA ,

W. E. FUDGER, ESQ.

It shall be the policy of the Company to use the UTMOST DISCRETION in the selection of desirable risks, and, at the same time, to so widely distribute its business that any danger arising from a possible conflagration at any point may be reduced to a minimum.

The investment of the Company's funds will be given the GREATEST OF CARE AND ATTENTION by the Board of Directors.

Only GILT-EDGE securities will be considered, such as first mortgages on improved, productive real estate, stocks, bonds and debentures of companies of high repute, as well as Dominion securities and municipal, county and school debentures of well-established districts.

As a LARGE PERCENTAGE of these securities is READILY NEGOTIABLE, the Company will have abundant LIQUID ASSETS to meet any possible contingency that might arise.

Our first mortgage investments will be confined to Western Canada, and as the rate of interest obtainable on first-class productive real estate is FULLY TWO PER CENT. greater in the West than in Eastern Canada, the Company will have a DECIDED ADVANTAGE over Companies operating exclusively in the older portions of the Dominion. A fixed policy of the Company is to loan NOT MORE THAN FIFTY-PER CENT. of a conservative value of the property, and to stipulate for a definite return of principal, together with interest, each year during the term of the loan. With these periodical repayments of principal, and with land values in Western Canada steadily increasing, the Company's first mortgage securities will continue to improve year by year.

With the active development in Western Canada, a great deal of capital will be required for many years to come, and the Company will, therefore, experience a very ready demand for its funds on high-grade securities and at a profitable rate of interest.

The Directors decided to issue the stock at the price of ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTEEN DOLLARS PER SHARE, being at a premium of fifteen per cent.

THE TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION ARE :

On application, $25.00 per share, which shall include the premium of $15.00 per share, and the balance, payable in ten consecutive half-yearly instalments of $9.00 per share, the first of such half-yearly instalments to become due and payable six months from date of allotment of shares.

Shares may be PAID IN FULL at time of subscription, but if purchased on the INSTALMENT PLAN the subscriber shall have the privilege of paying any or all of the instalments prior to due dates.

The Following Table Shows the Amount of First Call as well as the Subsequent Payments :

No. of Shares.	Amount of First Call.	Half-yearly Payments.

NO BONUS STOCK shall be issued for any purpose whatsoever, and even the Directors, who are very heavy stockholders in the Company, have paid the SAME PRICE for their shares as the general public. NOT ONE SHARE has been, or will be issued to any person at a price less than $115.00 per share.

THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY to secure some of the Capital Stock of a Western Fire Insurance Company. With a large amount of desirable and profitable business so readily obtainable by the Company through its valuable and extensive business connections, rapid progress should be made, and with investments carefully selected and unexcelled in earning power, the Company will be enabled to not only pay substantial dividends, but build up a large reserve, and thereby materially increase the value of the stock.

The Directors firmly believe in the policy that EVERY SHAREHOLDER SHOULD CO-OPERATE WITH THE MANAGEMENT of a Company and take an active interest in its welfare. For that reason, it is their intention to WIDELY DISTRIBUTE the CAPITAL STOCK, and by that means obtain the support of the leading business and professional men throughout the country.

With the rapid development of the West during recent years, involving an outlay of many millions of capital, it has become generally recognized that WESTERN CANADA IS VERY MUCH IN NEED OF MORE LARGE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND ESPECIALLY OF WESTERN ORIGIN, to properly meet the growing requirements of the West, and to not only improve the present financial situation, but to materially assist in retaining, as much as possible, desirable business, with its resultant profits, within our own Western borders.

The business of fire insurance has now grown to such large proportions that it has become a very important factor in the financial and commercial world, and as its scope and influence is so general and widespread it is only natural to find that the question of AMPLE PROTECTION TO POLICYHOLDERS, which is the PRIMARY FUNCTION OF FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES, should be so GENERALLY DISCUSSED AT THE PRESENT TIME.

This important subject has given rise to a very STRONG FEELING in Western Canada that the TIME HAS NOW ARRIVED when the Western people should organize a Fire Insurance Company of such strength and proportions that it will soon rank as one of the leading fire companies of America, and command general respect and confidence, which is so ESSENTIAL to a company that solicits the support and patronage of all classes of the community.

The Directors have every confidence that they will receive the hearty co-operation of not only Western citizens, but of people from every part of the Dominion, to build up a GREAT fire insurance company with AMPLE PROTECTION for the people, and which will be a source of pride and credit to our country.

The following Canadian Government Insurance statistics should prove of ESPECIAL INTEREST :

In the year 1899 the total amount of fire premiums collected in Canada was $1,785,539.00, whereas in the year 1909 the total premiums charged amounted to the large sum of $22,293,638.25, and of this amount $6,551,644.41 was charged by Canadian Companies, $11,518,267.45 by British Companies, and $4,223,721.39 by American Companies.

During the last forty-one years the aggregate amount of fire insurance premiums collected in Canada reached the immense total of $280,740,466.00, of which the large sum of $218,310,047.00 represents the amount of fire premiums collected by FOREIGN COUNTRIES, and which, therefore, was taken out of the country to build up foreign companies and enrich foreign shareholders.

Notwithstanding that a considerable portion of the fire premiums collected in Canada by Foreign Companies has been repaid to Canadian policyholders, through fire losses, it must be evident that the larger the proportion of Canadian fire insurance that is placed with Canadian Companies, the larger is the amount of capital retained in the Dominion and always available for investment purposes, to build up our Canadian financial institutions, and thereby add to the general wealth and prosperity of our country.

The above figures are most significant and clearly demonstrate that while the CANADIAN FIRE COMPANIES have been doing a satisfactory business they HAVE SECURED only a SMALL portion of the Fire Insurance transacted in Canada, or, to be more exact, ONLY TWENTY-TWO PER CENT. of THE TOTAL FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN IN CANADA, covering a period of the last forty-one years. With the extraordinary progress which Canada has been making during recent years, the field for financial institutions has become so widely extended that there is a CONSTANTLY INCREASING DEMAND for new large financial corporations.

By further reference to our Government statistics it will be observed that at December 31st, 1909, the total number of Canadian Fire Companies operating under Dominion charter was ONLY TWENTY-ONE, and of this number ONLY TWO HAD A PAID-UP CAPITAL IN EXCESS OF $500,000.

In promoting this large Canadian Company the Directors are fully confident that the new organization will, with characteristic Western energy and enterprise, soon come to be recognized as an important factor in the insurance world, and as The Canada National Fire will be instrumental in RETAINING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF CANADA a large amount of money which would otherwise be taken out of the country to build up foreign corporations the people of this growing Dominion will readily see the advisability of giving this Company their MORAL AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT, in order that we may build up a STRONG and VIGOROUS Company which will prove a valuable acquisition to our Canadian monetary institutions.

This is the last opportunity to secure, direct from the Company, some of this desirable stock.

It is worthy of special note that the demand for the stock has exceeded the Directors' most sanguine expectations ; in fact, of the $2,000,000 of stock to be issued, $1,650,000 has already been subscribed, and, from present indications, with the large number of applications for stock being received daily, the Directors are confident that the balance of the issue, which is now only $350,000, will be subscribed by August 30th, 1911, the date appointed for the closing of stock subscriptions.

For this reason, the Directors strongly recommend the investing public to mail their applications for stock at their earliest possible opportunity.

Subscribers are requested to kindly fill in attached application form, stating name in full, number of shares desired, occupation and address, and mail the application, along with the first call of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) per share on the stock, direct to the Head Office of the Company, Winnipeg, Man., or, if so desired, application may be made for the stock at any of the Company's Branch Offices or at any Branch of the Royal or Imperial Banks, where application blanks and any additional information will be readily furnished. Applications for stock will be considered in the order received, and on approval of the same by the Board of Directors a certificate for the number of shares subscribed will be issued and mailed the shareholders forthwith. Cheques, Drafts, Money Orders or other remittances on account of stock subscriptions should be made payable to The Canada National Fire Insurance Company.

CATARRH

Remember the best Catarrh medicine that money can buy is Catarrhozone; it cures quickly and permanently when all others fail.

The remedy doesn't exist that will cure Catarrh as quickly as Catarrhozone. It relieves the most stubborn cases in a short time, and drives the disease so thoroughly from the system that it never returns.

Druggists boldly recommend Catarrhozone in preference to other remedies, because they know it is the best, and every progressive doctor prescribes it for the same good reason.

Catarrhozone is a rational, common-sense treatment that finds favor with everybody. It cures by the inhalation of medicated air, which comes into contact with the mucous surface of all the breathing organs. It gets at the source of the trouble, kills the germs and drives every vestige of catarrh right out of the system.

It doesn't matter how deep-seated or chronic your case may be, Catarrh ozone can cure it. Even though a thousand other remedies have failed, don't give up hope till you have used Catarrhozone. It has cured other cases probably worse than yours, and will cure yours if it gets a chance.

Mr. Dutcher Law, a prominent citizen of Italy Cross, N. S., says: "I experimented with hundreds of catarrh remedies and found the majority to be worthless, dismal failures. Catarrhozone was the first to give lasting relief; it cured me and I am with pleasure testifying to its merits as a cure for Catarrh of the nose and throat.

(Signed) DUTCHER LAW.

You are sure to derive the most pleasant results from Catarrhozone. It has been tested many times and never found wanting. Every druggist in Canada sells it. Complete two months' treatment, guaranteed to cure costs $1, or a trial size 25c. By mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

A NEW MOUNTAIN WORLD.

As further particulars are received from the exploration party under Mr. A. O. Wheeler, Director of the Canadian Alpine Club, regarding their recent expedition over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway through the Canadian Rocky Mountains, it is known that the new Transcontinental Railway will be able to offer to its patrons the finest scenery of any of the Transcontinental Railways in America.

In the last report received the territory in the vicinity of the head waters of the Athabasca and Whirlpool rivers is touched upon, and are, Mr. Wheeler states, opening up a field for exploration and research, mountaineering and camping that is absolutely new, and of which practically nothing is known. This group of mountains is magnificent. It rises approximately to 12,000 feet above sea level, and shows contours of the wildest and boldest possible forms. Immense snowfields and huge glaciers are everywhere. Boldest and most inaccessible rise the awful black precipices of Mount Geikie, the central point of the group. Again to the south are an endless array of peaks, towers, pyramids, domes, castles and ramparts in bewildering confusion.

An attempt was made to indentify the much talked of giants, Columbia, Bryce, Lyall, Forbes, etc., but in the chaotic whole it could not be done with any certainty.

PRACTICAL POET JUST EMERGED

Energetic Poem-Maker Whispers Along the Words that Silence is Not Quite So Golden as It May Appear.

He was a young but decidedly practical poet, and he was favouring a friend with his latest effusion. The verses were descriptive of a beautiful girl. He read:—

"Her hair was massed in flowing curls,
The colour of a whisper."

This awoke the listener. "What's that?" he said. "Read that again."

"I thought you would say something about that," the poet answered. "That phrase gives some scope for the exercise of the mind."

"In what way?"

The poet laughed.

"Don't you see," he said, "how beautifully that describes the shade of her hair. Every poet speaks of golden hair or raven locks. To be a success one must be original. Well, she did not have golden hair. It was nearly golden, and I convey the impression by means of that one word."

The other still looked puzzled.

"You have heard," said the poet patiently, "that silence is golden?"

"Yes," the other admitted.

"Well," resumed the poet, "if silence is golden, what would a whisper be? It would be nearly golden, wouldn't it?"

THE YAKUT EATS WOOD

Away Up North in Siberia the Natives Turn Down Fish and Fatten on Slabs of Wood with Snow-Brew.

Wood in a certain form is a common and constant article of food in all sections of Siberia where the Yakut lives.

North of Verchoyansk, except in a few sheltered valleys, there is little food, aside from that afforded by fish, than that furnished by the larch. The natives eat it, however, because they like it. Even in sections where fish may be had, wood usually forms part of the native's evening meal, as the many clearly stripped larch logs near every hut testify.

The natives strip off the thick layers immediately under the bark of a larch log, and, chopping it fine, mix it with snow. It is then boiled in a kettle. Sometimes a bit of fish roe is added, and in the southern sections cow's milk or butter.

Words of Wisdom.

Truth, like gold, is not the less so for being newly brought out of the mine. It is trial and examination must give it price, and not any antique fashion: and though it be not yet current by the public stamp, yet it may for all that be as old as Nature, and is certainly not the less genuine.

John Locke.

There are few people so weak or mean who have it not sometimes in their power to be useful to the public.

Swift.

All life is a stage and a game: either learn to play it, laying by seriousness, or bear its pains.

From the Greek Anthology.

We live in an age when unnecessary things are our only necessities.

Oscar Wilde.

To do great things a man must live as though he had never to die.

Vauvenarques.

Eminent posts make great men greater, and little men less.

Whilst we converse with what is above us, we do not grow old, but grow young.

Emerson.

Good taste is essentially a moral quality.

Not Room for Both

"I know Ames comes in for a lot of praise because he hunts with a camera instead of a gun," Forbes began, in a slightly acrid tone. "It never seems to strike people that there may be more than one kind of brutality."

"What's the matter with Ames?" demanded one of the men on the clubhouse porch.

"Up in Canada last fall, Forbes readily resumed, "I went off by myself one day, when Ames was fiddling over his kodak, and I stumbled full on a black bear. Because I was the only thing in sight, very likely, I became the immediate object of her attentions. I had only a slight lead, but I was going pretty well when Ames poked through the brush and took in the situation.

"'Hold on there, old chap!' he yelled. 'You're too far ahead. I can't get you both in.'"

Weird Meals

There are many eccentric eaters in our midst, but not all of them allow their eccentricities to become known. At one of the most aristocratic clubs in London, (England), however, a certain duke may frequently be seen lunching on oatmeal porridge and treacle, while a well-known marquis insists upon gratifying his taste for raw cockles and mussels in vinegar; and one of the wealthiest noblemen in the land dines cheaply off a plate of soup and cold beef and pickles, except when he is entertaining a friend.

But these peculiarities fade into insignificance beside the habits of one English statesman, who will frequently eat five or six heavy courses at four o'clock in the morning, and then fast till the following evening, when he will dine in sumptuous style.

place of stronger, more pronounced importance. Mr. Kemp has proven a worker of more than average value to his party and the leaders look upon him as a man of political promise, a man whose advice and guidance on many points, is deserving of close following.

Mr. Kemp is a manufacturer of Toronto, was born at Clarenceville, Que., in 1858, where he was educated preliminarily, with higher points added at Lacolle Academy. He was for a term president of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, and of the Toronto Board of Trade, and went to the House of Commons first in 1900.

ALBERT JOSEPH BROWN, K.C.

Windsor, P.Q., man honored at Montreal.

Mr. Albert Joseph Brown, K.C., of Montreal, who was recently honored by being elected Batonnier of the Bar in that city, is a native of Windsor, P.Q., where he was born in 1861, his father being native-born and his mother hailing from Scotland. This particular family of Browns, it may be said, came originally from Massachusetts, where their early arrivals from the mother land were in residence as far back as 1650.

Albert J Brown received his education at St. Francis College, Richmond, P.Q.; Morin College, Quebec, and McGill University, Montreal, where he graduated in 1882, with the degree of B. A., and in 1886, with the degree of B.C.L., winning the Elizabeth Torrance gold medal. In this latter year he became a partner in the firm of Benjamin & Brown of Montreal. In 1887, after the death of Mr. Benjamin, the firm of Chapleau, Hall, Nicolls & Brown was formed. At the present date, Mr. Brown is the senior member of the legal firm of Brown Montgomery & McMichael. In 1889, Mr. Brown was appointed King's Counsel. On May 1st, 1911, he was made Batonnier, of the Montreal Bar and on June 21st, 1911, Batonnier of the Province of Quebec.

Mr. Brown is a member of the following Clubs: The Mount Royal, the St. James, the Forest & Stream, the Royal Montreal Golf, the Montreal, and the Garrison of Quebec. He was married, December 27th, 1888 to Josephine Home of Quebec.

NOT EVEN IN DEATH

By Eve Gravity
(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.)

"Don't let anything worry or distress him," said the doctor. "He won't live through the night; but he will probably be quiet and comfortable up to the end. The least excitement may bring on the pain again."

He was a young, soft-hearted doctor with a pair of Irish eyes that had a trick of growing misty at times over the death-beds of his patients. This grey-haired man had interested him from the first. How had he spent his life?

"Poor fellow!" he said to the nurse. "I feel sure he is a Somebody. He looks like a man with an interesting past. Has he no friends, I wonder?"

But the landlady knew of no one. He had lived in her house for five years and always paid her regularly. Business letters, or what looked like business letters, came for him, and he burned a great deal of oil sitting up far into the night—writing, she believed—but beyond that she knew nothing of him.

A coal fell into the grate and startled her from her reverie. She had been thinking of the old days, the days when she had been a happy, laughing young thing, loving and loved of everyone and without a care in the world. It would be springtime now in the country, and there were primroses and violets under the hedges, and the woods would be all green and leafy. Their woods! and now others would be walking in the narrow paths, and over the leaf-strewn mosses where frail anemones unfolded their buds.

Over the calm, steadfast face there stole a tear, the lonely descendant of all those she had shed long, long ago. She wiped it away with a furtive look towards the bed. The professional instinct reasserted itself; she loved her work and excelled in it; it was time for the patient to take his medicine, perhaps the last draught which would pass his lips till he should drink of the waters of Lethe and be at peace. As she poured the mixture into the glass he opened his eyes and fixed them on her in a fixed, vacant gaze.

"Nurse," he said suddenly, "I shall die to-night."

She gave him the medicine and smoothed his pillow before she answered.

"You will be glad to go?" she asked quietly.

"Out of this hell? Yes! Whatever lies beyond it can't be worse. Nurse, I have spoken to no one of what I have suffered, to no one in the world. May I talk to you a little? It will ease me, I think, and you don't know my name — or hers. Yes, it was a woman, of course. They're the curse of the world, I tell you! No, I won't say that, though—you've been good to me; but then I wasn't your nearest and dearest."

"Listen. I was young and strong and on the high-road to fame, and I married the woman I adored, heaven help me for a blind fool! Yes, I worshipped her, and I thought she worshipped me; but—pah! there was no truth or constancy in her. She deceived me and we parted. I never saw her again in all these fifteen years, and all the time I've been going downhill—you see what I've come to! I didn't care for fame or money or anything else after she went away, and I lost everything by degrees. That's my life-story, nurse. Why, I believe you're crying! Have you such a tender heart?"

"I am not crying; but—it's terrible! Have you never forgiven her? Suppose—suppose there was some mistake? Suppose you were hasty and hurt her too cruelly, and she was proud and went away without speaking? Are you sure you were in the right? Did you never wonder whether she were not innocent after all?"

"She had dark blue eyes like yours," he said dreamily. "But her face was round and her hair was dark and curly. Heaven — or the devil — had made her very beautiful."

"He must not be excited or the pain will come back," the woman kept repeating to herself, and the nails made deep marks in the flesh of her clenched hands. "To tell him — but he would not forgive — he would not believe that he was wrong — and then, the cruel agony!"

The lamp began to burn low; strange shadows danced on the ugly wall-paper, and a cold breath seemed to pass through the room. The nurse rose to look at her watch on the chest of drawers. There was a small cracked looking-glass over it, and as she passed she caught a glimpse of her own reflection. No wonder he had not recognised her, she thought with a sad smile. Fifteen years of bitter pain and hard work had left her little beauty.

The man's breath was coming in gasps, beads of sweat stood out on the wide brow; he was not of those to whom the crossing comes easily. Men of his stamp fight with death as they have fought with life, and suffer horribly. It was midnight now; he would scarcely live another hour.

"Is the pain coming back?" asked the nurse, bending over him. He took no notice of her question.

"Yes, she was beautiful," he gasped. "I wonder where she is now?"

Her eyes shone with a light that was new to them.

"Would you forgive—if she were here?" she asked softly.

But he turned his face fretfully to the wall.

"No, I would never forgive, not on my death-bed, not even now!"

The light died out of her eyes and left her face older and greyer.

"Ah! the pain!" he groaned. "Nurse, give me something!"

She took up the little bottle, the contents of which would send him quietly and painlessly to rest. Then she hesitated.

"No, I would never forgive!" he repeated. "She spoilt my life. Ah, heaven, the pain!"

"Of what use?" the woman said to herself. "He would never forgive."

She uncorked the bottle and beat over him.

A fellow is generally broke when a girl drops him.

A One-Man Show.

The manager of a well-known touring company wired to the proprietor of a theatre in a small town where his company was to appear:—

"Would like to hold a rehearsal at your theatre at three o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Have your stage manager, stage carpenter, assistant stage carpenter, property man, chief electrician, and all stage hands present promptly at that hour."

Three hours later he received the following reply:—

"All right. He will be there."

Animal Love.

Mother love is universal, and there is no love like the mother love. Most of the high and lofty loving in this world is done by mothers. Apart from this the work of wooing falls to the male members of the family whether it be the human family or some one of the other animal tribes. We read how, ages ago, a Bulbul, or Oriental Nightingale, wooed a white rose until it blushed red, and that was the beginning of the red rose. The Spanish Cavalier stands out in the rain and serenades his "Dulce Mia" until there is a crick in his neck, while she sits sheltered in a window above.

The cackle of the loon may be a love song for all we know. Maybe that's what made him loony in the first place.

The wild moose bellows his passion across the lake, and as likely as not the answering call is from a bark horn in the hands of a hunter, luring him to death.

It seems a sizzling shame, but if you will take a Grand Trunk train and travel into the "Highlands of Ontario" you will find men doing that very thing; arguing, doubtless, that all is fair in love and war.

MUNICIPALITY OF TOWNSHIP —OF— NORTH MONAGHAN

Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in section 8 and 9 of the Ontario Voters' List Act, the copies required by said sections to be so transmitted or delivered, of the said list made pursuant to the said Act of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said municipality to be entitled to vote at said municipality at elections for member of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal elections, and the said list was first posted in my office on September 27th, 1911, and remains there for inspection.

Electors are called on to examine the said list and if any omissions or other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

CORONATION,

ALBERTA

The Pacific Realty Co., Limited
154 Bay Street, Toronto, Phone Main 2435

has been authorized by the Land Department of the Candian a Pacific Railway to sell to the public CORONATION town lots.

Plan and map may be inspected at the office of The Pacific Realty Co., Limited, 154 Bay Street, Toronto, from 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p. m., except Saturday, when the office closes at 1.00 p.m.

Facts About Coronation

Coronation is the first divisional town east of Lacombe, and is splendidly situated about twenty miles east of Castor, in the centre of some of the finest farming districts of Western Canada. Its natural advantages, combined with important railway developments, assure to it a future of considerable importance. Engineers are now locating two branch lines north and northwesterly from Coronation, and a third line is projected southeasterly to connect with the branch running northwesterly from Swift Current.

CORONATION will be:

A divisional centre on the great new railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton.

An important junctional centre, as three branch lines are already projected.

A distributing centre for a large and wealthy district.

A purchasing centre for thousands of Western Canada's most prosperous farmers.

If you wish to go into business or make a safe and profitable investment you cannot do better than purchase lots at Coronation, which is bound to rapidly become one of the most important towns of the West.

Mexico Oil

The Mexican Oil Fields, will probably break all records in the production of oil. The largest oil wells in the world are now flowing in the Tampico field, and development is just fairly begun. We offer an exceptionally attractive investment in the stock of a conservative Company, just organized, which controls 3500 acres, in the midst of the big producing section of the field. We are certain we can convince any one of the merits of the enterprise, and we want you to

INVESTIGATE

It will only cost you two cents to secure maps, booklet, and full description of what we have to offer. The stock is being sold for the purpose of drilling the property. Oil is now being produced on all four sides of this property. We will give you every opportunity to investigate the proposition itself and the officers in charge of its affairs. WRITE US for full information.

SPEND A WEEK AT ALGONQUIN.

The popularity of the Algonquin National Park, Ontario, has been pronounced this year, and it has been necessary to use at least 25 large tents as an auxiliary to the accommodation of the Highland Inn, at Algonquin National Park Station.

Most people return to their homes in the early part of September, but as this is one of the most delightful months in this territory, those who can make it convenient are advised to spend a week or two there. The hotel is also open all the winter and with the bracing air of this locality (1700 ft. above the sea) a most delightful sojourn can be spent even in the winter months.

A handsome illustrated booklet may be had on this territory upon application to Mr. A. E. Duff, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

When you have a billious attack give Chamberlain's Tablets a trial. They are excellent. For sale by all dealers.

J. W. Copeland, of Dayton, Ohio, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for his boy who had a cold, and before the bottle was all used the boy's cold was gone. Is that not better than to pay a five dollar doctor's bill? For sale by all dealers.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Lad Injured While Hunting.

While out hunting with several of his companions on Thanksgiving Day George James, of 505 Sherbrooke street was the victim of a painful accident. One of the party stumbled over a stump and having his finger on the trigger of the gun, discharged it, with the result that George, who was standing nearby received the shot in his leg. When he was taken home, Drs. Young and Boucher were called. They extracted the bullet which had passed right through the bone. The boy is now doing nicely.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered stomach. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and correct that and the headaches will disappear. For sale by all dealers.

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers.

KING EDWARD VACUM CLEANER

You cannot clean carpets, rugs and furniture by beating. If you think you have, just try a KING EDWARD VACUUM CLEANER and you will find the article full of dust, which breeds disease.

The KING EDWARD HAND MACHINE has no equal as compared with other hand machines. It is lighter to operate and its suction is much stronger. Its suction is stronger than many of the power machines, and the dusting is done away with. On account of the short stroke one person can operate it on carpets and rugs equally as well as two, and it is about half the weight of other hand machines to carry up and down stairs or from one room to another. It is sold for less money than any of the hand machines. All machines are guaranteed.

Caring for the Train-Crews

Welfare work on the Canadian Pacific Railway has reached a high state of perfection. The railway believes that it is to its advantage to carefully look after the bodily welfare of its men and so everything possible is done to further the interests of its employees. At Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver there have been put into commission in connection with the Dining Car Department three new buildings which are the only ones of their kind on the continent. The new buildings which have been erected at a cost of $15,000 are for the use of the employees of the Dining Car Department. Coming into these cities after a long run the men will not have to look up a hotel or boarding house to pass the night in as under the old conditions. Instead they will go to the C. P. R.'s new buildings where they will be cared for in a way that was impossible before.

The new buildings are built to accommodate sixty two employees each and are of the most modern construction in every respect. Everything is free even to their laundry. Conductors chefs and waiters all have separate quarters and these quarters include baths, showers, lavatory, bedrooms, reading rooms, libraries, cardrooms and billiard rooms. Nice lawns and gardens beautify the premises and the men have all the comforts of home.

A feature of the new system is that the men will always be clean and tidy. It is compulsory for the men to take a bath and a change of underwear after each trip. A check system has been installed which makes it necessary for the men to comply with this rule.

Not only does this system guarantee that the public will have clean tidy men to attend to their wants but it also enables the company to keep a strict account of its men. When a car is called away on short notice at night it is not necessary to seek for a crew and the new system, it is expected, will be such a success that the C. P. R. will build these bungalows at all divisional points. As a matter of fact a building of this nature is now projected for Moose Jaw, and it is practically only a matter of time before there is a whole chain of them at all necessary points between Halifax and Vancouver.

Why the Stars Twinkle

The stars appear to twinkle because the rays of light, coming to us from those distant bodies, pass through strata of air of varying density. The ray of light is bent or refracted on passing from a rarer to a denser medium, and vice versa. All objects viewed through heated air—such as that arising from a brick or lime kiln, or even the vapour near the surface of the earth on a hot day—appear to quiver and tremble. The rays of light, coming from the stars, are, so to speak, shaken to and fro by passing through media of varying densities. The light of the planets is similarly affected, but to a less perceptible extent, on account of their comparative proximity.

Geologic Work of Ants.

The immense importance of ants as geologic agents, especially in tropical regions is being recognised. Ant burrows have been found at a depth of four yards, and they ramify over vast areas. The geologic work performed by earthworms has long been recognised, but Prof. Branner believes that the ants and termites of the tropics bring a greater amount of earth to the surface than do the earthworms of the temperate zones and are in many ways an equally important factor in the changes that are going on in the upper strata of the ground.

"Army Illiterates"

According to statistics recently published the number of illiterate recruits in the French Army has attained the astounding total of 14,000. On the other hand, the German newspapers point with pride to the fact that in the whole of Germany they have only 46 illiterates; that is, recruits who can neither read nor write. Ten years ago the number of illiterates in the German Army was 213. Going back another decade, the number was 360. The French journal from which these facts are taken, further states that the percentage of illiterates in the English Army — the last figures available being those for 1907 — showed 1 per cent; France, 3.5 per cent.; Austria, 22 per cent.; Italy, 31 per cent.; and Russia, 63 per cent.

The town of Coronation was born with the proverbial golden spoon in its mouth, and is promised a brilliant career, for though not yet out of its swaddling clothes, it has already attained the dignity of a divisional point on the Canadian Pacific Railway, with three branch lines projected from its centre. The site of the town is a commanding one and the country is visible round about for miles in all directions. Ample divisional yards have been provided for railway purposes, and with an eye to future development the railway company has reserved a block for school purposes another block for municipal buildings and a large area for a public park. The two principal streets are Royal avenue and Windsor street, and are each one hundred feet wide.

Coronation town was so named by the Canadian Pacific people, and prior to the sale of lots a few weeks ago the site had no particularly big mark on the map of Canada. Coronation in fact, was not more than nominally in existence until the date of the sale, though a few enterprising merchants had erected temporary shops and huts on lots which they intended to bid for at the sale, but which they had not yet secured. Most of the men in possession evidently were successful in getting legitimate title to their holdings, for only one man is spoken of as having to vacate after the sale, and he furnished one of the surprising scenes of an eventful day by hitching up ten teams of horses to his double-fronted hardware store and moving the structure intact on to his new lot.

On the evening before the sale the first passenger train, filled with purchasers from all points of the continent, arrived in Coronation just two hours after the arrival of the track. Few of the travellers, however, were aware of the fact that they were practically travelling over new steel as fast as it was being laid down, and it was not until the morning following that the scene of the track-laying machine at work a scant mile ahead of their train was revealed to the astonished gaze of the passengers.

Perhaps the most commendable [illegible] of enterprise of a remarkable community, however, was the issuing of a newspaper, the Coronation News Review, on the day of the sale. The paper appeared early in the afternoon and contained a full report of the sale proceedings during the morning.

Getting the Facts

"Robert," said Uncle Henry, who was visiting his city nephew, "who's that man in the house on the other side of the street? He stands in front of his window and shaves himself every morning. He's done it now for three days running."

"And he's probably done it for the last ten years, for all I know, uncle," replied Robert, in a tone that lacked interest.

"Has he lived there all that time?"

"Yes; and longer than that, I suppose. He was there when I came here ten years ago."

"Who is he?"

"I don't know."

"What does he do?"

"I haven't the slightest idea, uncle."

Whereupon Uncle Henry put on his hat and went out. In about fifteen minutes he was back in the house again.

"Robert," he said, "that chap's name is Findlater. He runs an insurance office in the High Street. He's worth probably ten thousand, owns that house, belongs to the Methodist church, has three boys, one girl, is a widower, fifty-one years old, a member of the Masonic order, has a farm in the country, and is engaged to his typewriter. I believe living in the city has made you stupid about getting information."

Smithson Institution Gets Canada Specimens

Four Naturalists Explored Wild Country Surrounding Mount Robson for Months.

Washington, D. C., November 1.—The Smithsonian Institution gets nine hundred specimens from the Canadian wilds. The Smithsonian party which accompanied Dr. A. O. Wheeler, president of the Alpine Club of Canada, on his topographic survey of the British Columbia-Alberta boundary line and the Mount Robson region, has just returned to Washington after a successful tour.

The new collection is quite complete, and covers practically all the birds and animals inhabiting this previously unworked territory.

The party, consisting of four members, included the assistant curator of Mammals and Mr. J. H. Riley, of the division of birds of the National Museum.

Assembling at Edmonton, Alberta, early in July, the party proceeded on the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad to the end of the line, where they found it necessary to take pack horses to penetrate the Mount Robson region. The land to be surveyed included the territory lying about this mountain in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, comprising the most rugged and broken country imaginable.

Amid this wonderful scenery Mount Robson rises in titanic outline the tip in effect. For sale by all dealers. highest peak in the Rockies, probably between 14,500 and 15,000 feet, and surrounding it for a distance of fifty miles in all directions lies the field of survey.

In this wild and unclaimed country the party of naturalists remained nearly four months, protected by special permits from the Canadian Government. The natural history work was divided up, Mr. Hollister and Mr. Riley collecting the birds and small animals, while the other two collectors hunted big game.

The collection includes some 900 specimens of birds and mammals, the latter ranging in size from mole-like creatures called "H. H. Rews," to full grown caribous and bears. One enormous grizzly bear was obtained by a fortunate shot. Much fine material for exhibition groups was secured, including a series of caribous, mountain goats, mountain sheep, beavers, and many varieties of small animals.

Besides birds and mammals, a large number of plants and insects were collected. All the specimens have been turned over to the National Museum, where they will be put on exhibition.—Montreal Star, Nov. 1, 1911.

If you have young children you have perhaps noticed that disorders of the stomach are their most common ailment. To correct this you will find Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets excellent. They are easy and pleasant to take, and mild and gentle in effect. For sale by all dealers.

MEN ARE FEW WOMEN PLENTY

Chinese Law is Against Plurality of Wives But John Arranges for the Superfluous Female Population in Another Fashion.

As there always is a steady exodus of men from Canton, the population numbers more women than men. The law does not sanction, but on the contrary actually forbids plurality of wives. A Chinaman may have but one wife; there is no limit to the number of concubines he may have.

Among the higher classes betrothal is usually contracted a few years before the marriage takes place. The young people have no voice in the selection of a life partner, betrothal and marriage being arranged by the nearest eldest male relative. After a formal betrothal is entered into the young man's family send a quantity of cakes to the girl's family, together with an agreement of engagement and valuable presents to the fiancee herself. The girl's family in turn, sends gifts of confectionery and a formal acknowledgement of the engagement.

The bride is brought to the bridegroom's house in a decorated [illegible], with considerable pomp. She is received by the bridegroom in the main hall of the house and together they worship heaven—i.e., they kneel facing the street and the [illegible] and prostrate themselves before the house. The bride now, probably for the first time, sees her husband's face.

Among the poorer mental classes marriage is generally a matter of convenience. There is little or no formal ceremony and the union is a kind of partnership whereby it is understood that they will look after each other in case of sickness, and they hope, of course, that children will come to insure support in their old age. Naturally there cannot be much love in such marriages. The wife generally lives with her husband's parents, where she is the slave of her mother-in-law; the husband sleeps and lives where he works, returning home one or two nights a month.

TEACHING THE DOG

The training of animals, to teach them to perform all sorts of entertaining tricks, is a task that requires talent on the part of the trainer, but, above all, demands patience and a thoroughly methodical procedure. Begin with the dog, and see how he is taught his tricks.

The first thing every dog must learn is his name. Select a short, sharp-sounding name, and stick to it. Never call him anything else. If you have several dogs, the same is taught on the same principle. Divide their food, and then, placing a piece on the ground call each in turn by his name, and give him the food when he comes for it. Send the others back if they come forward out of their turn. By and by they will learn that a certain name is always associated with a certain dog. Ramble among the dogs, and call out one of their names every now and then. If the right dog comes to you, reward him with a piece of cracker. Pay no attention to the other dogs. They will learn very soon; and the first great lesson — dependence and obedience — will have been learned.

Having taught a dog to fetch and carry — which he will easily learn — the next thing is to teach him to go and get any object called for. Place a glove on the floor; then say to the dog, "Fetch the glove," putting the accent on the last word. Then, when he has done this several times, place a shoe on the floor; and teach him to fetch this in a similar manner. Now place both objects on the ground, and teach him to fetch either one, as asked for — rewarding him when he brings you the right one, and rebuking him when he fetches the wrong, which you take from him and replace. He will soon learn to distinguish the articles, when a third may be substituted, and so on until a number are on the floor. You should then go into the next room, taking the dog with you; and send him to fetch any article you mention. After a little time he will bring you the right one every time.

Similar methods can be adopted with regard to other articles and the letters of the alphabet.

The Retort Courteous.

Workers are, doubtless, they who shall inherit the earth. But certain indolent natures, gifted with wit, can afford to take occasional chances as residuary legatees. A writer in 'Vanity Fair' tells of one such fellow, a student in a noted philosopher's class.

The student, who was a lanky youth sat in the rear seat. His attitude was sprawling, and he was either asleep or seemed about to go to sleep.

"Mr. Fraser," said the philosopher sharply, "you may recite!"

Fraser opened his eyes. He did not change his somnolent pose.

"Mr. Fraser, what is work?"

"Everything is work."

"What! Everything is work?"

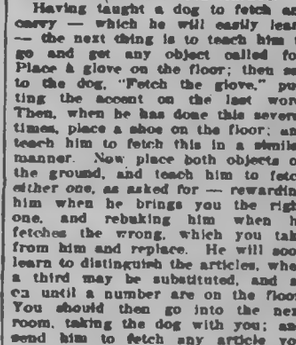
"Yes, sir."

"Then I take it you would like the class to believe that this desk is work?"

"Yes, sir," wearily. "woodwork."

Calling Out the Tobacco.

The heads of the provincial Civil Service throughout British Columbia, have issued a circular to their various offices prohibiting smoking during office hours. The Canadian Pacific Railway long ago tabood the use of tobacco by their employees during working hours and its example has been generally followed by other large corporations.



A Des Moines man had an attack of muscular rheumatism in his shoulder. A friend advised him to go to Hot Springs. That meant an expense of $150.00 or more. He sought for a quicker and cheaper way to cure it and found it in Chamberlain's Liniment. Three days after the first application of this liniment he was well. For sale by all dealers.

PERFECTLY SAFE.

China has apparently progressed to the point where the consequences of revolt are not very serious for anyone revolting. Mr. Wu has revolted and when Mr. Wu lets any other consideration join with his great business of living 200 years, one may be very sure that it is not anything likely to defeat that ambition. Mr. Wu has said that he will do this, he has already a fine start of some 70 years, and he has not tasted meat in goodness knows when. It would be a great mistake to suppose that he would risk what he has already accomplished upon the outcome of some Chinese political upheaval that by some inadvertence might cost him his head. Mr. Wu is not that kind of man. In the course of his distinguished diplomatic career he has probably turned his plate down in the presence of more canvasback duck porterhouse steak and prime roast beef than any other person of his time, and it would not be like him to waste all that self-denial.

The greatest of all the vegetarians, Mr. Wu has much more at stake than the freedom of some one country, even his own. The freedom of all men from the preferment of fried chicken to puffed rice is the transcendental objective of Mr. Wu.

FROM EGYPT THIS COMES

Heralding the Redeemers Birth, the Rose of Jericho is said to have Blossomed First on Christmas Eve.

One of the most extraordinary plants in the world is undoubtedly that known to botanists as anastatica, commonly called the "Resurrection Plant," or occasionally the "Rose of Jericho." It is an annual inhabiting the Egyptian desert. It is so highly hygrometric that when fully developed it contracts its rigid branches so as to constitute a ball. Exposed then to the action of the wind, it is blown hither and thither toward the sea, when it is gathered and exported to Europe. If, then, when apparently dead and dried up, its root is plunged into water, the buds swell with new life, the leaves of its calyx open, the petals unfold, the flower-stalk grows, and the full-blown flowers appear as if by magic.

When removed from the water the plant returns to its original apparently dead condition, until again placed in water — hence its title of the "Resurrection Plant."

There are many superstitious tales concerning this so-called rose afloat in the East. It is said to have first bloomed on Christmas Eve, and continued to flower till Easter, at its birth heralding the advent of the Redeemer, and immediately before His departure honouring His resurrection.

NEW ZEALAND'S OLD CHEESE

When Winter's Icy Grip is Holding the Canucks Tight, Brother of New Zealand is Handing Us the Cheese.

The astounding development that has taken place in the New Zealand cheese industry during the last few years is but as the early dawn of the wonderful day that is opening before the New Zealand dairy farmer.

During the latter half of the past decade the Dominion of Canada has been steadily reducing her cheese shipments to Britain, while the Dominion of New Zealand has been equally and steadily increasing hers. Since 1905 the supplies from across the Atlantic have fallen off by 16,000 tons, those from the Southern Pacific have grown by 16,800 tons.

The quality of New Zealand cheese has continuously improved, and those who have not kept in close touch with it will be surprised at the advance made in the last five years. A considerable quantity of it already equals for make and flavour, the best of the Canadian production.

While Canada is bound in the icy grip of winter New Zealand pastures are full of browsing cows in the flush of summer, and so the two dominions can together fill up Britain's yearly supply without any interregnum.

Protected and Royal

The grey and gaunt form of the lonely heron is not unfamiliar by Scottish water-sides, but, although one of the tallest birds, standing about 36 inches in height, it is far from conspicuous or readily seen, so long as it remains motionless. In repose, the bird, with its delicate ash-grey and white plumage, harmonizes so completely in tone with its environment that it becomes one with its natural surroundings. Even on a flat beach or shore, it may pass for a fragment of rock or wooden stake, or some other long-shore object, until it moves.

A patient fisher is the heron, but when its prey comes within reach the long neck curves and the rapier-like bill is shot out quickly and unerringly.

The Dawick-Heronry is a good instance of the attachment of the species to one locality, as nests are to be found there at the present day; and, so far back as 1497, "Quyk (living) herouris" were being supplied from "Dawikis" to the King, as is stated in the "Accounts of the Lord High Treasurer."

In these early days the heron was a protected and royal bird, being in demand for the noble-sport of hawking, and also for the more utilitarian purpose of the table. An Act of the Scots Parliament of the year 1423 ordains the King's thanks to be given to those who presents herons for his pleasure, and in 1535 herons are forbidden to be shot under the pains contained in the Acts of Parliament.

Roumanian Grain-Growers

Despite its comparatively small area, Roumania can claim to be one of the principal grain-exporting countries of Europe. Three-fourths of the population are dependent on agriculture. The great plains of the Lower Danube, covered with black soil, are admirably adapted for the growth of cereal crops such as maize, wheat, and barley. It is subject to extremes of heat and cold and to drought, which cause heavy fluctuations in the total yield. The methods of the Roumanian peasant farmers were until comparatively recent times extremely primitive, the plough being shaped more like a lance, which simply scratched the soil. Latterly, however, more modern ideas have prevailed, and up-to-date machinery has been adopted both for cultivation and harvesting, and also for the numerous flour mills which have sprung up all over the country, and particularly near the great grainshipping ports of Sulina and Galatz.

HOW $100 GREW TO $31620

The value and importance of any enterprise must be based on the profits and dividends it can earn. In this respect the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, is without a parallel in the line of investments.

It combines the attractive factors which are needed to make the perfect investment—viz., safety, large earning capacity and low cost of the stock at the start. It is not at all uncommon for oil stocks to begin at a few cents a share and jump to hundreds of dollars a share—sometimes thousands.

	Started at	Has Sold at
Central	10 cents	$2.10
Monte Cristo	10 cents	$4.00
Lucile	10 cents	$16.00
Silver Tip	25 cents	$4.00
San Francisco and McKittrick	40 cents	$28.00
Kern River	50 cents	$8.75
Peerless	50 cents	$8.75
Puente	$10.00	$150.00
Home	$10.00	$5000.00

This list, taken from San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchange records, could be added to almost indefinitely.

Fortunes have been made from stock increases. stock is $200, YOUR YEARLY PROFIT ON AN INVESTMENT OF $300.

When we have ten wells sunk you can reasonably figure on AN ANNUAL PROFIT ON YOUR HOLDINGS OF $2000.

$2000 A YEAR. DOESN'T THIS APPEAL

Many a case could be cited similar to that of Richard Ellis, clerk in a store in Los Angeles, whose investment of $100 became worth $31,620 in a short time. There are hundreds of such cases in Los Angeles alone.

$2000.00 Profit a Year

Do you realize that stock in the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, at the present price of 30 cents a share is not merely the opportunity of the year—IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

If you have $10, $50, $100 or $500 YOU SIMPLY CAN NOT AFFORD TO PASS IT UP.

If we develop only a 1000 barrel well of 26 gravity oil, this production alone will be sufficient to enable the corporation to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. and at the same time have sufficient capital to continue the drilling of wells.

1000 shares of stock at the present price of 30c costs only $300.

20 per cent. dividend on the par value of the TO YOU? Wouldn't you like to be coming up to this office every three months and getting your dividend cheque for $500?

Remember, too, that your stock holdings in Midway Maple Leaf, if you should want to sell them should be worth $18,000 or sixty times the amount of your original investment.

Consider These Facts

The Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company is working in proven gusher territory, the richest oil zone in the world, controlling 40 acres on one-eighth royalty, with the great advantage of the option to purchase at only $1250 per acre after oil is struck, and the ground must then be worth at least $5000 per acre. This means a clean profit of $150,000 over purchase price. It has been demonstrated completely by gushers on adjoining Standard and Honolulu ground, that this portion of the Midway field is not only the richest portion of the whole district, but that it produces the highest grade of oil found in the entire vicinity, and worth 50 per cent. more per barrel at the well.

$30 cash, or $6 down and $6 a month for four months, buys 100 shares.

$60 cash, or $12 down and $12 a month for four months, buys 200 shares.

$120 cash, or $24 down and $24 a month for four months, buys 400 shares.

$480 cash, or $96 down and $96 a month for four months, buys 1600 shares.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY IN VANCOUVER REALTY

Investors seeking an opportunity to secure large returns for their money will find an exceptional chance offered by Keith Park Land Co., Limited, of Vancouver, B. C. This company has placed on the market for immediate sale the choicest piece of property on the North Shore.

This tract known as Keith Park, D. L. 676, lies at the junction of the Pipe line Road, (owned by the city of Vancouver) and the Keith Road and is the Junction point for North side traffic.

The Second Narrows Bridge, which is to connect Vancouver and North Vancouver will be constructed so that Keith Park will be in the line of its northern end.

It is confidentially expected that a new town will be created at this point. Dominion, Provincial and Municipal subsidies to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars have already been secured for the bridge project and plans are now being drawn for the bridge. It is expected that actual workwill be started within the next ninety days.

Keith Park presents the best chance to buy ahead of the important municipal and government projects that are planned for the North Side. It will stand the most critical investigation.

Full information and maps supplied upon request. Lots range in price from $200 upwards. Terms one-quarter cash, balance in six equal quarterly payments.

SWEEPING OUT THE STOKERS

Introduction of New Type Lake Steamers Will Dispense With Stokers and Otherwise Reduce Cost of Freight Transport.

The "Toiler", latest addition to the Canadian Lake fleet, and first of a type which promises to revolutionize the carrying fleet is propelled entirely by internal combustion engines, in much the same manner as a motor car. Above its deck appears neither funnel nor mast. Its fuel is oil and while the absence of funnels, masts and stays gives greater deck room and convenience, the use of oil entirely as a propelling force gives far greater storage capacity inside the vessel, as oil fuel takes up only a small fraction of the room that the coal bunkers occupy. Moreover, oil combustion engined occupy less than one-quarter of the space occupied by the other type of engine.

The new type marks a further effort to reduce the cost of lake transportation. The greater freight carrying possibility of this boat over a similar sized coal burning engined boat helps to this end. Moreover, the oil engines, requiring but half, or even less, of an engine crew, materially cuts down the wage account. At one sweep, all stokers are dispensed with.

Enormous capital is invested in great lake carriage, and any expense reducing device will be rapidly seized upon and developed. The lake capitalists in the past have spent great sums to this end. A few years ago the whaleback type promised to revolutionize lake traffic and many of these boats were built and still plough the lakes. Node, however, have been built in recent years. Nevertheless, the history of recent lake lake navigation shows that the men in charge of the work are not conservatively minded, and any new and promising departure will receive thorough investigation.

A Very Commendable Science!

When Christian Science began to find firm footing in Winchester the little son of a prominent woman, who had embraced the faith and was urging others to take it up was out of school a day or two because of sickness. When the youngster returned, his teacher, who was well along in years and possessed an inquiring mind, engaged the youngster in conversation.

"Been sick, Joe?"

"Yes'm."

"Sick enough to be in bed?"

"Yes'm."

"What did your mother do for you, Joe, while you ached in bed?" asked the teacher, now all expectancy for the reply.

"She mended my trousers," lisped Joe.

Maud—"Why don't you prefer Harry to Will? Harry is capable of big deeds."

Gladys—"Yes, but Will owns some."

The Moose and the Lilly Pad.

The moose's love for the lily pad that floats on the surface of the northern lakes make him appear reckless and unafraid. In summer, even in September, the fishermen often cut him off from the shore, drive him into deep water and have fun with him. Sometimes, when the moose reaches shoal water and gets his hind feet on the bottom, he has fun with the fisherman, smashes his canoe and makes him swim for his life.

However, after the shooting season opens the moose becomes more cautious.

There are thousands of moose around Lake Temagami. At North Bay you change from the Grand Trunk to the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario and get off at Temagami Station.

THE COMFORT OF INDEPENDENCE ASSURED THE B. C. FRUIT GROWER

In British Columbia Fruit Growing is synonymous with Success. The fame of the five-acre fruit farms of the Fraser Valley is spreading to every corner of this continent. Already "Fruit" suggests the Pacific Coast, soon it will direct the thoughts instinctively to British Columbia, particularly to the lower Fraser River Valley.

FLESHERTON GARDENS, which I am now selling, is the cream of this Valley land. The soil is a rich deep chocolate, humous and friable, free from weeds, stones or stumps. Good roads lead to the property and two railways are ready to carry the fruit to market. The Chilliwack line of the B. C. Electric Railway CUTS THROUGH FLESHERTON GARDENS, and the Victoria, Vancouver and Eastern is only a few yards away. Over a dozen trains pass the property every day, and the traffic will increase in the immediate future.

BIG PROFITS IN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES.

Do you know that you can make immense profits in fruits, tubers and vegetables on the Coast? To-day last year's potatoes are selling at $70 a ton in Seattle, only a few miles from here. In Westminster and Vancouver the price is from $60 to $65 a ton. Cherries fetch 50c a pound and strawberries 25c a box. All other fruits are high in proportion. Remember these are NOT FANCY PRICES, but to-day's quotations. There is no difficulty in selling the fruit, for people here have the money and don't mind the price.

IT'S EASY TO SECURE THE LAND

I have placed FLESHERTON GARDENS on the market on very easy terms, $200 cash and the balance spread over several years. You can have your pick of these five acre farms at from $150 to $350 per acre. You cannot find a better investment anywhere; no matter how rosy other prospects may be, this one leads them all.

Sign this blank, and mail it to me NOW. I can tell you a great deal more about FLESHERTON GARDANS in a personal letter. It's to your advantage to get all the information you can.

Wolves Said to Be Plentiful.

Wolves in great numbers are reported from the Northern portion of the county, and the fear is expressed by many, that the deer will have their ranks badly depleted during the coming winter. Their tracks are everywhere apparent and in many places can be seen the bones of a deer where it had fallen a prey to the ravenous creatures.

Kicked by a Horse.

Dr. Johnston, while professionally attending one of the Dominion Express Company's horses in the livery barns of James Akey, was kicked by the ailing animal and hurled a distance of several feet. As a result of the kick, the Vet. was rendered unconscious for a short time, but fortunately escaped serious injury.

Deer Coming In.

Saturday morning, Mr. Thomas Brightman received six deer, each of which averaged 120 pounds. The Canadian Express Co. report that they are delivering much venison, but we regret to say that not a single deer or portion of deer has yet reached the office of the g.f.j.

Don't Like $4 Bills.

The cashier in a local store on Saturday was $3 short in her cash, when it was made up at the close of the day's business. The only way the shortage could be accounted for was by handing out a $4 bill for a $1. They look so much alike that this might easily happen. The $4 bills should be called in for this very reason.

The New Billiard Parlours.

The new billiard and pool parlours at 495 George street, formally opened Friday night, to the accompaniment of first class music furnished by the Halpany Orchestra, are destined to become a popular place of resort. The furnishings for both games and comfort are all that can be desired, whilst the arrangements for light and ventilation reflect great credit upon the management. The seven pool tables and splendid English billiard table have been extensively patronized since the opening night.

FIRE AT C.G.E. SUB-STATION.

A small blaze occurred at the Canadian General Electric Company's Sub-Station Saturday between 12 and one, when through wires getting crossed and a short circuit formed, the insulation became ignited. The blaze was readily extinguished by the company's own men by the application of sand which is always used in such cases. The sub-station is a building on the company's grounds, from which the current generated at their power house at Nassau is switched into the different buildings.

Game Law Needs Amending.

The Bancroft Times says: There is something radically wrong with our game laws. If a settler shoots a partridge on October 14th it is $5 and costs for him, but you can go into the woods the next day and kill 200birds and you are complimented on your good luck. And apparently from what is taking place right under our noses, you cannot only shoot all the birds you can find, but you can hire others to shoot them for you, buy them, get them any old way, and ship them out by the case, and nothing is said. If the game is being preserved for the "gentleman" hunter, we can hardly blame the other fellow for killing all he can whenever he can.

A Nasty Little Fire.

At 12.10 yesterday afternoon, the Fire Brigade received a call from box 43, and on responding in their customary prompt manner found their attention was needed at 701 Bethune street, the home of Mr. Martin. It was an exceedingly nasty day for a fire, the high wind being favorable to an uncontrollable blaze. The flames had effected an entrance between the first floor and rafters of the house, and it was with the greatest difficulty that they were eventually overcome after the application of all the chemicals at hand. The brigade worked like trojans until 1.30 and to their credit, under most difficult conditions brought Mr Martin off with but $25 worth of damages as a result of the fire fiend's visit. The blaze augmented through a defective chimney.

Mrs. J. C. Davidson	5.00
Total to date	$10,045.00

Wife Desertion.

Fortunately there are not many cases of wife desertion in Peterborough, the odd case that does occur, does not usually get into the papers. In several other places, so many cases are being reported that an appeal will be made to the Federal Government to make the law one on which offenders could be extradited. In Ottawa the charity officer says that the men go to the United States, from whence, under the present law, they cannot be brought back. The Ottawa Children's Aid Society will take the matter up with the government in order to have the law amended, as above proposed.

A lecture will be given next Wednesday night in St. Paul's church by the Rev. M. Dickey, B.A., Pioneer Missionary to the Klondyke. The title of the lecture is: "Pioneer Days with the Gold Seekers of the Klondyke." It will be illustrated by 70 Stereoptican Pictures made from photographs taken on the spot, and will deal with the humor and pathos romance and tragedy of camp and trail.

BUSY DAY AT THE POLICE COURT

$113.20 Raked In Saturday Morning —Liquor Responsible for the Whole of This Amount.

The following cases were disposed of by Police Magistrate Dumble on Saturday morning:

Chas. Clarke pleaded guilty to being drunk while on the blacklist, and was fined $20 and costs—$26.60 in all.

Albert Crouter was fined $25 and $2.60 costs for supplying Clarke with liquor, knowing him to be on the blacklist.

Henry Campbell, of parts unknown suffered a fine of $5.75 for using bad language on the streets whilst under the influence of liquor.

Ben. Douglas paid $5.75 for a drunken spree.

Robert Sculley, a minor, pleaded not guilty to the charge of being drunk and disorderly. P. C. Meharry however, deposed that he arrested the accused at the C.P.R. station, where he was found in company with two other promising young citizens, all of whom were under the influence of liquor. Sculley was fined $5.75.

Thomas O'Clair also paid into the treasury $5.75 for being drunk and disorderly.

A local young man pleaded not guilty to a charge of having supplied Robert Sculley, a minor, with liquor. Evidence was then taken as follows:

Sculley was first put in the box. He said he was 18, but denied being drunk Friday. He admitted drinking some liquor, however. He denied telling Meharry that the young man charged with the offence had given him the liquor.

P. C. Meharry was put in the box and stated two local blacklisters and Sculley was drunk on Aylmer street, near the C.P.R. on Friday evening, and he went down and arrested the three of them. He stated that Sculley had told him that he got the liquor from one of the men. P. C. Kidd was put in the box, and stated that beheard the witness tell Meharry that he got two drinks from one of the young men. The magistrate concluded that he could not convict on the evidence to hand, as the witness was drunk when he made the statement in question. This charge was accordingly withdrawn, but the accused was convicted on P. C. Meharry's evidence of being drunk whilst on the blacklist, and given 10 days in which to pay a fine of $20. A brother of the latter was also fined $20 for being drunk whilst on the blacklist and allowed 10 days in which to raise the cash.

BELLY UPWARDS AFTER DEATH!

Just Because a Fish Turns Its Back Down is no Real Reason It Is Out of the Swimming Competition.

A fish keeps its balance very much as a bicycle-rider keeps his. In both cases, if the fish or the rider ceases to exert himself, over he goes. This appears clearly from experiments made in France, which show that the turning of a fish with its belly upward after death is not because of the departure of life, with its attendant chemical changes; for the same thing happens when the fish is momentarily stunned, as by electric shock. When he recovers, he flicks his tail and is right-side up in a jiffy, just as the dismounted cyclist, when he comes to his senses, mounts at once and is off again.

Says a writer in 'L'Illustration,' of Paris:—"Messrs. Alliaud and Vies have experimented in the Roscoff laboratory to ascertain whether the normal position of a fish in the water is the result of static dynamic equilibrium: that is to say, whether the fish behaves like a well-ballasted ship or whether it is in a situation somewhat comparable to that of man on a bicycle, keeping himself in an unstable position by means of continued muscular exertion.

"It is well known that dead fish float belly upward; but this fact would be a sufficient argument in favor of the second hypothesis only in case the observation were made on a fish immediately after sudden death. New elements, such as the formation of intestinal gases, might intervene at the end of a longer or shorter time after death and completely alter the conditions of equilibrium.

"To study the phenomenon, the authors gave electric shocks to fish in the water by means of a current of such strength that there was immediate paralysis, without causing death, and that on breaking the circuit the fish could return more or less quickly to its normal state."

WIND BLOWN GEMS.

The diamond deposits discovered in Damaraland, German South-West Africa, three years ago, lie among great sand dunes hundreds of feet in height which pass in continual motion across the granite plateau that follows the line of the coast from the Orange River to Walfisch Bay.

These deposits are a puzzle to geologists, since their place of origin is a mystery, though there seems to be little doubt that they are carried with the sand by the heavy winds that blow from the south west for nine hours out of the twenty-four. The diamonds, which are found mixed with garnets, agates, and other semi-precious stones, vary in size from one-fifth to three-quarters of a carat. They are almost perfect octahedrons, and, though small, are of the purest water. An extraordinary feature of this discovery is that the diamonds resemble the Brazilian rather than the African stone, although the Orange River, which marks the southern boundary of German South-West Africa, has its source among the volcanic cones or "diamond pipes" of the richest diamond mines in the world in and about Kimberley.

The discovery of diamonds in Damaraland, so far as the white man is concerned, was first made about 20 miles south of Luderitsbucht, the principal part of German South-West Africa, whence the Government is building a railway across to Keetmanshoop to connect with the proposed road in British Bechuanaland that will tap the markets of Kimberley and Johannesburg. Here a native, who had worked in the diamond mines of Kimberley, and had been impressed into service by the railway builders, on his return home picked up two or three crystals from the sand and took them to a station-master with the information that they were diamonds. The station-master ridiculed the idea, but eventually sent the stones to Cape Town, where experts pronounced them to be gems of the purest water.

An Expensive Experiment

It has been estimated that an Irish Cabinet, if it were set up, would have at once to provide for an expenditure of $76,000,000 with a revenue of $50,000,000. The total of expenditure includes a contribution of $15,000,000 to British naval and military expenditure, but nothing on account of the National Debt. If Ireland were relieved of all debt charges and all charges for defence, she would still have a deficit of over five millions. Savings might be effected in the cost of administration, but these would be counterbalanced by increased expenditure on education, agriculture, and so forth. To meet the deficit the Irish taxpayer would have his burdens increased by 15 per cent. or the Imperial Treasury would be called upon for a grant.

Cat's Remarkable Journey

A cat has travelled recently from Kingston, Surrey, England, to its former home at Glastonbury, in Somersetshire, a distance of 133 miles. In April last the animal, described as half-Persian in breed, was sent from Glastonbury to the matron of the Kingston Nursing Home. It was sent in a packing case, drilled with air-holes, and obviously the animal had no opportunity of marking the points of its journey. Soon after its arrival at Kingston the cat was lost, and no trace of it could be found. The matron of the nursing home has now received a letter from Glastonbury stating that it has found its way back to its old home. It arrived emaciated and footsore, and apparently had walked the whole of the 133 miles.

DOCTORS FAILED. RESTORED BY PERUNA

Catarrh of the Lungs Threatened Her Life.

Miss Ninette Porter, Braintree, Vermont, writes: "I have been cured by Peruna.

"I had several hemorrhages of the lungs. The doctors did not help me much and would never have cured me.

"I saw a testimonial in a Peruna almanac of a case similar to mine, and I commenced using it.

"I was not able to walk on myself when I began using it. I gained very slowly at first, but I could see that it was helping me.

"After I had taken it a while I commenced to raise up a stringy, stinky substance from my lungs. This grew less and less in quantity as I continued the treatment.

"I grew more fleshy than I had been for a long time, and now I call myself well."

MIETTO HOT SPRINGS.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Station formerly known as Fiddle Creek, mile 997.8 West of Winnipeg, has been changed to Mietto Hot Springs. It will be in this locality that the first of the Grand Trunk Pacific Mountain Hotels will be erected, and is within seven or eight miles of the Mietto Hot Springs that are situated just beyond the famous Roche Mietto Mountain which looms up to the West of this station.

The whole of the territory in the vicinity of the Mietto Hot Springs Station will, without doubt, become one of the greatest meccas in America for the ever increasing tourist traffic, with the mountains as an objective point, as everything that goes to make up an attractive mountain resort is found in this locality.

The Mietto Hot Springs will become famous the world over, as the efficacy of the waters of these springs for medicinal purposes has been proved, and for bathing purposes are without comparison.

There are four springs with temperature as follows:—

111, 116, 122, 127 degrees.

A CL SOLICITED

Bridge Over Emily Creek.

The Lindsay Post says: Mr. Jos. Brisbin of Burnt River, who was the overseer on the new bridge being built over Emily Creek, states that the bridge was finished yesterday and all that remained was to complete approaches. The bridge is 294 feet long and is situated on the 14th concession of Emily. Its construction saves a drive of nine miles in reaching Dunsford, Lindsay and other western points. There are about 262 rods of approaches with about $1,600 spent on the work. Mr. W. J. Patrick of Dunsford was time-keeper on the job.

Opening of New Line.

The statement has been made that the regular passenger trains will commence running between Victoria Harbour and Peterborough on December 1st. This will give a straight connection between the Georgian Bay and Montreal. The distance between Orillia and Peterborough over this line is 63 miles. There will probably be a couple of passenger trains daily each way, although the new line will be used mainly as a grain route.

MR. COURTNEY'S ENQUIRY.

Mr. Courtney wanted it made clear if the snow plough would be run along Concession street in front of Nos. 537, 533 and 531. It was understood that this matter would receive the same attention this year as last, which was satisfactory.

WANTS A LEAN-TO.

Mr. Pulkinhorne, the liveryman on Hunter street, south side between George and Aylmer, asked permission to erect a temporary wooden lean-to his premises under which to keep a few rigs. The Board promised to look into this request, which would be a violation of the fire by-law were it granted. However, it is but a small matter and the committee feel like stretching a point, and granting the permit.

How to Remove A Bad Complexion

(From London Fashions)

Cosmetics can never really help a poor complexion; often they are positively harmful. The sensible, rational way is to actually remove the thin veil of stifling, half-dead scarf skin from the face and give the fresh vigorous and beautiful young skin underneath a chance to show itself and to breathe.

This is best done in a very simple way, by merely applying mercolized wax at night, like cold cream, and washing it off in the morning. Good mercolized wax can be obtained from any well stocked druggist. It absorbs the disfiguring cuticle gradually and harmlessly, leaving a brilliant, natural complexion. Of course, this also takes with it all such facial blemishes as red blotches, tan, moth patches, sallowness, liver spots, pimples, etc. As a freckle remover and general complexion beautifier this old-fashioned remedy is unequalled.

Cost of Snow Ploughing Increases

With the increased cost of living and all other commodities, contractors are asking and getting more this season for snow ploughing than heretofore. Six contracts were awarded last night, and each tender received was higher than last year. For keeping six districts clear of the snow and slush the coming season the city will pay $847, with the cost for No. 6 District yet to be taken into consideration, apart from that of the corporation's own men in Central City. The contracts awarded last night aggregate about $120 more than those let last year.

BRITISH SYSTEM MAY BE USED

Canada May Follow British Method in Taking Census

Why the Enumerations in Canada Was a Botch Work—Many Reasons Contributed to the Present Census Muddle.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 13. — Complaints in regard to the way the census was taken continue to pour into Ottawa. The Western cities are not alone in their protests. Practically every eastern city, if it has not filed officially a protest, is making vigorous objection through the press as to the outcome of the enumeration. There have been many requests that the census be taken over again. This is out of the question, the cost is too great, but there may be an investigation into the way the census was taken. There seem to be two main reasons for the botch work of the job. One was the entrance of politics. The appointment of the enumerators in

MINISTERS ARE HARD AT WORK

Dominion Cabinet Working to Get Things in Order

Just Now They Are the Busiest Men in all Canada—Preparing for the Opening of Parliament.

(Special to The Times)

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—The busiest men in Canada this week are the cabinet ministers who are laboring day and night preparing for the session.

They are living up to the reputation they were given when appointed of being a cabinet of business men. Most of them are down at work at 8 o'clock and official Ottawa is shocked at ministers who labor until six o'clock and generally return at night. Everything promises to be in good shape when the house opens and the legislative programme is expected to run smoothly.

The nomination by acclamation of Hon. Frank Cochrane, in Nipissing, completes the cabinet roster. There is not now for the first time an empty seat in the house.

Hon Richard McBride completed his conferences with Premier Borden, and has returned home.

He interviewed Hon. J. D. Hazen in regard to better protection for the deep sea fisheries on the coast against American poachers. The two governments will endeavor to work quite in harmony than in the past in developing the fishing industry.

Mr. Bowser also interviewed Hon Robert Rogers in regard to the dispute over the railway bill and the question of control of water sites.

BONAR LAW CALLS IT TRAGEDY OF POLITICAL LIFE.

London, Nov. 13.—In moving the selection of Bonar Law as Unionist leader to-day, Rt. Hon. Walter Long said he and Austen Chamberlain both recognized that the only solution of the difficulty was to find a third man.

Mr. Law in replying dealt on the tragedy of political life that so great a man as Joseph Chamberlain had never had made to him the offer which he, Mr. Law, had just received.

Subscriptions which are already pouring into the coffers of the Tariff Reform League, indicate the impetus which will be given to the tariff reform movement by the new leadership. The announcement of the selection of Mr. Law was followed immediately by a telegram from the head of a well known whiskey distillers at Glasgow, in which a gift of $50,000 toward a protectionist campaign was made.

J. Buchanan has promised £2,000

FOREIGNERS LEAVE NANKING

Nanking, Nov. 13.—The Consuls and foreigners under their protection will move out of the city immediately. The commanders of the foreign warships to-day notified their Consuls that they could not protect the lives and properties of those who remained inside the city.

C. P. R. WILL OPERATE ALFRED PEAT PLANT

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has opened negotiations with the mines branch of the Government to purchase its entire peat plant at Alfred, Ontario. The company desires to continue the industry on commercial lines and supply the City of Montreal in particular with peat fuel. It regards the success of the Government experiments as incontrovertible proof that the peat production in Canada has now become a commercial enterprise of much importance.

FIRE AT BELLEVILLE DOES DAMAGE OF ABOUT $20,000

Belleville, Nov. 13.—This city was visited at a late hour last night by a fire which proved to be the most disastrous which has occurred here for some time. A storey-and-a-half block on Front street, in which were situated John Reno's restaurant, C. B. Chesler's clothing store, and C. B. Smith's pool and bowling alley, was gutted, and the contents of the three concerns destroyed.

The "Intelligencer" office adjoining had a narrow escape from destruction. The loss sustained will probably reach $20,000. The building belonged to the Cronk estate, and was insured for $6,000, which will not cover the loss. Reno had an insurance of $3,000; Chesler $2,500; and Smith $4,000.

FIFTY PEOPLE ARE DOOMED

STEAMER BEING SWEPT IN FACE OF FIERCE GALE TOWARD THE ROCKS.

Terrific Sea Running—Steamer Washington Drifting South to Rocky Shore Near Cape Disappointment.

Astoria, Ore., Nov. 13.—The steamer Washington, which ran ashore on Pea Creek Spit yesterday afternoon, is being driven by a southeast gale toward the rocks between Cape Disappointment and North Head.

It is believed that many or all of the fifty persons on board are doomed A terrific sea is running.

APPARENTLY WATER-LOGGED.

Astoria, Ore., Nov. 13.—A report from the life saving station at North Head says the Washington is drifting toward North Head and was expected to go ashore soon. No smoke from her funnel could be seen and it was believed she is full of water.

Two of the crew of the steamer Washington were washed overboard and drowned. The life saving crews have not got a line on board the vessel.

Brockville Man Was Drowned in Canal.

Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 13.—The body of a man taken from the Erie Canal yesterday has been identified as that of Samuel Drever, 28 years old, of Brockville, Ont., a painter, who came here several weeks ago to work.

His death is supposed to have been accidental.

The Power Deputation.

The city's deputation will go to Ottawa on Thursday midnight, via the C.P.R., and will meet the Hon. Frank Cochrane, Friday, on the question of power. Two of the deputation, however, will leave Thursday noon in order to arrange with Hon. Adam Beck, Chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission, details for Friday's interview with the Minister of Railways and Canals.

Ald. Bradburn has taken the initiative in arranging for the trip, in the absence of his colleague on the Power Committee, Mayor Morrow, who, however, will be present at Ottawa with the deputation.

Ald. Bradburn is very much in earnest in this matter fully recognizing the importance to Peterborough of municipal owned power; and he has the hearty co-operation of all the aldermen in the opinion that the deputation should be made as representative as possible.

DEFENCE CAN'T GET DELAY IN HERBERT MARRIAGE SUIT

A WEEK IS ALL THE JUDGE WILL ALLOW BEFORE THE HEARING GOES ON.

Mrs. Hebert to Come—Plaintiff Will Herself Appear and Give Evidence —Importance of Case Admitted.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—Protesting vehemently against the postponement of the case, Mr. Geo. V. Cousins, chief counsel for Mrs. Hebert in the now famous Hebert-Clouatre marriage annulment case, this morning declared that the public importance of the case was such as to make an early hearing advisable.

The case was called for proof and hearing in the Superior Court before Mr. Justice Archer. Mr. Hebert's lawyers objected to going on with the hearing on the grounds that they had not been able to subpoena whom they wished to call.

Mrs. Hebert's lawyer objected to the application for delay, holding that the opposing counsel had had several weeks in which to subpoena their witnesses.

"We will bring Mrs. Hebert into court if the hearing is allowed to go on," said Mr. Cousins.

"As the counsel for Mr. Hebert have had several weeks in which to prepare their case and subpoena any witnesses which they may require, it appears to me that there is no just reason why the trial should be delayed. The public importance of this case makes it advisable that it be given an early hearing."

Mr. Cousins said that he understood that Mrs. Hebert's mother was at present in St. Albans, Vt., and could not be subpoenaed.

Judge Archer, who was presiding, agreed that the case was of much public importance that it should not be unduly delayed. He ruled that as the record in the case was still before Judge Charbonneau, on motion of the defendant to strike out a certain preliminary evidence, and as a week's delay would not seriously prejudice the case, he would fix the hearing for next Monday morning at ten o'clock. He ordered all witnesses to be present at that time.

PASSIVE RESISTANCE BY ULSTER

London, Nov. 13.—Ulster Unionists are forming a network of organizations for strenuous resistance to Home Rule. They have no idea of taking up arms, but are determined not to submit to a Dublin Parliament.

Thousands of them are already enrolled for the purpose of withholding taxes and defeating Home Rule by a campaign of passive resistance.

JESTER ROWELL—"Some Contents; New Bladder;

CITY ALDERMEN IN A COMPLAINING MOOD REGARDING STREET WORK

The final half hour at the city hall last night proved a period of complaints flung with but little intermission at the good natured chairman of the Board of Works. The work left undone that should have been done was a lively topic for a short time, and in some instances elicited strong criticism.

Ald. Bradburn expressed his annoyance that the new storm drain on George street ordered some time ago, had not yet been constructed. He objected to this work being done when the frost is deep in the ground, at three or four times what it would cost had the work been undertaken earlier.

The Engineer excused the delay on the ground of scarcity of men and no pipe being on hand.

A DANGEROUS SPOT.

Ald. Morgan kicked about the shameful condition of the crossings at the Quaker Oats premises. The road at this spot, he said, is in a shameful condition and perfectly dangerous to automobile travel. It has been this way all summer, and the wonder of it is that a serious accident had not occurred. He regretted that so busy a thoroughfare had not been attended to.

ANOTHER CATCHBASIN WANTED.

The East City representatives—Aldermen Morgan and Anderson—both wanted to know why the catch basin at the corner of Mark and Hunter streets had not been constructed as ordered last summer.

Engineer Hay admitted that he hardly knew what was exactly required at this spot.

Ald. Morgan offered that it was a shame that the energetic chairman of the Board of Works should be shouldered with blame that properly belonged to his paid officials. He heartily sympathized with Ald. Metheral in his difficult chairmanship.

STILL ANOTHER DRAIN.

Ald. Edgar here took a hand in "complaining" programme. He wanted a drain on Bethune street at Lowe's premises, where much water accumulates.

Ald. Metheral thought a load or two of gravel would have the desired effect, but Ald. Edgar could not see it that way, and insisted on a drain and catch basin being provided.

Ald. Morgan again took the floor, and pointed out that the horse trough on Hunter street, East City, was SUPPOSED to be connected with the sewer. The fact is, however, that the water from this trough had been draining into Mr. Clancy's property all summer, until he had been forced to complain to the Medical Health Officer. Ald. Morgan asked the Engineer if the trough in question had been connected with the sewer, as ordered, or not.

Engineer Hay did not seem to be sure on this point, but contended that Clancy's property had been inundated by water from the creek.

Ald. Morgan denied this.

The chairman offered that no complaint had been lodged with him.

Mr. Hay was instructed to look into the matter.

MORE TROUBLE.

Ald. Kerneghan complained that two loads of gravel had been left on Aylmer street, opposite ex-Ald. McIntyre's premises, and now the gravel is frozen solid.

Engineer Hay—"That gravel must belong to private individuals." He will see that it is removed.

ANYONE ELSE.

Chairman Metheral "Is there anyone else who has a complaint to-night ?"

Ald. Anderson replied that the sidewalk arrangement at Clifton street, East City, is so imperfect that people have to cross in the mud. The sidewalk should be removed to the north side, and properly constructed with acceptable connection with the other walk. Nothing definite was done in this matter although conditions reported will be investigated with a view to permanent improvement.

The chairman sat complacently through the half hour of complaints, all of which he heard with his characteristic good-naturedness. He promised that the matters brought to his attention should be looked into, but did not know "where the money is to come from" this year to remedy all of the grievances lodged by his colleagues.

EXTEND RAILWAY.

Moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Anderson,—That now that the Street Railway Company is putting in a "Y" on north water street, they be asked to extend their line to Langton street.—Carried.

$100 A YEAR FOR ENGINEER AT THE PUMPING STATION

At the City Board of Work's meeting last night, Mr. Wm. Frost applied for the position of engineer at the South City Pumping Station at $300 a year. This salary was considered out of the question, as Engineer Jamieson of the Fire Hall had originally asked $100 a year less than Frost's figures for the same work.

Chairman Metheral reported that since last meeting he had interviewed Jamieson, who had agreed to assume this duty in conjunction with his work at the fire hall for $100 ayear above his present salary, dating from Nov. 1st, providing he is allowed $25 for the work he has done at the pumping station up to the first of the current month.

The Board agreed to Jamieson's terms, and awarded him the appointment. They did not, however, allow him a telephone in his house which he thought would be convenient should an alarm from the station be sent in on his days off from the hall.

LAST CHANCE GONE FOR HENRY CLAY BEATTIE.

Young Wife Murderer Must Go To the Electric Chair In Eleven Days.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 13.—The Supreme Court of Appeals to-day denied the petition for a writ of error by Henry Clay Beattie, jr., convicted of murdering his young wife last July.

This decision on the appeal from the judgment of the Chesterfield court which sentenced him to die in the electric chair Nov. 24, is final. Clemency or reprieve by Governor Mann only can save the condemned man.

The court refused the petition without comment. The decision reads :

"The judgment of the circuit court of Chesterfield being plainly right, a writ of error is refused."

The approval of the lower court in such a firm fashion by the Supreme Court in the decision handed down by Judge Keith, argued against interference by the Governor, and it was the general belief here that Beattie would die in the chair one week from next Friday.

Cold on the Chest

Had Suffered for Weeks—Used Fourteen Different Remedies Without Effect.

CURED QUICKLY BY 'NERVILINE'

No stronger proof of the wonderful merit of Nerviline could be produced than the letter of Miss Lucy Mosher, who for years has been a well-known resident of Windsor, N. S.

"I want to add my unsolicited testimonial to the efficacy of your wonderful liniment. TESTIMONIAL NO. 3785 "Nerviline," I consider it the best remedy for a cold, sore throat, wheezing tightness in the chest, etc., and can state that for years our home has never been without Nerviline. I had a dreadful attack of cold, that settled on my chest, that fourteen different remedies couldn't break up. I rubbed on Nerviline three times a day, used Nerviline as a gargle, and was completely restored. I have induced dozens of my friends to use Nerviline, and they are all delighted with its wonderful power over pain and sickness.

"You are at liberty to publish this signed letter, which I hope will show the way to health to many that need to use Nerviline.

(Signed) "LUCY MOSHER."

All sorts of aches, pains and sufferings—internal and external—yields to Nerviline. Accept no substitute; All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont. Large size bottle 50c, or sample size 25c.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

was incorporated by Special Act of the Parliament of Canada for the purpose of carrying on the business of Fire Insurance, as outlined in the Insurance Act and the Special Act of Incorporation.

Capital Stock Authorized by the Board.....$2,000,000
Capital Stock Subscribed to date.....$1,650,000

The Head Office of the Company is in the city of Winnipeg, and, in addition to this, Branch Offices and Agencies will be established throughout the Dominion.

It must be generally conceded that, owing to the satisfactory conditions at present prevailing throughout not only Western Canada, but the entire Dominion, this Company is being organized at a most favorable and opportune time.

Canada, and particularly the Western portion of the Dominion, is advancing in population and wealth more rapidly than at any other time in its history, and every indication points towards a period of great prosperity and development.

The great influx of settlers into Western Canada is resulting in tremendous activity in every line of business. Railroad construction is proceeding on a scale hitherto unknown in this country, and as adequate transportation is of vital importance in moving our immense crops with a proper degree of facility, it is highly encouraging to see so much well-directed energy along the lines of railway extension.

Coincident with railway expansion, we find many new districts rapidly filling up with desirable settlers, bringing with them a good supply of cash and effects. With the settlement of the rural districts, new towns and villages are springing up, which will, during the next few years, become, in many instances, important business centres.

With such unprecedented growth in Western as well as Eastern Canada, involving an expenditure of millions of dollars in building operations, it is at once evident that there is a very extensive and profitable field for a new Fire Insurance Company which will have a thorough organization throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, and more particularly in the four Western Provinces.

As a great volume of our business will be transacted in the West, it is a matter of the greatest importance that the Head Office of the Company, as well as the Directors, should be located in the West, so that the affairs of the Company may be conducted to the best possible advantage.

DIRECTORS.

The Board of Directors consists entirely of Western men with a very intimate knowledge of Western conditions, and they are, accordingly, well conversant with the financial and general business requirements of the West. They are thoroughly representative of the various important branches of financial, commercial, industrial and professional life in Western Canada, and with their wide reputation for business ability and integrity, as well as financial standing, combined with a long and varied experience, and practical knowledge of business affairs, they are exceptionally well qualified to render excellent service to a large financial institution.

As the Directors have valuable connections with extensive business interests and are also Directors of other financial corporations, as well as being otherwise identified with large and influential companies which control a great deal of high-grade fire insurance, they will be instrumental in placing a large portion of this desirable insurance with the new Company, so that we may safely conclude that from the very beginning of operations a large and profitable business will be secured.

Under these favorable conditions, and with a strong, energetic, as well as experienced and conservative management, combined with the fact that each Director has subscribed for eleven thousand five hundred dollars ($11,500) of the Capital Stock, on which all calls have been paid, and takes an active interest in the welfare of the Company, there is only one conclusion to draw, and that is that the affairs of the Company will be conducted in such a careful, conscientious and intelligent manner that the interests of both policyholders and stockholders will be fully protected.

IT IS WORTHY OF NOTE THAT $1,650,000 OF CAPITAL STOCK HAS ALREADY BEEN SUBSCRIBED BY PROMINENT BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN THROUGHOUT THE DOMINION AND ELSEWHERE.

No commission has been paid to anyone for securing stock subscriptions, and no expense has been incurred in the promotion and organization of the Company, except the expense in connection with securing the Charter and other necessary expenses.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE.

The Canada National Fire, being organized in the West, MAY BE TRULY CALLED A WESTERN COMPANY, and, as such, should receive the liberal patronage and hearty co-operation of the citizens of Western Canada, as well as the support of people from Eastern Canada who desire to become associated with a strong and progressive Canadian Company.

When promoting this Company the Directors were fully convinced that there was a splendid opening in Western Canada for a Company prepared to carry on the business of Fire Insurance on a large and comprehensive scale, and which, at the same time, could offer ADEQUATE PROTECTION TO BOTH POLICYHOLDERS AND SHAREHOLDERS. Accordingly, when making application for a Dominion charter, the Company was incorporated with a capital of $3,000,000.00, of which amount the Directors decided to offer for public subscription the sum of $2,000,000.00.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT FEATURE IN FIRE INSURANCE IS PROTECTION, and with the LARGE CAPITAL, combined with the high standard of Reserve, which will be maintained through careful selection of risks and profits from judicious investments, the Directors and Management feel confident that this Company will be accorded a very hearty reception by Canadian citizens, and will soon rank as one of the leading Fire Companies.

WITHOUT A LARGE AND SUBSTANTIAL CAPITAL FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE POLICYHOLDERS, A FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY IS SERIOUSLY HANDICAPPED, AND DOES NOT AFFORD THE POLICYHOLDER THAT PROTECTION TO WHICH HE IS JUSTLY ENTITLED, and the Directors of this Company, being fully aware of this most important fact, are adopting a very wise policy in OFFERING FOR SUBSCRIPTION SUCH A LARGE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL STOCK, and when our entire stock is subscribed and paid in full it will represent the largest amount of subscribed and paid-up capital of any Canadian Fire Insurance Company, and will be a tower of strength and of very material benefit to the company in carrying on its extensive operations.

GENERAL AGENT FOR CANADA

W. E. FUDGER, ESQ.

THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY to secure some of the Capital Stock of a Western Fire Insurance Company. With a large amount of desirable and profitable business so readily obtainable by the Company through its valuable and extensive business connections, rapid progress should be made, and with investments carefully selected and unexcelled in earning power, the Company will be enabled to not only pay substantial dividends, but build up a large reserve, and thereby materially increase the value of the stock.

The Directors firmly believe in the policy that EVERY SHAREHOLDER SHOULD CO-OPERATE WITH THE MANAGEMENT of a Company and take an active interest in its welfare. For that reason, it is their intention to WIDELY DISTRIBUTE the CAPITAL STOCK, and by that means obtain the support of the leading business and professional men throughout the country.

With the rapid development of the West during recent years, involving an outlay of many millions of capital, it has become generally recognized that WESTERN CANADA IS VERY MUCH IN NEED OF MORE LARGE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND ESPECIALLY OF WESTERN ORIGIN, to properly meet the growing requirements of the West, and to not only improve the present financial situation, but to materially assist in retaining, as much as possible, desirable business, with its resultant profits, within our own Western borders.

The business of fire insurance has now grown to such large proportions that it has become a very important factor in the financial and commercial world, and as its scope and influence is so general and widespread it is only natural to find that the question of AMPLE PROTECTION TO POLICYHOLDERS, which is the PRIMARY FUNCTION OF FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES, should be so GENERALLY DISCUSSED AT THE PRESENT TIME.

This important subject has given rise to a very STRONG FEELING in Western Canada that the TIME HAS NOW ARRIVED when the Western people should organize a Fire Insurance Company of such strength and proportions that it will soon rank as one of the leading fire companies of America, and command general respect and confidence, which is so ESSENTIAL to a company that solicits the support and patronage of all classes of the community.

The Directors have every confidence that they will receive the hearty co-operation of not only Western citizens, but of people from every part of the Dominion, to build up a GREAT fire insurance company with AMPLE PROTECTION for the people, and which will be a source of pride and credit to our country.

The following Canadian Government Insurance statistics should prove of ESPECIAL INTEREST:

In the year 1909 the total amount of fire premiums collected in Canada was $1,785,539.00, whereas in the year 1909 the total premiums charged amounted to the large sum of $22,293,633.25, and of this amount $9,561,644.41 was charged by Canadian Companies, $11,518,267.45 by British Companies, and $4,223,721.39 by American Companies.

During the last forty-one years the aggregate amount of fire insurance premiums collected in Canada reached the immense total of $280,740,466.00, of which the large sum of $218,310,047.00 represents the amount of fire premiums collected by FOREIGN COUNTRIES, and which, therefore, was taken out of the country to build up foreign companies and enrich foreign shareholders.

Notwithstanding that a considerable portion of the fire premiums collected in Canada by Foreign Companies has been repaid to Canadian policyholders, through fire losses, it must be evident that the larger the proportion of Canadian fire insurance that is placed with Canadian Companies, the larger is the amount of capital retained in the Dominion and always available for investment purposes, to build up our Canadian financial institutions, and thereby add to the general wealth and prosperity of our country.

The above figures are most significant and clearly demonstrate that while the CANADIAN FIRE COMPANIES have been doing a satisfactory business they HAVE SECURED only a SMALL portion of the Fire Insurance transacted in Canada, or, to be more exact, ONLY TWENTY-TWO PER CENT. of THE TOTAL FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN IN CANADA, covering a period of the last forty-one years. With the extraordinary progress which Canada has been making during recent years, the field for financial institutions has become so widely extended that there is a CONSTANTLY INCREASING DEMAND for new large financial corporations.

By further reference to our Government statistics it will be observed that at December 31st, 1909, the total number of Canadian Fire Companies operating under Dominion charter was ONLY TWENTY-ONE, and of this number ONLY TWO HAD A PAID-UP CAPITAL IN EXCESS OF $500,000.

In promoting this large Canadian Company the Directors are fully confident that the new organization will, with characteristic Western energy and enterprise, soon come to be recognized as an important factor in the insurance world, and as The Canada National Fire will be instrumental in RETAINING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF CANADA a large amount of money which would otherwise be taken out of the country to build up foreign corporations the people of this growing Dominion will readily see the advisability of giving this Company their MORAL AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT, in order that we may build up a STRONG and VIGOROUS Company which will prove a valuable acquisition to our Canadian monetary institutions.

This is the last opportunity to secure, direct from the Company, some of this desirable stock.

It is worthy of special note that the demand for the stock has exceeded the Directors' most sanguine expectations; in fact, of the $2,000,000 of stock to be issued, $1,650,000 has already been subscribed, and, from present indications, with the large number of applications for stock being received daily, the Directors are confident that the balance of the issue, which is now only $350,000, will be subscribed by August 26th, 1911, the date appointed for the closing of stock subscriptions.

For this reason, the Directors strongly recommend the investing public to mail their applications for stock at their earliest possible opportunity.

Subscribers are requested to kindly fill in attached application form, stating name in full, number of shares desired, occupation and address, and mail the application, along with the first call of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) per share on the stock, direct to the Head Office of the Company, Winnipeg, Man., or, if so desired, application may be made for the stock at any of the Company's Branch Offices or at any Branch of the Royal or Imperial Banks, where application blanks and any additional information will be readily furnished. Applications for stock will be considered in the order received, and on approval of the same by the Board of Directors a certificate for the number of shares subscribed will be issued and mailed the shareholders forthwith. Cheques, Drafts, Money Orders or other remittances on account of stock subscriptions should be made payable to The Canada National Fire Insurance Company.

KING EDWARD VACUM CLEANER

You cannot clean carpets, rugs and furniture by beating. If you think you have, just try a KING EDWARD VACUUM CLEANER and you will find the article full of dust, which breeds disease.
The KING EDWARD HAND MACHINE has no equal as compared with other hand machines. It is lighter to operate and its suction is much stronger. Its suction is stronger than many of the power machines, and the dusting is done away with. On account of the short stroke one person can operate it on carpets and rugs equally as well as two, and it is about half the weight of other hand machines to carry up and down stairs or from one room to another. It is sold for less money than any of the hand machines. All machines are guaranteed.

HOW HE GOT THE PIPE THRO'

There was Considerable Guessing Round the Hall-Stove Before the Bunch Got to Know about the Wisdom of the Wood.

Senator McLean, of Connecticut, is a great fisherman and hunter. Last spring he invited two companions to accompany him to a shooting camp in the North woods. When they entered the little cabin their attention was attracted to the unusual position of a new stove, which was set on posts about four feet high.

One of the senator's companions began to comment upon the knowledge woodsmen gain by observation. "Now," said he, "this man has discovered that the heat radiating from the stove strikes the roof and the circulation is so quickened that the camp is warmed in much less time than would be required if the stove were in its regular position."

The other was of the opinion that it was elevated to be above the window in order that cool and pure air could be had at night. Senator McLean, being more practical, contended that it was raised in order that a good supply of green wood could be placed beneath it to dry.

After considerable argument each man placed a five-dollar bill upon the table and agreed to let the guide settle the dispute.

"Well," said he, "when I brought that 'ere stove up th' river I lost most of th' stove pipe over board, and had ter set it up there so as ter hav' th' pipe reach through th' roof."

He got the money.

HANDING OUT FIRST AID

Many Railroadmen Will Take Share in Handling the Work of the Five-Team First-Aid Proposition. Recently Introduced.

The announcement is made that the Canadian Pacific Railway has planned a big competition for the members of its "First Aid to the Injured" classes. The Canadian Pacific has gone into this matter very thoroughly and it is now the foremost railway in America in teaching its employees First Aid."

In the competition to be held in a few weeks practically every man on the Company's lines holding a certificate will be entered.

The competition will take the form of a team contest in which there will be five men to the team. First of all examinations will be held to determine the champions of each division. Then the various divisions will compete to determine the champions of the lines East and West of Fort William and Port Arthur, and finally these latter two teams will meet to decide the champion team of the C. P. R. system. In each division the winning team will receive a silver cup and medals given by the General Superintendents. For the winners of the Eastern and Western lines competition, there will be shields given by other high officials of the C. P. R. and for the team winning the Championship of the whole system there will be a beautiful shield given by the Hon. W. Nesbitt of Toronto.

Smithson Institution Gets Canada Specimens

Four Naturalists Explored Wild Country Surrounding Mount Robson for Months.

Washington, D. C., November 1.—The Smithsonian Institution gets nine hundred specimens from the Canadian wilds. The Smithsonian party which accompanied Dr. A. O. Wheeler, president of the Alpine Club of Canada, on his topographic survey of the British Columbia-Alberta boundary line and the Mount Robson region, has just returned to Washington after a successful tour.

The new collection is quite complete, and covers practically all the birds and animals inhabiting this previously unworked territory.

The party, consisting of four members, included the assistant curator of Mammals and Mr. J. H. Riley, of the division of birds of the National Museum.

Assembling at Edmonton, Alberta, early in July, the party proceeded on the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad to the end of the line, where they found it necessary to take pack horses to penetrate the Mount Robson region. The land to be surveyed included the territory lying about this mountain in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, comprising the most rugged and broken country imaginable.

Amid this wonderful scenery Mount Robson rises in titanic outline the highest peak in the Rockies, probably between 14,500 and 15,000 feet, and surrounding it for a distance of fifty miles in all directions lies the field of survey.

In this wild and unclaimed country the party of naturalists remained nearly four months, protected by special permits from the Canadian Government. The natural history work was divided up, Mr. Hollister and Mr. Riley collecting the birds and small animals, while the other two collectors hunted big game.

The collection includes some 900 specimens of birds and mammals, the latter ranging in size from mole-like creatures called "H. H. Rews," to full grown caribous and bears. One enormous grizzly bear was obtained by a fortunate shot. Much fine material for exhibition groups was secured, including a series of caribous, mountain goats, mountain sheep, beavers, and many varieties of small animals.

Besides birds and mammals, a large number of plants and insects were collected. All the specimens have been turned over to the National Museum, where they will be put on exhibition.—Montreal Star, Nov. 1, 1911.

"Black Lands" of Russia

One of the finest wheat-growing areas of Europe is that known as the "black lands" of Russia. These wonderfully fertile plains stretch from the Carpathians to the Urals and to the Upper Oka in the north. The black earth is a kind of loess or deposit with a percentage of humus due to the decay for an incalculable period of herbaceous vegetation. On the primitive Russian system of rotation of crops known as the "three-fikis" system corn has been grown every year for from 50 to 70 years without manure. In the south, towards the Black Sea, the thickness of the deposit of black earth diminishes, and it disappears altogether in some of the river valleys. The wonderful fertility of the black lands will explain why with her own teeming population Russia is able to grow sufficient wheat not only to meet her own needs but to export an immense quantity from the busy wharves of Odessa. A large percentage of the Russian export of wheat reaches the London market; and as a rule Russia ranks next to the United States in the amount of wheat exported to Great Britain, the largest wheat-importing country on record.

BATTLING WITH THE CLOUDS

Mankind Has Been Trying to Fight the Threatening Hail-Storm From Time Immemorial.

From time immemorial mankind has endeavored to find some physical means of preventing hailstorms. In antiquity the custom of hurling javelins and other missiles against clouds that threatened a discharge of hail was widespread. In the middle ages the aid of the sorcerer who claimed the power of influencing the weather — was invoked to the same end. Bells, also, were believed to be efficacious in averting hailstorms. Early in the nineteenth century metal-tipped poles were set up in great numbers in many parts of Europe, in the belief that they would draw off the free electricity of the air, which was assumed to be the chief cause of hailstorms. About 1896 the custom of "hail-shooting" was introduced in Europe, especially in vine-growing districts, and soon became immensely popular. This consisted in bombarding the clouds with various special forms of cannon. In the year 1900 five hundred of these cannon were in use in France and Spain, 2,000 in Austria-Hungary, and 10,000 in Italy. This custom still flourishes. It is, however, open to the fatal objection that, even should it prove efficacious, the expense entailed in systematic protection by this method is in excess of the benefits to be obtained.

The town of Coronation was born with the proverbial golden spoon in its mouth, and is promised a brilliant career, for though not yet out of its swaddling clothes, it has already attained the dignity of a divisional point on the Canadian Pacific Railway, with three branch lines projected from its centre. The site of the town is a commanding one and the country is visible round about for miles in all directions. Ample divisional yards have been provided for railway purposes, and with an eye to future development the railway company has reserved a block for school purposes another block for municipal buildings and a large area for a public park. The two principal streets are Royal avenue and Windsor street, and are each one hundred feet wide.

Coronation town was so named by the Canadian Pacific people, and prior to the sale of lots a few weeks ago the site had no particularly big mark on the map of Canada. Coronation in fact, was not more than nominally in existence until the date of the sale, though a few enterprising merchants had erected temporary shops and huts on lots which they intended to bid for at the sale, but which they had not yet secured. Most of the men in possession evidently were successful in getting legitimate title to their holdings, for only one man is spoken of as having to vacate after the sale, and he furnished one of the surprising scenes of an eventful day by hitching up ten teams of horses to his double-fronted hardware store and moving the structure intact on to his new lot.

On the evening before the sale the first passenger train, filled with purchasers from all points of the continent, arrived in Coronation just two hours after the arrival of the track. Few of the travellers, however, were aware of the fact that they were practically travelling over new steel as fast as it was being laid down, and it was not until the morning following that the scene of the track-laying machine at work a scant mile ahead of their train was revealed to the astonished gaze of the passengers.

Perhaps the most commendable piece of enterprise of a remarkable community, however, was the issuing of a newspaper, the Coronation News, on the day of the sale. The paper appeared early in the afternoon and contained a full report of the sale proceedings during the morning.

Getting the Facts

"Robert," said Uncle Henry, who was visiting his city nephew, "who's that man in the house on the other side of the street? He stands in front of his window and shaves himself every morning. He's done it now for three days running."

"And he's probably done it for the last ten years, for all I know, uncle," replied Robert, in a tone that lacked interest.

"Has he lived there all that time?"

"Yes; and longer than that, I suppose. He was there when I came here ten years ago."

"Who is he?"

"I don't know."

"What does he do?"

"I haven't the slightest idea, uncle."

Whereupon Uncle Henry put on his hat and went out. In about fifteen minutes he was back in the house again.

"Robert," he said, "that chap's name is Findlater. He runs an insurance office in the High Street. He's worth probably ten thousand, owns that house, belongs to the Methodist church, has three boys, one girl, is a widower, fifty-one years old, a member of the Masonic order, has a farm in the country, and is engaged to his typewriter. I believe living in the city has made you stupid about getting information."

A Des Moines man had an attack of muscular rheumatism in his shoulder. A friend advised him to go to Hot Springs. That meant an expense of $150.00 or more. He sought for a quicker and cheaper way to cure it and found it in Chamberlain's Liniment. Three days after the first application of this liniment he was well. For sale by all dealers.

MEN ARE FEW WOMEN PLENTY

Chinese Law is Against Plurality of Wives But John Arranges for the Superfluous Female Population in Another Fashion.

As there always is a steady exodus of men from Canton, the population numbers more women than men. The law does not sanction, but on the contrary actually forbids plurality of wives. A Chinaman may have but one wife; there is no limit to the number of concubines he may have.

Among the higher classes betrothal is usually contracted a few years before the marriage takes place. The young people have no voice in the selection of a life partner, betrothal and marriage being arranged by the nearest eldest male relative. After a formal betrothal is entered into the young man's family send a quantity of cakes to the girl's family, together with an agreement of engagement and valuable presents to the fiancee herself. The girl's family in turn, sends gifts of confectionery and a formal acknowledgement of the engagement.

The bride is brought to the bridegroom's house in a decorated chair, with considerable pomp. She is received by the bridegroom in the main hall of the house, and together they worship heaven—i.e., they kneel facing the street and the family ancestors and prostrate themselves before the house. The bride, now, probably for the first time, sees her husband's face.

Among the poorer mental classes marriage is generally a matter of convenience. There is little or no formal ceremony and the union is a kind of partnership whereby it is understood that they will look after each other in case of sickness, and they hope, of course, that children will come to insure support in their old age. Naturally there cannot be much love in such marriages. The wife generally lives with her husband's parents, where she is the slave of her mother-in-law; the husband sleeps and lives where he works, returning home one or two nights a month.

The training of animals, to teach them to perform all sorts of entertaining tricks, is a task that requires talent on the part of the trainer, but, above all, demands patience and a thoroughly methodical procedure. Begin with the dog, and see how he is taught his tricks.

The first thing every dog must learn is his name. Select a short, sharp-sounding name, and stick to it. Never call him anything else. If you have several dogs, the same is taught on the same principle. Divide their food, and then, placing a piece on the ground call each in turn by his name, and give him the food when he comes for it. Send the others back if they come forward out of their turn. By and by they will learn that a certain name is always associated with a certain dog. Ramble among the dogs, and call out one of their names every now and then. If the right dog comes to you, reward him with a piece of cracker. Pay no attention to the other dogs. They will learn very soon; and the first great lesson — dependence and obedience — will have been learned.

Having taught a dog to fetch and carry — which he will easily learn — the next thing is to teach him to go and get any object called for. Place a glove on the floor; then say to the dog, "Fetch the glove," putting the accent on the last word. Then, when he has done this several times, place a shoe on the floor; and teach him to fetch this in a similar manner. Now place both objects on the ground, and teach him to fetch either one, as asked for — rewarding him when he brings you the right one, and rebuking him when he fetches the wrong, which you take from him and replace. He will soon learn to distinguish the articles, when a third may be substituted, and so on until a number are on the floor. You should then go into the next room, taking the dog with you; and send him to fetch any article you mention. After a little time he will bring you the right one every time.

Similar methods can be adopted with regard to other articles and the letters of the alphabet.

The Retort Courteous.

Workers are, doubtless, they who shall inherit the earth. But certain indolent natures, gifted with wit, can afford to take occasional chances as residuary legatees. A writer in 'Vanity Fair' tells of one such fellow, a student in a noted philosopher's class.

The student, who was a lanky youth sat in the rear seat. His attitude was sprawling, and he was either asleep or seemed about to go to sleep.

"Mr. Fraser," said the philosopher sharply, "you may recite!"

Fraser opened his eyes. He did not change his somnolent pose.

"Mr. Fraser, what is work?"

"Everything is work."

"What! Everything is work?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then I take it you would like the class to believe that this desk is work?"

"Yes, sir," wearily. "woodwork."

Cutting Out the Tobacco.

The heads of the provincial Civil Service throughout British Columbia, have issued a circular to their various offices prohibiting smoking during office hours. The Canadian Pacific Railway long ago "abood the use of tobacco by their employees during working hours and its example has been generally followed by other large corporations.

A RECORD OF PROGRESS.

The Whitney Administration goes before the people with a record of progress and achievement that cannot be gainsaid. Great changes for the better have been made in the public administration in relation to agriculture, mining, railways, highways, hydro-electric power, education, immigration, the public finances, the management of prisons and other important objects. A system of agricultural education is being built up on a foundation established in the rural schools, and special training courses are provided at the Agricultural College for school teachers. Much larger grants have been made for agriculture in recent years than were ever made before. The interests of education in general have been wisely promoted at every stage, beginning with the public school and ending with the provincial university. The price of school books has been reduced 50 per cent. The salaries of public school teachers have been increased very materially, and to that increase the Government this year contributed $475,000. In urban schools a system of industrial training has been introduced and liberally aided by money grants. The amount to be paid to the University of Toronto this year will be about $488,000. The Government's measures in respect to mining, colonization, roads, immigration and railways have proved highly stimulating to development in New Ontario. The revision of the mining laws was most salutary. In the year preceding the beginning of the Whitney Administration, the value of the mines' output was $11,000,000. Last year it amounted to $39,000,000. The public revenue from the mines has been raised from $70,000 to $771,000 in the same period. On colonization roads the appropriation for the present year amounted to $592,000, and very fruitful the expenditure of the Whitney Government on that account has been. The Government railway, which was 113 miles in length when Sir James Whitney came into office, will have 380 miles of line at the end of this year, and $300,000 is to be paid annually by the G. T. R. for running rights from North Bay to Cochrane. By Jan. 1st the Porcupine branch will be extended to Mattagami River. The main line has been surveyed as far as James Bay. In its dealing with railway corporations the Government has consulted the public interest. It has imposed taxation on railways, half the proceeds going to the municipalities; it has put an end to railway subsidies and established the Railway and Municipal Board. The hydro-electric power policy has been carried out in its great features at a cost considerably below the estimates. There is a constant demand for extension of the system to towns and cities outside its present line and arrangements have been made to bring the service to farms and villages as desired. The revenue of the Province has doubled since the Whitney Government came into office and the public finances are now on the soundest footing.

May Use British System

the large majority of cases was practically in the hands of the local patronage committee—a system not designed to develop efficiency. In the second place the scale of pay was not satisfactory. The enumerators were paid at the rate of five cents per name. With luck and fair conditions an enumerator, at this rate, might make big money. On the other hand he might have to wait half an hour or an hour to get the correct data in regard to one name — which meant only five cents, or he might have to go back at night, while in foreign districts in the cities the work was tediously slow. It was not to be wondered at that the enumerators in many cases slurred over their work. As a result of the numerous protests it is very possible that next census the English system may be adopted. In the old land the count is taken one day. Every person in every house who stopped there that night is counted, strangers as well as regular residents are enumerated. This evens up as it is figured that there will be about the same number away on an average who should be counted as strangers and travelers. It takes a host of enumerators. But their work is all over in one day and the cost is not nearly as great in comparison as in Canada.

cation for seats from all parts of Canada, for the opening of the House and there will have to be many a heart ache, for to-day notices were posted to the effect that every available seat was already taken, and it was useless to make further application.

It will be gala week for Ottawa, starting with the opening to-morrow by Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, the reading of the speech from the throne on Thursday, the moving of the reply on Friday, and the famous drawingroom on Saturday when the society of the capital will be presented to the Duke and Duchess.

Society leaders also from other Canadian cities will be present at the ceremonies.

In addition there will be a merry round of functions. John Stanfield, M.P., chief whip of the Conservative party, along with F. F. Pardee, Liberal whip, will allot the seats of the House. The Conservative members will overflow to the Opposition benches.

Hon. Martin Burrell Back.

Hon. Martin Burrell, the new minister of agriculture, has arrived, and immediately repaired to the cabinet council which was in session, and was given a hearty welcome by his colleagues.

The speech from the throne has been prepared, but no hint of its character or the legislation which is foreshadowed has leaked out.

Some Strong Men.

There are a number of strong men in the House, who are as yet comparatively unknown to the country. Several of these men are looked upon as future cabinet ministers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Workshop, Victoria Island, Ottawa," will be received until 4 p.m., on Thursday, November 23, 1911, for the construction of a Workshop, Victoria Island, Ottawa.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, November 9, 1911.

ONTARIO

Provincial Loan of $1,000,000.

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, under the authority of Chapter 4, of the Statutes of Ontario, 1911, invites subscriptions from the public for a loan of $1,000,000 on bonds of the Province of Ontario, or "Ontario Government Stock."

The bonds will be dated 1st November, 1911, and payable on the 1st November, 1941, in denominations of $1,000 each, with coupons attached for interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st May and 1st November in each year, at the office of the Provincial Treasurer, Toronto, or at the offices of the Bank of Montreal, in Montreal, Canada, and in New York, N. Y., at the holder's option. Bonds will be made payable to bearer, but on request will be registered in the office of the Provincial Treasurer and endorsed as payable only to the order of certain persons or corporations, and on request of holders will be exchanged for "Ontario Government Stock" at any time.

The issue price during the month of November, 1911, will be 102 for each $100, and after the 30th day of November, 1911, the issue price will be 102 and interest accrued from the 1st November, 1911.

ALL BONDS AND INSCRIBED STOCK ISSUED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE SAID ACT ARE FREE FROM ALL ONTARIO PROVINCIAL TAXES, CHARGES, SUCCESSION DUTY AND IMPOSITIONS WHATSOEVER.

Purchasers of Stock or Bonds will be required to send certified cheque with the application, payable to the order of the "Provincial Treasurer of Ontario."

This loan is raised upon the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Ontario, and is chargeable thereupon.

A. J. MATHESON,
Provincial Treasurer.

Peterborough's Good Luck.

Lindsay Post: "Peterborough, in the past, has secured all the plums in the line of government projects, simply because the citizens have been enterprising enough to get after them. Is it not time that our citizens were aroused from their lethargy and got out after what we are justly entitled to? We need Government improvements here and need them badly. Let our council and Board of Trade become active in the matter." This is a good policy for Lindsay to adopt, and we hope she will now get some of the coveted plums.

Last Day for Paying Taxes.

To-morrow the second half of the municipal taxes becomes due. All who do not pay up will have a small percentage added to their tax bills. Collector Green states that ratepayers are paying up better than usual this year.

Lindsay Boy Missing.

The Times is in receipt of a letter from a subscriber in Lindsay, enclosing a clipping from The Warder, giving particulars of the disappearance of the eleven-year-old son of Mr. John Taylor, of that town. The boy left home on Wednesday morning to attend school in the south ward and since that time has not been seen by his parents. The little fellow was of good habits, always at home at night, and attentive to study. The boy's father can assign no reason for his absence, as the most amicable feeling existed between the parent and his only boy. The boy may possibly be in Peterborough. Any information concerning him sent to The Times office, will be promptly forwarded to the distressed parents.

Power for the Farm.

In discussing the subject of electricity on the farm the Lindsay Post says that it will do more to make life in the rural districts attractive, and thus to retain the young men on the farm than any other one thing—except better pay and better homes. It furnishes light for the farmer's house and outbuildings. Sewing machines, washing machines, churns, cream separators and the various other machines used in dairying can be propelled by it. It will not be long until the farmers along the leading highways of Smith, Monaghan, Otonabee, Douro and other townships, will have their homes lighted and their machinery driven by electricity.

May Convene in This City.

Rev. H. J. Keith says that the Students Volunteer Movement, which organization met in convention at Belleville recently, may convene in Peterborough next November, if arrangements for entertaining the delegates can be made. Some three hundred representatives from Ontario and Quebec were in attendance at Belleville convention.

Our Peat Bogs.

An enquiry reached The Times yesterday from Buffalo regarding the extent of the bogs of peat in this neighborhood. These are known to be very extensive, especially in the neighborhood of Balsam Lake, and on the Scugog River. It would appear from what is taking place at the experimental works of the Dominion government peat plant near Ottawa, that it will not be long until this industry becomes a most important one, especially on the Trent waterway. It is said that peat fuel is even preferable to coal, as it leaves an ash that makes a good fertilizer, and can be produced at a much less cost than coal.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES.

Following is the Y.W.C.A. calendar for the week:

Tuesday, 8—Literature class. Mrs. Rollins.

Wednesday 8—Senior Gymnasium class.

Thursday, 4.30—Intermediate basketball. 7.45—Public school work. 8.00—Home hygiene. Dr. McCulloch. 7.30—Cookery class. Miss Steinhoff.

Friday 3—Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. union prayer meeting in connection with the world's week of prayer. All the friends of the associations are invited.

Saturday 2 to 4—Junior club work. 2 sharp—Sunshine Club, girls' from 7 to 10 years of age. 2.30—Victoria Club, girls from 11 to 14 years of age.

THE Y.M.C.A. MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.

Interest now centres in the membership campaign, which started yesterday at the Y.M.C.A. One hundred and eighty-nine new members in two weeks. It means energetic canvassing, but it will be done. It should be easily possible. In Peterborough there are over 4,000 people who should belong to the Y.M.C.A. The membership now is only about 300.

The boys are going into this campaign with enthusiasm and confidence. They know that they have something worth while to offer. A two-dollar membership that entitles the holder to access to magazines, periodicals and newspapers that, did he subscribe for them himself, would cost well on to $100, is surely good value. And then there is a room, cheerful room in which to read them.

The best Christmas present a parent can give his boy is a membership ticket and the boy will appreciate it more thoroughly now than at Christmas.

Of course the boys will be telling the citizens all this, with the enthusiasm born of experience. We know that in Peterborough there are thousands who would be benefitted by membership in the Y.M.C.A. Of these thousands, the aim is to get 189. But that is the irreducable minimum.

A lecture will be given next Wednesday night in St. Paul's church by the Rev. M. Dickey, B.A., Pioneer Missionary to the Klondyke. The title of the lecture is: "Pioneer Days with the Gold Seekers of the Klondyke." It will be illustrated by 70 Stereoptican Pictures made from photographs taken on the spot, and will deal with the humor and pathos romance and tragedy of camp and trail.

OBITUARY.

Mr. John O'Brien.

died on Sunday from pneumonia, at the residence of his sister, Miss Ellen O'Brien, Emmismore.

Deceased gentleman was an uncle of Rev. Dr. O'Brien. He came to Canada from Ireland 60 years ago, and for the greater part of his time resided in Emmismore. He was well known and highly respected throughout the township and county.

The funeral will take place to-day at ten o'clock to St. Martin's church and thence to St. Martin's cemetery.

John W. Richardson.

The sad news reached Peterborough yesterday that John W. Richardson, son-in-law of Mrs. Hugh Dark, Rubridge street, passed away in Vancouver yesterday. The deceased had been suffering from an attack of pleurisy, to which he succumbed after a brief illness.

Mr. Richardson leaves awife and two young sons, Master, Tuck and Clare, who have been living with Mrs. Darke. His death is also mourned by his father, Mr. John Richardson, of Cochrane, Ont., and two brothers, Mr. Edward Richardson, of Toronto, and Mr. Jud Richardson of Price River Valley. Mr. Richardson was a former resident of Peterborough, and was well known and liked here.

The remains may be brought here to this city for interment.

Creeps like a Serpent

Catarrh is an insidious disease, scarcely noticeable at first, but horribly relentless if not checked.

No disease makes such inroads into weak constitutions as Catarrh. It spreads from the place of beginning to the lungs, bronchial tubes, stomach, intestines, and before long all the organs of the body are affected.

A splendid remedy, attended with remarkable success in curing Catarrh ha lately come prominently to the front. Its name is Catarrhozone, and no case is recorded where it failed to quickly relieve and cure.

The strong points about Catarrhozone are that it is both a local and constitutional treatment. It not only affords quick relief to the local symptoms, but also purifies the blood of all Catarrhal poisons, builds up and strengthens the system.

Catarrhozone Inhaler supplies an abundance of medicated air which is breathed in at the mouth, and after passing through every air cell and air passage of the breathing organs, is slowly exhaled through the nostrils.

This penetrating, volatile antiseptic at once kills the germs that cause Catarrh, and prevents the disease spreading when once established. It is so healing and soothing that the inflamed membranes, and sore spots are restored to normal and healthy condition in a few days.

Catarrhozone cleanses the nose and throat and keeps them entirely free of mucous discharge. It prevents dropping in the throat, cures headache and makes breathing easy and the breath pure and sweet.

To build up and invigorate the system, a blood purifier and tonic called Ferrozone should be taken after each meal. In conjunction with Catarrhozone it is a valuable aid in establishing such a healthy condition of the body that Catarrh cannot exist.

Other remedies have been known to give relief, but to permanently eradicate every trace of Catarrh you must use Catarrhozone. It is a commonsense, convenient, clean method of cure that is endorsed by the profession and all intelligent pharmacists.

You are sure to be benefited quickly and positively cured by Catarrhozone. The complete outfit costs only $1.00. Trial size, 25c. Sold by Druggists, and The Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

How to Make a Real Wrinkle Remover

(From Fashion Reporter)

In these days of cleverly advertised "beautifiers" of 57 varieties and more it is hard for any woman to believe that she can make a simple home remedy which will do her much more good, and cost her much less than the average made preparation. Take the subject of wrinkles, for instance, There is nothing in the world so effective for removing or preventing wrinkles, baggy cheeks and double chins, as a solution of Saxolite and witch hazel.

Get an ounce of pure powdered saxolite from any drug store, dissolve the full ounce in a half pint of witch hazel and use the mixture daily as a refreshing lotion. The quick and satisfactory results will surprise you. Even after the very first application there is a marked improvement. The wrinkles are less in evidence and the face has a firm "solid" feeling that is very comforting.

Ottawa in a Flutter Over Big Event

Notables From all Over Dominion Are Pouring Into the Capital—A Merry Round of Social Gaiety.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 14.—Interest in the opening of the new Parliament to-morrow is unprecedented.

Ottawa is in a flutter of excitement over the ceremonies which promise in brilliancy and gorgeousness to almost rival the openings at Westminster. Members are pouring into the city, and notables from all over the Dominion will throng the city this week to see the inauguration of the new regime and to officially welcome the Duke upon the occasion of his first important public appearance.

TWO FEET OF SNOW AT KINMOUNT.

Heavy Fall Reported From Lindsay District.

Two feet of snow fell at Kinmount district, twenty miles from Lindsay, on Sunday.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents.

THE NAVY.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The front page leader writer of The Montreal Star in speaking of the navy has this to say also:

"Then, if we are still unable to spend our money, tens of millions can be set aside every year for the greatest war of the century—the war against the White Plague—and there will yet be room for millions more."

That public opinion will force governments to take up what the people as individuals have shown themselves unable to cope with is merely a matter of time. The Star writer rightly says that the White Plague is the war of the century. It will be a great pity if this splendid chance is missed of drawing the attention of the Whitney government to the wish of the people in this respect. Sir James will, of course, be returned to power, but may not feel warranted in adopting a policy not an issue in a general election. The suffering caused by the White Plague amongst those unable to pay for sanatoria and nursing is appalling. The death rate is alarming, and would be terrifying if we were alive to the loss and depression due to tuberculosis. How many cases of it are there in Peterborough, incipient and otherwise? Ask your doctor and you will be surprised. Medical experts are everywhere advising that governments take this matter up, and if they do not the people will have only themselves to blame. The loss due to this disease in one year would pay for stamping it out altogether if governmental or concerted measures were taken. Such, at least, is the calculation of those best qualified to know. Think of the tens of thousands who have gone, and of the thousands who have yet to go to their graves through neglect, for, unhappily, it cannot be termed anything else. That the Dominion government should help the provinces is, of course, admitted, but the initiative lies with the provinces.

—J. H. Burnham.

THE NEW RAILWAY.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see by The Times that a new and important railway service is to be inaugurated by the C.P.R. next month, when trains will be run between Peterborough and Victoria Harbour, over the C.P.R. Georgian Bay grain route. I would suggest that Mayor Morrow and the members of the Council should mark the event in some public way. It is certainly an event in the history of Peterborough, that will have great results in the future.

POSTUM

"There's a Reason"

WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

HON. WILLIAM TURGEON

The Young Man of the Saskatchewan Cabinet is Attorney General Turgeon, who looks about twenty three years old, but is really, according to the Registration department in the thirty neighborhood.

Mr. Turgeon comes from a parliamentary family as his father is

HON. WM. TURGEON,
Attorney-General, Saskatchewan

the New Brunswick member of the Dominion house, O. Turgeon. He was admitted to the bar in Quebec after graduation at Laval, but immediately afterwards moved to Prince Albert where he became a partner of Hon J. H. Lamont. Mr. Lamont was the province's first attorney-general and upon moving up to a judgeship in 1907 the attorney-general job was kept in the family and Turgeon took over the work. Turgeon is the orator of the cabinet and has the Frenchman's proverbial ability as a platform speaker.

The Hon. gentleman, whose full title baptismal and otherwise reads William Ferdinand Alphonse Turgeon, B.A., K.C., and M.L.A., was born at Bathurst, N.B., and took his educational courses at Laval University and Quebec.

GEORGE G. FOSTER, K.C.

Of Blarney Castle, Quebec Province

Mr. George Green Foster, K.C., of Montreal, is one of the prominent legal men of Canada's Commercial capital, and as an advocate made a name for himself as far back as 1896. Mr. Foster is a McGill graduate, a native of Knowlton, Que., and carries his love for the scenes of his boyhood days to the extent of a country residence in that locality, a home, which for reasons known to its owner no doubt, carries the title of Blarney Castle.

Mr. Foster's specialty is company law and from time to time his opinion has been sought in connection with some of the largest undertakings launched from Montreal. He has taken an active interest in financial and industrial affairs, holding among other positions, that of President of the St. Lawrence Power Company, director of the Eastern Townships Bank and of the Dominion Guarantee Company, vice-president of the George Hall Coal Company, director of the Aluminum Company of America, the Northern Aluminum Company of Canada, the Montreal Street Railway, the Canadian Light and Power Company, the Imperial Realty Company of Ottawa, and the Johnston, Richardson Company, Limited, and vice-president of the Orford Mountain Railway Company.

With a live interest in politics Mr Foster has proven himself a strong supporter of the Conservative party, as a ready platform orator and energetic organiser, having carried out some particularly good work in connection with the Eastern Townships Conservative Association. As result of strong representations from the party he went out against the Hon. Sydney Fisher in Brome County in 1896, and while defeated, had the satisfaction that comes from an effort well done.

Mr. Foster married in 1896 Mary Maud, daughter of the late Mr. Justice Buchanan of Montreal, and the family consists of one son and one daughter.

PROF. GEORGE CROSS, M.A., Ph.D.

A popular Canadian Divine

A Canadian who has recently won added fame as a theologian is Prof. George Cross, M.A., Ph.D., who has the chair of Systematic Theology at Newton Theological Seminary, Newton Centre, Massachusetts, and was until recently professor of Church History in McMaster University, Toronto.

Prof. Cross is an honor graduate of Toronto University in philosophy. He took his theology at McMaster University, preached for several years in Ontario churches, took his degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Chicago University, and was later called to the chair at McMaster. There he was exceedingly popular as a professor, for he has a warm heart and a sympathetic insight into the religious problems which perplex so many young men today who are in preparation for the gospel ministry. By the rigidly orthodox he was regarded as somewhat heterodox, and, being of a peaceable disposition, when the opportunity came for him to escape from the broadsides which the heresy-hunters were hurling against the Baptist University, he took it and went to Newton Centre in 1906. Since that time he has been most eagerly sought after by several of the leading Baptist theological seminaries of the United States. His heart is still in Canada, and every summer finds him at his cottage near Brighton, Ont.

Some Cold Truths

Few men cut their wisdom teeth until after they are married.

Charity covereth a multitude of people with cast-off garments.

Things worth while are more apt to come your way if you go after them.

Before marrying, a girl should learn the gentle art of chasing soiled linen up and down a wash-board.

It is generally the girl who can't play that has a mania for working the piano overtime.

Maud—"Are you engaged to Jack for good?"

Ethel—"It looks so. I don't think he'll ever be in a position to marry me."

THE VENOM OF LOVE

By L. A. Ruffman

(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.)

"I can't meet you on Sunday. I'm not going to meet you any more."

Nettie leaned back among the fragrant Capebroom, jutting its golden spray through the fence, her eyes upon the ground, seeking refuge from the open avowal Sid's stupid obtuseness forced from her.

He stepped forward, his hand fell upon her shoulder, turning her roughly, compelling her to face the situation.

"I'm sick of you," she whimpered, "so there!"

"There's someone else?"

He was still dragging at her, forcing her eyes to his.

"Well, what if there is?" She faced him, a small fury. "Haven't I a right to please myself?"

"If there is——" He threw her off with such violence that she rebounded from the fence, and her bonnet was tossed over her eyes.

Nettie tore her hat off. "There is! There is!" she cried.

The girl caught herself up with a gasp. Sid was looking very ugly just then. In the eyes that stabbed her there was a vicious heat, his mouth was slightly open, the under jaw rigid.

"You little beast!" he said. He held her tightly. "It's Bodio." The pressure increased, bruising her soft, slim body. "It's Bodio."

"Yes, it is," she answered, defiantly. "A Dago. A dirty Dago!" He pushed her away, his face full of disgust.

"He's lovely. I don't care what you think. I don't care what you say, he's lovely."

For over three weeks Sidney Wood saw nothing of Nettie, but he heard of her often, and always in association with Gian Bodio, the dapper, black-eyed Italian who speared oysters with amazing dexterity on the right side of Silvio Panzacchi's shop front, while Nettie Mulholland boxed sweets and bagged bananas behind her natty little counter on the left.

Sid was a commonplace youth in a commonplace world, suddenly thrust into a vortex of the emotions that make for tragedy.

One moonlight night, after following them like a blackmailer for an hour, creeping meanly from bush to bush, he saw Gian kiss Nettie good-night by the Cape-broom hedge, where he and she had so often parted. The Italian held her close in his arms, and kissed her again and again, with uncouth, noisy kisses. Suddenly Sid arose. He understood now what it all meant. He realized in a moment what the fury and the fever had prompted. Nettie must die. He would kill her.

No argument followed, no self-questioning. In his mind there were no doubts. He no longer cherished enmity towards Gian Bodio; his soul was absorbed in the killing of Nettie Mulholland.

Then he heard she was to be at the trade picnic with Gian Bodio, and that decided him. At the picnic, somewhere in the bush, before the eyes of her Dago, he would kill her.

None detected the smallest evidence of Sid's intention as they drove to the picnic. Gian Bodio sat on Nettie's left. Next her on the right, pressed very close, was Martin Sickert, big, black-haired, violet-eyed, handsome, a suburban Mephistopheles. He certainly enjoyed more of Nettie's attention than poor Bodio; yet Martin was nothing but lorryman for Sin Me, the banana king, with two guineas a week and the beer habit. Throughout the morning at Grass Creek, too, Nettie Mulholland flirted openly and impudently with Sickert, and Bodio sat with his back to a gum butt, and watched them, small and silent, no emotion in his pale face.

Nettie was conscious of Bodio, but gave no thought to Sidney, and he too was watching. It was not till after dinner, when Martin was too drunk to be companionable, that Nettie returned to the Italian. There were no reproaches. They sat together for half an hour and then went off through the trees and along the creek. Sid followed. He felt his moment was at hand. Near the camp they passed from view beyond a clump of saplings. He waited, but they did not reappear.

He stole forward, crept quietly to the saplings, arose, and pushed his way through, without a sound, his hand on the weapon, his soul hot with resolution.

He stopped. They were there. Nettie lay upon the grass, Bodio knelt upon her, his knee crushing her breast, his left hand gripped about her throat. In his right hand he held a knife, from the bright blade of which the sunlight flamed. His face was close to hers, his teeth bared, and he spat Roman oaths at her with something of the tiger, something of the snake. His face was contorted with abominable malice, hers wild with the horror of death.

For one tense moment Sidney Wood gazed down upon the lovers, and then a heart-burst filled him with blind rage. He hurled himself at Bodio.

A moment later the two men were on their feet fighting. Nettie, crouched down, backing under cover of the saplings, watched them, mad with fear.

Sid was sparring and punching with bare hands. The other slashed with his knife in a blind fury. Instinctively Wood's left shot for the face with every movement of the Italian. His arms were cut. He got the knife in his breast again, and then he saw Bodio's chin as through a mist, and swung his right with all the weight and power he could put into it. The Italian collapsed on himself, and went down, limp and lifeless. Sid staggered to his knees, and then fell, face foremost, across the body of his foe.

Nettie was running towards the picnic party, white and wild, shrieking "Murder! murder!"

The men found Gian Bodio on his knees, still dazed; but Sidney Wood lay prone, bleeding from a dozen wounds.

"Take care of Nettie," he whispered. "For God's sake, take care of Nettie. The Dago will kill her!"

As they lifted him a loaded revolver fell from the right-hand pocket of his coat.

A One-Man Show.

The manager of a well-known touring company wired to the proprietor of a theatre in a small town where his company was to appear:—

"Would like to hold a rehearsal at your theatre at three o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Have your stage manager, stage carpenter, assistant stage carpenter, property man, chief electrician, and all stage hands present promptly at that hour."

Three hours later he received the following reply:—

"All right. He will be there."

Animal Love.

Mother love is universal, and there is no love like the mother love. Most of the high and lofty loving in this world is done by mothers. Apart from this the work of wooing falls to the male members of the family whether it be the human family or some one of the other animal tribes. We read how, ages ago, a Bulbul, or Oriental Nightingale, wooed a white rose until it blushed red, and that was the beginning of the red rose. The Spanish Cavalier stands out in the rain and serenades his "Dulce Mia" until there is a crick in his neck, while she sits sheltered in a window above.

The cackle of the loon may be a love song for all we know. Maybe that's what made him loony in the first place.

The wild moose bellows his passion across the lake, and as likely as not the answering call is from a bark horn in the hands of a hunter, luring him to death.

It seems a sizzling shame, but if you will take a Grand Trunk train and travel into the "Highlands of Ontario" you will find men doing that very thing; arguing, doubtless, that all is fair in love and war.

MUNICIPALITY OF TOWNSHIP —OF— NORTH MONAGHAN

Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in section 8 and 9 of the Ontario Voters' List Act, the copies required by said sections to be so transmitted or delivered, of the said list made pursuant to the said Act of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said municipality to be entitled to vote at said municipality at elections for member of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal elections, and the said list was first posted in my office on September 27th, 1911, and remains there for inspection.

Electors are called on to examine the said list and if any omissions or other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

BRUCE JOHNSTON,
Clerk Township of North Monaghan.

Here is a woman who speaks from personal knowledge and long experience, viz., Mrs. P. H. Brogan, of Wilson, Pa., who says, "I know from experience that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is far superior to any other. For croup there is nothing that excels it." For sale by all dealers.

Seemed to Give Him a New Stomach

"I suffered intensely after eating and no medicine or treatment I tried seemed to do any good," writes H. M. Youngpeters, Editor of The Sun, Lake View, Ohio. "The first few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gave me surprising relief and the second bottle seemed to give me a new stomach and perfectly good health." For sale by all dealers.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with the whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

CORONATION,

ALBERTA

The Pacific Realty Co., Limited
154 Bay Street, Toronto, Phone Main 2435

has been authorized by the Land Department of the Candian a Pacific Railway to sell to the public CORONATION town lots.

Plan and map may be inspected at the office of The Pacific Realty Co., Limited, 154 Bay Street, Toronto, from 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p. m., except Saturday, when the office closes at 1.00 p.m.

Facts About Coronation

Coronation is the first divisional town east of Lacombe, and is splendidly situated about twenty miles east of Castor, in the centre of some of the finest farming districts of Western Canada. Its natural advantages, combined with important railway developments, assure to it a future of considerable importance. Engineers are now locating two branch lines north and northwesterly from Coronation, and a third line is projected southeasterly to connect with the branch running northwesterly from Swift Current.

CORONATION will be:

A divisional centre on the great new railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton.

An important junctional centre, as three branch lines are already projected.

A distributing centre for a large and wealthy district.

A purchasing centre for thousands of Western Canada's most prosperous farmers.

If you wish to go into business or make a safe and profitable investment you cannot do better than purchase lots at Coronation, which is bound to rapidly become one of the most important towns of the West.

Mexico Oil

The Mexican Oil Fields, will probably break all records in the production of oil. The largest oil wells in the world are now flowing in the Tampico field, and development is just fairly begun. We offer an exceptionally attractive investment in the stock of a conservative Company, just organized, which controls 3500 acres, in the midst of the big producing section of the field. We are certain we can convince any one of the merits of the enterprise, and we want you to

INVESTIGATE

It will only cost you two cents to secure maps, booklet, and full description of what we have to offer. The stock is being sold for the purpose of drilling the property. Oil is now being produced on all four sides of this property. We will give you every opportunity to investigate the proposition itself and the officers in charge of its affairs. SPEND A WEEK AT ALGONQUIN.

The popularity of the Algonquin National Park, Ontario, has been pronounced this year, and it has been necessary to use at least 25 large tents as an auxiliary to the accommodation of the Highland Inn, at Algonquin National Park Station.

Most people return to their homes in the early part of September, but as this is one of the most delightful months in this territory, those who can make it convenient are advised to spend a week or two there. The hotel is also open all the winter and with the bracing air of this locality (1700 ft. above the sea) a most delightful sojourn can be spent even in the winter months.

A handsome illustrated booklet may be had on this territory upon application to Mr. A. E. Duff, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

When you have a billious attack give Chamberlain's Tablets a trial. They are excellent. For sale by all dealers.

J. W. Copeland, of Dayton, Ohio, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for his boy who had a cold, and before the bottle was all used the boy's cold was gone. Is that not better than to pay a five dollar doctor's bill? For sale by all dealers.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Lad Injured While Hunting.

While out hunting with several of his companions on Thanksgiving Day, George James, of 505 Sherbrooke street was the victim of a painful accident. One of the party stumbled over a stump and having his finger on the trigger of the gun, discharged it, with the result that George, who was standing nearby received the shot in his leg. When he was taken home, Drs. Young and Boucher were called. They extracted the bullet which had passed right through the bone. The boy is now doing nicely.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered stomach. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and correct that and the headaches will disappear. For sale by all dealers.

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers.

Real Estate, Mining and Industrial Investments

HOW $100 GREW TO $31620

The value and importance of any enterprise must be based on the profits and dividends it can earn. In this respect the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, is without a parallel in the line of investments.

It combines the attractive factors which are needed to make the perfect investment—viz., safety, large earning capacity and low cost of the stock at the start. It is not at all uncommon for oil stocks to begin at a few cents a share and jump to hundreds of dollars a share—sometimes thousands.

	Started at	Has Sold at
Central	10 cents	$2.10
Monte Cristo	10 cents	$4.00
Lucile	10 cents	$16.00
Silver Tip	25 cents	$4.00
San Francisco and McKittrick	40 cents	$28.00
Kern River	50 cents	$8.75
Peerless	50 cents	$8.75
Puente	$10.00	$150.00
Home	$10.00	$5000.00

This list, taken from San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchange records, could be added to almost indefinitely.

Fortunes have been made from stock increases. stock is $200, YOUR YEARLY PROFIT ON AN INVESTMENT OF $300.

When we have ten wells sunk you can reasonably figure on AN ANNUAL PROFIT ON YOUR HOLDINGS OF $2000.

$2000 A YEAR. DOESN'T THIS APPEAL

Many a case could be cited similar to that of Richard Ellis, clerk in a store in Los Angeles, whose investment of $100 became worth $31,620 in a short time. There are hundreds of such cases in Los Angeles alone.

$2000.00 Profit a Year

Do you realise that stock in the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, at the present price of 30 cents a share is not merely the opportunity of the year—IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

If you have $10, $50, $100 or $500 YOU SIMPLY CAN NOT AFFORD TO PASS IT UP.

If we develop only a 1000 barrel well of 26 gravity oil, this production alone will be sufficient to enable the corporation to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. and at the same time have sufficient capital to continue the drilling of wells.

1000 shares of stock at the present price of 30c costs only $300.

20 per cent. dividend on the par value of the TO YOU? Wouldn't you like to be coming up to this office every three months and getting your dividend cheque for $500?

Remember, too, that your stock holdings in Midway Maple Leaf, if you should want to sell them should be worth $18,000 or sixty times the amount of your original investment.

Consider These Facts

The Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company is working in proven gusher territory, the richest oil zone in the world, controlling 40 acres on one-eighth royalty, with the great advantage of the option to purchase at only $1250 per acre after oil is struck, and the ground must then be worth at least $5000 per acre. This means a clean profit of $150,000 over purchase price. It has been demonstrated completely by gushers on adjoining Standard and Honolulu ground, that this portion of the Midway field is not only the richest portion of the whole district, but that it produces the highest grade of oil found in the entire vicinity, and worth 30 per cent. more per barrel at the well.

$30 cash, or $6 down and $6 a month for four months, buys 100 shares.

$60 cash, or $12 down and $12 a month for four months, buys 200 shares.

$120 cash, or $24 down and $24 a month for four months, buys 400 shares.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY IN VANCOUVER REALTY

Investors seeking an opportunity to secure large returns for their money will find an exceptional chance offered by Keith Park Land Co., Limited, of Vancouver, B. C. This company has placed on the market for immediate sale the choicest piece of property on the North Shore.

This tract known as Keith Park, D. L. 676, lies at the junction of the Pipe line Road, (owned by the city of Vancouver) and the Keith Road and is the Junction point for North side traffic.

The Second Narrows Bridge, which is to connect Vancouver and North Vancouver will be constructed so that Keith Park will be in the line of its northern end.

It is confidentially expected that a new town will be created at this point. Dominion, Provincial and Municipal subsidies to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars have already been secured for the bridge project and plans are now being drawn for the bridge. It is expected that actual workwill be started within the next ninety days.

Keith Park presents the best chance to buy ahead of the important municipal and government projects that are planned for the North Side. It will stand the most critical investigation.

Full information and maps supplied upon request. Lots range in price from $200 upwards. Terms one-quarter cash, balance in six equal quarterly payments.

NO MORE WAR NO MORE WORDS!

Some Nation-Fighting has Brought New Words into English Language but North African Scrap Does Not Promise Much.

The war in Northern Africa seems likely to fall behind many of its predecessors by failing to introduce any such novelties as "zareba" or "commandeer" into common speech. The grand time for these invasions was the eighteenth century.

It is just two hundred years since Addison protested in the "Spectator" against the use in military language of such foreign words as "reconnoitre," "corps," "defiles" (meaning narrow passes) and "marauding." And as late as 1758, in the first volume of the "Annual Register," one finds the protest of "the English mob" against the importation of such foreign words as "reconnoitre" and "manoeuvre."

To Escape the Thaw.

In a country town in the English Midlands, there is a man who is so noted for his conversational abilities that his acquaintances avoid giving him unnecessary opportunities to talk.

One cold morning this man rode up to a hotel in the neighborhood just as the guests were finishing breakfast. He dismounted, walked in, saluted the landlord in his usual loud tones, and declared that he was so cold that he could hardly talk.

Just then a nervous traveller who was present stepped up to the landlord, and taking him by the coat, said—

"Mr. L., have my bill brought as soon as possible."

"What is the matter, my dear sir?" inquired the anxious landlord. "Has anything happened?"

"Nothing, nothing! Only I want to get away from here before that man thaws."

A Very Commendable Science!

When Christian Science began to find firm footing in Winchester the little son of a prominent woman, who had embraced the faith and was urging others to take it up was out of school a day or two because of sickness. When the youngster returned, his teacher, who was well along in years and possessed an inquiring mind, engaged the youngster in conversation.

"Been sick, Joe?"

"Yes'm."

"Sick enough to be in bed?"

"Yes'm."

"What did your mother do for you, Joe, while you ached in bed?" asked the teacher, now all expectancy for the reply.

"She mended my trousers," lisped Joe.

Maud—"Why don't you prefer Harry to Will? Harry is capable of big deeds."

Gladys—"Yes, but Will owns some."

The Moose and the Lilly Pad.

The moose's love for the lily pad that floats on the surface of the northern lakes make him appear reckless and unafraid. In summer, even in September, the fishermen often cut him off from the shore, drive him into deep water and have fun with him. Sometimes, when the moose reaches shoal water and gets his hind feet on the bottom, he has fun with the fishermen, smashes his canoe and makes him swim for his life.

However, after the shooting season opens the moose becomes more cautious.

There are thousands of moose around Lake Temagami. At North Bay you change from the Grand Trunk to the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario and get off at Temagami Station.

THE COMFORT OF INDEPENDENCE ASSURED THE B. C. FRUIT GROWER

In British Columbia Fruit Growing is synonymous with Success. The fame of the five-acre fruit farms of the Fraser Valley is spreading to every corner of this continent. Already "Fruit" suggests the Pacific Coast, soon it will direct the thoughts instinctively to British Columbia, particularly to the lower Fraser River Valley.

FLESHERTON GARDENS, which I am now selling, is the cream of this Valley land. The soil is a rich deep chocolate, humous and friable, free from weeds, stones or stumps. Good roads lead to the property and two railways are ready to carry the fruit to market. The Chilliwack line of the B. C. Electric Railway CUTS THROUGH FLESHERTON GARDENS, and the Victoria, Vancouver and Eastern is only a few yards away. Over a dozen trains pass the property every day, and the traffic will increase in the immediate future.

BIG PROFITS IN FRUITS AND VEGETABLES.

Do you know that you can make immense profits in fruits, tubers and vegetables on the Coast? To-day last year's potatoes are selling at $70 a ton in Seattle, only a few miles from here. In Westminster and Vancouver the price is from $60 to $65 a ton. Cherries fetch 50c a pound and strawberries 25c a box. All other fruits are high in proportion. Remember these are NOT FANCY PRICES, but to-day's quotations. There is no difficulty in selling the fruit, for people here have the money and don't mind the price.

IT'S EASY TO SECURE THE LAND

I have placed FLESHERTON GARDENS on the market on very easy terms, $300 cash and the balance spread over several years. You can have your pick of these five acre farms at from $150 to $350 per acre. You cannot find a better investment anywhere; no matter how rosy other prospects may be, this one leads them all.

Sign this blank, and mail it to me NOW. I can tell you a great deal more about FLESHERTON GARDANS in a personal letter. It's to your advantage to get all the information you can.

6th BARGAIN ANNEX Anniversary

312 SUCCESSFUL ANNEX SALES

To-day we celebrate the Sixth Anniversary of the Bargain Annex

The Cressman "Bargain Annex" is the most unique BARGAIN DEPT. in the province--inaugurated by us 6 years ago this month—covered by Government Patent--always, every Wednesday crowded with eager shopoers.

It is a businesss pride w th us that we have a BARGAIN DEPT second to none in the province, and the only one of its kind in the Dominion.

They all said "We Couldn't," but "WE DID"

Everyone said a purely Bargain Dept., with 4th Floor open one day a week only would be a failure. It had no predecessor to show it could be made a success. It's not necessary to tell you THIS Bargain Dept. HAS NOT been a failure. SUCCESSFUL does not begin to spell its SUCCESS Always, all the time busy in the Bargain Annex.

OSHAWA SELLS POWER DEVELOPED AT TRENTON AS CHEAP AS PETERBORO'

IMPORTANT MEETING OF BOARD OF TRADE LAST NIGHT.

Big Effort to be Made to Put Life Into the Organization—The Question of Power Enters Largely Into Discussion—Ald. Bradburn is Hopeful of the Problem Being Solved Through Deputation to Ottawa

The Board of Trade met in the city hall last night. There were present President, W. Eastwood, Ald. Bradburn, Wm. Langford, W. R. Morris, Wm. Might, G. C. Wainwright, W. A. Austin, J. Picard, D. O'Connell, W. H. Denham, T. F. Matthews, W. H. Moore, C. H. Pennefather, G. Hatton

It seemed at first as though the proceedings were going to be of a very apathic nature, but keen interest was awakened toward the last, when vice-president, Dan O'Connell, characterized the Board of Trade as "an institution dying of dry rot" and did not know what had got into Peterborough or its citizens to engender so apparent a lack of interest in the Board of Trade. I, as vice-president—and your president, I am sure—do not desire to hold office in a dying organization. Mr. O'Connell then went on to say that this city must wake up to the importance of the Board of Trade. Every City and town in Canada to-day making any substantial progress owes its prosperity to some extent to its Board of Trade. The time has come when real live trade and industrial problems must be submitted to Peterborough's Board of Trade for discussion and action; and if its members will but give their attention to the solution of the various industrial schemes that should from time to time be introduced the Board of Trade may yet be a live institution. Peterborough is better situated than 90 per cent. of all other towns in Ontario, for industrial expansion, and yet Brantford, Berlin, Galt and such places are acquiring new industries while no progress in such a direction is being made in this city. "I think, Mr. President, the speaker concluded, "it's up yo you to some extent to awaken life in this Board by seeing that subjects of live interest to citizens are furnished its members for discussion. Members should be canvassed, either personally or by letter and an effort made to infuse some life into this dying concern."

The president offered that no one dislikes to be linked with a failure more than he, and agreed that a big awakening must be attempted.

Mr. Langford objected to Mr. O'Connell's contention that this city was making no progress. Peterborough, he offered, has made more substantial advance than any other town not on the lake-board. "Perhaps a lack of interest in this board," he said, "is due to the fact that the efficiency of the City Council, leaves but little work for the Board of Trade to undertake. Again, there has been too much talking and not enough work at the Board's meetings."

Mr. O'Connell replied that it is a lamentable fact that no big effort has been or is being made by the Board to build up our industrial interests.

Mr. Austin thought the Board had started out wrong in putting the membership fee at $2, thus qualifying it as a cheap concern not worthy of interest. "I was," he said, "connected with a town half Peterborough's size where we secured a Board of Trade membership of 120 at a fee of $5, and accomplished big work in carrying industrial by-laws. Raise the fee to $5 and you get a better machine in which life will rapidly be infused. In Edmonton, the Board of Trade got together one night, and they raised $25,000 for the purpose of promoting industrial expansion."

Mr. Pennefather, manager of the Union Bank, remarked that in Hamilton the Board of Trade was at one time stagnant; its few loyal members sent out a stimulating circular letter headed "Boost Hamilton," and in quick time secured a membership of 300.

POWER ! POWER !! POWER !!!

Mr. W. H. Denham, of the Quaker Oats, here diverted the attention of the members to the question of industrial expansion. Peterborough citizens have got the idea, he contended, that it is of no use looking for new industries unless we have $13 or $15 horse power to offer. The question of power, he said, is not of so much importance as people think. How many industries are using more than two, three or four hundred horse power. If this city has the advantages of transportation, labor, desirable residential conditions, etc. it should get industries apart from the question of present power facilities. What matters $1000 more or less in power to an industry if they find the geographical, labor, residential and transportation facilities desired ? What Peterborough needs is that its citizens subscribe to industrial stock. His home town, he contended, has assured substantial industrial progress by subscribing dollar for dollar in every promising concern seeking location (no watered stock, however, allowed.) It is passing strange, he concluded, that one broker can secure in this city in one week $7000 subscribed stock to a silver mine—an uncertainty—when no stock can be sold for legitimate industrial enterprises.

Ald. Buller agreed with Mr. Denham, excepting in regard to power, which he concluded to be of considerable importance. Confidence must be restored here, he said, and citizens subscribe generously to industrial stock before industrial growth is assured.

Ald. Bradburn, one of the City's Power Committee, assured the Board that the question of power had been before the Council the past two years or more. Much detail work had been done, involving considerable time and had the Committee received that support it should have had from certain parties Peterborough would to day have municipal owned power assured. "I assure you that we have every reason to hope that the deputation at Ottawa next Friday, will bring back positive assurance of an early solving of this problem."

Mr. Denham here stated that he did not wish the Board to adjourn with a wrong impression of his opinion. "The point I want to make," he said, "is that it would be a good thing for the city to acquire a block ofpower. But the people should be educated up to the fact that power is not the whole question in locating industries. Galt, Brantford, Berlin, Guelph are acquiring new industries with power at $23, $24, $25, $26 whereas we are making no progress with power at $20.

Mr. T. F. Matthews—"In Brantford the interests of the industries are interwoven in the way of stock, which one takes in the other, and citizens also subscribe generously. I agree with Mr. Langford that Peterborough with its natural advantages is the best town in Canada and has gone ahead rapidly. Still we have not grown as much as we should have done industrially, and must not lose sight of the fact that Oshawa can sell power developed on the Trent Waterway at Trenton as cheap as it is sold here. Something must be done to hold our position, to say nothing of advancing

Mr. Eastwood and Mr. Moore here both pointed out that Peterborough citizens had subscribed to certain industries pretty generously and lost heavily.

Mr. O'Connell at this juncture enquired of secretary Quartermaine, if any committee had been appointed to actively engage industrial or other questions.

The secretary read from the minutes of the annual meeting that the only committee yet appointed was one to strike the Standing Committees, of which Mr. O'Connell was the chairman, but that committee had not yet reported.

Mr. O'Connell admitted his delinquency, was sorry, took a leaf out of his chapter of advice early in the evening that the members awaken up and do something, and promised to get busy.

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSIONER LEFT A DEFICIT OF $109

—Last night's meeting of the Board of Trade, Mr. D. O'Connell reported on all transactions in connection with the late office of Industrial Commissioner, many of which our readers are familiar with.

The total amount secured by subscriptions and from the City Council for this office was $4,600.91. After paying Mr. Duggan's salary of $3000 together with travelling expenses and cost of office furniture there was found in the bank to the commissioners' credit $73.33, against which there existed accrued debts to the amount of $182.52, leaving a deficit of approximately $109 against the office. The Board of Trade's industrial commission committee consulted with the Council's Manufacturing committee, and City Clerk Armstrong and learned that 20 years ago the town had voted a sum of money with which to investigate the mineral resources of Peterborough County, and a balance of $189.70 of that appropriation was traced to the Bank of Commerce, where it lay to the city's credit. The Manufacturers' committee then agreed that this money should be used to defray the liabilities remaining against the industrial commission office in consideration of the Council assuming proprietorship of the office furniture, valued at about $120.

Mr. O'Connell here offered that something must be done regarding the duties of this office, which is necessary to Peterborough's continued industrial growth. The city council has voted $3000 for industrial commission work, and they have treated the Board's committee with a great deal of consideration and shown a desire to further the interests of the office. The council has suggested that a committee of three be appointed by the Board of Trade to act in conjunction with the City's Manufacturers' committee.

Moved by Mr. O'Connell, seconded by Mr. W. R. Morris,—That the arrangements with the Manufacturers' committee in respect to the debts of the industrial commission office, reported by Mr. O'Connell, be ratified. Carried.

Moved by Mr. O'Connell, seconded by Mr. Austin,—That this Board appoint three members to associate with the manufacturers' committee of the City Council in regard to industrial matters.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Morris, Messrs. D. O'Connell, W. H. Denham and the chairman of the Board of Trade were appointed the committee to act in conjunction with the City's Manufacturers' committee.

Moved by Mr. O'Connell, seconded by Ald. Bradburn—That Secretary Quartermaine be allowed to secure suitable assistance in collecting the Board of Trade dues.—Carried.

PREMIER WHITNEY ON BI-LINGUAL SCHOOLS

Toronto, Nov. 13, 1911.

There is a great deal of misunderstanding about what are called "bi-lingual schools." As I saidin my speech in the House last March there is no such thing in the Province as a bi-lingual school Here is the resolution passed by the House unanimously last session

"Resolved, that the English language shall be the language of instruction and of communication with the pupils of the Public and Separate Schools in the Province except where, in the opinion of the Department of Education it is impracticable by reason of the pupils not understanding English."

Dr. Merchant was instructed to make acareful and exhaustive examination of the conditions in the schools.

When his report is received if it shows that any schools are not conducted in accordance with the terms of the resolution, the Department, will at once take steps to compel compliance with such terms.

Yours faithfully,

(Sgd.) J. P. WHITNEY.

Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce who came down for the dinner and attended a luncheon given by T. Kennard Thomson, vice-president of the club, was indisposed, but came to the guest table later in the evening.

After assuring his hearers that no unfriendly spirit towards the United States had animated the Canadian people in the recent election and assuring them that the Borden Government and their supporters wanted friendly trade relations with this country, Mr. Cockshutt said: "During the last few years, under Sir Wilfrid Laurier's regime, the word 'autonomy' has been worked to death in season, in certain parts of Canada. Under new auspices, I trust that we shall hear more about the responsibilities of Empire, and less regarding our own autonomy; considerable less about our rights and much more about our duty."

CARNEGIE AND WARSHIPS.

Andrew Carnegie dwelt on his favorite topic, "Peace." He recalled that on his visit to Canada some years ago there was much rejoicing over the building of the first Dreadnought.

He recalled that Canada had sent 40,000 of her young men over to aid the American Union, and added that should Canada ever be invaded, 400,000 fellow English-speaking brothers would cross the border to repel the invaders from her shores.

"We in America, he added, "could afford to follow Canada's example in regard to control and management of labor. We could well adopt her system of mounted police in the Far West."

FOSTER EXPLAINS VOTE.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, who was suffering from a severe cold, spoke briefly. Expressing strongest sympathy for peace, he said he knew it would always exist between the two countries.

"Canada has always wanted to trade with United States," said Mr. Foster, "and under one treaty she did so, but America abrogated the treaty. We are your third best customer. We give you a bigger market than you give us. We meet you with an average tariff of 22, and you meet us with 44.

"There was no animosity in the rejection of the agreement. We in Canada are British and we intend to remain British to the last crack of doom, and we couldn't remain so under a reciprocity pact. We could not break down our barriers of protection. We want the United States to remain our friend."

NEWFOUNDLAND TOO SENDS GOOD NEWS

OF THE GREAT WORK DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ARE DOING.

J. C. Green, a sufferer from Rheumatism and Lumbago for five years, finds quick relief and complete cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Clam Bank Cove, Bay St. George, Nfld., Nov. 15. — Newfoundland contributes its share of the splendid cures made by Dodd's Kidney Pills. There is a striking example at this place. Mr. J. C. Green, a well-known resident, suffered from Rheumatism and Lumbago for five years. To-day he is a well man, and does not hesitate to give Dodd's Kidney Pills all the credit for the cure.

"My trouble was caused by strain and cold," Mr. Green says, in telling his story. "And for five years I suffered from Rheumatism and Lumbago. I was always tired and nervous. My sleep was broken and unrefreshing, and the pains of neuralgia added to my distress.

"I was in very bad shape indeed when I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, but they soon gave me relief. It is because I found a cure in Dodds Kidney Pills that I recommend them to my friends."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Kidney ills no matter where it is found or in what stage it is in.

Seventy-Seven Year Old Has Taken Young Bride.

Open Winter Predicted.

An Eastern Township's hermit declares there will be an open winter. He bases his prediction upon the fact that the squirrels are leisurely storing up their supply of winter nuts, and that the wild geese have not gone south yet. The rabbits have not begun to don their winter jacket of grey. There is also a dearth of water in the creeks and rivers. In many places the wells are entirely dry. In short he speaks confidently of open weather throughout the winter.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

was incorporated by Special Act of the Parliament of Canada for the purpose of carrying on the business of Fire Insurance, as outlined in the Insurance Act and the Special Act of Incorporation.

Capital Stock Authorised by the Board.....$2,000,000
Capital Stock Subscribed to date $1,650,000

The Head Office of the Company is in the city of Winnipeg, and, in addition to this, Branch Offices and Agencies will be established throughout the Dominion.

It must be generally conceded that, owing to the satisfactory conditions at present prevailing throughout not only Western Canada, but the entire Dominion, this Company is being organized at a most favorable and opportune time.

Canada, and particularly the Western portion of the Dominion, is advancing in population and wealth more rapidly than at any other time in its history, and every indication points towards a period of great prosperity and development.

The great influx of settlers into Western Canada is resulting in tremendous activity in every line of business. Railroad construction is proceeding on a scale hitherto unknown in this country, and as adequate transportation is of vital importance in moving our immense crops with a proper degree of facility, it is highly encouraging to see so much well-directed energy along the lines of railway extension.

Coincident with railway expansion, we find many new districts rapidly filling up with desirable settlers, bringing with them a good supply of cash and effects. With the settlement of the rural districts, new towns and villages are springing up, which will, during the next few years, become, in many instances, important business centres.

With such unprecedented growth in Western as well as Eastern Canada, involving an expenditure of millions of dollars in building operations, it is at once evident that there is a very extensive and profitable field for a new Fire Insurance Company which will have a thorough organization throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, and more particularly in the four Western Provinces.

As a great volume of our business will be transacted in the West, it is a matter of the greatest importance that the Head Office of the Company, as well as the Directors, should be located in the West, so that the affairs of the Company may be conducted to the best possible advantage.

DIRECTORS.

The Board of Directors consists entirely of Western men with a very intimate knowledge of Western conditions, and they are, accordingly, well conversant with the financial and general business requirements of the West. They are thoroughly representative of the various important branches of financial, commercial, industrial and professional life in Western Canada, and with their wide reputation for business ability and integrity, as well as financial standing, combined with a long and varied experience, and practical knowledge of business affairs, they are exceptionally well qualified to render excellent service to a large financial institution.

As the Directors have valuable connections with extensive business interests and are also Directors of other financial corporations, as well as being otherwise identified with large and influential companies which control a great deal of high-grade fire insurance, they will be instrumental in placing a large portion of this desirable insurance with the new Company, so that we may safely conclude that from the very beginning of operations a large and profitable business will be secured.

Under these favorable conditions, and with a strong, energetic, as well as experienced and conservative management, combined with the fact that each Director has subscribed for eleven thousand five hundred dollars ($11,500) of the Capital Stock, on which all calls have been paid, and takes an active interest in the welfare of the Company, there is only one conclusion to draw, and that is that the affairs of the Company will be conducted in such a careful, conscientious and intelligent manner that the interests of both policyholders and stockholders will be fully protected.

IT IS WORTHY OF NOTE THAT $1,650,000 OF CAPITAL STOCK HAS ALREADY BEEN SUBSCRIBED BY PROMINENT BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN THROUGHOUT THE DOMINION AND ELSEWHERE.

No commission has been paid to anyone for securing stock subscriptions, and no expense has been incurred in the promotion and organization of the Company, except the expense in connection with securing the Charter and other necessary expenses.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE.

The Canada National Fire, being organized in the West, MAY BE TRULY CALLED A WESTERN COMPANY, and, as such, should receive the liberal patronage and hearty co-operation of the citizens of Western Canada, as well as the support of people from Eastern Canada who desire to become associated with a strong and progressive Canadian Company.

When promoting this Company the Directors were fully convinced that there was a splendid opening in Western Canada for a Company prepared to carry on the business of Fire Insurance on a large and comprehensive scale, and which, at the same time, could offer ADEQUATE PROTECTION TO BOTH POLICYHOLDERS AND SHAREHOLDERS. Accordingly, when making application for a Dominion charter, the Company was incorporated with a capital of $3,000,000.00, of which amount the Directors decided to offer for public subscription the sum of $2,000,000.00.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT FEATURE IN FIRE INSURANCE IS PROTECTION, and with the LARGE CAPITAL, combined with the high standard of Reserve, which will be maintained through careful selection of risks and profits from judicious investments, the Directors and Management feel confident that this Company will be accorded a very hearty reception by Canadian citizens, and will soon rank as one of the leading Fire Companies.

WITHOUT A LARGE AND SUBSTANTIAL CAPITAL FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE POLICYHOLDERS, A FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY IS SERIOUSLY HANDICAPPED, AND DOES NOT AFFORD THE POLICYHOLDER THAT PROTECTION TO WHICH HE IS JUSTLY ENTITLED, and the Directors of this Company, being fully aware of this most important fact, are adopting a very wise policy in OFFERING FOR SUBSCRIPTION SUCH A LARGE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL STOCK, and when our entire stock is subscribed and paid in full it will represent the largest amount of subscribed and paid-up capital of any Canadian Fire Insurance Company, and will be a tower of strength and of very material benefit to the company in carrying on its extensive operations.

GENERAL AGENT FOR CANADA

W. E. FUDGER, ESQ.

It shall be the policy of the Company to use the UTMOST DISCRETION in the selection of desirable risks, and, at the same time, to so widely distribute its business that any danger arising from a possible conflagration at any point may be reduced to a minimum.

The investment of the Company's funds will be given the GREATEST OF CARE AND ATTENTION by the Board of Directors.

Only GILT-EDGE securities will be considered, such as first mortgages on improved, productive real estate, stocks, bonds and debentures of companies of high repute, as well as Dominion securities and municipal, county and school debentures of well-established districts.

As a LARGE PERCENTAGE of these securities is READILY NEGOTIABLE, the Company will have abundant LIQUID ASSETS to meet any possible contingency that might arise.

Our first mortgage investments will be confined to Western Canada, and as the rate of interest obtainable on first-class productive real estate is FULLY TWO PER CENT. greater in the West than in Eastern Canada, the Company will have a DECIDED ADVANTAGE over Companies operating exclusively in the older portions of the Dominion. A fixed policy of the Company is to loan NOT MORE THAN FIFTY PER CENT. of a conservative value of the property, and to stipulate for a definite return of principal, together with interest, each year during the term of the loan. With these periodical repayments of principal, and with land values in Western Canada steadily increasing, the Company's first mortgage securities will continue to improve year by year.

With the active development in Western Canada, a great deal of capital will be required for many years to come, and the Company will, therefore, experience a very ready demand for its funds on high-grade securities and at a profitable rate of interest.

The Directors decided to issue the stock at the price of ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTEEN DOLLARS PER SHARE, being at a premium of fifteen per cent.

THE TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION ARE :

On application, $25.00 per share, which shall include the premium of $15.00 per share, and the balance, payable in ten consecutive half-yearly instalments of $9.00 per share, the first of such half-yearly instalments to become due and payable six months from date of allotment of shares.

Shares may be PAID IN FULL at time of subscription, but if purchased on the INSTALMENT PLAN the subscriber shall have the privilege of paying any or all of the instalments prior to due dates.

The Following Table Shows the Amount of First Call as Well as the Subsequent Payments :

NO BONUS STOCK shall be issued for any purpose whatsoever, and even the Directors, who are very heavy stockholders in the Company, have paid the SAME PRICE for their shares as the general public. NOT ONE SHARE has been or will be issued to any person at a price less than $115.00 per share.

THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY to secure some of the Capital Stock of a Western Fire Insurance Company. With a large amount of desirable and profitable business so readily obtainable by the Company through its valuable and extensive business connections, rapid progress should be made, and with investments carefully selected and unexcelled in earning power, the Company will be enabled to not only pay substantial dividends, but build up a large reserve, and thereby materially increase the value of the stock.

The Directors firmly believe in the policy that EVERY SHAREHOLDER SHOULD CO-OPERATE WITH THE MANAGEMENT of a Company and take an active interest in its welfare. For that reason, it is their intention to WIDELY DISTRIBUTE the CAPITAL STOCK, and by that means obtain the support of the leading business and professional men throughout the country.

With the rapid development of the West during recent years, involving an outlay of many millions of capital, it has become generally recognized that WESTERN CANADA IS VERY MUCH IN NEED OF MORE LARGE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND ESPECIALLY OF WESTERN ORIGIN, to properly meet the growing requirements of the West, and to not only improve the present financial situation, but to materially assist in retaining, as much as possible, desirable business, with its resultant profits, within our own Western borders.

The business of fire insurance has now grown to such large proportions that it has become a very important factor in the financial and commercial world, and as its scope and influence is so general and widespread it is only natural to find that the question of AMPLE PROTECTION TO POLICYHOLDERS, which is the PRIMARY FUNCTION OF FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES, should be so GENERALLY DISCUSSED AT THE PRESENT TIME.

This important subject has given rise to a very STRONG FEELING in Western Canada that the TIME HAS NOW ARRIVED when the Western people should organize a Fire Insurance Company of such strength and proportions that it will soon rank as one of the leading fire companies of America, and command general respect and confidence, which is so ESSENTIAL to a company that solicits the support and patronage of all classes of the community.

The Directors have every confidence that they will receive the hearty co-operation of not only Western citizens, but of people from every part of the Dominion, to build up a GREAT fire insurance company with AMPLE PROTECTION for the people, and which will be a source of pride and credit to our country.

The following Canadian Government Insurance statistics should prove of ESPECIAL INTEREST :

In the year 1909 the total amount of fire premiums collected in Canada was $1,785,539.00, whereas in the year 1909 the total premiums charged amounted to the large sum of $22,293,638.26, and of this amount $6,551,644.41 was charged by Canadian Companies, $11,518,267.45 by British Companies, and $4,223,721.39 by American Companies.

During the last forty-one years the aggregate amount of fire insurance premiums collected in Canada reached the immense total of $280,740,466.00, of which the large sum of $218,310,047.00 represents the amount of fire premiums collected by FOREIGN COUNTRIES, and which, therefore, was taken out of the country to build up foreign companies and enrich foreign shareholders.

Notwithstanding that a considerable portion of the fire premiums collected in Canada by Foreign Companies has been repaid to Canadian policyholders, through fire losses, it must be evident that the larger the proportion of Canadian fire insurance that is placed with Canadian Companies, the larger is the amount of capital retained in the Dominion and always available for investment purposes, to build up our Canadian financial institutions, and thereby add to the general wealth and prosperity of our country.

The above figures are most significant and clearly demonstrate that while the CANADIAN FIRE COMPANIES have been doing a satisfactory business they HAVE SECURED only a SMALL portion of the Fire Insurance transacted in Canada, or, to be more exact, ONLY TWENTY-TWO PER CENT. of THE TOTAL FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN IN CANADA, covering a period of the last forty-one years. With the extraordinary progress which Canada has been making during recent years, the field for financial institutions has become so widely extended that there is a CONSTANTLY INCREASING DEMAND for new large financial corporations.

By further reference to our Government statistics it will be observed that at December 31st, 1909, the total number of Canadian Fire Companies operating under Dominion charter was ONLY TWENTY-ONE, and of this number ONLY TWO HAD A PAID-UP CAPITAL IN EXCESS OF $500,000.

In promoting this large Canadian Company the Directors are fully confident that the new organization will, with characteristic Western energy and enterprise, soon come to be recognized as an important factor in the insurance world, and as The Canada National Fire will be instrumental in RETAINING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF CANADA a large amount of money which would otherwise be taken out of the country to build up foreign corporations the people of this growing Dominion will readily see the advisability of giving this Company their MORAL AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT, in order that we may build up a STRONG and VIGOROUS Company which will prove a valuable acquisition to our Canadian monetary institutions.

This is the last opportunity to secure, direct from the Company, some of this desirable stock.

It is worthy of special note that the demand for the stock has exceeded the Directors' most sanguine expectations ; in fact, of the $2,000,000 of stock to be issued, $1,650,000 has already been subscribed, and, from present indications, with the large number of applications for stock being received daily, the Directors are confident that the balance of the issue, which is now only $350,000, will be subscribed by August 26th, 1911, the date appointed for the closing of stock subscriptions.

For this reason, the Directors strongly recommend the investing public to mail their applications for stock at their earliest possible opportunity.

Subscribers are requested to kindly fill in attached application form, stating name in full, number of shares desired, occupation and address, and mail the application, along with the first call of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) per share on the stock, direct to the Head Office of the Company, Winnipeg, Man., or, if so desired, application may be made for the stock at any of the Company's Branch Offices or at any Branch of the Royal or Imperial Banks, where application blanks and any additional information will be readily furnished. Applications for stock will be considered in the order received, and on approval of the same by the Board of Directors a certificate for the number of shares subscribed will be issued and mailed the shareholders forthwith. Cheques, Drafts, Money Orders or other remittances on account of stock subscriptions should be made payable to The Canada National Fire Insurance Company.

KING EDWARD VACUM CLEANER

You cannot clean carpets, rugs and furniture by beating. If you think you have, just try a KING EDWARD VACUUM CLEANER and you will find the article full of dust, which breeds disease.

The KING EDWARD HAND MACHINE has no equal as compared with other hand machines. It is lighter to operate and its suction is much stronger. Its suction is stronger than many of the power machines, and the dusting is done away with. On account of the short stroke one person can operate it on carpets and rugs equally as well as two, and it is about half the weight of other hand machines to carry up and down stairs or from one room to another. It is sold for less money than any of the hand machines. All machines are guaranteed.

Smithson Institution Gets Canada Specimens

Four Naturalists Explored Wild Country Surrounding Mount Robson for Months.

Washington, D. C., November 1.—The Smithsonian Institution gets nine hundred specimens from the Canadian wilds. The Smithsonian party which accompanied Dr. A. O. Wheeler, president of the Alpine Club of Canada, on his topographic survey of the British Columbia-Alberta boundary line and the Mount Robson region, has just returned to Washington after a successful tour.

The new collection is quite complete, and covers practically all the birds and animals inhabiting this previously unworked territory.

The party, consisting of four members, included the assistant curator of Mammals and Mr. J. H. Riley, of the division of birds of the National Museum.

Assembling at Edmonton, Alberta, early in July, the party proceeded on the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad to the end of the line, where they found it necessary to take pack horses to penetrate the Mount Robson region. The land to be surveyed included the territory lying about this mountain in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, comprising the most rugged and broken country imaginable.

Amid this wonderful scenery Mount Robson rises in titanic outline the highest peak in the Rockies, probably between 14,500 and 15,000 feet, and surrounding it for a distance of fifty miles in all directions lies the field of survey.

In this wild and unclaimed country the party of naturalists remained nearly four months, protected by special permits from the Canadian Government. The natural history work was divided up, Mr. Hollister and Mr. Riley collecting the birds and small animals, while the other two collectors hunted big game.

The collection includes some 900 specimens of birds and mammals, the latter ranging in size from mole-like creatures called "H. H. Rews," to full grown caribous and bears. One enormous grizzly bear was obtained by a fortunate shot. Much fine material for exhibition groups was secured, including a series of caribous, mountain goats, mountain sheep, beavers, and many varieties of small animals.

Besides birds and mammals, a large number of plants and insects were collected. All the specimens have been turned over to the National Museum, where they will be put on exhibition.—Montreal Star, Nov. 1, 1911.

HOW HE GOT THE PIPE THRO'

There was Considerable Guessing Round the Hall-Stove Before the Bunch Got to Know about the Wisdom of the Wood.

Senator McLean, of Connecticut, is a great fisherman and hunter. Last spring he invited two companions to accompany him to a shooting camp in the North woods. When they entered the little cabin their attention was attracted to the unusual position of a new stove, which was set on posts about four feet high.

One of the senator's companions began to comment upon the knowledge woodsmen gain by observation. "Now," said he, "this man has discovered that the heat radiating from the stove strikes the roof and the circulation is so quickened that the camp is warmed in much less time than would be required if the stove were in its regular position."

The other was of the opinion that it was elevated to be above the window in order that cool and pure air could be had at night. Senator McLean, being more practical, contended that it was raised in order that a good supply of green wood could be placed beneath it to dry.

After considerable argument each man placed a five-dollar bill upon the table and agreed to let the guide settle the dispute.

"Well," said he, "when I brought that 'ere stove up th' river I lost most of th' stove pipe over board, and had ter set it up there so as ter git th' pipe reach through th' roof." He got the money.

HANDING OUT FIRST AID

Many Railroadmen Will Take Share in Handling the Work of the Five-Team First-Aid Proposition. Recently Introduced.

The announcement is made that the Canadian Pacific Railway has planned a big competition for the members of its "First Aid to the Injured" classes. The Canadian Pacific has gone into this matter very thoroughly and it is now the foremost railway in America in teaching its employees First Aid."

In the competition to be held in a few weeks practically every man on the Company's lines holding a certificate will be entered.

The competition will take the form of a team contest in which there will be five men to the team. First of all examinations will be held to determine the champions of each division. Then the various divisions will compete to determine the champions of the lines East and West of Fort William and Port Arthur, and finally these latter two teams will meet to decide the champion team of the C. P. R. system. In each division the winning team will receive a silver cup and medals given by the General Superintendents. For the winners of the Eastern and Western lines competition, there will be shields given by other high officials of the C. P. R. and for the team winning the Championship of the whole system there will be a beautiful shield given by the Hon. W. Nesbitt of Toronto.

"Black Lands" of Russia

One of the finest wheat-growing areas of Europe is that known as the "black lands" of Russia. These wonderfully fertile plains stretch from the Carpathians to the Urals and to the Upper Oka in the north. The black earth is a kind of loess or deposit with a percentage of humus due to the decay for an incalculable period of herbaceous vegetation. On the primitive Russian system of rotation of crops known as the "three-fields" system corn has been grown every year for from 50 to 70 years without manure. In the south, towards the Black Sea, the thickness of the deposit of black earth diminishes, and it disappears altogether in some of the river valleys. The wonderful fertility of the black lands will explain why with her own teeming population Russia is able to grow sufficient wheat not only to meet her own needs but to export an immense quantity from the busy wharves of Odessa. A large percentage of the Russian export of wheat reaches the London market; and as a rule Russia ranks next to the United States in the amount of wheat exported to Great Britain, the largest wheat-importing country on record.

The Original and Only Genuine
Beware of Imitation Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

The town of Coronation was born with the proverbial golden spoon in its mouth, and is promised a brilliant career, for though not yet out of its swaddling clothes, it has already attained the dignity of a divisional point on the Canadian Pacific Railway, with three branch lines projected from its centre. The site of the town is a commanding one and the country is visible round about for miles in all directions. Ample divisional yards have been provided for railway purposes, and with an eye to future development the railway company has reserved a block for school purposes another block for municipal buildings and a large area for a public park. The two principal streets are Royal avenue and Windsor street, and are each one hundred feet wide.

Coronation town was so named by the Canadian Pacific people, and prior to the sale of lots a few weeks ago the site had no particularly big mark on the map of Canada. Coronation in fact, was not more than nominally in existence until the date of the sale, though a few enterprising merchants had erected temporary shops and huts on lots which they intended to bid for at the sale, but which they had not yet secured. Most of the men in possession evidently were successful in getting legitimate title to their holdings, for only one man is spoken of as having to vacate after the sale, and he furnished one of the surprising scenes of an eventful day by hitching up ten teams of horses to his double-fronted hardware store and moving the structure intact on to his new lot.

On the evening before the sale the first passenger train, filled with purchasers from all points of the continent, arrived in Coronation just two hours after the arrival of the track. Few of the travellers, however, were aware of the fact that they were practically travelling over new steel as fast as it was being laid down, and it was not until the morning following that the scene of the track-laying machine at work a scant mile ahead of their train was revealed to the astonished gaze of the passengers.

Perhaps the most commendable piece of enterprise of a remarkable community, however, was the issuing of a newspaper, the Coronation News Review, on the day of the sale. The paper appeared early in the afternoon and contained a full report of the sale proceedings during the morning.

Getting the Facts

"Robert," said Uncle Henry, who was visiting his city nephew, "who's that man in the house on the other side of the street? He stands in front of his window and shaves himself every morning. He's done it now for three days running."

"And he's probably done it for the last ten years, for all I know, uncle," replied Robert, in a tone that lacked interest.

"Has he lived there all that time?"

"Yes; and longer than that, I suppose. He was there when I came here ten years ago."

"Who is he?"

"I don't know."

"What does he do?"

"I haven't the slightest idea uncle."

Whereupon Uncle Henry put on his hat and went out. In about fifteen minutes he was back in the house again.

"Robert," he said, "that chap's name is Findlater. He runs an insurance office in the High Street. He's worth probably ten thousand, owns that house, belongs to the Methodist church, has three boys, one girl, is a widower, fifty-one years old, a member of the Masonic order, has a farm in the country, and is engaged to his typewriter. I believe living in the city has made you stupid about getting information."

Man's Economy

One day, as a farmer of extraordinary meanness was starting out for the town to do his weekly shopping for even he had to buy something for the support of his family — his wife came out and asked him to buy her a darning-needle.

"What's the matter with the one I bought you last winter?" asked the farmer.

"The eye has broken," she replied.

"Bring the needle here," he said. "I'm not going to allow such extravagance. I'll have the needle mended."

The woman, wise in her generation, made no protest. She brought out the broken needle.

The economical farmer rode away into the town, and made his first stop at the blacksmith's shop. He took out the needle, and gave it to the blacksmith.

"I want that mended," he said.

The blacksmith knew his customer, and, keeping his face perfectly straight, said the eye should be mended in an hour's time.

The farmer rode away, and the blacksmith walked across the road and bought a new needle for a cent. When the farmer called again, the blacksmith gave him the new needle.

The farmer looked at the smooth, polished surface of the steel, and remarked that it was a good job. "How much will it be?" said he.

"Five cents," said the blacksmith, and the farmer as he paid it remarked that he knew that the needle could be mended, but his wife would have gone to the expense of buying a new one!

A Des Moines man had an attack of muscular rheumatism in his shoulder. A friend advised him to go to Hot Springs. That meant an expense of $150.00 or more. He sought for a quicker and cheaper way to cure it and found it in Chamberlain's Liniment. Three days after the first application of this liniment he was well. For sale by all dealers.

WHO'S WHO IN CANADA

W. T. ROBSON

If every settler brought into Canada is worth a thousand dollars to the Dominion, and the average value of a tourist is five dollars per day to the district visited, then the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is the greatest asset this country possesses, because it attracts many thousands of tourists and immigrants annually.

Much of its great traffic is secured through the medium of judicious advertising.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, gives the Advertising Department of the railway his personal attention, but the man who attends to the details of the work is W. T. Robson, the General Advertising Agent. Mr. Robson's office is at the Windsor station at Montreal, from where he annually directs the expenditure of over half a million dollars. Mr. Robson is a man who is singularly fitted for his position. He has been associated with things advertising, practically all his life. He was born at Lindsay, Ont., from where he graduated into journalism in Toronto. He stayed there for some time and then drifted to New York where eventually he became one of the best known advertising men in that city.

Mr. Robson has strong imperialistic ideas and while on Broadway he was instrumental in forming the New York branch of the Canadian Club, a club which has come to be a big force in the big metropolis, and in which Mr. Robson served in the capacity of President.

When he came to back to Canada Mr. Robson brought with him both the ability for the job and he has been eminently successful.

OUR NEW PREMIER
Is a man of Kent

Robert Laird Borden, the Premier of Canada, is a member of a famous Kentish family in England. The Borden or Burdens are "men of Kent," who have for centuries been associated with the parishes of Headcorn and Borden, near Maidstone. The present head of the family is an octogenarian miller living in Headcorn. A table in given tracing the descent of the present Conservative leader in a direct line from Henry Borden in 1380. Richard Borden left Headcorn and emigrated to New England in 1638, and his third son, Matthew, was the first white man born in Rhode Island. Richard's grandson, John Samuel, bought large tracts of land in Nova Scotia, and the latter was grandfather of the new Canadian Premier.

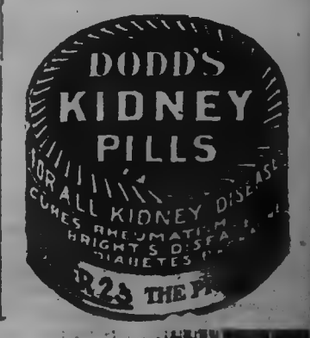
Mrs. Jean Blewett is a writer of verse which joins common sense and feeling in such a happy fashion as to have made her one of the most popular of Canadian poets. Her books of verse are "The Cornflower" and "Heart Songs".

Cutting Out the Tobacco.

The heads of the provincial Civil Service throughout British Columbia, have issued a circular to their various offices prohibiting smoking during office hours. The Canadian Pacific Railway long ago tabood the use of tobacco by their employees during working hours and its example has been generally followed by other large corporations.



Provincial Elections

ADDRESS OF E. A. PECK

THE LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBORO' :—

Having been nominated as a Candidate by Delegates of the Liberal Conservative Association of West Peterborough, in Convention, I address you requesting your support at the pending Election of a representative for this Riding in the Provincial Legislature.

THE WHITNEY ADMINISTRATION

1. A partial statement of work accomplished by Sir J. P. Whitney and his colleagues since assuming office in 1905, and of their plans for the future is set forth in the Manifesto recently issued by the Premier, which was published in the local Newspapers, and which you have no doubt seen ; and I refer here to only a few matters of more or less special interest to you as Electors of the Riding.

WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION ACT.

2. The adoption of a new measure in this respect has been under the consideration of the present Government for some time. The Act now in force was passed in 1885, and has not been amended in any substantial way since that period, and in my opinion is defective in several respects. For instance : No relief is now ordinarily given when some degree of negligence on the part of the injured person is shown ; no relief is now given where the injury arises from the act of a fellow servant (other than a Foreman or such like person), and there is no summary remedy for determining the rights of the claimant, the injured person having to resort to expensive and frequently protracted court proceedings to recover damages.

The Government has appointed an eminent Judge (Sir W. R. Meredith) to prepare a Bill dealing with this question. This Bill will be ready for presentation to the House at its next session. I feel a deep interest in this matter, and if elected will confer with those concerned here on the subject, and will endeavor to obtain the passage of an Act, which will be practical, comprehensive and simple in operation.

EDUCATION

3. The Government is to be commended for its efforts in the cause of Education.

Marked improvement has been made in the professional training of teachers.

Encouragement to teachers to remain in the profession by assurance of increased salaries.

The cost of school books has been very substantially reduced.

The establishment of continuation classes has been assisted.

Large increases have been made in the annual Grants to the schools, the total amount expended for Educational purposes during the past year exceeding $1,700,000.

4. There are no schools in the Riding which may be called "Bilingual," but as I have been frequently asked my views on this subject, and the matter is one which will no doubt be brought before the Legislature at an early date, I state here that I consider the children in the Province are entitled to receive such an education that they will think and speak in English, and have a thorough command of that language. Not merely is this the intention of the existing law, but in the interests of the children this must be insisted upon.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS

5. The Government has for many years made annual grants for the improvement of roads in the Northern part of the Riding. The sum expended in the Riding in this way last year was over $2,000. These grants will be continued, and I believe application might now be successfully made to the Government for further grants towards the improvement of the principal highways leading to centres of trade in the Riding. I shall be pleased to co-operate in pressing this matter upon the consideration of the Government.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC COMMISSION

6. A large amount of power is now in process of development along the Trent System, and it is of deep importance to the City of Peterborough that a substantial portion of this should be made available to power users in the city at reasonable rates. The Hydro-Electric Commission has rendered extremely valuable services in procuring cheap power for many Municipalities, and may be relied upon to assist in rendering similar services for the City. The position taken by the Government is that no undue monopoly of power developed upon Provincial streams shall be permitted.

FINANCES

7. The collection of all moneys to which the Province is entitled has been carefully attended to, and the annual income has been increased to more than double the amount of that in the year prior to taking office by the present Administration, and this income has been carefully and wisely expended in the maintenance of the public Institutions, the cause of Education and Agriculture, in assistance of Hospitals and Charities, in improvement of Highways, and in other ways for the benefit of the community.

In this connection the substantial grants made to the various Municipalities from the proceeds of Railway taxation may be here referred to.

Assuring you that if elected I shall do all in my power to advance the interests of the citizens of the Riding.

I remain,
Yours sincerely,
E. A. PECK

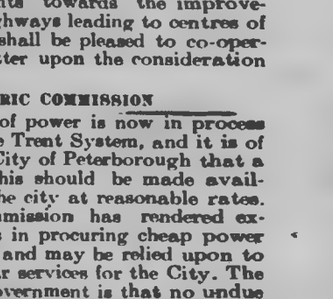
MIETTO HOT SPRINGS.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Station formerly known as Fiddle Creek, mile 997.8 West of Winnipeg, has been changed to Mietto Hot Springs. It will be in this locality that the first of the Grand Trunk Pacific Mountain Hotels will be erected, and is within seven or eight miles of the Mietto Hot Springs that are situated just beyond the famous Roche Mietto Mountain which looms up to the West of this station.

The whole of the territory in the vicinity of the Mietto Hot Springs Station will, without doubt, become one of the greatest meccas in America for the ever increasing tourist traffic, with the mountains as an objective point, as everything that goes to make up an attractive mountain resort is found in this locality.

The Mietto Hot Springs will become famous the world over, as the efficacy of the waters of these springs for medicinal purposes has been proved, and for bathing purposes are without comparison.

There are four springs with temperature as follows :—



ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

The Morning Times

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1911

SINGLE TAX.

In discussing the single tax theory, the Farmer's Sun says that when a municipal assessment is levied, in a growing city, on the value of land and buildings combined, the man who builds on his property is forced to pay a much heavier tax than the man who may hold a vacant lot alongside. At the same time the erection of the building may, and usually does, add to the value of both lots. Such a system, in such a case, works a manifest injustice. The man who does nothing is benefitted by taxes paid by the man who does something.

The same general argument applies to a new agricultural district, like the Temiskaming country, where non-resident holders of wild land frequently have their property increased in value by the improvements made by actual settlers. In such cases, where the tax is placed on the value of land, plus improvements, the man who improves his property is penalized for the benefit of the non-resident land holder who is waiting until the improvements made by pioneers give value to his otherwise worthless holding. This also is manifestly unfair.

In an older settled agricultural district conditions may be wholly different. There are cases, the vicinity of Cobourg affords a case in point, where men who have acquired their wealth elsewhere erect very expensive homes and outbuildings. These men desire to have all other things in keeping with their holdings ; roads which can be used as speedways for autos, needlessly expensive school buildings, etc. If in such cases taxation is levied on land values only the comparatively poor man, who is farming for a living, may be compelled to pay as high a tax as the wealthy occupant of a mansion. He may be forced to contribute towards providing for the luxuries of the rich. This, too, is manifestly unfair.

A reasonable solution of the difficulty would be to allow local option in taxation—to allow each municipality to decide for itself whether taxes shall be levied on lands alone or on lands plus buildings.

Daughter of the Rain

It is because it is so human that the river is the most sympathetic water in all Nature, writes F. G. Aflalo in "Behind the Ranges". The sea is too boisterous, the lake too languid. It is the river which somewhere between the high tops and the seashore, has qualities to suit our every mood. Its rapids sing of hurry, change, and ocean travel, rousing the 'Wanderlust'; its lily-grown backwaters bring sweet content to those who stay at home..... The river is grandchild of the ocean and daughter of the rains. The mountains are its cradle..... The river, like the ocean, has a voice peculiarly its own, loudest near its cradle, more subdued when drowned in the mightier outcry of the sea. Its voice betrays its mood. Swollen with the pride of melting snows or heavy rains, it makes deafening clamour; but it murmurs only incoherently at the summer solstice, and falls silent in the iron grip of frost.... The river is a creature of light. It dazzles in the sun: it gleams like molten silver in the moonlight. Even with the land in darkness, it seems like some endless band of luminous paint, to emit a mystic light stored during the day, for it is rare to find absolute darkness on the face of water, still or running. Night on a great river is unforgettable.

MORE THAN SEVENTEEN

It is on promise that in course of the coming winter the Canadian Pacific Railway will spend a considerable sum of money in making extensions to its chain of seventeen hotels. During the past summer the Company's hotel business increased to such an extent that there was hardly a hotel out of the whole seventeen where the managers did not find a great deal of trouble in satisfying demands. Particularly was this the case in the mountain hotels, where the hotels were taxed to their utmost.

At Banff, which seems to be a stop-over point favored by many visitors, the management has found it necessary to increase the accommodation of their Chateau Lake Louise four or five fold.

One of the singular things about the construction of the new C. P. R. line to Alberni on Vancouver Island was that when the builders were making a small cutting through a hill in Alberni, near the wharf, they struck a fine seam of coal some of which will probably supply the Company's steamships with fuel for some time to come as it is of a fine grade and there are tons of it in sight.

Dr. EUGENE QUESNEL

A Prescott County Politician

Dr. Quesnel of Hawkesbury is not inexperienced in politics. He ran as an independent candidate for the Federal House in 1908, when he failed to get the Conservative support expected, but succeeded in polling 1,068 votes on the strength of his personality alone.

Born at St. Eugene, in June of 1867, educated first at Alfred Village school and then at the Bourget College, Rigaud, he graduated bachelor of literature, science and arts from Laval University, Quebec, and then took his medical course at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Toronto, graduating M.D. in 1896.

The doctor started practising in Rockland and Sudbury, and in 1901, he moved to Hawkesbury, where he became so much of a useful man in public affairs, that in 1907 the people chose him Reeve of the town and in 1908, 1909 and 1910 elected him Mayor. During his mayoralty terms, Dr. Quesnel was instrumental in putting the town in its present excellent condition. Under his guidance Hawkesbury first took its place above the average of places of its size.

Dr. Quesnel is married, his good lady being formerly Miss Josephine E. Fortier, of Pembroke.

Weighs 895 Pounds.

Miss Gertrude Burk of Chicago, largest woman in the world, is twenty-two years of age, weighs 895 lbs., stands five feet seven inches, and some of her measurements are : Arm, twenty-eight inches ; waist, fifty-four bust, seventy-five. She wears No. 4½ shoes and No. 7 gloves.

When she was born Miss Burk weighed fifteen pounds and at eight years of age weighed 250. She sits on two chairs placed facing each other. Miss Burk goes through doors by turning sideways, and it is a pretty hard squeeze at that.

Efforts have been made by showmen to get Miss Burk to exhibit herself, but she has never been tempted. Her parents left her an estate, and she does not need the money.

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 467 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate; it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure; not one but will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

1—Pain in the back.
2—Too frequent desire to urinate.
3—Burning or obstruction of urine.
4—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
5—Prostatic trouble.
6—Gas or pain in the stomach.
7—General debility, weakness, dizziness
8—Pain or soreness under right rib.
9—Swelling in any part of the body.
10—Constipation or liver trouble.
11—Palpitation or pain under the heart.
12—Pain in the hip joint.
13—Pain in the neck or head.
14—Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
15—Pain or swelling of the joints.
16—Pain or swelling of the muscles.
17—Pain and soreness in nerves.
18—Acute or chronic rheumatism.

Dr. Browitt, the well-known eye-specialist, yesterday complimented The Times on its improved appearance. He believes the paper is rapidly forging to the front rank amongst the newspapers of the country.

Pupil Had Bad Fall.

The little daughter of Mr. Albert Hubbard, 32 Ware street, fell to the floor of the Sacred Heart school yesterday morning. The little one struck her head so severely that she became hysterical. Dr. Gallivan, on being summoned pronounced the child to be suffering from a slight concussion of the brain. He does not think however, that her injuries will prove serious.

Horse Ran Away.

A Springville farmer's horse, tied to a telephone pole on Dalhousie street, near the G.T.R. crossing, yesterday morning, took fright at a passing engine, broke loose and dashed wildly down the street. In attempting to turn the corner at Park street, however, the buggy was overturned and a pedestrian grabbed the animal by the bridle and succeeded in bringing it to a standstill. The buggy was badly wrecked, and the cover all but detached from the rig.

Failed to Get a Deer.

Mr. Jas. Boy has returned from Jack's Lake, where he and Messrs. John and Daniel Drain, together with Mr. Jas. Little, of Dummer, have been in chase of the deer, which in this party's experience proved elusive. These hunters did not get a single deer, and Mr. Boy reports weather conditions bad, and that other lovers of the chase in the same vicinity fared but little better.

Open Season Over.

The open season for deer ends at midnight to-day, and as a result the hunters are returning to town. It is said by some of those who got back yesterday that deer are not nearly so plentiful this season as they were last year.

Peterborough Should Celebrate Also.

Orillia is arranging to celebrate the opening of the new C.P.R. line between the Georgian Bay, Orillia, Lindsay and Peterborough, and it is thought by many that some similar action should be taken here to mark the event. It appears to be up to the Council and Board of Trade to move in this matter.

Assessment Was Legal.

The action brought by David Darling of Douro against the trustees of School Section, on the ground that he had been unlawfully assessed for school purposes, was dismissed by His Honor Judge Huycke. The judge ruled that the trustees had been within their rights in making said assessment. F. D. Kerr appeared for the plaintiff and D. O'Connell for the school trustees.

A Pathetic Incident.

A pathetic incident occurred yesterday, when the infant child of Antonio Mascarrion, passed away, while its father languished in the dark cells of the county gaol, having pleaded guilty of grossly abusing his wife. He was remanded until Friday when she would be in a fit condition to give evidence against him. Yesterday, the child expired after a long illness. It had never been very strong and succumbed as a result of its weakness.

Hockey Club's Annual Meeting.

The Peterborough Hockey Club will meet in annual session at the hotel National to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. A hearty invitation is extended to all players and lovers of hockey to be in attendance. Reports from last season will be presented, and the election of officers for the coming winter will be held. The question of how many teams the club will enter into the O.H.A. will be discussed, as will the proposed amendments to the O.H.A. constitution, in order that the delegate from the local club will be able to support or oppose them as shall be thought fit.

Graveyard Coughs and Colds

CURED QUICKLY BY CATARRHOZONE.

A cough or cold this season of the year paves the way for pneumonia or consumption. The best remedy is "Catarrhozone." It eases a cough in five minutes, and colds cannot exist but a few hours where it is used. Mrs. H. L. Chenowith, residing at Glendive, Montana, was worried by a "graveyard" cough. In the following letter she tells how Catarrhozone cured her in one week:

"I had a bad cough for several months last fall that settled on my lungs. I was worried very much to think that nothing I used could shake it off, but reading in the Halifax "Presbyterian Witness" of the wonderful cures Catarrhozone was effecting, I decided to try it. The irritability and soreness was taken out of my throat in a few days, and in less than one week it entirely cured my cough.

"It is with great gratitude and pleasure that I recommend Catarrhozone. I am sure it will benefit and cure all who use it."

(Signed) Mrs. H. L. Chenowith.

The reason Catarrhozone always cures is that it goes right to the sore spot, which it heals and makes well quickly. It is antiseptic and destroys disease germs in every part of the system. For Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis, nothing compares with Catarrhozone. It is very pleasant and simple to use, contains no injurious drugs, and is warranted perfectly safe to use. Catarrhozone Inhaler is suitable to use in a street car, theatre, church, any place, at any time. Complete outfit costs but $1, and is guaranteed to cure or your money back. Trial size 25c, sold by druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Yesterday E. B. Fowler returned from Chicago, where he had been called pending an engagement with the International Harvester Co. He is now works auditor for their Canadian branch, this city.

The Times was in error the other morning in stating that Dr. Halliday had gone away on a holiday trip. His broken arm is rapidly improving, and he expects to be able to leave in a few days, when he will visit Philadelphia and Montreal.

OBITUARY.

Miss May Agnes McMurtry.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—There passed away at the family residence, 22 Drive way, Miss May Agnes (Daisy) H. McMurtry, after a brief illness. Her death was due to typhoid pneumonia. The sad news came as a dreadful shock to the family, and their many friends, as Miss McMurtry's illness was of such short duration.

Hundreds of sympathizing friends called to view the remains of their late friend and to extend sympathy to the bereaved family. Miss McMurtry was a particularly bright young girl, and through her frank and joyous nature, had won scores of friends, both young and old. She leaves to mourn her, a father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. McMurtry, one sister, Miss Gwendolyn, and one brother, Douglas. Mrs. Wm. E. Loch and Miss May Barnett of Peterborough, are aunts of the deceased.

The funeral service was held at the family residence by Rev. W. M. Loucks of St. Matthew's church, of which the deceased was a faithful member. She was also amember of Mrs. Loucks' Bible class. The remains were then conveyed to St. Matthew's church, where a memorial service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Loucks. The cortege then proceeded to the family plot in Beechwood cemetery, where the body was interred in its last resting place.

Mrs. D. H. Mann.

Mrs. D. H. Mann, an old and respected resident of Peterborough, died at 7.30 yesterday morning at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. T. E. Kendry, 676 Water street. Death was due to heart failure. Her husband predeceased her many years ago. The late Mrs. Mann is survived by two sons, James, of Raymondville, Texas, and Robert of this city and two daughters, Mrs. Neil Maitland of Windsor, and Mrs. T. E. Kendry, city.

The funeral will be private.

THE KIND OF PAPER WANTED.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—With the growth of rural mail routes the Times is sure to make its influence felt throughout the district. If your paper will continue in the present forward course, it is sure to become (if it has not already attained) the dignity of being a prominent moulder of public opinion.

In this connection let me say that there is room in this portion of Ontario for not only a cheap, but bright not only bright, but large, not only large, but truly free from church control dedicated to the cause of the people rather than political advancement—devoted more to news—that will expose all wrong-doing in public life, fight all public evils and abuses—that will serve and battle for the people with earnest sincerity. In that cause, and for that end solely, The Times should work out its destiny, and it is bound to attain greatness.

NO AGE LIMIT HERE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I notice that the Toronto school board has fixed 35 years as the age limit for teachers employed on the staff of the city schools. A photograph of the delegation of the board appointed to break the news to the women teachers that they had crossed the dead line would be interesting. I would like to know if there is an age limit in Peterborough regarding teachers, male or female.

WAGES OF WOMEN TEACHERS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see the Toronto and certain other papers have been devoting considerable attention to women teachers and their salaries. It seems as though only superficial thought is given to the question as to whether women teachers should receive the same compensation as men teachers receive for the same kind and quantity of work.

It is true that it appeals to one's sense of justice that when a value is put upon certain work, it should not matter who performs it; the compensation in all cases should be the same. But how can a reasonable man contend that a woman teacher, who seldom has anyone but herself to take care of, shall receive a salary equal to that of a man, who is the head of a family, who has a wife and children to provide for, a house to keep up, and who is required so to do by law? By the same reasoning it might be said that the boy of 14 shall receive the same wages as the man of 40 because, forsooth, they both turn out work equal in quantity. Even as this is absurd, so would it be absurd to pay women teachers the same salaries as men teachers are paid. The criterion that guides business men in fixing the salaries of their employes should be the same in the case of teachers. Not the amount of work done, but who does it. How large a family has he got to take care of? Whom has she got to support? These are the potent questions to be considered in determining the respective salaries of teachers of the two sexes. It is not in the nature of things that men and women shall be considered on an equal basis when it is a question of salary.

While woman is constantly taking away from man wage-earning positions, the duty of supporting the family still devolves upon man. If woman insists upon having equal rights with man, she should also take upon her shoulders some of those heavy burdens which man carries by virtue of those rights.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Antonio Mascarion, an Italian, Says He is Going to Boss His Own House.

Antonio Mascarion was up before Magistrate Dumble yesterday morning on a charge of assaulting his wife. After a slight resistance his arrest was affected Monday at his residence, by P. C. Kidd, when he was brought to the Police Station through the medium of an interpreter, Mr. Minicolo, the prisoner pleaded guilty of assault. When asked why he did it, he said that she went out and was away about two hours, during which time she left their little child alone in the house. "Have you ever done this before?" asked the Magistrate. "I did it about seven years ago," answered Antonio. It appears that the assault consisted of blows inflicted by the defendant's closed hand, and kicks. When found by the police, Mrs. Mascarrion was in a bad condition. Her face was cut and bleeding, and terribly swollen. She was unable to attend the Police Court yesterday morning, so the case was enlarged until Friday, when she will give evidence.

The Magistrate asked the prisoner why he had done such a terrible brutish act, and he answered that he was going to be boss in his own house.

"Will you do it again," asked the Magistrate.

"I will hit her again when she needs it," said the defendant.

The Magistrate thought it wise to change the prisoner's ideas on that subject, and concluded by advising him that he would not be let go until he furnished $500.00 bonds to keep the peace, and two sureties of $250.00 each. The case will be tried on Friday, and the prisoner will remain in the cells in the meantime.

LAND OF REVOLUTIONS

More Rebellions Have Taken Place in China than in any other Country on Record.

There are probably more revolts rebellions and revolutions recorded in the annals of China than can be resurrected from the histories of all the nations of the west. This is partly because Chinese annals of an authentic character go back much further than western annals and partly because the Chinese, inoffensive and docile though they seem, are predisposed to insurrection.

The tendency has persisted since the first of the eighteen emperors of the Hia dynasty mounted his throne away back in the dim mists of antiquity when the early Pharaohs were building their temples by the Nile and erecting their pyramids in the desert.

The Hia dynasty issued from 2205 to 1766 B.C., when it was overturned by the Shang, or Yin, dynasty, an equally active race, which ruled until 1122 years before the Christian era. Disaster overtook the Shang Emperors at last, from a rising of the people under the banners of Chou, although Rome had not been built and the Greeks were still scattered tribes when they gave way to the princes of the Chou line. A protracted period of unrest followed.

In many respects the greatest of all the Chinese Emperors, Kubla Khan began his reign in 1257, and held the throne until his death in 1294. In these years the nation was more illustrious and powerful than ever before. A succession of Mongol emperors followed Kubla Khan, principally remembered for their sanction of the introduction of Christianity. In 1368 the Ming dynasty was proclaimed upon the ashes of the political structure built up by the warlike Mongols, and it ruled successfully until the Manchus of the North, the fierce, well-built hill Chinese, swept down upon Pekin and installed their own princes in 1651.

The Manchus have never been numerous, and although they have managed to keep their saddles by dint of cowing the peoples under them, they have been unable to preserve absolute order and tranquillity. One of the first steps they took to impress their sovereignty upon the country was the publication of an edict compelling the people to adopt the pig-tail. The Manchus were horsemen, and the pig-tail was prescribed as a national institution because, the Manchus contemptuously said, the Chinese were of the same status as their horses.

Rebellion after rebellion marked the troubled reigns of the Manchu Emperors, and in most cases the germ of revolt was first in evidence in one or other of the three provinces that are causing trouble to-day. Szhe Chuen, Hu-peh, and Hu-nan have always been centres of discord.

Most Remarkable Piano.

An artist, Jan van Beers, designed a piano of a magnificent nature. The body is of natural wood, the legs and ornaments being of bronze, chiselled and gilded by the most expert artists in bronze work that could be found in Paris. Set into the front and sides are five Van Beers paintings, depicting the four seasons and a minuet scene in the time of Louis Quinze. Small ivory plaques line the cover. But the most remarkable instrument in the world is that known as the "Napoleon piano." It was built in 1808 by the famous house of Erard to the order of the Emperor. Its keys are of mother-o'-pearl and tortoiseshell, the case is of rosewood, and there are five pedals, working drum, cymbal and triangle attachments. It was a present given by Napoleon to Josephine, and many years later the Empress Eugenie took great delight in playing upon it. When the Tuileries were sacked the piano was stolen; it was eventually recovered and put up to auction, when it was bought by a representative of the firm who originally built the instrument.

Nervousness in Children

Nervousness takes many forms, and parents should be on the look-out for any signs of it in a growing boy or girl. For it usually indicates that something is wrong — the child's work or play, or companions, or food, or general health. To trace it to its real source sometimes needs both great tact and much firmness on the mother's part, but no trouble must be spared to remove the cause, as excessive nervousness in childhood may later on, reappear in a very serious form.

Scolding is, of course, the worst possible treatment for nervousness of any kind, though excessive sympathy is almost as bad. The child should be made to understand that his fears and shyness are the results of ill-health, and must be conquered by will-power duly accomplished by nourishing diet, plenty of sleep, and plenty of enjoyed exercise out-of-doors.

Played His Cards

It was the custom of Mr. Cameron to fall into an easy attitude wherever he might be. This habit led to an occasional dialogue of a spicy nature, and the dialogues led to a small square package which Mr. Cameron presented to his wife one night.

"What in the world are these?" inquired Mrs. Cameron, as the unwrapping of the package revealed a few cards neatly marked, "For Use," and two or three dozen marked, "For Show."

"Those, my dear," said Mr. Cameron, "are for you to attach, by the small pin on the under side, to the various sofa cushions, chair-backs, and unoccupied wall spaces in the house. Then neither my head nor that of any chance visitor will rest in or on any object designed for ornament; and once more, even with Christmas coming every year, and your friends as loving and generous as ever, we shall have a happy home."

Some Cold Truths

Few men cut their wisdom teeth until after they are married.

Charity covereth a multitude of people with cast-off garments.

Things worth while are more apt to come your way if you go after them.

Before marrying, a girl should learn the gentle art of chasing soiled linen up and down a wash-board.

It is generally the girl who can't play that has a mania for working the piano overtime.

Maud—"Are you engaged to Jack for good?"

Ethel—"It looks so. I don't think he'll ever be in a position to marry me."

FOOTBALL IN ENGLAND

The Footer Game Now in Full Swing and the Land is Covered with Kickers.

Football is now over all the land in Britain, so to speak; the big clubs in their high-priced enclosures, the smaller on public grounds and open spaces, and the juveniles unattached, on all the unbuilt lots and quiet residential streets from which the local constables have neither time nor inclination to drive them. Baseball fever is a mild disease in comparison to Britain's football outbreak.

In England alone there are more than 16,000 regularly constituted football clubs playing a schedule of games throughout the season. There are 500 recognized important leagues, some of them embracing twenty, 30 or even 40 clubs. The football association, the largest governing body in the game, has jurisdiction over 14,000 clubs and on its rolls are more than 750,000 members. It registers and sanctions 20,000 referees and has a more or less authoritative control over every big game played in the country.

These astounding figures do not include the thousands of clubs and the hundreds of thousands of players in schools throughout England. They are not registered by the football association, but have a separate organization of their own.

Professional football gets a support from the spectator public that is truly remarkable. The biggest baseball crowd on this continent would bring grief to the backers of the great empire clubs. Those who have marvelled at the thousands that have blacked the benches of the big American enclosures should see the tweed-capped legions of Crystal Palace on cup-tie day. That is the day when the championship is decided. More than 110,000 persons have pushed and crowded and squeezed their way into the grounds to witness the great struggle.

Cup-tie day is one of the most astonishing observances in the English year. Men and boys, girls and women, all over the country, even in the lowliest walks of life, save their money months ahead to defray the railway and other expenses of the day. If the game is played at Crystal Palace, London for a day becomes a Babel. Everyone of the widely different accents and dialects of the country is heard in its streets. The first train-loads arrive soon after midnight and from then until noon time trainload after trainload of football enthusiasts are emptied at the various London stations, while the way-going in the evening is a never-to-be-forgotten sight.

SWIMMING AND BATHING

Sir Harry Poland, K.C., contributes to the "Marine Magazine" an article on "Swimming and Bathing," in which he gives advice from his own experience to those who wish to become good swimmers. He says:—One great thing for a swimmer to accomplish is to swim without depending on the use of his hands, thus leaving them free for other purposes," and he recommends the swimmer to learn to dress and undress in the water, and to practice swimming while wearing heavy clothes.

"When I lived on the banks of the Thames, at Strawberry Vale, Twickenham, I used," says Sir Harry, "at a quarter past seven every morning to plunge into the river. I continued to do this for several years, although the dark mornings for about three weeks before Christmas and a few weeks after were a little trying. The great thing to attend to is to take your header directly you are out of bed, and to take care to keep warm until you plunge. For this purpose you should put on a coat lined with flannel, with a thick coat over that, trousers lined with flannel, slippers lined with lamb's wool, and warm gloves. You should stand on a piece of carpet and throw your clothing off like a quick-change artiste, and on coming out of the water you may stand in the open and thoroughly enjoy the east wind for the first time in your life, and the snow, sleet, hail, or rain will only be a diversion. "Cold bathing in winter will not, of course, do for a man whose liver is sluggish or whose heart is weak. As I had to lead a sedentary life it must not be supposed that at any time I was an athlete; on the contrary, I was never very strong, and I mention this solely for the purpose of showing that with the exercise of common prudence almost every youth can do as I was in the habit of doing."

Good nature is the most weak-kneed of the virtues.

When you have a bad cold you want the best medicine obtainable so as to cure it with as little delay as possible. Here is a druggist's opinion: "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for fifteen years," says Enos Lollar of Saratoga, Ind., "and consider it the best on the market." For sale by all dealers.

Animal Love.

Mother love is universal, and there is no love like the mother love. Most of the high and lofty loving in this world is done by mothers. Apart from this the work of wooing falls to the male members of the family whether it be the human family or some one of the other animal tribes. We read how, ages ago, a Bulbul, or Oriental Nightingale, wooed a white rose until it blushed red, and that was the beginning of the red rose. The Spanish Cavalier stands out in the rain and serenades his "Dulce Mia" until there is a crick in his neck, while she sits sheltered in a window above.

The cackle of the loon may be a love song for all we know. Maybe that's what made him loony in the first place.

The wild moose bellows his passion across the lake, and as likely as not the answering call is from a bark horn in the hands of a hunter, luring him to death.

It seems a sizzling shame, but if you will take a Grand Trunk train and travel into the "Highlands of Ontario" you will find men doing that very thing; arguing, doubtless, that all is fair in love and war.

MUNICIPALITY Of TOWNSHIP —OF— NORTH MONAGHAN

Notice is Hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in section 8 and 9 of the Ontario Voters' List Act, the copies required by said sections to be so transmitted or delivered, of the said list made pursuant to the said Act of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said municipality to be entitled to vote at said municipality at elections for member of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal elections, and the said list was first posted in my office on September 27th, 1911, and remains there for inspection.

has been authorized by the Land Department of the Candian a Pacific Railway to sell to the public CORONATION town lots.

Plan and map may be inspected at the office of The Pacific Realty Co., Limited, 154 Bay Street, Toronto, from 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p. m., exeept Saturday, when the office closes at 1.00 p.m.

Facts About Coronation

Coronation is the first divisional town east of Lacombe, and is splendidly situated about twenty miles east of Castor, in the centre of some of the finest farming districts of Western Canada. Its natural advantages, combined with important railway developments, assure to it a future of considerable importance. Engineers are now locating two branch lines north and northwesterly from Coronation, and a third line is projected southeasterly to connect with the branch running northwesterly from Swift Current.

CORONATION will be:

A divisional centre on the great new railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton.

An important junctional centre, as three branch lines are already projected.

A distributing centre for a large and wealthy district.

A purchasing centre for thousands of Western Canada's most prosperous farmers.

If you wish to go into business or make a safe and profitable investment you cannot do better than purchase lots at Coronation, which is bound to rapidly become one of the most important towns of the West.

Our Peat Bogs.

An enquiry reached The Times yesterday from Buffalo, regarding the extent of the bogs of peat in this neighborhood. These are known to be very extensive, especially in the neighborhood of Balsam Lake, and on the Scugog River. It would appear from what is taking place at the experimental works of the Dominion government peat plant near Ottawa, that it will not be long until this industry becomes a most important one, especially on the Trent waterway. It is said that peat fuel is even preferrable to coal, as it leaves an ash that makes a good fertiliser, and can be produced at a much less cost than coal.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with the whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

Mexico Oil

The Mexican Oil Fields, will probably break all records in the production of oil. The largest oil wells in the world are now flowing in the Tampico field, and development is just fairly begun. We offer an exceptionally attractive investment in the stock of a conservative Company, just organized, which controls 3500 acres, in the midst of the big producing section of the field. We are certain we can convince any one of the merits of the enterprise, and we want you to

INVESTIGATE

It will only cost you two cents to secure maps, booklet, and full description of what we have to offer. The stock is being sold for the purpose of drilling the property. Oil is now being produced on all four sides of this property. We will give you every opportunity to investigate the proposition itself and the officers in charge of its affairs. SPEND A WEEK AT ALGONQUIN.

The popularity of the Algonquin National Park, Ontario, has been pronounced this year, and it has been necessary to use at least 25 large tents as an auxiliary to the accommodation of the Highland Inn, at Algonquin National Park Station.

Most people return to their homes in the early part of September, but as this is one of the most delightful months in this territory, those who can make it convenient are advised to spend a week or two there. The hotel is also open all the winter and with the bracing air of this locality (1700 ft. above the sea) a most delightful sojourn can be spent even in the winter months.

A handsome illustrated booklet may be had on this territory upon application to Mr. A. E. Duff, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

HOW $100 GREW TO $31620

The value and importance of any enterprise must be based on the profits and dividends it can earn. In this respect the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, is without a parallel in the line of investments.

It combines the attractive factors which are needed to make the perfect investment—viz., safety, large earning capacity and low cost of the stock at the start. It is not at all uncommon for oil stocks to begin at a few cents a share and jump to hundreds of dollars a share—sometimes thousands.

Many a case could be cited similar to that of Richard Ellis, clerk in a store in Los Angeles, whose investment of $100 became worth $31,620 in a short time. There are hundreds of such cases in Los Angeles alone.

$2000.00 Profit a Year

Do you realize that stock in the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, at the present price of 30 cents a share is not merely the opportunity of the year—IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

If you have $10, $50, $100 or $500 YOU SIMPLY CAN NOT AFFORD TO PASS IT UP.

If we develop only a 1000 barrel well of 26 gravity oil, this production alone will be sufficient to enable the corporation to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. and at the same time have sufficient capital to continue the drilling of wells.

1000 shares of stock at the present price of 30c costs only $300.

20 per cent. dividend on the par value of the TO YOU? Wouldn't you like to be coming up to this office every three months and getting your dividend cheque for $500?

Remember, too, that your stock holdings in Midway Maple Leaf, if you should want to sell them should be worth $18,000 or sixty times the amount of your original investment.

Consider These Facts

The Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company is working in proven gusher territory, the richest oil zone in the world, controlling 40 acres on one-eighth royalty, with the great advantage of the option to purchase at only $1250 per acre after oil is struck, and the ground must then be worth at least $5000 per acre. This means a clean profit of $150,000 over purchase price. It has been demonstrated completely by gushers on adjoining Standard and Honolulu ground, that this portion of the Midway field is not only the richest portion of the whole district, but that it produces the highest grade of oil found in the entire vicinity, and worth 50 per cent. more per barrel at the well.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY IN VANCOUVER REALTY

Investors seeking an opportunity to secure large returns for their money will find an exceptional chance offered by Keith Park Land Co., Limited, of Vancouver, B. C. This company has placed on the market for immediate sale the choicest piece of property on the North Shore.

This tract known as Keith Park, D. L. 676, lies at the junction of the Pipe line Road, (owned by the city of Vancouver) and the Keith Road and is the Junction point for North side traffic.

The Second Narrows Bridge, which is to connect Vancouver and North Vancouver will be constructed so that Keith Park will be in the line of its northern end.

It is confidentially expected that a new town will be created at this point. Dominion, Provincial and Municipal subsidies to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars have already been secured for the bridge project and plans are now being drawn for the bridge. It is expected that actual workwill be started within the next ninety days.

Keith Park presents the best chance to buy ahead of the important municipal and government projects that are planned for the North Side. It will stand the most critical investigation.

Full information and maps supplied upon request. Lots range in price from $200 upwards. Terms one-quarter cash, balance in six equal quarterly payments.

Bruce Ridpath Improving.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—Bruce Ridpath is considerably improved since Saturday, but has not completely recovered consciousness.

Peterborough's Good Luck.

Lindsay Post: "Peterborough, in the past, has secured all the plums in the line of government projects, simply because the citizens have been enterprising enough to get after them. Is it not time that our citizens were aroused from their lethargy and got out after what we are justly entitled to? We need Government improvements here and need them badly. Let our council and Board of Trade become active in the matter." This is a good policy for Lindsay to adopt, and we hope she will now get some of the coveted plums.

A LAND MYSTERY

The building of a railroad by the British from Persia to Karachi across Mekran may not of itself, as the New York Sun says, be a project of importance. Europe has offered little opposition, and engineers say the route presents few serious obstacles; but it brings the rest of the world into contact with some of the earliest scenes of Eastern history and opens a land of mystery of which there have been only glimpses about every thousand years.

Mekran is the coastal region of Baluchistan and extends from India to the Persian Gulf. Sailors before and since the voyage of Alexander's Admiral, Nearchus, have coasted along its white shores and found themselves surrounded by spouting whales such as the first map makers delighted to picture. High pooped native crafts like ancient galleys carrying pirate slave traders and gun runners dodge into its shallow harbors. British steamships sometimes stop at one of its ports for a cargo of dates or rice for the Indian trade. But sailors never penetrate into the range of yellow hills or cross the sterile plain, "the hottest land of all Asia," where the sand rolls in waves and floats in stifling clouds. Oases are rae along the streams that flow from these ridges; the country is dry, weather worn, desolate, shunned by man.

The few inhabitants are the flotsam and jetsam of the civilization that have passed over it. They are the wreckage that drifted into this obscure world from the earliest movements into and from India to the first search of Europe for Eastern empires. The Portuguese that conquered Muscat and captured the islands of Ormus and Kishm and founded colonels at Bander Abbas and Gwadur left their tribute of adventures, as did the Dutch, French and English that came after them. These found here older people of whose origin all trace was lost, colonies of half bred Arabs left by the decline of the Arab dynasty at Sind, Mongols from the time of Genghis Khan, negroes, descended from mediaeval slaves, and stragglers from every central Asian tribe.

Yet Mekran cannot always have been such a dry, desolate land. Buried in the sands beneath some of the little towns are the ruins of cities. At one place an explorer found the walls of six towns that must at some time have been places of some importance. In the hills above Gwadur are the remains of a great reservoir. Tombs with fragments of pottery that no one seems able to identify are often uncovered; many of the hills are closely covered with stone houses with dome shaped interiors. There are remains of works of masonry that were great dams for catching the waters of the river at flood time. In arid deserts explorers have found forests of dead trees that have stood stark for centuries, and on some of the hills terraces that must some time have been in a high state of cultivation. No one apparently is able to tell who built these cities add reservoirs, cultivated the terraced hills, or were buried in the tombs. The very reason why this land to-day is only a region of great heat, thirst and death is one of the secrets of nature.

Sifting Out the Manchus

The Chinese rebels, who are the "original" Chinese, have resorted to an ancient Israelitish trick to sift out the real Chinese from the doomed Manchus.

Instead of saying to the suspect "Say now Shibboleth," as the Gileadites said to the Ephraimites, they say to them, "Say liushiliu," the Chinese word for "six." And if the suspect doesn't pronounce it right according to ancient Chinese fashion, he gets it in the neck, literally, as the Ephraimites got it who said "Sibboleth" instead of "Shibboleth."

The test imposed by the Chinese insurgents is a numerical one. The suspect is told to count. When he passes six his fate is sealed.

If the suspect says "Lo-ow" he is spared. If he says "Lo-Kee-Haw", as the Manchus do, it's all day with him. "Then they took him and slew him."

SUN STILL GOOD FOR LONG TIME

Learned Gentleman Gives the World Guarantee that after 50 Million Years Service, Old Sol is None the Worse for Wear.

Mr. Charles G. Abbott, director of the Astrophysical Observatory of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington has advanced the theory that the sun is composed of a gaseous or vaporous substance, except in the spots. He holds that the temperature is too great to permit its being in a solid or liquid condition. As the temperature attributed to the sun, 6,500 degrees absolute, would melt any known substance, it seems only reasonable to believe this statement. He further states that the specific gravity is too low to permit the sun's mass being other than gaseous.

The visible part of the sun is in the form of a gaseous shell, known as the photosphere. It is clear and incandescent, due to the great temperature. Although it is theoretically probable that the diameter of the sun is slowly decreasing at a certain rate, due to radiation and contraction, it cannot be decided practically as it would take 10,000 years to cause an appreciable change in the solar diameter. Even after transmitting energy to the earth, in the form of light and heat, through some 93,000,000 miles of space, during a period of about 50,000,000 years, the sun is apparently none the worse for wear.

When the Band Played

To the Hon. L. A. Frothingham, Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts belongs the distinction of having hit upon a plan for defeating the suffragettes who put their trust in noise.

Among the Berkshire hills Mr. Frothingham and other candidates on the Republican State ticket have been pursued by Miss Margaret Foley, of Boston, and her party of young women in automobiles. They attended the Republican meetings for the purpose of interrupting. Against their shouts Mr. Frothingham has matched the noise-producing powers of a village brass band, and the band has been winning right along. True, there can be no speaking while the suffragettes are shouting and the band playing, but, all the same, it is very discouraging to the suffragettes to find their voices drowned by the vigorous notes of trombone and bass-drum.

TOMMY DID PREFER SAUSAGE

French War Office Is So Particularly Straight that even Piglets in Streaks Must Be Less than Six Months Old.

The ways of the French red tape expert are many and delightful. Here is a French War Office story for which an authority vouches. A maker of tinned goods who dealt largely with the French War Office had invented a novelty. He had found a means of putting sausages into the tins which preserved them absolutely. Dumanet, like Tommy Atkins, has a great love for the succulent sausage, and the action of preserving them was good.

But the French War Office has a rule with regard to preserves. They have to be left at the Rue St. Dominique for six months to see if they will really keep before any contract is given. M. X. left his box of sausages and went away happy. He was away for a year. At the end of this time he called at the War Office so that the sausages should be opened in his presence. He was told that it was no use opening them; he would not get a contract. 'Why not?' he asked. They have been here a year,' he was told, 'instead of six months. Our orders are to open after six months and see whether the goods are in a proper state of preservation.'

And although M. X. explained that a year held just twice six months, and that if the sausages were still sausages it would be proof positive that they were well tinned, red tape, as usual, held its own. He was obliged to take his sausages away, to bring back two boxes of others, and he will have to wait six months before he gets his contract. And poor Dumanet will have to wait for his sausages.

WHERE THEORIES SUFFER

The only justification America has yet had comes direct from the self-satisfaction of the individual American. His satisfaction, however, is both unmistakable and voluble, says a writer critic. He is content, though the competition becomes daily more severe and evident. He is beginning to realise now that many are handicapped at the very outset, that the struggle is prolonged by the stronger for the sheer joy of conquest, and even that a good third of the energy expended is consumed in piling up success on the top of victory. Yet a cheerful acceptance of the situation is the price of his individuality, his optimism, and his chance of winning out, and he pays it ungrudgingly. There is a greater measure of content and less of a sense of environmental injustice in America than anywhere else in the world today. And the principles of conduct and social relationships, though elemental, are like the rules of a game, there is an immediate appeal to public censure or approval, and little discrepancy between theory and practice.

Naturally our theories suffer when compared with idealistic and more divorced codes. Where every man is supposed to consider his own interests, no social blame is imputed, and no one, except for initial handicaps, has an excuse. That is not, on the whole, an unenviable state of affairs; the American temperament only approximates it. As an instinctive theory, this is what it believes in.

Yet with every man theoretically for himself, public spiritedness prevails to a marked and unusual degree. For every man drives a frank bargain with the community; there is a competitive and open market for altruistic wares. Consider for a moment that phenomenon of our civilisation, the millionaire philanthropist. Is he an enigma, this person who has seemed to change character and tactics under our very eyes? By no means; if Americans worship money, they worship it as power, as cornered energy and not in an intrinsic and miserly way.

6th BARGAIN ANNEX Anniversary

312 SUCCESSFUL ANNEX SALES

To-day we celebrate the Sixth Anniversary of the Bargain Annex

The Cressman "Bargain Annex" is the most unique BARGAIN DEPT. in the province--inaugurated by us 6 years ago this month—covered by Government Patent--always, every Wednesday crowded with eager shoppers.

It is a businesss pride w th us that we have a BARGAIN DEPT. second to none in the province, and the only one of its kind in the Dominion.

They all said "We Couldn't," but "WE DID"

Everyone said a purely Bargain Dept., with 4th Floor open one day a week only would be a failure. It had no predecessor to show it could be made a success. It's not necessary to tell you THIS Bargain Dept. HAS NOT been a failure. SUCCESSFUL does not begin to spell its SUCCESS Always, all the time busy in the Bargain Annex.

FOR THIS SIXTH ANNIVERSARY WE HAVE PLANNED BIG

We will wait on MORE PEOPLE and sell MORE GOODS on WEDNESDAY, NOV. 15th than has ever been sold in the "Annex" in any one day. We look for BIG BUSINESS from the opening hour 8.15, to the closing hour 5.30.

Some of the prices quoted will appear ridiculously low. So they are; but buying for this event started several months ago, and now we are ready with a REGULAR FEAST OF GOOD THINGS in the shape of bargains. Plan to spend one hour in the Annex both forenoon and afternoon.—IT WILL PAY

"GAPING HOLE" IN PLATFORM WHERE PLANK SHOULD BE, SAYS REV. B. SPENCE

SAYS IT WOULD SEEM TO BE THE ROSS MISTAKE OVER AGAIN.

The Alliance Secretary Gives His Views on the Liberal Leaders Address.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Rev. Ben. H. Spence, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, handed out the following statement to-day :

Disappointment and regret is the feeling of the temperance people of this Province at the failure of the new leader of the Liberal party, either in his published platform or his expressions at Massey Hall last night to deal strongly and effectively with the temperance question. There was a right thing to do. He has not done it. Some men will call the action or non-action of the party at this juncture political caution. More will appraise it as political timidity, for there is a whole lot of cowardice masquerading under the name of caution.

The Liberal party would seem to be guided by the same sinister counsels which have brought it to defeat and disgrace in the past, rather than by the well-known personal inclinations of the new leader.

Mr. Mowat, the late chairman of the Ontario Liberal Association, pithily and fairly stated the case when he said :

"The Liberal party has made certain definite pledges and promises, a long temperance lines, which it has never kept. Until it fulfils them it cannot be rehabilitated in public opinion in the Province of Ontario."

Mr. Mowat said then that he was speaking as a practical politician, not as a temperance man, yet the temperance people would naturally expect as good from N. W. Rowell as from H. M. Mowat, but, instead of accepting this wise suggestion, and taking this honorable course, the Liberal platform as issued has a gaping hole where the temperance plank should be, and the new leadership has utterly ignored the position taken by his party in the past.

This office is in close touch with the temperance sentiment of this Province. We have, I believe, as good means of carefully gauging public opinion as have the politicians of the Liberal party. Our secretaries and speakers are continuously at work throughout the province. The feeling generally is that the new leader of the Liberal party has missed the opportunity of his life in not now at the very outset standing straight and clear and true for the temperance principles which he has been supposed to hold. It would seem to be the Ross mistake over again.

The temperance people of the Province of Ontario know their mind in regard to the legislation desired. It is unfair and untrue for anyone to say that there are serious differences of opinion in the temperance ranks. The temperance forces of this Province were never so united, so unanimous as now. Successive Provincial conventions, some of which have been larger and more representative than any convention the Liberal or Conservative party ever held, have declared for the abolition of the public bar, and the treating system, and drinking in clubs, and the imposition of such other restrictions on the liquor traffic as shall most effectually curtail its operation and remedy its evils."

The fact is that the differences of opinion in regard to the temperance policy are not within the ranks of the temperance forces, but among the politicians.

The Alliance plan is moderate, fair practical, popular. It is the policy that will win in this Province. Look at what Mr. Rowell's policy really means. He has the promises and pledges made by Sir Oliver Mowat and his successors, and has substituted nothing in its place, save that he will take the matter into "his serious consideration" for four years and then announce his conclusion. This would seem to mean that, if perchance Mr. Rowell should be returned to power at the ensuing elections, he would be in honor bound, not to enact progressive legislation for four years. If Mr. Rowell is not returned to power, then of what use are his statements regarding the three-fifths requirements and the taking of the liquor traffic out of politics.

When Mr. Rowell in Massey Hall last night denounced the Whitney Government as being responsible for the existing 431 bars that would have been closed but for the three-fifths requirements, it would have been quite in order for some one else to have risen and loaded upon the Liberal party of the Province of Ontario the responsibility for the existence of the whole 1,875 licensed places that to-day are doing their deadly work of demoralization.

The Province of Ontario is ready for a great step in advance along temperance lines and many electors, irrespective of party would have hailed with joy the announcement of some meaningful plan by a rehabilitated party under the leadership of a man like Mr. N. W. Rowell, but temperance people cannot be expected to approve such an empty policy as that enunciated at Massey Hall last night.

A meeting of the General Executive Committee of our Ontario Alliance will no doubt be called at an early date, when the whole matter will be taken into consideration.

DRESS IN GREEN

France May Adopt a Green Uniform for Her Troops

But it Will Only be After a Pretty Sturdy Protest—Green Said to be a "Safer" Color Than Any Other as it Corresponds With the Foliage.

Paris, Nov. 13.—For some time interest has been felt in military circles in the experiment which the French army has been making in soldiers' uniforms. A certain proportion of the infantry have been fitted out in a greenish-gray, to the discarding of the traditional blue and red. At the same time, changes are to be introduced in pattern and equipment. The kepi, for instance, is to be replaced by a queer thing like an inverted oyster shell, which may be comfortable, but is certainly not aesthetic. Puttees also are to be adopted. The results have apparently been unsatisfactory.

General Cherifyls, an authority upon war in general and cavalry in particular, criticises the change. His verdict is one of drastic condemnation, enlivened by sarcastic remarks about "sickly greens," "instruments of torture," "uniform and equipment of quality recalling the worst days of the Army of the Loire," etc. The general confines himself in the main to questions of comfort, which, of course have more to do with cut and material than color, but his remarks will none the less be welcomed by that large and influential body of military opinion which condemns invisible uniforms on the very ground that they are invisible.

As a matter of fact, the arguments in favor of invisibility form one of those alluring theories which are quite simple, quite logical, and quite wrong. Doubtless if one considers it essential to be invisible to the hostile marksmen, gray is a better color to go to war in than yellow, blue, or red. Nevertheless, one must remember that a soldier who is invisible to the enemy is also invisible to his own artillery, who will then be driven to one or two alternatives — either to continue to support the attack right up to the enemy's trenches and so run the risk of hitting their own infantry, whom they cannot see, or to cease to fire and so deprive the infantry of its support. In either case the casualties are likely to be increased to a far greater degree than that to which the new invisibility can hope to decrease them.

IRISH WOMEN WOULD LIKE TO SIT IN PARLIAMENT

Franchise League Issues a Manifesto on the Subject—Women Would Like to Get in on the Ground Floor Under Home Rule

Dublin, Nov. 15.—The position of Irish women under the Home Rule Bill has occupied the attention of the Irish Women's Franchise League—a non-party organization composed of both Unionists and Nationalists. The executives have issued the following manifesto on the subject :

The Irish Women's Franchise League believing that, in the interests of the country as a whole, women ought to be admitted to a share in the government of Ireland, demands that the proposed Home Rule Bill shall provide for the election of the members of an Irish Parliament upon the local government register, which includes women as well as men, and bases this demand upon the following among other considerations :

1. That should self-government be granted to the Irish people, the imperial government is not entitled to discriminate between the men and women of Ireland to the disadvantage of the women by leaving them politically helpless.

2. That since the claim for Home Rule is supported by the argument that "the mass of the Irish people have shown, through the system of local government, their ability, efficiently and economically, to manage their own affairs," it is unjust and inexpedient to deprive the women of the people of that share in national government, which they are admitted to have taken so well in local government.

3. That any postponement of the enfranchisement of Irish women until after an Irish Parliament is constituted, besides being insulting to the women and a denial that their claim is as urgent as that of their countrymen, involves a needless and inevitable reopening in the future of a constitutional issue which can most conveniently and most honorably be dealt with as part of a Home Rule bill.

For these other reasons, the Irish Women's Franchise League declares its determination to seek by every means in its power to secure the election of the first Irish Parliament upon the truly national basis afforded by the local government register, and calls upon the members of the Irish Party and the Liberal Government to include a provision to this effect in the promised Home Rule Bill.

The Women's Social and Political Union will whole-heartedly and actively support the Irish women's demand, not on party grounds, but on the principle that whatever the system of government prevailing in Ireland women shall have a share in it.

BRITISH FLEET EXPECTED ATTACK BY GERMAN SHIPS

London, Nov. 15.—Mr. Arthur Ponsonby, M.P., who was principal private secretary to the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman when Prime Minister, speaking at the New Reform Club last night on "The delicacy of Anglo-German relations," said :

"Only to-day I was assured—and I believe the statement is true—that last September we were on the verge of war, that the North Sea fleet was cleared for action, and had torpedo nets out in expectation of an attack from the German torpedo boats."

RUSSIA OBJECTING TO AMERICA'S ACTIVITY

London, Nov. 15.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily News understands that Russia is sending another note to Persia declaring in effect that the exercise of any practical authority by Mr. Shuster, the American, who is treasurer-general of Persia, in Northern Persia will be regarded as an unfriendly act.

PROPOSAL TO FOUND A CANADIAN LLOYDS

London, Nov. 15.—The Financial News says : "In view of the disinclination of marine underwriters at Lloyds to reduce insurance rates on vessels engaged in the St. Lawrence trade, the formation of a Canadian organization on the lines of that world-renowned institution is now advocated. The proposal is receiving a good deal of influential support. Although navigation in the river and gulf has been greatly improved by dredging, by provisions for fog signals, and by the wireless telegraph, it is argued that premiums continue excessively high with the result that many tramp vessels, discharge cargoes at Portland and other United States ports, instead of proceeding up the St. Lawrence to Montreal.

DATE FOR REGISTRATION SET

An extra edition of the Ontario Gazette issued yesterday announced officially the dissolution of the Legislature.

Registration boards will be held in the various cities of the province on the last four days of next week, Sir James Whitney made known the chairman of the boards. His Honor Judge Huycke, is chairman of the Peterborough board.

BRYAN PLANS TO END TRUSTS

A Scheme to End Combines That Canada May Copy

WILL BE MOST EFFECTIVE

Mr. Bryan's Plan Would be the Means of Maintaining Competition — No Moral Distinction Between Trust Methods and Those of Highwaymen.

(Special to The Times)

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—The decisions of the United States supreme court in the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases have brought the country face to face with the trust question as it has not been before. In the United States, and to a large extent in Canada also, nearly every great staple of industry is controlled as to prices and terms of sale

Question Before Country.

The question before the country at this time is : What is to be done ? With the stable products of industry controlled by combinations, with the court obstructing the processes of criminal procedure by a decision that renders it all but impossible to convict trust magnates criminally, what are the people to do ?

The Situation in States.

To clearly understand the situation it may be well to suggest that there are now three remedies before the country : First, the national incorporation of interstate industries ; second, the regulation of interstate industries by a board of the court, which will have power to fix prices ; third, legislation which will dissolve, within a reasonable time, the private monopolies that now exist and prevent the organization of new ones, thus restoring competition.

All these plans are insufficient and cannot be worked out. When the country decides that competition cannot be restored—that monopolies are a permanent development of industry —then the people will be face to face with the socialistic issue.

The attempt to control water companies in the United States resulted in so much corruption and so much extortion that the cities have almost all entered upon the municipal ownership of water works. They are going through the same experience with

Earache, Toothache

To Cure the Pain in Ten Seconds and Get Instant Relief, Nothing Equals NERVILINE

Fifty years ago Nerviline was used from coast to coast and in thousands of houses this trusty liniment served the entire family, cured all their minor ills and kept the doctor's bill small. To-day Nerviline still holds first rank in Canada among pain-relieving remedies—scarcely a home you can find that doesn't use it.

From Port Hope, Ont., Mr. W. T. Greenaway, of the Guide newspaper staff, writes :

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4398

'For twenty years we have used Nerviline in our home and not for the world would we be without it. As a remedy for all pain, earache, toothache, cramps, headache and disordered stomach. I know of no preparation so useful and quick to relieve as Nerviline."

Let every mother give Nerviline a trial ; it's good for children, good for old folks—you can rub it on as a liniment or take it internally.

Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse anything but Nerviline. Large size bottles 50c, or sample size, 25c. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Woman Committed Suicide.

Dashwood, Ont., Nov. 15.—Mrs. Daniel Truemner, wife of a prosperous farmer living near this village, committed suicide by hanging. She was found hanging in the hay loft of the barn and quite dead. She had been ill for several months, subject to spells of melancholy.

LAURIER AMAZED THE HOUSE

Ex-Premier Shows His Teeth and Gets a Severe Calling Down

(Special to The Times)

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier did not second the resolution made by Premier Borden, proposing Dr. Sproule for Speaker, as is customary. On the contrary, he amazed the House by asking sarcastically, how Monk liked the choice ? It was a straight reference to Dr. Sproule being Orange, and was severely rebuked by Premier Borden, who charged him with trying to sow dissention by cried references. There was much applause when the Premier took his seat.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—The twelfth Parliament of Canada was formally opened this afternoon, practically every member being in his seat. At noon T. B. Flint, Clerk of the House, and J. B. Foley, Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, swore in the members, the veteran member, David Henderson, being the first to sign the roll and take the oath. E. N. Lewis followed and with David Marshall third. The corridors of the House to-day were abuzz with excitement all morning. Members and Senators and their wives and daughters, prominent men from all parts of Canada and military men to attend the Military Commission, filled the lobbies. There were congratulations, hand shaking and hearty greetings.

CHEERS FOR LEADER.

At three o'clock this afternoon the House assembled. The new Premier was vociferously cheered by his followers when he took his seat and the Ministers also were given a hearty reception. The Opposition also gave Sir Wilfrid a cheer when he arrived.

ELECTED A SPEAKER

Shortly after gathering a messenger arrived from the Senate, who gravely announced they were wanted in the Red Chamber. The Commoners trooped to the Senate where they were received by the Deputy Governor General, Sir Chas. Fitzpatrick, and asked if they had elected a Speaker. Informed by the Clerk of the House that they had overlooked the vital point, they were told to return to the Commons, and when they had elected a Speaker, the Governor-General would be pleased to inform them why they had been summoned together.

CHARLES KING, WELL KNOWN HERE, COMMITS SUICIDE

Toronto, Nov. 15—Despondent from drink and family troubles, Charles P. King, a type setter, committed suicide early this morning. The body was found in the Printing Department of The Once-a-Week," a weekly paper printed at 411 Queen street west, by one of the employees, Mr. Robt. Bennett at 6.20 a.m. Gas poisoning, which he had administered to himself by means of a rubber tube attached to one of the typesetting machines, was the cause. King was at one time employed in Kingston, North Bay and The West York Herald, and has been drinking heavily for some time. How he managed to get into the office of the place where he was found is not known.

King's wife is at present in the Toronto Asylum.

His first home was in Guelph. No inquest will be held.

Mr. King was well known to the printers of Peterborough, having been employed at The Review office for some time.

RIDPATH'S CONDITION.

Latest Reports are Favorable to His Recovery, But An Operation Will Probably Be Performed.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—It is twelve days since Bruce Ridpath was run down and rendered unconscious by C. A. Campbell's automobile, on Yonge street, and his mind is not yet clear enough to tell how the accident happened. His condition has remained unchanged for the past week, until to-day, when he suffered a slight relapse. His condition, however, is not considered serious.

"I have had patients remain unconscious for three weeks, and feel that Ridpath has every chance of recovery," said Dr. Walter McKeown today. "We cannot perform an operation in his present condition, but likely when he is strong enough. The skull is not fractured, but there is a laceration, and the injury to his abdomen is not as serious as we thought at first."

Governor Won't Stay Execution of Beattie.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 15.—Governor Mann to-day declined to interfere in the case of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., and the young wife-murderer's last hope of escaping the electric chair on Friday, Nov. 24th, was swept away.

"I believe the best way to prevent such crimes as this is to punish them adequately, certainly, speedily."

T. W. LOW WILL RETIRE IN MR. GRAHAM'S FAVOR.

Messrs. Geo. W. Taylor and Rufus Pope Appointed to the Senate this Morning.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—T. W. Low, M. P., for South Renfrew, took the oath this morning and it is understood that he will resign this afternoon in favor of Hon. Geo. P. Graham.

The announcement of the appointment to the Senate of Geo. W. Taylor and Rufus Pope was made this morning.

How to Banish Wrinkles Quickley

(From Guide to Beauty)

If the average woman only knew it, it is not so difficult to preserve the youthful contour and velvety smoothness of complexion. Every woman hates to see her face wrinkled or baggy, and practically every one has experimented with some sort of patent remedy in the effort either to remove such condition or ward it off.

As a matter of fact, the most effective remedy in the world is one that any woman can easily make up herself at home, in a moment's time. Let her take one ounce of pure powdered saxolite, which she can purchase at any drug store, and dissolve it in a half pint of witch hazel. Apply this refreshing solurion to the face every day. The results are surprising and instantaneous. Even after the very first application a marked improvement is apparent. The wrinkles are less in evidence and the face has a comfortable, smug feeling of firmness that is most delightful.

ELDERLY FARMER FELL FROM A LOFT TO DEATH.

Alex. Gilchrist, of Guthrie, Near Orillia, Victim of Accident.

Orillia, Nov. 15.—Mr. Alex. Gilchrist, an elderly farmer of Guthrie, about six miles from here, met death very suddenly yesterday. He had been up in the mow of his barn and fell down on his head. He was over 60 years of age, and for a long time was an elder in the Presbyterian church there. He is survived by a

was incorporated by Special Act of the Parliament of Canada for the purpose of carrying on the business of Fire Insurance, as outlined in the Insurance Act and the Special Act of Incorporation.

Capital Stock Authorised by the Board.....$2,000,000
Capital Stock Subscribed to date.....$1,650,000

The Head Office of the Company is in the city of Winnipeg, and, in addition to this, Branch Offices and Agencies will be established throughout the Dominion.

It must be generally conceded that, owing to the satisfactory conditions at present prevailing throughout not only Western Canada, but the entire Dominion, this Company is being organized at a most favorable and opportune time.

Canada, and particularly the Western portion of the Dominion, is advancing in population and wealth more rapidly than at any other time in its history, and every indication points towards a period of great prosperity and development.

The great influx of settlers into Western Canada is resulting in tremendous activity in every line of business. Railroad construction is proceeding on a scale hitherto unknown in this country, and as adequate transportation is of vital importance in moving our immense crops with a proper degree of facility, it is highly encouraging to see so much well-directed energy along the lines of railway extension.

Coincident with railway expansion, we find many new districts rapidly filling up with desirable settlers, bringing with them a good supply of cash and effects. With the settlement of the rural districts, new towns and villages are springing up, which will, during the next few years, become, in many instances, important business centres.

With such unprecedented growth in Western as well as Eastern Canada, involving an expenditure of millions of dollars in building operations, it is at once evident that there is a very extensive and profitable field for a new Fire Insurance Company which will have a thorough organization throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, and more particularly in the four Western Provinces.

As a great volume of our business will be transacted in the West, it is a matter of the greatest importance that the Head Office of the Company, as well as the Directors, should be located in the West, so that the affairs of the Company may be conducted to the best possible advantage.

DIRECTORS.

The Board of Directors consists entirely of Western men with a very intimate knowledge of Western conditions, and they are, accordingly, well conversant with the financial and general business requirements of the West. They are thoroughly representative of the various important branches of financial, commercial, industrial and professional life in Western Canada, and with their wide reputation for business ability and integrity, as well as financial standing, combined with a long and varied experience, and practical knowledge of business affairs, they are exceptionally well qualified to render excellent service to a large financial institution.

As the Directors have valuable connections with extensive business interests and are also Directors of other financial corporations, as well as being otherwise identified with large and influential companies which control a great deal of high-grade fire insurance, they will be instrumental in placing a large portion of this desirable insurance with the new Company, so that we may safely conclude that from the very beginning of operations a large and profitable business will be assured.

Under these favorable conditions, and with a strong, energetic, as well as experienced and conservative management, combined with the fact that each Director has subscribed for eleven thousand five hundred dollars ($11,500) of the Capital Stock, on which all calls have been paid, and takes an active interest in the welfare of the Company, there is only one conclusion to draw, and that is that the affairs of the Company will be conducted in such a careful, conscientious and intelligent manner that the interests of both policyholders and stockholders will be fully protected.

IT IS WORTHY OF NOTE THAT $1,650,000 OF CAPITAL STOCK HAS ALREADY BEEN SUBSCRIBED BY PROMINENT BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN THROUGHOUT THE DOMINION AND ELSEWHERE.

No commission has been paid to anyone for securing stock subscriptions, and no expense has been incurred in the promotion and organization of the Company, except the expense in connection with securing the Charter and other necessary expenses.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE.

The Canada National Fire, being organized in the West, MAY BE TRULY CALLED A WESTERN COMPANY, and, as such, should receive the liberal patronage and hearty co-operation of the citizens of Western Canada, as well as the support of people from Eastern Canada who desire to become associated with a strong and progressive Canadian Company.

When promoting this Company the Directors were fully convinced that there was a splendid opening in Western Canada for a Company prepared to carry on the business of Fire Insurance on a large and comprehensive scale, and which, at the same time, could offer ADEQUATE PROTECTION TO BOTH POLICYHOLDERS AND SHAREHOLDERS. Accordingly, when making application for a Dominion charter, the Company was incorporated with a capital of $3,000,000.00, of which amount the Directors decided to offer for public subscription the sum of $2,000,000.00.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT FEATURE IN FIRE INSURANCE IS PROTECTION, and with the LARGE CAPITAL, combined with the high standard of Reserve, which will be maintained through careful selection of risks and profits from judicious investments, the Directors and Management feel confident that this Company will be accorded a very hearty reception by Canadian citizens, and will soon rank as one of the leading Fire Companies.

WITHOUT A LARGE AND SUBSTANTIAL CAPITAL FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE POLICYHOLDERS, A FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY IS SERIOUSLY HANDICAPPED, AND DOES NOT AFFORD THE POLICYHOLDER THAT PROTECTION TO WHICH HE IS JUSTLY ENTITLED, and the Directors of this Company, being fully aware of this most important fact, are adopting a very wise policy in OFFERING FOR SUBSCRIPTION SUCH A LARGE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL STOCK, and when our entire stock is subscribed and paid in full it will represent the largest amount of subscribed and paid-up capital of any Canadian Fire Insurance Company, and will be a tower of strength and of very material benefit to the company in carrying on its extensive operations.

GENERAL AGENT FOR CANADA

W. E. FUDGER, ESQ.

It shall be the policy of the Company to use the UTMOST DISCRETION in the selection of desirable risks, and, at the same time, to so widely distribute its business that any danger arising from a possible conflagration at any point may be reduced to a minimum.

The investment of the Company's funds will be given the GREATEST OF CARE AND ATTENTION by the Board of Directors.

Only GILT-EDGE securities will be considered, such as first mortgages on improved, productive real estate, stocks, bonds and debentures of companies of high repute, as well as Dominion securities and municipal, county and school debentures of well-established districts.

As a LARGE PERCENTAGE of these securities is READILY NEGOTIABLE, the Company will have abundant LIQUID ASSETS to meet any possible contingency that might arise.

Our first mortgage investments will be confined to Western Canada, and as the rate of interest obtainable on first-class productive real estate is FULLY TWO PER CENT. greater in the West than in Eastern Canada, the Company will have a DECIDED ADVANTAGE over Companies operating exclusively in the older portions of the Dominion. A fixed policy of the Company is to loan NOT MORE THAN FIFTY PER CENT. of a conservative value of the property, and to stipulate for a definite return of principal, together with interest, each year during the term of the loan. With these periodical repayments of principal, and with land values in Western Canada steadily increasing, the Company's first mortgage securities will continue to improve year by year.

With the active development in Western Canada, a great deal of capital will be required for many years to come, and the Company will, therefore, experience a very ready demand for its funds on high-grade securities and at a profitable rate of interest.

The Directors decided to issue the stock at the price of ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTEEN DOLLARS PER SHARE, being at a premium of fifteen per cent.

THE TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION ARE:

On application, $25.00 per share, which shall include the premium of $15.00 per share, and the balance, payable in ten consecutive half-yearly instalments of $9.00 per share, the first of such half-yearly instalments to become due and payable six months from date of allotment of shares.

Shares may be PAID IN FULL at time of subscription, but if purchased on the INSTALMENT PLAN the subscriber shall have the privilege of paying any or all of the instalments prior to due dates.

The Following Table Shows the Amount of First Call as Well as the Subsequent Payments:

No. of Shares.	Amount of First Call.	Half-yearly Payments.

50	5,750.00
100	11,500.00
200	23,000.00

NO BONUS STOCK shall be issued for any purpose whatsoever, and even the Directors, who are very heavy stockholders in the Company, have paid the SAME PRICE for their shares as the general public. NOT ONE SHARE has been or will be issued to any person, at a price less than $115.00 per share.

THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY to secure some of the Capital Stock of a Western Fire Insurance Company. With a large amount of desirable and profitable business so readily obtainable by the Company through its valuable and extensive business connections, rapid progress should be made, and with investments carefully selected and unexcelled in earning power, the Company will be enabled to not only pay substantial dividends, but build up a large reserve, and thereby materially increase the value of the stock.

The Directors firmly believe in the policy that EVERY SHAREHOLDER SHOULD CO-OPERATE WITH THE MANAGEMENT of a Company and take an active interest in its welfare. For that reason, it is their intention to WIDELY DISTRIBUTE the CAPITAL STOCK, and by that means obtain the support of the leading business and professional men throughout the country.

With the rapid development of the West during recent years, involving an outlay of many millions of capital, it has become generally recognized that WESTERN CANADA IS VERY MUCH IN NEED OF MORE LARGE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND ESPECIALLY OF WESTERN ORIGIN, to properly meet the growing requirements of the West, and to not only improve the present financial situation, but to materially assist in retaining, as much as possible, desirable business, with its resultant profits, within our own Western borders.

The business of fire insurance has now grown to such large proportions that it has become a very important factor in the financial and commercial world, and as its scope and influence is so general and widespread it is only natural to find that the question of AMPLE PROTECTION TO POLICYHOLDERS, which is the PRIMARY FUNCTION OF FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES, should be so GENERALLY DISCUSSED AT THE PRESENT TIME.

This important subject has given rise to a very STRONG FEELING in Western Canada that the TIME HAS NOW ARRIVED when the Western people should organize a Fire Insurance Company of such strength and proportions that it will soon rank as one of the leading fire companies of America, and command general respect and confidence, which is so ESSENTIAL to a company that solicits the support and patronage of all classes of the community.

The Directors have every confidence that they will receive the hearty co-operation of not only Western citizens, but of people from every part of the Dominion, to build up a GREAT fire insurance company with AMPLE PROTECTION for the people, and which will be a source of pride and credit to our country.

The following Canadian Government Insurance statistics should prove of ESPECIAL INTEREST:

In the year 1909 the total amount of fire premiums collected in Canada was $1,785,539.00, whereas in the year 1909 the total premiums charged amounted to the large sum of $32,293,636.25, and of this amount $6,551,644.41 was charged by Canadian Companies, $11,518,267.45 by British Companies, and $4,223,721.39 by American Companies.

During the last forty-one years the aggregate amount of fire insurance premiums collected in Canada reached the immense total of $280,740,466.00, of which the large sum of $218,310,047.00 represents the amount of fire premiums collected by FOREIGN COUNTRIES, and which, therefore, was taken out of the country to build up foreign companies and enrich foreign shareholders.

Notwithstanding that a considerable portion of the fire premiums collected in Canada by Foreign Companies has been repaid to Canadian policyholders, through fire losses, it must be evident that the larger the proportion of Canadian fire insurance that is placed with Canadian Companies, the larger is the amount of capital retained in the Dominion and always available for investment purposes, to build up our Canadian financial institutions, and thereby add to the general wealth and prosperity of our country.

The above figures are most significant and clearly demonstrate that while the CANADIAN FIRE COMPANIES have been doing a satisfactory business they HAVE SECURED only a SMALL portion of the Fire Insurance transacted in Canada, or, to be more exact, ONLY TWENTY-TWO PER CENT. of THE TOTAL FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN IN CANADA, covering a period of the last forty-one years. With the extraordinary progress which Canada has been making during recent years, the field for financial institutions has become so widely extended that there is a CONSTANTLY INCREASING DEMAND for new large financial corporations.

By further reference to our Government statistics it will be observed that at December 31st, 1909, the total number of Canadian Fire Companies operating under Dominion charter was ONLY TWENTY-ONE, and of this number ONLY TWO HAD A PAID-UP CAPITAL IN EXCESS OF $500,000.

In promoting this large Canadian Company the Directors are fully confident that the new organization will, with characteristic Western energy and enterprise, soon come to be recognized as an important factor in the insurance world, and as The Canada National Fire will be instrumental in RETAINING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF CANADA a large amount of money which would otherwise be taken out of the country to build up foreign corporations the people of the growing Dominion will readily see the advisability of giving this Company their MORAL AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT, in order that we may build up a STRONG and VIGOROUS Company which will prove a valuable acquisition to our Canadian monetary institutions.

This is the last opportunity to secure, direct from the Company, some of this desirable stock.

It is worthy of special note that the demand for the stock has exceeded the Directors' most sanguine expectations; in fact, of the $2,000,000 of stock to be issued, $1,650,000 has already been subscribed, and, from present indications, with the large number of applications for stock being received daily, the Directors are confident that the balance of the issue, which is now only $350,000, will be subscribed by August 26th, 1911, the date appointed for the closing of stock subscriptions.

For this reason, the Directors strongly recommend the investing public to mail their applications for stock at their earliest possible opportunity.

Subscribers are requested to kindly fill in attached application form, stating name in full, number of shares desired, occupation and address, and mail the application, along with the first call of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) per share on the stock, direct to the Head Office of the Company, Winnipeg, Man., or, if so desired, application may be made for the stock at any of the Company's Branch Offices or at any Branch of the Royal or Imperial Banks, where application blanks and any additional information will be readily furnished. Applications for stock will be considered in the order received, and on approval of the same by the Board of Directors a certificate for the number of shares subscribed will be issued and mailed the shareholders forthwith. Cheques, Drafts, Money Orders or other remittances on account of stock subscriptions should be made payable to The Canada National Fire Insurance Company.

APPLICATION FOR CAPITAL TO

I ..... hereby apply for ..... shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each of the Capital Stock of the Canada National Fire Insurance Company at the price of One Hundred and Fifteen Dollars ($115) per share, being at a premium of fifteen (15) per cent.; and I covenant and agree with the said Company to pay for the said shares as follows: Twenty-five dollars per share on application, which shall include the premium of fifteen dollars per share, and the balance in ten consecutive half-yearly instalments of nine dollars per share; the first of such half-yearly instalments to become due and payable six months from date of allotment of said shares.

I further agree to accept said shares when they are allotted to me, and I do hereby request that my name be duly registered on the books of the Company as the holder of such shares.

Applications for stock will be filed in the order received, and on approval of same by the Board of Directors a Stock Certificate will be issued and mailed forthwith.

The holder of these shares will be paid the dividends that may be declared on the same from time to time by the Board of Directors. Dividends shall be declared and apportioned in proportion to the amount paid into the Company on the par value of the shares.

Calls on shares may be paid prior to due dates, and when all of such calls have been paid a fully-paid certificate will be issued to the holder of these shares.

These shares are transferable only on the books of the Company by the owner in person or by attorney on surrender of the Certificate of Stock properly endorsed. Transfers shall not be valid unless approved by the Board of Directors.

KING EDWARD VACUM CLEANER

You cannot clean carpets, rugs and furniture by beating. If you think you have, just try a KING EDWARD VACUUM CLEANER and you will find the article full of dust, which breeds disease.

The KING EDWARD HAND MACHINE has no equal as compared with other hand machines. It is lighter to operate and its suction is much stronger. Its suction is stronger than many of the power machines, and the dusting is done away with. On account of the short stroke one person can operate it on carpets and rugs equally as well as two, and it is about half the weight of other hand machines to carry up and down stairs or from one room to another. It is sold for less money than any of the hand machines. All machines are guaranteed.

Smithson Institution Gets Canada Specimens

Four Naturalists Explored Wild Country Surrounding Mount Robson for Months.

Washington, D. C., November 1.—The Smithsonian Institution gets nine hundred specimens from the Canadian wilds. The Smithsonian party which accompanied Dr. A. O. Wheeler, president of the Alpine Club of Canada, on his topographic survey of the British Columbia-Alberta boundary line and the Mount Robson region, has just returned to Washington after a successful tour.

The new collection is quite complete, and covers practically all the birds and animals inhabiting this previously unworked territory.

The party, consisting of four members, included the assistant curator of Mammals and Mr. J. H. Riley, of the division of birds of the National Museum.

Assembling at Edmonton, Alberta, early in July, the party proceeded on the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad to the end of the line, where they found it necessary to take pack horses to penetrate the Mount Robson region. The land to be surveyed included the territory lying about this mountain in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, comprising the most rugged and broken country imaginable.

Amid this wonderful scenery Mount Robson rises in titanic outline the highest peak in the Rockies, probably between 14,500 and 15,000 feet, and surrounding it for a distance of fifty miles in all directions lies the field of survey.

In this wild and unclaimed country the party of naturalists remained nearly four months, protected by special permits from the Canadian Government. The natural history work was divided up, Mr. Hollister and Mr. Riley collecting the birds and small animals, while the other two collectors hunted big game.

The collection includes some 900 specimens of birds and mammals, this latter ranging in size from mole-like creatures called "H. H. Rews," to full grown caribous and bears. One enormous grizzly bear was obtained by a fortunate shot. Much fine material for exhibition groups was secured, including a series of caribous, mountain goats, mountain sheep, beavers, and many varieties of small animals.

Besides birds and mammals, a large number of plants and insects were collected. All the specimens have been turned over to the National Museum, where they will be put on exhibition. — Montreal Star, Nov. 1, 1911.

ON BERRY DIET FOR THREE DAYS

Undaunted by Three Days Bush Wandering, a Plucky Seventy Years Old Will Build a Home in the Wilds.

To be lost in the woods of Graham Island recently, without food or shelter for three days and two nights was the terrifying experience of Mr White, of Tow Hill, a seventy-year-old retired carriage-maker from Vancouver.

Mr White, who has had a longing to spend his declining days by the seaside, went to Graham Island a few weeks ago to look for a small preemption for himself and wife. He found one on the north coast of the Island near Tow Hill, and is erecting a house and cultivating a small patch of the land there.

A few days ago he started out for a little walk inland, following a survey line. Before going far he lost the line, and though he walked to and fro all day he could not pick it up again. At night he built a fire and slept. Next day he set out again. Walking in a circle he only succeeded after a day's march in getting back to the remnant of his last night's fire. He was then without a match and had to sleep in the cold. Again next day and the succeeding night he walked about, vainly trying to find the way out. He could hear shots and shouts of the searchers, and the sound of the breakers on the shores, but could not find any path out.

At last on the third day he found the trail to Cape Fife, but mistaking the direction walked further into the bush, where fortunately he was picked up by a settler.

During the whole time Mr White subsisted on wild berries and is little the worse for his adventure. Nothing daunted by his experience, he is still firmly decided to spend the remainder of his days with his wife on Graham Island.

When We Were Poor

"When we were poor," remarked the prosperous business man, "we looked forward to the time when we could have a summer home."

"Well?" asked his friend.

"Well, when we got rich enough to have one we didn't like going to the same place every summer, because it was monotonous, and we looked forward to the time when we could have another for variety."

"Yes."

"We got another, and then we began to long for a winter place, so that we wouldn't have to spend so much time in Toronto."

"I see."

"Well, we have them all now."

"And are you happy?"

"I suppose so. At least I suppose my wife is. She keeps them all shut up and spends most of her time travelling around but she knows she has them."

Survival of an Instinct

Memory handed down through thirty generations is one of the perplexing facts of science. The beaver flourished along French rivers until killed off for its fur, but is now known only on about a dozen of the villages on the Rhone near Avignon. For three centuries these villagers have had no trees to cut down for dams. The animals were compelled to adopt a new mode of life, and have burrowed in the banks, shaping mud with their tails as usual. Recently some of them were taken by a Polish count to forest on his estate. Very strangely, they remained the habits dropped three centuries before they were born, and at once began cutting trees and building dams.

THIS DOG CAN REALLY SPEAK

German Canine's Ability to Talk in Clear Intelligent Fashion, is Ascribed by Zoologists to Possession of Anatomical Peculiarities.

There is in Berlin a dog that talks. Learned men who have examined him assert that his talking is totally distinct from his barking, that there is no resemblance between the two, that they are never mixed, and that he really knows what he is saying. His speech is not like that of parrots, mere imitation, but is a true, though still rudimentary means of communication between him and human beings.

A French newspaper man who interviewed Don — that is the dog's name — writes: "Do not get Don mixed up with the educated dogs of the country fairs and the cafe concerts. He is a well marked individuality, endowed, it seems, with a very strong will and an affection, extraordinary even in a dog, for the human race, with which he seems to be linked by obscure affinities, remarkable intelligence, and most eloquent gestures. What he says he speaks, not mechanically under the hypnotising influence of his master, as an 'educated dog' would do, but spontaneously and apparently under the single impulse of his own will.

"However, there is an excellent way of making this extraordinary dog talk. Offer him something nice to eat, and unless he be in an exceptionally sulky temper, he will show himself ready at once to display his vocabulary to you. Profiting by this happy disposition, ask him his name. He will reply in a deep voice, slurring the initial consonant a little, 'Don.' Ask him what he likes, and he will tell you, like a German baby, 'Haben, haben.' Inquire further what he wants, and he will surely answer 'Kuchen' (cake), a magic word that he seems to think includes all good things, and that he applies indiscriminatingly to cake, meat, and other favourite dainties.

Zoologists who have examined Don say that his superior intelligence is due to certain anatomical peculiarities, such as an exceptionally high forehead.

His Bit of Empire.

It is a well-known fact that some Britons are more inclined to talk about the Empire's fringe, of which they are ignorant, than about its heart.

A housewife, whose husband was addicted this way, turned his thoughts into more homely channels by her ready wit.

One Saturday evening he came home late, smelling strongly of tobacco and very red in the face.

"Oh," he said, "I've had a fine time, I've been to an Empire meeting. It was good."

Then he frowned and said impatiently. "What's the matter with supper. Ain't it ready yet?"

His wife, who was peeling potatoes and holding a squalling baby, rose and extended the child to him. "Here," she said, "take hold of your bit of Empire while I fry these chips."

Napoleon III and his "Double"

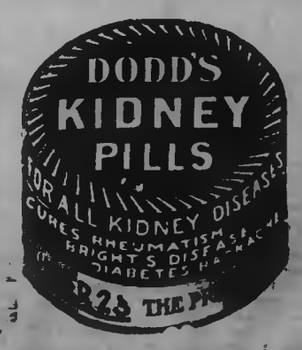
Many of the stories relating to Napoleon III. and Eugene Vivier, the cornet-player, are apocryphal, but there can be no doubt the latter owed much of his social and artistic success to his remarkable resemblance to the French Emperor. This resemblance, from their first meeting in London, endeared him to Napoleon, who at once took him under his patronage so that his future was thenceforth assured. Indeed, he soon became on most familiar terms with the Emperor who, according to the Republicans and Orleanists, availed himself of his extraordinary likeness to the musician in employing the latter to impersonate him when he desired to be, like Sir Boyle Roche's bird, in two places at once.

Ready for Emergencies.

One of our French contemporaries, apropos of the desire of the Germans to get a piece of Africa, speculates as to what the personal equipment of the German commander will consist. Will it be as extensive as that of Count Waldersee when he went to China in connection with the Boxer rebellion? The intimate friend of the Kaiser, we are told, had a trunk of dressing-gowns, a vast quantity of "chemises de nuit," boots by the dozen pairs, with felt socks and gutta percha overalls, and fur-lined waistcoats. The Count also carried a portable kitchen, the fittings being of nickel and silver. Four courses, dogs, barrels of biscuits, and a domestic to look after the dogs accompanied Waldersee, whose life was insured for $100,000.

Carnegie and his Father

Dr. Andrew Carnegie told an audience at Liverpool the other day that he had "taken to library forming because his father did it before him." William Carnegie's efforts at library founding were extremely modest as compared with the work of his distinguished son. In 1838 Mr. Carnegie's father was a journeyman weaver in Dunfermline. He and two other drivers of the shuttle met, and agreed to convey the books they had in their respective homes to one house. The combined libraries only figured out twenty volumes. The pioneers were joined by other weavers, and they agreed to tax themselves to the extent of a few pence per month and from this fund purchase new books. The little institution ultimately blossomed into the Dunfermline Tradesmen's Library.



Provincial Elections

ADDRESS OF E. A. PECK

THE LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBORO' :—
Having been nominated as a Candidate by Delegates of the Liberal Conservative Association of West Peterborough, in Convention, I address you requesting your support at the pending Election of a representative for this Riding in the Provincial Legislature.

THE WHITNEY ADMINISTRATION

1. A partial statement of work accomplished by Sir J. P. Whitney and his colleagues since assuming office in 1905, and of their plans for the future is set forth in the Manifesto recently issued by the Premier, which was published in the local Newspapers, and which you have no doubt seen; and I refer here to only a few matters of more or less special interest to you as Electors of the Riding.

WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION ACT.

2. The adoption of a new measure in this respect has been under the consideration of the present Government for some time. The Act now in force was passed in 1885, and has not been amended in any substantial way since that period, and in my opinion is defective in several respects. For instance: No relief is now ordinarily given when some degree of negligence on the part of the injured person is shown; no relief is now given where the injury arises from the act of a fellow servant (other than a Foreman or such like person), and there is no summary remedy for determining the rights of the claimant, the injured person having to resort to expensive and frequently protracted court proceedings to recover damages.

The Government has appointed an eminent Judge (Sir W. R. Meredith) to prepare a Bill dealing with this question. This Bill will be ready for presentation to the House at its next session. I feel a deep interest in this matter, and if elected will confer with those concerned here on the subject, and will endeavor to obtain the passage of an Act, which will be practical, comprehensive and simple in operation.

EDUCATION

3. The Government is to be commended for its efforts in the cause of Education.

Marked improvement has been made in the professional training of teachers.

Encouragement to teachers to remain in the profession by assurance of increased salaries.

The cost of school books has been very substantially reduced.

The establishment of continuation classes has been assisted.

Large increases have been made in the annual Grants to the schools, the total amount expended for Educational purposes during the past year exceeding $1,700,000.

4. There are no schools in the Riding which may be called "Bilingual," but as I have been frequently asked my views on this subject, and the matter is one which will no doubt be brought before the Legislature at an early date, I state here that I consider the children in the Province are entitled to receive such an education that they will think and speak in English, and have a thorough command of that language. Not merely is this the intention of the existing law, but in the interests of the children this must be insisted upon.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS

5. The Government has for many years made annual grants for the improvement of roads in the Northern part of the Riding. The sum expended in the Riding in this way last year was over $2,000. These grants will be continued, and I believe application might now be successfully made to the Government for further grants towards the improvement of the principal highways leading to centres of trade in the Riding. I shall be pleased to co-operate in pressing this matter upon the consideration of the Government.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC COMMISSION

6. A large amount of power is now in process of development along the Trent System, and it is of deep importance to the City of Peterborough that a substantial portion of this should be made available to power users in the city at reasonable rates. The Hydro-Electric Commission has rendered extremely valuable services in procuring cheap power for many Municipalities, and may be relied upon to assist in rendering similar services for the City. The position taken by the Government is that no undue monopoly of power developed upon Provincial streams shall be permitted.

FINANCES

7. The collection of all moneys to which the Province is entitled has been carefully attended to, and the annual income has been increased to more than double the amount of that in the year prior to taking office by the present Administration, and this income has been carefully and wisely expended in the maintenance of the public Institutions, the cause of Education and Agriculture, in assistance of Hospitals and Charities, in improvement of Highways, and in other ways for the benefit of the community.

In this connection the substantial grants made to the various Municipalities from the proceeds of Railway taxation may be here referred to.

Assuring you that if elected I shall do all in my power to advance the interests of the citizens of the Riding.

I remain,
Yours sincerely,
E. A. PECK

ALFONSO'S SON IS THROAT SUFFERER

Speech and Hearing Affected, But May Recover.

Geneva, Nov. 15—Don Jaime, the second son of King Alfonso, has left Fribourg for Madrid, under the care of Dr. Reymond, who will stay at the palace for some time to observe the influence of the warmer climate on the young prince during the winter months.

It is established that Don Jaime has a chronic complaint of the throat which affects both his speech and hearing, but, under prolonged treatment, it can be cured without a dangerous operation. The child has already undergone two slight operations, but not of a serious nature, and he can both talk and hear better.

According to present arrangements Dr. Reymond will return home in three weeks, and the Queen of Spain will bring Don Jaime to Fribourg in April next for a course of treatment lasting several months.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

The Morning Times
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1911.

SPECIES USED FOR LATHS—1910.

Within two years, the number of the kinds of wood used for laths has been doubled. This increase is illustrative of the extent to which lath production is becoming an adjunct to larger wood industries. Small quantities of lumber of odd sizes, slabs, and what would otherwise be mill waste are conserved and used to advantage in this way. The Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior has compiled statistics for 1910 showing that twelve species of wood were used in the production of the eight hundred and fifty-two million pieces of lath produced in 1910, worth one million, nine hundred and forty-three thousand dollars. The first six species in importance were spruce, white pine, cedar, douglas fir, hemlock and balsam, which also are the woods used for some time in the manufacture of laths. The remaining six: jack-pine, red pine, yellow pine, poplar, basswood and larch are the new species increasing in importance. Spruce and white pine laths, the two most important species, show a decrease in 1910 from the year previous, but together form nearly seventy per cent of the annual output. Some million and a half more pieces of cedar were cut in 1910 than in 1909, and the amount for this species of seventy million pieces made up one-twelfth of the total. Prices ranged from $1.25 for yellow pine to $3.18 per thousand for poplar.

THE PROVINCIAL DEBT.

The direct indebtedness of the Province on October 31st, 1910, according to the report of the Provincial Treasurer, pages 56 and 57a, was $22,083,430, and the indirect liabilities $9,260,000, a total of $31,343,430.

Most of the loans representing the direct liabilities were made in 1905-6-8-9, although the indebtedness had been in part incurred before 1905. Of these loans some $14,000,000 represents money borrowed for the building of the T. & N. O. Railway. A loan of $3,500,000 represents in the main expenditures on the Hydro-Electric line. In addition to this there is a sum of nearly $4,000,000 in the form of railway and annuity certificates issued on account of subsidies given to railways before the present Government attained power. These various loans, together with a liability of nearly half a million on account of Toronto University assumed in 1905, and a couple of minor items, make up the direct liabilities of $22,083,430. As an offset to these direct liabilities the Province can show the T. & N. O. Railway and the Hydro-Electric Line. The cost of carrying the debt incurred on account of the latter, will, it is expected, be borne by the municipalities benefitting by the same. The T. & N. O. has hardly proved self-sustaining as yet. The outlay on the line up to October 31st 1910, was over $16,000,000 and $420,000 would pay only 3 per cent. on $14,000,000.

Of the indirect liabilities of $9,260,000 the sum of $7,860,000 is accounted for by the guarantee of the bonds of the Canadian Northern (MacKenzie and Mann line), a guarantee authorized in 1908. Nearly another million is due to expenditure on the Victoria Falls Park property. The income from this park more than pays interest and maintenance charges. Another half million is for guarantees of the bonds of Toronto University, guarantees authorized in 1908-9.

LOCAL OPTION BATTLES.

The temperance forces of the province are again marshalling their forces for another attack upon the liquor traffic in the province of Ontario.

In 1910 there were 111 possible repeal contests. Voting was brought on in only 12 places. Local option was sustained in 10 and repealed in two of these.

In 1911, however, the success of local option was very marked. There were 134 municipalities where local option by-laws had been in force 3 years or more. Actually, in 131 of these the liquor interests found it impossible to muster up strength enough to bring on a repeal vote. Three municipalities voted and all three sustained the law, the aggregate vote in the three places being for local option 1043; against 529; majority for 514.

Elated by the success of the past few years, the temperance workers are going into the new contests with increased confidence. On the other hand the liquor men will most certainly offer a more determined resistance than ever before.

Weighs 825 Pounds.

Miss Gertrude Burk of Chicago, largest woman in the world, is twenty-two years of age, weighs 825 lbs., stands five feet seven inches, and some of her measurements are: Arm, twenty-eight inches; waist, fifty-four bust, seventy-five. She wears No. 44 shoes and No. 7 gloves.

When she was born Miss Burk weighed fifteen pounds and at eight years of age weighed 250. She sits on two chairs placed facing each other. Miss Burk goes through doors by turning sideways, and it is a pretty hard squeeze at that.

Efforts have been made by showmen to get Miss Burk to exhibit herself, but she has never been tempted. Her parents left her an estate, and she does not need the money.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS

NOTICE is hereby given that owing to a change in the law requiring a report from the City Engineer, which takes considerable time to prepare, before local improvement works can be undertaken, petitions for sewers, sidewalks or pavements to be constructed as local improvements must be received before February 1st, 1912, to be acted upon in 1912.

S. R. ARMSTRONG,
City Clerk.

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 837 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate; it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure; not one but will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

1—Pain in the back.
2—Too frequent desire to urinate.
3—Burning or obstruction of urine.
4—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
5—Prostatic trouble.
6—Gas or pain in the stomach.
7—General debility, weakness, dizziness
8—Pain or soreness under right rib.
9—Swelling in any part of the body.
10—Constipation or liver trouble.
11—Palpitation or pain under the heart.
12—Pain in the hip joint.
13—Pain in the nape or head.
14—Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
15—Pain or swelling of the joints.
16—Pain or swelling of the muscles.
17—Pain and soreness in nerves.
18—Acute or chronic rheumatism.

ONTARIO

Provincial Loan of $1,000,000.

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, under the authority of Chapter 4, of the Statutes of Ontario, 1911, invites subscriptions from the public for a loan of $1,000,000 on bonds of the Province of Ontario, or "Ontario Government Stock."

The bonds will be dated 1st November, 1911, and payable on the 1st November, 1941, in denominations of $1,000 each, with coupons attached for interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st May and 1st November in each year, at the office of the Provincial Treasurer, Toronto, or at the offices of the Bank of Montreal, in Montreal, Canada, and in New York, N. Y., at the holder's option. Bonds will be made payable to bearer, but on request will be registered in the office of the Provincial Treasurer and endorsed as payable only to the order of certain persons or corporations, and on request of holders will be exchanged for "Ontario Government Stock" at any time.

The issue price during the month of November, 1911, will be 102 for each $100, and after the 30th day of November, 1911, the issue price will be 102 and interest accrued from the 1st November, 1911.

ALL BONDS AND INSCRIBED STOCK ISSUED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE SAID ACT ARE FREE FROM ALL ONTARIO PROVINCIAL TAXES, CHARGES, SUCCESSION DUTY AND IMPOSITIONS WHATSOEVER.

Purchasers of Stock or Bonds will be required to send certified cheque with the application, payable to the order of the "Provincial Treasurer of Ontario."

This loan is raised upon the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Ontario, and is chargeable thereupon.

A. J. MATHESON,
Provincial Treasurer.

EX-SULTAN ABDUL HAMID IS IN BAD HEALTH

But Takes Lively Interest in the War With Italy.

Belgrade, Nov. 15.—Ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid's health has much deteriorated, although his condition has somewhat improved in the last few days. The deposed Sultan takes a keen interest in political events, and particularly in the present crisis. He realizes the difficulties facing the empire and the critical position of his enemies, the young Turks, but he is far from rejoicing about that. He said to his entourage that he was much grieved by the loss of Tripoli. He eagerly awaits the newspapers which are allowed to reach the Villa St. Alattini.

"THE FORT GARRY" HOTEL, WINNIPEG.

Adjacent to the ruins of that historic monument "Old Fort Garry," memorable in the early history of Canada's now Western metropolis is being erected "The Fort Garry," truly representative of greater Winnipeg—a magnificent edifice—to rank with the world's finest hotels, embodying in its construction the most advanced, scientific and architectural ideals. Located in the very heart of the city, to which all lines of traffic converge, it is readily accessible to the railroads and electric car lines, and within a radius of a few blocks of most of the leading theatres, while one minute's walk will place one among the largest and most pretentious of the great stores in the centre of the shopping districts, or enable one to reach the great new terminal station of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"The Fort Garry" to be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific will be built of the finest of Canadian granite and buff lime stone, in the style of the old French Chateaux of Normandy and Touraine and will rear its stately heights to fourteen stories. The building is to have approximately three hundred and fifty sleeping chambers and will be richly furnished in faultless taste. All its bedrooms are to have private bathrooms and are to be equipped with every approved modern appointment. Nothing that would in any way contribute to the comfort and welfare of its guests has been overlooked in the preparation of the plans and interior arrangements.

The keynote of the "Fort Garry" as judged from the design and interior arrangements is to be "homelike comfort." From basement to roof top, every detail of construction and furnishing has been worked out in perfect accord with this idea, and would seem to assure the largest measure of personal enjoyment and restfulness to its guests—a place where comfort-loving people might enjoy life to the utmost and feel thoroughly at home.

The main entrance of the hotel faces on Winnipeg's most beautiful thoroughfare "Broadway" and opens upon a spacious and imposing rotunda, which will suggest in its decoration and refinement the cheer and comfort provided within its walls, and from which one may enter the spacious dining rooms and cafe. The central feature of the main floor is the circular tea room of impressive and beautiful design, unbroken by column, lofty in heighth, and finely lighted by broad windows and circular domed ceiling.

The Mezzanine Gallery is also to be a novel feature of "The Fort Garry" and is obtained by the introduction of a storey midway between the office floor and the parlors. It is reached by a broad marble staircase from the main entrance lobby, and is to be finished and decorated in white and delicate shades of color. It overlooks the entrance lobby, dining room, cafe and tea room, and will be used as ladies' parlor, writing room and library. It commands a splendid view of those portions of the hotel where the most life occurs, and yet at the same time affords a quiet sense of retirement.

The ball room, banquet hall and foyer have been located on the seventh floor. These rooms are of the richest of the public rooms, and have been so arranged with separate kitchen service, reception and dressing rooms, so as to in no way interfere with the privileges of the guests of the hotel. The ball room is designed in the Louis Quartorize period, and will be beyond all question one of the most striking of its kind in Canada.

Immediately in front of the foyer of the ballroom and banquet hall is a beautiful Loggia, 30 feet in width, forming a promenade for the entire width of the building, and commanding a view of the entire city of Winnipeg.

The building, as a whole, will form a fine example of what modern science can do in the elimination of fire risk. Every girder, beam and rafter is to be of non-expansive steel, every partition of terra cotta, every floor of marble tile or cement, and the stairways of iron. It is to be absolutely fireproof, and while every precaution has been taken to insure absolute protection to life and property an equal measure of attention has been devoted to its sanitation and the safe-guarding of health.

The bathrooms are to be models of sanitation and simplicity and are to be equipped with porcelain fittings and finished in exquisite tile work. They are of comfortable size, and so placed as to be in direct communication with every bed-chamber in the hotel.

Notable features of the residential portion of "The Fort Garry" are the several state and family apartments on every floor from the second to the seventh. These consist of an anteroom, drawing and dining rooms, and the necessary bedrooms, each suite having its own private hall and bathroom. The remaining rooms on these floors, and the rooms of the upper floors from the seventh to the eleventh are divided into smaller rooms and suites, small only by comparison with the spacious state apartments already described, and each having its own private bathroom, seventy per cent. of which are outside rooms, lighted and ventilated with adequate windows. No treatment of the interior which affects garishness will be permitted. The color tones are to be in perfect harmony and the furniture is to be made to order from special designs, such as one would ordinarily find in private homes of refinement.

There is not to be a dark or uninviting chamber in the entire building, and comfort and spaciousness have not been sacrificed to secure a maximum of accommodation. Large closets have been provided in every bedchamber, and in the suites there are commodious clothes presses equipped throughout with every modern device.

A One-Man Show.

The manager of a well-known touring company wired to the proprietor of a theatre in a small town where his company was to appear:—

"Would like to hold a rehearsal at your theatre at three o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Have your stage manager, stage carpenter, assistant stage carpenter, property man, chief electrician, and all stage hands present promptly at that hour."

Three hours later he received the following reply:—

"All right. He will be there."

A NEW MOUNTAIN WORLD.

As further particulars are received from the exploration party under Mr. A. O. Wheeler, Director of the Canadian Alpine Club, regarding their recent expedition over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway through the Canadian Rocky Mountains, it is known that the new Transcontinental Railway will be able to offer to its patrons the finest scenery of any of the Transcontinental Railways in America.

In the last report received the territory in the vicinity of the head waters of the Athabasca and Whirlpool rivers is touched upon, and are, Mr. Wheeler states, opening up a field for exploration and research, mountaineering and camping that is absolutely new, and of which practically nothing is known. This group of mountains is magnificent. It rises approximately to 12,000 feet above sea level, and shows contours of the wildest and boldest possible forms. Immense snowfields and huge glaciers are everywhere. Boldest and most inaccessible rise the awful black precipices of Mount Geikie, the central point of the group. Again to the south are an endless array of peaks, towers, pyramids, domes, castles and ramparts in bewildering confusion.

An attempt was made to identify the much talked of giants, Columbia, Bryce, Lyall, Forbes, etc., but in the chaotic whole it could not be done with any certainty.

A CHANCE TO LOVE

By Berge Bertmire

The pack train crawled upward with great labor, for the day was ending and there had been eight hours of work for the mules, with close to three hundred pounds in the packs. The beasts were carrying crude ore, in which the gold nestled, to the great crushing machine, high in the mountains of South America.

A woman rode the bell-mare. She had no saddle, but sat upon a blanket cinched about the cross old gray leader. The woman was not used to horses, but she had missed the stage.

She was looking for a man at the mines — a man who she had once loved and married. She alone had received the clue of his hiding place; and it was her purpose now to bring him back to the States, to the laws of men, and to those of God afterward.

Nat Reid had made the world call him a wolf. He had even, at the last, estranged himself from the woman who had loved him, and left her in shame and poverty. He had forged and fled to this American mining colony in the Andes. Only the woman knew where he had gone. There was a big reward for him. In the anguish and rebellion of the first hour, in the pressure of actual hunger she had taken a commission from a detective agency to bring him back.

She found a house in which there was no bar; but the bars and the gambling houses were all about. From across the street, voices reached her as she sat in her room that night. At last she heard his voice, the voice of the man she wanted.

"When we get money, we import champagne, Jim. Beer is just as good. Water is better still. What kids men are when they are left alone—babes with toys they tire of, one after another, and all futile as hell! Painted paper and stamped metal — and I lost my sweetheart and my soul to get it! You're a friend of mine, Jim Smart, and may never learn this lesson of mine. But if you ever get the one woman that Mammy Earth plucked for you, stick to her with the last clutch of your hand and the last twinkle of your brain.

The woman leaning out of the window felt his heart calling for her. She couldn't think of sleep. She was taking her bread from the law to bring him in.

When the dawn had not yet come, but the gray of it was creeping up the mountains, the game stopped across the street, and Reid and others emerged. In a parting of the group, Reid appeared to her eyes in the light of the doorway — gambler, forger, husband of her early visions. He was all that a woman could ask, just as she had seen him first — slender as a cadet, steady as a man. Smart was with him.

"Jim," he said, in a quiet, humorous tone, which she knew as well as she knew the house of their honeymoon, "I want you to do a favor for me. There's a spring lock on the door of my room across the street. Here's the key. I have a duplicate. There'll be some stuff on the table and full directions what to do with it. I want you to follow these directions to the letter. Come back in an hour, but I won't be there."

She recalled the delights of the man in his even days. The understanding came that he had something of that feminine element of artists which needs the courage of another to tide him over his depressions of spirit. Reid, up here in the heart of the mountains, needed the hand and the broken heart of her.

The desire came for one look at her husband in the lamplight. What had the months done to his face which only a wife can read?

Reid was sitting by the open window. Upon the table under the lamp was the letter he had written; beside it, a six-shooter and a big leather pouch, stuffed with coins and currency.

"I dare not even write to her,' he muttered. "A woman forgives much, but not what I have done."

She saw it all. His going away, as he had explained to Jim Smart, meant the pistol on the table. He was squaring the forgery, and felt too mean even to write her!

"There is an end, even to an angel's forgiveness," he added, in a low way, his eyes lost upon the castellated peaks. "Good old Jim will get the money to them and to her. I'm—well, I go out with the new day which I do not deserve. Whipped and lonely, I take the last trail — but with a prayer for the lady who loved me once."

The woman, swaying in the hallway, had never seen Nat Reid with a finer face than was his now. He was restoring the money of the forgery and sending her what was left —"half as much again." He was taking his life with a bullet and a prayer for her.

"God, who loves me not, love that lady of mine," he said, with a last look at the dawn and the mountains, picking up the six-shooter.

"Nat—I have come!"

His arm, with pistol half raised, was clear against the outer light. She caught from his hand the cold metal, filled with concentrated death. Reid stepped back from her in the thick dawn dusk, no sound from he lips, as she sent the pistol flying out of the window.

"I thought it was all over, Jessie," he muttered at last, not daring yet to reach for her hand, "and that you had met me beyond the pale."

. . . . . .

She sat by the window in full daylight, and the man was bending down to her.

"Yes, I can love you again, boy o' mine," she whispered. "And, when the express office is open, I will go and repair with money the error of that one bad day of yours. A good name again for my——"

"A good name never, Jessie. Money will not give that back, but love from you again — that is all I need. Love and your sweet, glad face."

"All I ask," she answered, "is chance to love on—and on!"

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

RESCUED FROM THE IDOL

By Angus Frasthier

The sun was beating pitilessly down with that intense white heat that only those who have travelled in tropical countries can realise. The long white road was covered with a cloud of dust in which swarms of flies bussed noisily while its entire length was taken up by a straggling mass of humanity, all pressing towards one goal.

And in the midst of this motley crowd a single European mounted on a stout pony, his pith helmet showing up with marked distinction amongst the rainbow-hued headgear surrounding him.

Dismounting from his pony at some little distance from the entrance to a temple Roydhouse flung the reins to one of the numerous hangers-on who swarmed round him, eager to pick up a few annas; and proceeding on foot he strode toward the grotesquely-carved and gaudily-decorated portals of the holy palce.

As Jack Roydhouse entered from one side, a long procession of priests trailed in from the other, several of them carrying lights that burnt with the same curious faint blue light. And as they advanced they chanted in a low tone some sort of doxology in praise of the deity they worshipped.

Suddenly waving their torches the lights flashed up brilliantly, revealing to Roydhouse's astonished gaze the idol he had come such a distance to see. Grotesque in the extreme, and yet so strangely weird that it was absolutely forbidding; whilst to add to its barbaric splendour it bore on its legs and arms jewels that would have been worth a king's ransom.

But it was the head that naturally attracted Roydhouse's attention. Was he dreaming? He rubbed his eyes and gazed again. True, the face was hideous to a degree, with protruding ears and a long, beak-like nose. But the eyes! By what conjuring trick had those priests effected such a marvellous deception.

At the termination of the ceremonies, and when the worshippers began to file slowly out, Roydhouse, passing through the Hall of Columns, suddenly felt himself plucked by the sleeve, and a native woman, closely veiled, with one finger held to her lips, thrust a small piece of paper into his hand; then, disappeared from view.

Half a mile down the road he seated himself on a moss grown stone, and drew forth the strange note.

It read:—"I see you are an Englishman. For God's sake come to the south entrance of the temple at midnight. You may be able to rescue me from a living death. You will—"

There the strange letter finished. Evidently the writer had been interrupted.

. . . . . .

Leaning against some palm stems, and almost indistinguishable amid the luxurious undergrowth, were the forms of two men.

"Keep quiet, man. See! the door is opening."

Roydhouse gazed intently in the direction indicated, and sure enough the small door had opened an inch or two. Slowly, and without any sound, it swung back, till it was wide enough to admit the passage of a female figure clothed in white.

For one second the figure hesitated; then, evidently recognising the Englishman, advanced and he at once discovered that it was the Indian woman who had thrust the note into his hand.

"'Tis even here, my lord!" And the woman as she spoke took his hand and placed it upon what he could feel was an iron-bound door.

"'Tis through here I pass the memsahib her food, and it was through here she gave me the letter to my lord."

Then, as though another door had been opened farther off the sound of a chant came suddenly surging on his ear, and at the same instant a piercing shriek rang out, and a voice in unmistakable English called "Help!"

Roydhouse blew out the lock with a revolver shot, and there, facing him, and struggling in the grasp of two priests, was what he might have taken for a human being, but for the head.

To his last hour he will never forget the sight — the tall, graceful form, the bare white arms. But the face, with its ghastly whiteness, its protruding ears and beak-like nose! Then in an instant the solution flashed across his brain. It was a mask similar to those he had seen used by the lamas in distant parts of Thibet, and darting forward he wrenched the wearer from the hands of those who held her, and before they had recovered from their surprise, had knocked one senseless with the butt end of his revolver, and sent the other sprawling with a well-planted blow between the eyes.

With his knife he quickly severed the cords that bound the hideous thing, and as it fell apart there was revealed to his gaze the blue eyes and golden hair of Maisie Pargiter, daughter of the Colonel, who had mysteriously disappeared some time before.

During the ride back to Faizabad, Maisie confided to Roydhouse how she had been kidnapped by the priests, and being taken to the Rock Temple had been forced to act the part of an idol; and how, the body of the real idol being hollow, she was concealed within it with the exception of her head, which, enclosed in the hideous mask, was visible to the public gaze; and as her eyes were allowed to be seen, the priests had reaped an abundant harvest from the credulous natives who came to worship at the shrine of the idol with the Living Eyes.

A week after the occurrence related above, Murray Bover, coming suddenly into Roydhouse's room, caught his friend gazing intently at a small locket in which reposed a tiny curl of golden hair.

"Hullo, old man!" he cried gaily "Let's know when the wedding is coming off.

No preacher can make a success at fishing for men and angling for flattery at the same time.

Advertisement by Water.

An ingenious machine has just been put on the Parisian market. According to details given in "La Publicite" the machine prints an announcement on the ground in water, which it sprays upon the soil in a fine shower. The letters or signs will last from twenty to thirty minutes, until the evaporation of the water is complete, and as the spray of water also serves the welcome purpose of laying the dust, the invention will doubtless be accorded a heartier welcome than the majority of advertising devices of this nature receive.

FOOTBALL IN ENGLAND

The Footer Game Now in Full Swing and the Land is Covered with Mickers.

Football is now over all the land in Britain, so to speak; the big clubs in their high-priced enclosures, the smaller on public grounds and open spaces, and the juveniles unattached, on all the unbuilt lots and quiet residential streets from which the local constables have neither time nor inclination to drive them. Baseball fever is a mild disease in comparison to Britain's football outbreak.

In England alone there are more than 16,000 regularly constituted football clubs playing a schedule of games throughout the season. There are 500 recognized important leagues, some of them embracing twenty, 30 or even 40 clubs. The football association, the largest governing body in the game, has jurisdiction over 14,000 clubs and on its rolls are more than 750,000 members. It registers and sanctions 20,000 referees and has a more or less authoritative control over every big game played in the country.

These astounding figures do not include the thousands of clubs and the hundreds of thousands of players in schools throughout England. They are not registered by the football association, but have a separate organization of their own.

Professional football gets a support from the spectator public that is truly remarkable. The biggest baseball crowd on this continent would bring grief to the backers of the great empire clubs. Those who have marvelled at the thousands that have blacked the benches of the big American enclosures should see the tweed-capped legions of Crystal Palace on cup-tie day. That is the day when the championship is decided. More than 110,000 persons have pushed and crowded and squeezed their way into the grounds to witness the great struggle.

Cup-tie day is one of the most astonishing observances in the English year. Men and boys, girls and women, all over the country, even in the lowliest walks of life, save their money months ahead to defray the railway and other expenses of the day. If the game is played at Crystal Palace, London for a day becomes a Babel. Everyone of the widely different accents and dialects of the country is heard in its streets. The first train-loads arrive soon after midnight and from then until noon time trainload after trainload of football enthusiasts are emptied at the various London stations, while the way-going in the evening is a never-to-be-forgotten sight.

SWIMMING AND BATHING

Sir Harry Poland, K.C., contributes to the "Marine Magazine" an article on "Swimming and Bathing," in which he gives advice from his own experience to those who wish to become good swimmers. He says:—One great thing for a swimmer to accomplish is to swim without depending on the use of his hands, thus leaving them free for other purposes," and he recommends the swimmer to learn to dress and undress in the water, and to practice swimming while wearing heavy clothes.

"When I lived on the banks of the Thames, at Strawberry Vale, Twickenham, I used," says Sir Harry, "at a quarter past seven every morning to plunge into the river. I continued to do this for several years, although the dark mornings for about three weeks before Christmas and a few weeks after were a little trying. The great thing to attend to is to take your header directly you are out of bed, and to take care to keep warm until you plunge. For this purpose you should put on a coat lined with flannel, with a thick coat over that, trousers lined with flannel, slippers lined with lamb's wool, and warm gloves. You should stand on a piece of carpet and throw your clothing off like a quick-change artiste, and on coming out of the water you may stand in the open and thoroughly enjoy the east wind for the first time in your life, and the snow, sleet, hail, or rain will only be a diversion. "Cold bathing in winter will not, of course, do for a man whose liver is sluggish or whose heart is weak. As I had to lead a sedentary life it must not be supposed that at any time I was an athlete; on the contrary, I was never very strong, and I mention this solely for the purpose of showing that with the exercise of common prudence almost every youth can do I was in the habit of doing."

Good nature is the most weak-kneed of the virtues.

When you have a bad cold you want the best medicine obtainable so as to cure it with as little delay as possible. Here is a druggist's opinion: "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for fifteen years," says Enos Lollar of Saratoga, Ind., "and consider it the best on the market." For sale by all dealers.

Animal Love.

Mother love is universal, and there is no love like the mother love. Most of the high and lofty loving in this world is done by mothers. Apart from this the work of wooing falls to the male members of the family whether it be the human family or some one of the other animal tribes. We read how, ages ago, a Bulbul, or Oriental Nightingale, wooed a white rose until it blushed red, and that was the beginning of the red rose. The Spanish Cavalier stands out in the rain and serenades his "Dulce Mia" until there is a crick in his neck, while she sits sheltered in a window above.

The cackle of the loon may be a love song for all we know. Maybe that's what made him loony in the first place.

The wild moose bellows his passion across the lake, and as likely as not the answering call is from a bark horn in the hands of a hunter, luring him to death.

It seems a sizzling shame, but if you will take a Grand Trunk train and travel into the "Highlands of Ontario" you will find men doing that very thing; arguing, doubtless, that all is fair in love and war.

CORONATION,

ALBERTA

The Pacific Realty Co., Limited

154 Bay Street, Toronto, Phone Main 2435

has been authorized by the Land Department of the Candian a Pacific Railway to sell to the public CORONATION town lots.

Plan and map may be inspected at the office of The Pacific Realty Co., Limited, 154 Bay Street, Toronto, from 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p. m., except Saturday, when the office closes at 1.00 p.m.

Facts About Coronation

Coronation is the first divisional town east of Lacombe, and is splendidly situated about twenty miles east of Castor, in the centre of some of the finest farming districts of Western Canada. Its natural advantages, combined with important railway developments, assure to it a future of considerable importance. Engineers are now locating two branch lines north and northwesterly from Coronation, and a third line is projected southeasterly to connect with the branch running northwesterly from Swift Current.

CORONATION will be:

A divisional centre on the great new railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton.

An important junctional centre, as three branch lines are already projected.

A distributing centre for a large and wealthy district.

A purchasing centre for thousands of Western Canada's most prosperous farmers.

If you wish to go into business or make a safe and profitable investment you cannot do better than purchase lots at Coronation, which is bound to rapidly become one of the most important towns of the West.

Mexico Oil

The Mexican Oil Fields, will probably break all records in the production of oil. The largest oil wells in the world are now flowing in the Tampico field, and development is just fairly begun. We offer an exceptionally attractive investment in the stock of a conservative Company, just organized, which controls 3500 acres, in the midst of the big producing section of the field. We are certain we can convince any one of the merits of the enterprise, and we want you to

INVESTIGATE

It will only cost you two cents to secure maps, booklet, and full description of what we have to offer. The stock is being sold for the purpose of drilling the property. Oil is now being produced on all four sides of this property. We will give you every opportunity to investigate the proposition itself and the officers in charge of its affairs. SPEND A WEEK AT ALGONQUIN.

The popularity of the Algonquin National Park, Ontario, has been pronounced this year, and it has been necessary to use at least 25 large tents as an auxiliary to the accommodation of the Highland Inn, at Algonquin National Park Station.

Most people return to their homes in the early part of September, but as this is one of the most delightful months in this territory, those who can make it convenient are advised to spend a week or two there. The hotel is also open all the winter and with the bracing air of this locality (1700 ft. above the sea) a most delightful sojourn can be spent even in the winter months.

A handsome illustrated booklet may be had on this territory upon application to Mr. A. E. Duff, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Lad Injured While Hunting.

While out hunting with several of his companions on Thanksgiving Day George James, of 505 Sherbrooke street was the victim of a painful accident. One of the party stumbled over a stump and having his finger on the trigger of the gun, discharged it, with the result that George, who was standing nearby received the shot in his leg. When he was taken home, Drs. Young and Boucher were called. They extracted the bullet which had passed right through the bone. The boy is now doing nicely.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered stomach. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and correct that and the headaches will disappear. For sale by all dealers.

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers.

Some three hundred representatives from Ontario and Quebec were in attendance at Belleville convention.

Real Estate, Mining and Industrial Investments

HOW $100 GREW TO $31620

The value and importance of any enterprise must be based on the profits and dividends it can earn. In this respect the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, is without a parallel in the line of investments.

It combines the attractive factors which are needed to make the perfect investment—viz., safety, large earning capacity and low cost of the stock at the start. It is not at all uncommon for oil stocks to begin at a few cents a share and jump to hundreds of dollars a share—sometimes thousands.

	Started at	Has Sold at
Central	10 cents	$2.10
Monte Cristo	10 cents	$4.00
Lucile	10 cents	$16.00
Silver Tip	25 cents	$4.00

Kern River	50 cents	$8.75
Peerless	50 cents	$8.75
Puente	$10.00	$150.00
Home	$10.00	$5000.00

This list, taken from San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchange records, could be added to almost indefinitely.

Fortunes have been made from stock increases. stock is $200, YOUR YEARLY PROFIT ON AN INVESTMENT OF $300.

When we have ten wells sunk you can reasonably figure on AN ANNUAL PROFIT ON YOUR HOLDINGS OF $2000.

$2000 A YEAR. DOESN'T THIS APPEAL

Many a case could be cited similar to that of Richard Ellis, clerk in a store in Los Angeles, whose investment of $100 became worth $31,620 in a short time. There are hundreds of such cases in Los Angeles alone.

$2000.00 Profit a Year

Do you realise that stock in the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, at the present price of 30 cents a share is not merely the opportunity of the year—IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

If you have $10, $50, $100 or $500 YOU SIMPLY CAN NOT AFFORD TO PASS IT UP.

If we develop only a 1000 barrel well of 26 gravity oil, this production alone will be sufficient to enable the corporation to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. and at the same time have sufficient capital to continue the drilling of wells.

1000 shares of stock at the present price of 30c costs only $300.

20 per cent. dividend on the par value of the TO YOU? Wouldn't you like to be coming up to this office every three months and getting your dividend cheque for $500?

Remember, too, that your stock holdings in Midway Maple Leaf, if you should want to sell them should be worth $18,000 or sixty times the amount of your original investment.

Consider These Facts

The Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company is working in proven gusher territory, the richest oil zone in the world, controlling 40 acres on one-eighth royalty, with the great advantage of the option to purchase at only $1250 per acre after oil is struck, and the ground must then be worth at least $5000 per acre. This means a clean profit of $150,000 over purchase price. It has been demonstrated completely by gushers on adjoining Standard and Honolulu ground, that this portion of the Midway field is not only the richest portion of the whole district, but that it produces the highest grade of oil found in the entire vicinity, and worth 50 per cent. more per barrel at the well.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY IN VANCOUVER REALTY

Investors seeking an opportunity to secure large returns for their money will find an exceptional chance offered by Keith Park Land Co., Limited, of Vancouver, B. C. This company has placed on the market for immediate sale the choicest piece of property on the North Shore.

This tract known as Keith Park, D. L. 676, lies at the junction of the Pipe line Road, (owned by the city of Vancouver) and the Keith Road and is the Junction point for North side traffic.

The Second Narrows Bridge, which is to connect Vancouver and North Vancouver will be constructed so that Keith Park will be in the line of its northern end.

It is confidentially expected that a new town will be created at this point. Dominion, Provincial and Municipal subsidies to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars have already been secured for the bridge project and plans are now being drawn for the bridge. It is expected that actual workwill be started within the next ninety days.

Keith Park presents the best chance to buy ahead of the important municipal and government projects that are planned for the North Side. It will stand the most critical investigation.

Full information and maps supplied upon request. Lots range in price from $200 upwards. Terms one-quarter cash, balance in six equal quarterly payments.

A LAND MYSTERY

The building of a railroad by the British from Persia to Karachi across Mekran may not of itself, as the New York Sun says, be a project of importance. Europe has offered little opposition, and engineers say the route presents few serious obstacles; but it brings the rest of the world into contact with some of the earliest scenes of Eastern history and opens a land of mystery of which there have been only glimpses about every thousand years.

Mekran is the coastal region of Baluchistan and extends from India to the Persian Gulf. Sailors before and since the voyage of Alexander's Admiral, Nearchus, have coasted along its white shores and found themselves surrounded by spouting whales such as the first map makers delighted to picture. High pooped native crafts like ancient galleys carrying pirate slave traders and gun runners dodge into its shallow harbors. British steamships sometimes stop at one of its ports for a cargo of dates or rice for the Indian trade. But sailors never penetrate into the range of yellow hills or cross the sterile plain, "the hottest land of all Asia," where the sand rolls in waves and floats in stifling clouds. Oases are rare along the streams that flow from these ridges; the country is dry, weather worn, desolate, shunned by man.

The few inhabitants are the flotsam and jetsam of the civilization that have passed over it. They are the wreckage that drifted into this obscure world from the earliest movements into and from India to the first search of Europe for Eastern empires. The Portuguese that conquered Muscat and captured the islands of Ormus and Kishm and founded colonels at Bander Abbas and Gwadur left their tribute of adventurers, as did the Dutch, French and English that came after them. These found here older people of whose origin all trace was lost, colonies of half bred Arabs left by the decline of the Arab dynasty at Sind, Mongols from the time of Genghis Khan, negroes, descended from mediaeval slaves, and stragglers from every central Asian tribe.

Yet Mekran cannot always have been such a dry, desolate land Buried in the sands beneath some of the little towns are the ruins of cities. At one place an explorer found the walls of six towns that must at some time have been places of some importance. In the hills above Gwadur are the remains of a great reservoir. Tombs with fragments of pottery that no one seems able to identify are often uncovered; many of the hills are closely covered with stone houses with dome shaped interiors. There are remains of works of masonry that were great dams for catching the waters of the river at flood time. In arid deserts explorers have found forests of dead trees that have stood stark for centuries, and on some of the hills terraces that must some time have been in a high state of cultivation. No one apparently is able to tell who built these cities add reservoirs, cultivated the terraced hills, or were buried in the tombs. The very reason why this land to-day is only a rebion of great heat, thirst and death is one of the secrets of nature.

Sifting Out the Manchus

The Chinese rebels, who are the "original" Chinese, have resorted to an ancient Israelitish trick to sift out the real Chinese from the doomed Manchus.

Instead of saying to the suspect "Say now Shibboleth," as the Gileadites said to the Ephraimites, they say to them, "Say liushiliu," the Chinese word for "six." And if the suspect doesn't pronounce it right according to ancient Chinese fashion, he gets it in the neck, literally, as the Ephraimites got it who said "Sibboleth" instead of "Shibboleth."

The test imposed by the Chinese insurgents is a numerical one. The suspect is told to count. When he passes six his fate is sealed.

If the suspect says "Lo-ow" he is spared. If he says "Lo-Kee-Haw", as the Manchus do, it's all day with him. "Them they took him and slew him."

THE DEATH TRAP OF THE AGES

Californian Tar-Pool has Revealed More Regarding Pre-Historic Animal Life than any other Source on Record.

The amazing assortment of mastodon specimens at the University of California at Berkeley have been drawn mostly from the well-known oil sump at Rancho la Brea, near Los Angeles. In this pool, widely described as the death trap of the ages, there have been dug up from the asphalt beds a vast number of skulls and remains of prehistoric creatures. As an active collection agency the tar pool was more efficient than the best fly trap ever invented. In digging through the asphalt, the geologists in one spot encountered the bones of not less than seven sabre-toothed tigers. In two cubic yards of material seventeen perfect skulls of the sabre-tooth were discovered. Besides this, there were unearthed one complete skeleton and four perfect skulls of a great prehistoric wolf. Indeed, the tar pool has revealed more of the history of the prehistoric animal life of California than any other source.

For nearly half a century the asphalt deposits that stretch through the region of the Los Angeles tar pool were known to contain hundreds of bones, but no investigator had a suspicion of what the bones were. In 1875 Major Hancock, owner of the Rancho la Brea, gave William Denton one of the huge fossil sabres that he had found in the asphalt. Mr. W. W. Orcutt, a noted Californian geologist, recognized the bones as those of prehistoric animals.

The Second Largest

Moosejaw is likely to have further rush of capital in course of next spring and rumor tells that the C. P. R. will lurk around the top-lines on the list of labor-employers.

At present several new tracks are being laid down, and the cash expenditure means considerable heap of bank balance to the credit of the gentlemen who hand groceries and things across the counter, the payroll for the small army toting up to over $200,000 per month.

Here, by the way, is located the second largest individual railway yard in the world — a yard containing over 40 miles of tracks and an engine house housing three dozen locomotives. The cattle yards are the largest between Calgary and Winnipeg.

PREFER SAUSAGE

French War Office is So Particularly Straight that even Piglets in Streaks Must Be Less than Six Months Old.

The ways of the French red tape expert are many and delightful. Here is a French War Office story for which an authority vouches. A maker of tinned goods who dealt largely with the French War Office had invented a novelty. He had found a means of putting sausages into the boxes which preserved them absolutely. Dumanet, like Tommy Atkins, has a great love for the succulent sausage, and the action of preserving them was good.

But the French War Office has a rule with regard to preserves. They have to be left at the Rue St. Dominique for six months to see if they will really keep before any contract is given. M. X. left his box of sausages and went away happy. He was away for a year. At the end of this time he called at the War Office so that the sausages should be opened in his presence. He was told that it was no use opening them; he would not get a contract. 'Why not?' he asked. 'They have been here a year,' he was told, 'instead of six months. Our orders are to open after six months and see whether the goods are in a proper state of preservation.'

And although M. X. explained that a year held just twice six months, and that if the sausages were still sausages it would be proof positive that they were well tinned, red tape, as usual, held its own. He was obliged to take his sausages away, to bring back two boxes of others, and he will have to wait six months before he gets his contract. And poor Dumanet will have to wait for his sausages.

WHERE THEORIES SUFFER

The only justification America has yet had comes direct from the satisfaction of the individual American. His satisfaction, however, is both unmistakable and voluble, says a writer critic. He is content, though the competition becomes daily more severe and evident. He is beginning to realise now that many are handicapped at the very outset, that the struggle is prolonged by the stronger for the sheer joy of conquest, and even that a good third of the energy expended is consumed in piling up success on the top of victory. Yet a cheerful acceptance of the situation is the price of his individuality, his optimism, and his chance of winning out, and he pays it ungrudgingly. There is a greater measure of content and less of a sense of environmental injustice in America than anywhere else in the world today. And the principles of conduct and social relationships, though elemental, are like the rules of a game, there is an immediate appeal to public censure or approval, and little discrepancy between theory and practice.

Naturally our theories suffer when compared with idealistic and more divorced codes. Where every man is supposed to consider his own interests, no social blame is imputed, and no one, except for initial handicaps, has an excuse. That is not, on the whole, an unenviable state of affairs; the American temperament only approximates it. As an instinctive theory, this is what it believes in. Yet with every man theoretically for himself, public spirit-tedness prevails to a marked and unusual degree. For every man drives a frank bargain with the community; there is a competitive and open market for altruistic wares. Consider for a moment that phenomenon of our civilisation, the millionaire philanthropist. He is an enigma, this person who has seemed to change character and tactics under our very eyes? By no means; if Americans worship money, they worship it as power, as cornered energy and not in an intrinsic and miserly way.

COLD IN THE HEAD

What's the sense in sneezing and Sniffling, dosing with purgatives, or bothering with atomisers?

Catarrhozone

A convenient inhaler treatment is the proper remedy to cure quickly and pleasantly.

Sensible people long ago abandoned the idea of "working off" a cold by means of laxatives and purgatives for the simple reason that the cure is as bad as the disease itself.

To cure a cold in about ten minutes' time use Catarrhozone. It is aromatic, delightful to inhale, clean and very simple to use.

Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic, and perfectly safe and harmless. Even children and infants can use it. The vapor is inhaled at the mouth, and after passing through the respiratory organs is exhaled slowly through the nostrils.

Catarrhozone never disappoints, it stops sneezing, coughing and running at the eyes, by a few inhalations. Inflammation, congestion and all irritation disappear under the influence of Catarrhozone more quickly than can be told.

C. B. College, of Clarence Street, London, says:—"I had a continuous cold in the head for years, and never used anything with such quick results as I derived from five minutes' use of Catarrhozone. I am delighted to find a remedy that cures colds in a few minutes. Catarrhozone cures every time."

To carry a Catarrhozone Inhaler in the pocket means you won't have colds, catarrh or any lung or throat trouble. It keeps these diseases away and is warranted to protect you against all the ills of winter. Complete outfit, with Hard Rubber Pocket Inhaler costs $1.00. Small size, 25 cents. Chimes Rung for a Western Bride.

The wedding of Miss Agnes Hall, daughter of Mr. Adam Hall, this city, took place in Vancouver yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. Miss Hall was formerly a member of St. John's church, the chimes of which were rung at 2 o'clock in honor of her marriage.

Shot Eight Deer.

Mr. R. J. Munro, of the Munro House, has returned from Ketchecum district, where he and a party of eight put in the hunting season. He reports that eight deer fell to the party, the remainder of whom will return to-day.

Rev. Mr. Dickey's Lecture.

The lecture last night in St. Paul's church by Rev. Mr. Dickey was fairly well attended, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather. The subject was "Pioneer Work in the Yukon." The address was illustrated with lantern views.

Beekeepers in Convention.

The annual convention of the Ontario Beekeepers Association of Ontario opened in Toronto yesterday morning and will continue until this evening. Several delegates are present from Peterborough district.

Edmonton Wants Industries.

Mr. W. J. McGrath, of Edmonton, is at the Queen's Hotel, Mr. McGrath is negotiating with several manufacturers with a view to locating in Edmonton. Mr. H. P. Kennedy, of Peterborough, who has become extensively interested in Edmonton real estate, has just returned from the west.—Toronto Globe.

Free of Debt.

The new Methodist church at Fenelon Falls in entirely free of debt. The cost of the new edifice is $12,000, which sum was raised by subscriptions, collections and a fowl supper. The proceeds of the fowl supper, which was held on Tuesday night was $250. The new church is a fine building and one of which the congregation may well be proud. Special services were held on Sunday in the church.—Lindsay Post.

A Successful Hunt.

Mr. Robert Nurse, of Fowlers Corners, and Messrs. William Hunter, Harry Fowler, Norman Young, Harry Arnott and Richard Davis, have returned from what they report as a successful hunt in the Parry Sound district. Mr. Nurse says deer were plentiful.

To Speak in Ottawa.

The Lindsay Warder says that on the invitation of Col. the Hon. Sam. Hughes, M.P., Minister of Militia and Defence, Dr. J. A. White, of Lindsay, will pay a visit to Ottawa to-day, where he will deliver an address before the Minister of Militia and the Military Council on one of the important subjects of the present day, namely, "Military Training in schools and Cadet Corps." Dr. White has the subject well in hand and his address will no doubt be a valuable one.

A Convention City.

By reason of its favorable situation and other advantages Peterborough will no doubt become a convention city. With the new C.P.R. line and daily train service to Orillia and points west, as well as in every other direction, Peterborough now is an important centre. All we require is better hotel accommodation, and this matter should engage the attention of our Board of Trade at an early date.

Navigation Practically Ended.

Navigation on the Trent Canal, in so far as the points where the railway bridges cross the canal, will with one exception be closed for navigation on Tuesday the 21st inst. As a matter of fact the Nassau drawbridge has already closed, there being no object in keeping it open, in view of the fact that the Peterborough Hydraulic Lift Lock is laid up for the season. The G.T.R. drawbridge below Peterborough, and the G.T.R. drawbridge at Fenelon Falls will close on the above date. The G.T.R. drawbridge just above Hastings will remain open for a short time longer.

A Deer Apiece.

Mr. Chas. McClelland, who made one of a hunting party of eight in the Nipissing district, has returned, and reports that deer were very plentiful contingent to their camp, each of the boys having been allotted the one deer allowed by law on Thursday last. Partridge, however, were not very plentiful. The Rev. Mr. Tivey of Toronto was the leader of the party which included Geo. Mitchell, of Toronto, Mr. J. Wyle, Toronto, Mr. H. Barnard of Hamilton, James Storey, and R. A. Elliott, of this city.

Renewing Complexion By Absorption

If your complexion is marred with blotches, moth patches, pimples, or freckles, it's useless to putter with powders and paints, lotions, creams, and things, in an effort to get rid of the trouble. Unless you have some ability as an artist you'll mar your appearance still more.

The new and rational way is to take off the complexion itself, with all its offensive marks. Just get an ounce of pure mercolized wax at the druggist's and use at night same as cold cream. Remove next morning with water and soap, following with dash of cold water. The mercolized wax absorbs the half-dead scarf skin in flaky particles, so gradually no one guesses you're treating your face—unless it be by the result, which is truly wonderful. There's nothing like it for restoring a natural, healthy and beautiful complexion. — Aunt Sally.

Yesterday.

Yesterday morning the first train was run over the C.P.R's new grain route, between Bethany and Victoria Bay, carrying Vice-President David McNichol, General Superintendent J. Oborne, and Superintendent R. King, on a tour of inspection. The road was found to be entirely satisfactory. The contractors are the Toronto Construction Co., who will not hand the work over to the C.P.R. until December 1st.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES.

The Athletics and the White Sox play off for the championship, Saturday morning.

The Senior Leaders Corps met last night for floor work at 6.15, after which supper was served.

The First Aid to the Injured Class met at 9 o'clock last night, with Dr. Spicer in charge.

WEDDING BELLS.

Plunkin—Hobbins.

Miss Mary Hobbins and Mr. George Plunkin, both of this city, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at St. Peter's cathedral, yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. Rev. Father McColl officiated. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Lottie Hobbins, and the groom by Mr. Thomas Halderman.

Mr. and Mrs. Plunkin left for Toronto in the afternoon, on the C.P.R. train. They will reside in the Queen City at present.

OBITTARY.

Albert Sidney Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Moore, of Garden avenue, this city, suffered a sad bereavement yesterday morning in the death of their four months' old child, after a brief illness.

Moved by Mr. Moore, seconded by Mr. Hill, that the water rate for livery stables be the same as that of the manufacturers, from October 1, 1911. Accounts to be rendered monthly.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Hill, seconded by Mr. Moore, that Mrs. M. Parker be notified that on and after January 1st, 1912, water will be supplied to her establishment on Charlotte street, by meter, at manufacturers' rate, and that she will be required to execute the usual contract, the minimum rate to be $50 per annum net.

The secretary was instructed to write the secretary of the T.A.S. asking what objections they had to the Commissioners setting meter on the service on their premises.

The secretary was instructed to enquire of W. Kennedy, Jr., if he had any information as to the level of water.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

BEFORE TREATMENT

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I even seized the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

The inside finish is of mahogany, with green painted ceilings. All the latest improvements are installed in these cars, and they are models of perfection for railroad travel. The body of the coaches are upholstered in green plush and the smoking rooms in green leather. The total seating capacity of the cars is 69 persons. These cars are heated by steam, lighted with Pintsch gas, and are equipped with high speed Westinghouse air brake, and all the latest appliances for safety.

The baggage cars are 63 feet 10½ inches long, with a clear, 60 feet in length inside. There are four doors to each car opening in the clear 5 ft. x 6 feet 2½ inches. These cars are mounted on four wheel trucks, are lighted with Pintsch Gas, and heated by steam. They are also equipped with the Westinghouse high speed air brake.

This equipment will be placed in service on different divisions of the system as soon as delivery is made.

BRYANS PLAN

lighting companies, and they will have the same experience with street car lines and telephone companies.

If franchise holding corporations were content to furnish water, light and street car service upon a business basis and at reasonable rates the public would prefer private ownership. But human nature seems too frail to be intrusted with the enormous power that monopoly gives to those who possess it. They are not content with that which is just and reasonable, and in their effort to secure more they resort to means which shock the public conscience and at last compel municipal ownership.

Monopoly depends upon the proportion of control. A corporation that controls 5 per cent. of the product in which it deals cannot regulate the price or fix the terms upon which others do business. If, however, it controls 95 per cent. of the product, it can fix both price and terms. Somewhere between 5 per cent. and 95 per cent. the control becomes effective in the establishment of a monopoly.

Mr. Bryan's Plan

Let a license be required of interstate commerce corporations when they secure a certain proportion of the trade. As Congress has complete control over interstate commerce, it can fix the percentage at any amount. His plan suggests 25 per cent. as the point at which a license should be required. But the percentage is not so material as the principles to be applied, and the percentage can be changed whenever experience proves that it is too high or too low.

The proposed license differs essentially from national incorporation. The license system recognizes the right of the states to incorporate, and it should also recognize the right of each state to fix any condition it pleases upon foreign corporations doing business in the state. A license would not grant any new powers. It would simply be a restriction upon the powers already possessed by corporations.

The plan proposed contemplates a regulation of the corporations that take out a license with a prohibition of more than 50 per cent. control. That is, a licensed corporation would be permitted to engage in interstate commerce on such terms as were fixed by the federal law and by state laws, but would not be permitted to control more than 50 per cent. of the total product.

The 50 per cent. limit also is arbitrary, and may be raised or lowered to conform to experience, the object being to compel corporations to come under federal supervision when they reach a point where they may exert a harmful influence over trade, and to stop when they reach a point when a harmful influence may be presumed. The license should require proof of paid up capital and absence of "water," and licensed corporations should be prevented from employing any of the means which are now resorted to for the elimination of competition, as, for instance, selling at a low price in one section and at a higher price in another.

It will be seen that under the license system a change can be made at any time, not only in the percentage but in the conditions upon which the license is granted and in the regulation applied to licensed corporations.

The object of this system is that it restores competition and leaves competition to regulate price, terms, quality and so forth. It has the advantage also of relieving from interference those corporations which are too small to exercise a restraint upon trade.

In other words, the plan hits the evil at which it aims, and not only relieves the smaller corporations from embarrassment, but protects them from such rivals as attempt the employment of illegitimate means for the extension of their business. The plan restores competition and wards off the danger involved in regulation, which has been found unsuccessful and would likely be found so corruptive as to increase the demands for government ownership.

WAGES OF TEACHERS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—It may interest "Virus Regito" and all interested in teachers salaries to know how they have increased during the six years of Sir James Whitney's administration. The salaries of teachers all over the Province have increased very greatly, owing to the generous policy pursued of paying 40 per cent. of the salaries up to $600 in rural schools and a special grant for higher certificates and length of service in urban schools. This is how the salaries of public school teachers has increased through the generosity and wise management of the Conservative Government at Toronto:

In another letter I intend to deal more fully, and go into details of what the Whitney Government have done to benefit teachers, schools, education. All who have the cause of teachers and education at heart, should support the government who has shown its practical sympathy and help in this important matter—and vote for Mr. Peck on December 11th.

PRESIDENT MADISON.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—To settle a bet, will you please state the birthplace of James Madison, one of the presidents of the United States?

—Reader.

Reply—James Madison, fourth president of the United States, was born at Port Conway, Virginia, March 16, 1751.

THE SUBJECT OF EDUCATION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Probably the most important subject to be considered in the present election campaign is the subject of education, and particularly as it affects the rural schools of the province.

This subject is of great importance, because every year the demand is for people of higher education in all walks of life. The competition becomes keener year by year, and our children must be more strongly equipped educationally than we are, or they will not be able to compete in the struggle into which we are all forced with or against our will.

Just for a moment let us see what Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, has done for the local schools! True, the government grant has been increased. But what do the ratepayers get for their money? In some cases good service, in others ill. And in a good many cases, in a good many sections of the province, there are schools actually closed, no teacher of any sort—good, bad or indifferent—being available.

And Hon. Dr. Pyne and the Whitney government are in large measure responsible for this.

You ask why?

Fifteen years ago, and less, there were more teachers than schools, and every section was in position to make a choice. If a young man or woman came out of the Model School with a good record and seemed reasonably clever, he or she usually had no difficulty in getting a school at the prevailing salaries. The salary was small, we admit, but the cost of living was low in those days before the country began to go ahead by leaps and bounds under the progressive Liberal rule from Ottawa.

These young teachers got the latest wrinkles in teaching in the Model Schools, they entered their work with enthusiasm, and although few of the male teachers taught more than three or four years, they gave the best that was in them and the schools progressed under their charge.

With a little money saved, these young men went into the various professions and into business life and they are making a success in whatever they go at.

To-day this class of ambitious young man is only rarely entering the teaching profession, and the abolition of the Model Schools had a good deal to do with it.

These schools were wiped out by the Whitney government, in spite of the protests of their friends and opponents alike.

Young men and young women, too, in hundreds of cases, decided not to enter the teaching profession because of the greatly increased cost of a year at Normal School instead of four months at Model School.

The result has been a great scarcity of teachers.

It is certainly better to have ambitious young men and women in charge of rural schools—teachers with modern methods—than teachers with no certificates at all, or with temporary certificates, because he or she at some time or other in the dim past had taught school.

The education department of Ontario is in need of a general shaking up and a change of government right now would bring about many needed changes.

ANSWERS BY J. W. BROWETT, OPTOMETRIST

Q. Why do school children with good sight, require Glasses?

A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength; the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.

Q. Why do children squint?

A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain; this is nature's way. Study-glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squinting.

VOL XXXIV NO 64 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17 1911 PRICE TWO CENTS

TWO FARMERS BANK CASES BEFORE COUNTY JUDGE

MESSRS. STRATTON AND WARREN GO TO SHERIFF AND ASK TRIAL.

On Conspiracy Charge—Judge Winchester Opens Trial—Mr. Justice Riddell Refuses to Grant Separate Ones.

(Toronto News.)

Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mr. J. J. Warren, who are charged with conspiracy with W. R. Travers to obtain a charter from the Department of Finance for the Farmers Bank, surrendered voluntarily this morning at the City Hall and asked that they be given a trial before a county judge.

This was granted and they appeared before Judge Winchester and a hurry-up call was sent out.

Mr. E. E. DuVernet appeared for the Crown and Mr. Geo. H. Watson and Mr. J. D. Smith for Stratton Mr. N. W. Rowell for Warren. Mr. DuVernet was assisted by County Crown Attorney Greer.

CASE MUST GO ON.

Mr. DuVernet pointed out that a bill had been found by the grand jury in the High Court.

Judge Winchester ruled that as they had never elected before they had the right under section 825 to be tried by him without the Crown Attorney's consent.

The judge directed that the case should go on.

The first witness called was H. H. Charles, of Peterborough, who stated that Stratton had told him that he was putting up the money to obtain a certificate and Charles told him that he (Stratton) was taking risks.

Mr. Charles further said that a matter of a large loan had come up one Sunday afternoon at a special tea in Mrs. McAllister's house Peterborough, at which Mr. Stratton was present with fifteen or twenty others "There was an impression that the money was being loaned to Mr. Stratton, but Mr. Charles thought it must be for the Trusts & Guarantee Company.

SOMETHING WRONG.

John T. P. Knight, secretary of the Bankers' Association, said he came to Toronto and saw the certificate of the Trusts & Guarantee Company, and came to the conclusion that something was wrong.

He spoke to Travers and Nesbitt about it and his suspicions were confirmed and he telephoned to the vice president of the Bankers' Association at Ottawa.

ADVISED AGAINST CHARTER.

Mr. Knight said that he had been sent to Toronto in connection with the matter but had not a clear recollection as to what transpired here, but he had sent a letter to the Finance Department at Ottawa, recommending against the issue of the charter. He could not distinctly remember having seen the Trusts & Guarantee Company.

Mr. E. B. Stockdale, assistant manager of the Trusts & Guarantee Company, produced the vouchers and the cheques to show that the money had been obtained and how it had been paid back.

PERSONAL LOAN TO TRAVERS.

Mr. Stockdale said he remembered two cheques, one for $25,000 and another for $80,000, made on the Bank of Montreal, and his undertaking was that they were a personal loan to W. R. Travers. He was aked if he remembered certain notes signed by farmers to the Farmers Bank as collateral for this loan, but said that he could remember noticing the notes Neither did he notice that the Farmers Bank was paying back cheques.

Mr. Stockdale was on the stand when the court rose until 2.30 this afternoon.

Mr. Charles wrote to the head office of his bank setting forth the facts. The loan of $100,000 called for 8 per cent. and a bonus.

ADVISED STRATTON AGAINST IT.

He advised Mr. Stratton against it, but the latter said it was all right; that he knew what he was about.

EUGENIE AWAITS A BOY HEIR

The Rich Widow of Emperor Napoleon May Change Her Will

MILLIONS TO DISTRIBUTE

Money to be Used in Securing the Return of the Bonaparte Family to the Throne of France.

Brussels, Nov. 15.—Telegrams are sent three times every twenty-four hours to the Empress Eugenie, reporting on the condition of Princess Clementine, wife of Prince Napoleon, the French pretender. If Princess Clementine's expected baby arrives before the venerable Empress bids adieu to this world, and if it is a boy, it is possible that Eugenie may change her last will in the boy's favor to the extent of cutting off these relatives that have lesser claims upon Her Majesty's bounty.

The bulk of Eugenie's millions will go to Prince Napoleon to be used for the advancement of the Bonapartist cause, but the shrewd Eugenie is not quite sure that the prince will risk any money put to his credit in an effort to gain the throne of France.

Favors Princess Clementine

The Empress, foreseeing this, altered her will when the prince married Clementine, daughter of the late King Leopold, less than a year ago. Clementine is ambitious and aggressive — therefore Her Majesty willed that she should share in Prince Napoleon's inheritance.

This may amount to $25,000,000—quite a sum in this country. When half of it becomes the property of Clementine, there will be something doing in the line of propaganda for the imperial crown of France. Clementine has already spent a large part of her private fortune in the Bonapartist cause and is now the editor of half a dozen French newspapers advocating Prince Napoleon's claims. "Wait till she gets Eugenie's millions," say her admirers, "then there will be real fighting, not fighting on paper merely."

Hopes for Heir to Throne.

Clementine's husband is rather an indolent fellow, enjoying a life of leisure and plenty. He is not even a soldier. But if Clementine's expected baby is a boy, she has promised to rear him for a career of doing and daring. Hence Empress Eugenie's anxiety and enthusiasm, likewise her promise to give the boy money enough to back up his claims.

In this connection it is interesting to reflect that there are only three male Napoleons left: Clementine's husband, forty-eight years old, his brother Louis, the Russian general, forty-seven years old, and Roland Bonaparte, fifty-three years old. Roland's family was expressly excluded from succession by the Great Napoleon.

If Clementine dies without a male issue, the Bonapartists may have to fall back on the Baltimore Bonapartes as candidates for the crown of France.

BATTLE OF NANKING WILL DECIDE FUTURE OF CHINA

Shanghai, Nov. 16.—Unless pacific for the recent massacres.

counsel or pecuniary inducement prevails, the great fight of the present revolution will take place at Nanking. The city is now a huge military camp. General Chang is in command with 15,000 troops. They are well armed and fairly trained. They are determined and desperate and are entrenched in positions which experts regard as impregnable.

Outside the city, within 15 miles, the revolutionaries are gathering. Their force at the present time does not exceed 8,000 men, of which 2,000 are trained. The revolutionaries, however, are receiving a constant stream of recruits and large supplies of guns and ammunition. The revolutionaries are raw, but are desperately in earnest. They seek vengeance

REBEL WARSHIPS TO THE SCENE.

The republican navy now numbers seventeen vessels, which are well supplied with ammunition. The warships are proceeding up the river to Nanking. All communication by rail and telegraph is cut off beyond Chin Kiang.

On the river below Nanking, war vessels of all nations watch the preparations.

All foreigners are safe, having left the city.

The republican leaders state positively that Admiral Sah has gone over to the revolutionary side. He is said to be at Ning-Po awaiting events.

ORDERED PUPILS TO SALUTE BRITISH FLAG MUST NOW APOLOGIZE

New York, Nov. 16.—The New York City Board of Education has given out a public expression of regret for the action of Dr. Stuart H. Rowe, principal of the Wadleigh High School, in ordering his pupils to salute the British flag at exercises held last June in support of the proposed Anglo-American arbitration treaties.

The matter was brought to the attention of the board by the United States American Societies. It appears that the principal's action was in violation of a State law and a city school law.

THE P.E.I. GOVERNMENT IS TORY FOR FIRST TIME IN 20 YEARS

PREMIER PALMER DEFEATED IN YESTERDAY'S PROVINCIAL BYE-ELECTIONS.

Mathieson is Premier—House Has Only One Session to Run, and Majority is Only One Seat.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Nov. 16.—The result of the Provincial Bye-Elections in the third and fourth districts of Queen's yesterday was a big landslide for the Opposition. The Liberal Government in power since 1891, has been defeated after twenty years in office. The House now consists of fourteen Liberals, fifteen straight Conservatives and one Independent Conservative.

Yesterday Dr. Dewar, a straight Conservative, defeated Premier Palmer, Liberal, in the third district by a majority of 354, with one place to hear from, which will increase his majority. Mr. Palmer's majority in the same district at the general election of 1908 was 106.

In the fourth district Prof. Alex. MacPhail, of Queen's University, at Kingston, a native of Belfast, defeated Frederick J. Nash, managing editor of the Patriot, Charlottetown, by 240. The Liberal majority in 1908 was 116. Mr. MacPhail ran as an Independent but was nominated by the Conservative convention and endorsed by the Conservative leader. He was strongly supported throughout the contest by his brother, Dr. Andrew MacPhail, of Montreal, a well-known journalist and politician economist.

NOW HAVE A SEEDLESS LEMON

San Bernardino, Cal., Nov. 16.—The seedless lemon, to produce which botanical experts had unsuccessfully labored for many years has been discovered, it was announced to-day. The bud wood, from which the trees now bearing the seedless lemons have been grown, came from a sample labelled "Citron of Commerce."

The original bud came from Italy, but according to authorities, a search of the groves of the old world failed to reveal any trees which bear seedless lemons. Fruit growers believe that the character of the fruit was changed through budding.

CONDEMN NE TEMERE DECREE

NE TEMERE DENOUNCED IN LONDON AS AN INSOLENT DOCUMENT.

Must Be Resisted—Lord Kinnaird Sees a Deliberate Conspiracy to Spread the Decree Throughout the World.

London, Nov. 16.—A big meeting held last night condemned the publication of the Ne Temere decree.

Lord Kinnaird said such a decree from an alien power which claimed universal right over many matters must be resisted. J. H. M. Campbell, M.P., said not only had the decree been felt here, but also had become a grave scandal in Canada where matters were becoming so acute that Protestant Canadians were determined to stamp it out.

ARCHBISHOP OBJECTS.

"There is a deliberate conspiracy to put this insolent, arrogant decree all over the world," he said. "Did anyone imagine that Gladstone or Salisbury would have stood the decree for five minutes?"

Commenting on the meeting, the Archbishop of Canterbury writes:

"Any branch of the church of Christ must clearly have power to define the conditions of its membership, but in my opinion it must be regretted that by the promulgation of this decree, even more by the language which appears to have been sometimes used to secure obedience to it, the Roman Church should introduce confusion into domestic life and give rise to unnecessary and disquieting doubts."

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mr. Michael Calnan Stricken With Heart Trouble While On His Way to Work.

The many friends of Mr. Michael Calnan will be shocked to learn of his sudden death yesterday morning. The deceased complained of a pain in the region of his heart Wednesday night, but was apparently in his usual health. Yesterday morning when he left his home, 498 Sherbrooke street, to go to work in East City, where he was employed in laying gas mains. On crossing the Market Square, however, he was suddenly attacked with what proved to be heart trouble and fell to the ground. The unfortunate man was carried into the police station and at 8.30 was conveyed in the Dan Spence ambulance to St. Joseph's hospital, where he expired at 9 o'clock.

The late Mr. Calnan was born in County Cork, Ireland. He had lived in this city about 26 years and enjoyed the respect and esteem of his many friends and acquaintances. He was a communicant of St. Peter's R.C. church. The deceased is survived by one brother, John and two daughters, Misses Mary and Katie, who will have the sympathy of the whole community in their sudden bereavement.

Hay Up to $17.

The price of hay has gone up still higher. Yesterday morning fourteen loads were offered for sale. By eleven o'clock five of these had been sold for $16. In the afternoon the rest were disposed of for $15, being of an inferior quality. In the fore part of the week several loads of No. 1 quality were sold for $17 per ton, which is considered an exceedingly high price for this time of the year.

Although there seems to be no scarcity of hay, yet a rise in the price is prophesied before the winter is over.

This season's first load of wood was brought to town on Tuesday. Yesterday a load of tamarack was sold for $4.50 on the market.

London's Population is Put at 7,252,963.

WORSE THAN LIQUOR CURSE

New York, Nov. 16.—LiHian Russell, the actress, who is recognized as an authority on good dress, is in revolt against the fashion makers, who by mere decree are able to change the style of feminine apparel at short intervals, declares that it rests with the women to resist this form of dictation.

"The fight for style," she says, "is causing more crimes and unhappiness in this country than liquor. Nearly every woman in the land is imbued with that one idea—she must have style. It is wrecking homes, breaking hearts and making a certain group of men rich. These men are reaping great rewards from the foolishness of a certain group of men in this country and Europe, who are making alleged styles so fast that it is impossible to keep up with them. Twenty years ago—yes ten years ago—styles changed two or three times a year. Now it is that many times a month"

In view of the fact, however, that in five or six States the women have been given the ballot it ought to teach them the purposes and methods of organization. It would be a good thing, we think, for them to organize to free themselves from tyranny of the small group of American and European dictators of fashion, of whom Miss Russell speaks doubtless from a thorough knowledge of the subject.

Mere man, who has to pay for the various styles, can be depended upon to aid, enthusiastically, the women in perfecting a defensive organization.

QUEEN OF HOLLAND ANGRY.

Will Make Relentless War on Practice of White Slavery

The Hague, Nov. 16.—Queen Wilhelmina was shocked the other day when she read in a governmental report from her colony of Java that white or semi-slavery flourishes in the interior of that immense province and that the efforts of the Dutch government to stamp out this blot can avail nothing.

The white slavers, it was reported to Her Majesty, are mostly young dandies hailing from the Straits or from Malakka, Penang and Singapore They dress gaudily and their ostensible business is to sell precious stones In this way they gain entrance into the family circle and influence upon the women. Soon a marriage is arranged and the pair is off to wherever the "husband" thinks he can dispose of his prize. After selling the "wife" at a good profit he returns to another part of Java and begins the game over again.

The Queen sent for the Minister of the Colonies, asking him to devise ways and means to stop the traffic. "I am the mother of a girl," she said: "She will probably be my successor on the throne, and I would blush to leave her such an inheritance."

Mr. R. R. Hall Holds Successful Meeting in North Monaghan

Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal candidate, opened his campaign last night in May's School House, North Monaghan. There was a good attendance, and the addresses of the various speakers were listened to with marked attention.

THE CANDIDATE.

Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal candidate for West Peterborough, received a rousing reception when he rose to speak. He dealt largely with the school question, and in the course of an excellently delivered address said:

"The abolition of the Model schools said Mr. Hall, demoralizes or elementary educational system. One-fifth of the teachers in our rural schools throughout the whole province are unqualified and in no less than ten counties over 61 per cent. are unqualified.

"The average non-attendance of rural pupils is 47½ per cent. The number attending our rural schools is over 13,000, less than it was seven years ago, and the annual expenditure upon our public schools in this last seven years has increased three million dollars.

"The pupils attending our public schools are not being properly educated. Upwards of 50,000 French Canadians living in the province of Ontario cannot speak a word of English and this number is increasing at the rate of 2000 a year. Our French Canadian fellow citizens therefore are being even worse handicapped under the administration of the Whitney Government than are the English-speaking portion of the province. What is the remedy? Sir James Whitney proposes none. His policy, therefore, is to continue this deplorable state of affairs. What is the remedy?

"Mr. Hall declared that two great general principles should underlie our educational system, namely, every child in the province should have a thorough elementary education, and every child should have a thorough knowledge of the English language. It is necessary therefore for this province to train up a special body of teachers having the necessary knowledge and skill to teach the English language along with aproper elementary difficulty. At this point a serious difficulty presents itself. A young man or a young woman who can speak both French and English has any number of positions offered to them in commercial enterprises of all kinds. It would be unfair to a poor school section to impose extra taxes upon it in order to obtain aproperly qualified teacher. The province, therefore must contribute more to such teachers' salaries according to results attained.

"A sane, wise, just and even generous policy pursued by the Educational Department in our elementary educational system would in a short time give every child in the province a thorough elementary education and a thorough knowledge of the English language as well. The highest interests of the State demand this."

Spirited addresses were also delivered by Mr. Geo. N. Gordon and Mr. A. G. Gillespie.

The meeting closed with cheers for the candidate and the King.

A Well-Known Westerner Tells of Suffering, Misery and Pain That He Cured With "Nerviline."

"A few weeks ago I ate some green vegetables and some fruit that was not quite ripe. It first brought on a fit of indigestion, but unfortunately it developed into hiccoughs, accompanied by nausea and cramps. I was dreadfully ill for two days—my head ached and throbbed; I belched gas continually, and I was unable to sleep at night. A neighbor happened in to see me and urged me to try Nerviline. Well, I wouldn't have believed that any preparation could help so quickly. I took half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in hot sweetened water, and my stomach felt better at once. I used Nerviline several times, and was completely restored."

NERVILINE STRENGTHENS WEAK STOMACHS

The above is from a letter written by G. E. Braun, a well-known stockman and farmer near Lethbridge, Alta. Mr. Braun's favorably opinion of the high merit of Nerviline is shared by thousands of Canadians who have proved Nerviline is simply a marvel for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, nausea and stomach disorders. THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY was incorporated by Special Act of the Parliament of Canada for the purpose of carrying on the business of Fire Insurance, as outlined in the Insurance Act and the Special Act of Incorporation.

Capital Stock Authorized by the Board.....$2,000,000
Capital Stock Subscribed to date.....$1,650,000

The Head Office of the Company is in the city of Winnipeg, and, in addition to this, Branch Offices and Agencies will be established throughout the Dominion.

It must be generally conceded that, owing to the satisfactory conditions at present prevailing throughout not only Western Canada, but the entire Dominion, this Company is being organized at a most favorable and opportune time.

Canada, and particularly the Western portion of the Dominion, is advancing in population and wealth more rapidly than at any other time in its history, and every indication points towards a period of great prosperity and development.

The great influx of settlers into Western Canada is resulting in tremendous activity in every line of business. Railroad construction is proceeding on a scale hitherto unknown in this country, and as adequate transportation is of vital importance in moving our immense crops with a proper degree of facility, it is highly encouraging to see so much well-directed energy along the lines of railway extension

Coincident with railway expansion, we find many new districts rapidly filling up with desirable settlers, bringing with them a good supply of cash and effects. With the settlement of the rural districts, new towns and villages are springing up, which will, during the next few years, become, in many instances, important business centres.

With such unprecedented growth in Western as well as Eastern Canada, involving an expenditure of millions of dollars in building operations, it is at once evident that there is a very extensive and profitable field for a new Fire Insurance Company which will have a thorough organization throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, and more particularly in the four Western Provinces.

As a great volume of our business will be transacted in the West, it is a matter of the greatest importance that the Head Office of the Company, as well as the Directors, should be located in the West, so that the affairs of the Company may be conducted to the best possible advantage.

DIRECTORS.

The Board of Directors consists entirely of Western men with a very intimate knowledge of Western conditions, and they are, accordingly, well conversant with the financial and general business requirements of the West. They are thoroughly representative of the various important branches of financial, commercial, industrial and professional life in Western Canada, and with their wide reputation for business ability and integrity, as well as financial standing, combined with a long and varied experience, and practical knowledge of business affairs, they are exceptionally well qualified to render excellent service to a large financial institution.

As the Directors have valuable connections with extensive business interests and are also Directors of other financial corporations, as well as being otherwise identified with large and influential companies which control a great deal of high-grade fire insurance, they will be instrumental in placing a large portion of this desirable insurance with the new Company, so that we may safely conclude that from the very beginning of operations a large and profitable business will be secured.

Under these favorable conditions, and with a strong, energetic, as well as experienced and conservative management, combined with the fact that each Director has subscribed for eleven thousand five hundred dollars ($11,500) of the Capital Stock, on which all calls have been paid, and takes an active interest in the welfare of the Company, there is only one conclusion to draw, and that is that the affairs of the Company will be conducted in such a careful, conscientious and intelligent manner that the interests of both policyholders and stockholders will be fully protected.

IT IS WORTHY OF NOTE THAT $1,650,000 OF CAPITAL STOCK HAS ALREADY BEEN SUBSCRIBED BY PROMINENT BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN THROUGHOUT THE DOMINION AND ELSEWHERE.

No commission has been paid to anyone for securing stock subscriptions, and no expense has been incurred in the promotion and organization of the Company, except the expense in connection with securing the Charter and other necessary expenses.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE.

The Canada National Fire, being organized in the West, MAY BE TRULY CALLED A WESTERN COMPANY, and, as such, should receive the liberal patronage and hearty co-operation of the citizens of Western Canada, as well as the support of people from Eastern Canada who desire to become associated with a strong and progressive Canadian Company.

When promoting this Company the Directors were fully convinced that there was a splendid opening in Western Canada for a Company prepared to carry on the business of Fire Insurance on a large and comprehensive scale, and which, at the same time, could offer ADEQUATE PROTECTION TO BOTH POLICYHOLDERS AND SHAREHOLDERS. Accordingly, when making application for a Dominion charter, the Company was incorporated with a capital of $3,000,000.00, of which amount the Directors decided to offer for public subscription the sum of $2,000,000.00.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT FEATURE IN FIRE INSURANCE IS PROTECTION, and with the LARGE CAPITAL, combined with the high standard of Reserve, which will be maintained through careful selection of risks and profits from judicious investments, the Directors and Management feel confident that this Company will be accorded a very hearty reception by Canadian citizens, and will soon rank as one of the leading Fire Companies.

WITHOUT A LARGE AND SUBSTANTIAL CAPITAL FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE POLICYHOLDERS, A FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY IS SERIOUSLY HANDICAPPED, AND DOES NOT AFFORD THE POLICYHOLDER THAT PROTECTION TO WHICH HE IS JUSTLY ENTITLED, and the Directors of this Company, being fully aware of this most important fact, are adopting a very wise policy in OFFERING FOR SUBSCRIPTION SUCH A LARGE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL STOCK, and when our entire stock is subscribed and paid in full it will represent the largest amount of subscribed and paid-up capital of any Canadian Fire Insurance Company, and will be a tower of strength and of very material benefit to the company in carrying on its extensive operations.

GENERAL AGENT FOR CANADA.

W. E. FUDGER, ESQ.

THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY to secure some of the Capital Stock of a Western Fire Insurance Company. With a large amount of desirable and profitable business so readily obtainable by the Company through its valuable and extensive business connections, rapid progress should be made, and with investments carefully selected and unexcelled in earning power, the Company will be enabled to not only pay substantial dividends, but build up a large reserve, and thereby materially increase the value of the stock.

The Directors firmly believe in the policy that EVERY SHAREHOLDER SHOULD CO-OPERATE WITH THE MANAGEMENT of a Company and take an active interest in its welfare. For that reason, it is their intention to WIDELY DISTRIBUTE the CAPITAL STOCK, and by that means obtain the support of the leading business and professional men throughout the country.

With the rapid development of the West during recent years, involving an outlay of many millions of capital, it has become generally recognized that WESTERN CANADA IS VERY MUCH IN NEED OF MORE LARGE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND ESPECIALLY OF WESTERN ORIGIN, to properly meet the growing requirements of the West, and to not only improve the present financial situation, but to materially assist in retaining, as much as possible, desirable business, with its resultant profits, within our own Western borders.

The business of fire insurance has now grown to such large proportions that it has become a very important factor in the financial and commercial world, and as its scope and influence is so general and widespread it is only natural to find that the question of AMPLE PROTECTION TO POLICYHOLDERS, which is the PRIMARY FUNCTION OF FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES, should be so GENERALLY DISCUSSED AT THE PRESENT TIME.

This important subject has given rise to a very STRONG FEELING in Western Canada that the TIME HAS NOW ARRIVED when the Western people should organize a Fire Insurance Company of such strength and proportions that it will soon rank as one of the leading fire companies of America, and command general respect and confidence, which is so ESSENTIAL to a company that solicits the support and patronage of all classes of the community.

The Directors have every confidence that they will receive the hearty co-operation of not only Western citizens, but of people from every part of the Dominion, to build up a GREAT fire insurance company with AMPLE PROTECTION for the people, and which will be a source of pride and credit to our country.

The following Canadian Government Insurance statistics should prove of ESPECIAL INTEREST:

In the year 1909 the total amount of fire premiums collected in Canada was $1,785,539.00, whereas in the year 1909 the total premiums charged amounted to the large sum of $27,203,636.25, and of this amount $6,551,644.41 was charged by Canadian Companies, $11,518,267.45 by British Companies, and $4,223,721.39 by American Companies.

During the last forty-one years the aggregate amount of fire insurance premiums collected in Canada reached the immense total of $280,740,466.00, of which the large sum of $218,310,047.00 represents the amount of fire premiums collected by FOREIGN COUNTRIES, and which, therefore, was taken out of the country to build up foreign companies and enrich foreign shareholders.

Notwithstanding that a considerable portion of the fire premiums collected in Canada by Foreign Companies has been repaid to Canadian policyholders, through fire losses, it must be evident that the larger the proportion of Canadian fire insurance that is placed with Canadian Companies, the larger is the amount of capital retained in the Dominion and always available for investment purposes, to build up our Canadian financial institutions, and thereby add to the general wealth and prosperity of our country.

The above figures are most significant and clearly demonstrate that while the CANADIAN FIRE COMPANIES have been doing a satisfactory business they HAVE SECURED only a SMALL portion of the Fire Insurance transacted in Canada, or, to be more exact, ONLY TWENTY-TWO PER CENT. of THE TOTAL FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN IN CANADA, covering a period of the last forty-one years. With the extraordinary progress which Canada has been making during recent years, the field for financial institutions has become so widely extended that there is a CONSTANTLY INCREASING DEMAND for new large financial corporations.

By further reference to our Government statistics it will be observed that at December 31st, 1909, the total number of Canadian Fire Companies operating under Dominion charter was ONLY TWENTY-ONE, and of this number ONLY TWO HAD A PAID-UP CAPITAL IN EXCESS OF $500,000.

In promoting this large Canadian Company the Directors are fully confident that the new organization will, with characteristic Western energy and enterprise, soon come to be recognized as an important factor in the insurance world, and as The Canada National Fire will be instrumental in RETAINING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF CANADA a large amount of money which would otherwise be taken out of the country to build up foreign corporations the people of this growing Dominion will readily see the advisability of giving this Company their MORAL AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT, in order that we may build up a STRONG and VIGOROUS Company which will prove a valuable acquisition to our Canadian monetary institutions.

This is the last opportunity to secure, direct from the Company, some of this desirable stock.

It is worthy of special note that the demand for the stock has exceeded the Directors' most sanguine expectations; in fact, of the $2,000,000 of stock to be issued, $1,650,000 has already been subscribed, and, from present indications, with the large number of applications for stock being received daily, the Directors are confident that the balance of the issue, which is now only $350,000, will be subscribed by August 26th, 1911, the date appointed for the closing of stock subscriptions.

For this reason, the Directors strongly recommend the investing public to mail their applications for stock at their earliest possible opportunity.

Subscribers are requested to kindly fill in attached application form, stating name in full, number of shares desired, occupation and address, and mail the application, along with the first call of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) per share on the stock, direct to the Head Office of the Company, Winnipeg, Man., or, if so desired, application may be made for the stock at any of the Company's Branch Offices or at any Branch of the Royal or Imperial Banks, where application blanks and any additional information will be readily furnished. Applications for stock will be considered in the order received, and on approval of the same by the Board of Directors a certificate for the number of shares subscribed will be issued and mailed the shareholders forthwith. Cheques, Drafts, Money Orders or other remittances on account of stock subscriptions should be made payable to The Canada National Fire Insurance Company.

BISHOP OF CALGARY ON 'NE TEMERE' DECREE

Calgary, Nov. 8.—at to-day's opening of the twelfth annual Synod of the Diocese of Calgary, the Bishop, in his annual report referred to the Ne Temere decree:

"To discourage vice and make children legitimate, there should be one marriage law throughout the Dominion, and no marriage should be annulled because of divergent religious convictions of those who have been married or ecclesiastical connection of the person who has performed the ceremony. This is a matter which should be pressed upon the notice of the Dominion Government and upon members of Parliament for early and decisive action.

"When the Church of Rome uses the decree in order to annul marriages she disapproves of by attempting to disqualify those whom the State has invested with right of solemnizing them because they are not recognized priests in her communion, she is undoubtedly going farther than she has a right to or can be permitted to go."

Horse Ran Away.

A Springville farmer's horse, tied to a telephone pole on Dalhousie street, near the G.T.R. crossing, yesTuesday morning took fright at a passing engine, broke loose and dashed wildly down the street. In attempting to turn the corner at Park street, however, the buggy was overturned and a pedestrian grabbed the animal by the bridle and succeeded in bringing it to a standstill. The buggy was badly wrecked, and the cover all but detached from the rig.

UNION CREEK.

Union Creek, Nov. 13.—Our vicinity has been visited with very heavy rainfalls during the past week, which rendered travelling very unpleasant owing to the muddy condition of the roads.
Mr. and Mrs. Martin Byrne, Sr., who have been visiting friends in Western Canada, returned home on Thursday.
Mrs. Graham, and little daughter Melvie, visited friends near Burnt River recently.
Mrs. Alex. Barr, who spent a few days in Peterboro' arrived Home Wednesday.
Miss Minnie Scarlett entertained a number of her young friends last Friday evening. An enjoyable time was spent and the guests all returned home delighted with the evening's entertainment.
Several of our young men, aspiring to be modern nimrods, have betaken themselves to the woods to hunt the wily deer. They report grand success, and several have already secured their limited number of game.

Messrs. Frank, John, George and Wesley Wright left recently for the "camp."
Mr. Thompson, a Latter Saint speaker, held service in our school house Thursday and Sunday nights of last week.
We were all deeply grieved to hear of the sad death of Mrs. Baker, which sorrowful event took place in Toronto recently. Mrs. Baker was a former resident of Union Creek, and we regret her demise deeply, and extend our kindest sympathy to the bereaved ones.
Notwithstanding the inclement weather on Friday, quite a number attended the "quilting bee" at the home of Miss Minnie Scarlett.
The first heavy snow storm of the year visited us yesterday and to-day, when we were given a glimpse of "hoary winter", in all its terror and beauty.

HAVELOCK.

Miss Kelly held a dance last week.
Mr. C. Holdcroft and P. Lancaster have returned from deer hunting.
The wedding of Miss Buck and Mr. Leeney took place last Wednesday.
Miss Hilts West of Hastings, was in town on Sunday.

THE BIG STONE MOSES STRUCK

Many Antiquarians Convinced That Stone of Destiny Carried From Scotland to London, is Rock From Which the Water Gushed.

The belief of the antiquary, quoted by Archdeacon Wilberforce, that the Coronation stone was the rock struck by Moses and that from it flowed the water for the thirsty Israelites, has made visitors to Westminster Abbey more than usually keen to see the Coronation chair and the famous relic which it encloses. The archdeacon, preaching in the Abbey stated that a well-known antiquary who had made a special study of the history connected with the stone was convinced that it was the stone on which Jacob rested his head when he had the vision of angels at Bethel, and that from that night it was considered sacred and carried from place to place. "He believed it was this stone that Moses struck, and that it was carried by the Israelites during their 40 years of wandering. He showed me a big cleft in the back from which he believed the water gushed out." The antiquary traced the stone from Solomon's temple to Spain, thence to Ireland, then to Scotland, thence to Westminster.

Only the front and sides of the stone can be seen by visitors to the Abbey, for the top is hidden by the seat of the Coronation chair and a rail prevents people passing behind the chair for an inspection of the back. To appearance it is a piece of purplish-grey rock about 2 ft. long, 16 in. wide, and 10 in. deep. At each end is a much-rusted, deep-sunken iron staple. Whatever its early history, there is little doubt that Kings of Scotland were crowned on it at Scone, and there is no doubt that Edward I. brought it to Westminster and that on it all the Sovereigns of Britain have been crowned from the time of Edward II.

In the book of Genesis it is recorded that Jacob, after his vision of the angels descending from Heaven, set up the stone on which his head had rested and poured oil on it. "And this stone which I have set for a pillar shall be God's House."

OUR NEW PREMIER
Is a man of Kent

Robert Laird Borden, the Premier of Canada, is a member of a famous Kentish family in England. The Borden or Burdens are "men of Kent," who have for centuries been associated with the parishes of Headcorn and Borden, near Maidstone. The present head of the family is an octogenarian miller living in Headcorn. A table is given tracing the descent of the present Conservative leader in a direct line from Henry Borden in 1380. Richard Borden left Headcorn and emigrated to New England in 1638, and his third son, Matthew, was the first white man born in Rhode Island. Richard's grandson, John Samuel, bought large tracts of land in Nova Scotia, and the latter was grandfather of the new Canadian Premier.

Popular Canadian Poetess

Mrs Jean Blewett is a writer of verse which joins to much sense and feeling in such a happy fashion as to have made her one of the most popular of Canadian poets. Her books of verse are "The Cornflower" and "Heart Songs."

The Cut Unkind

He was a suburban amateur gardener, whose pride in his tiny garden was apt to bore his friends. The other day he had taken his nephew — a youth fresh from a public school — round his retreat, holding forth at length on the four rose trees, pocket-shrubbery, half-inch fountain-jet with its little basin and pair of gold-fish, and the summer-house which would almost admit two persons at once. The youth endured it all without retort, until he was asked to admire an "avenue" of about five feet in length. Then the worm turned. "The 'grounds' are certainly very handsome," he said, "but I think you might improve them considerably." "How so?" questioned the owner, divided between gratification and wounded pride. "Well, if I were you," suggested the young critic blandly, "I should take a strip off that flowerbed, turf it over, and convert it into golf links."

[illegible] DEAD

By Rufus Williams

The house in which Laurent Guillemot d'Anglade lived was a very large one, and — as was and is common in Paris — there were other inmates. The ground floor and that immediately over it were occupied by a certain Count and Countess de Montgommeri.

In the farther of the upper rooms was a small inner closet or strong room wherein the count and countess kept all their jewels and money. Count de Montgommeri, being of the ancient régime, had among his suite of attendants an "almoner," one Abbé François Gagnard.

Within a few months of the time of his coming there Count de Montgommeri received a large payment of money from the steward of his estate in a distant province.

Returning home the count and countess in due course sat down to supper in the salle-à-manger, and were still at table when their friend and neighbour, d'Anglade, came home at eleven o'clock.

The next morning the count, having occasion to go to his strong-box, found that it had been broken open and the entire contents carried away.

The strictest scrutiny — and the methods of the French police have never left anything to be desired in point of thoroughness—revealed nothing in the rooms they inhabited.

Just as the search through the great ,bare attics was on the point of being abandoned the commissary of police found in a remote corner, beneath an angle in the sloping roof, and within the recess of a deep dormer window, an old chest. In that, concealed under a heap of old wearing apparel and house-linen, was a rouleau of sixty louis-d'or. D'Anglade, interrogated immediately about this money, stammered and could give no account of it. Madame d'Anglade, confronted with the officials, denied all knowledge of it, and the Abbé gave his pious assurance that before leaving on the previous Monday in the train of the count he had double-locked the door, and that the key had never been out of his possession; with most singular forgetfulness omitting to state the fact that on his return he had found the door ajar.

The chief witnesses for the prosecution were the count's servants, and the good Abbé Gagnard, his almoner, who testified with meekness, and an evident regret, which endeared him to all who knew him, and inspired at least respect in those not so blessed.

Unfortunately, the most damaging evidence was actually obtained from his own demeanour and replies in the course of the merciless series of questions put to him as to his birth and source of income. He was not only confused, but greatly prevaricated; but it was made clear even by his own answers, that instead of being a gentleman of high birth and large fortune, his origin was obscure and mean, and upon this the court established the fact, apart from the present accusation, that he was simply at best a chevalier d'industrie.

It was therefore ordered that he be put to the "question ordinary"; and that if he continued contumacious the torture extraordinary" should be applied.

Accordingly, the "question ordinary," consisting of thumbscrews and gauntlets which with diabolical ingenuity compressed first the thumbs and then the entire hands and wrists until they were mere shapeless masses of bloody pulp and crushed bones was tried; and thereafter a gentle but firm course of the rack, which was applied till every sinew in the agonized frame cracked, and each individual joint was dislocated. Still the obstinate wretch declined to admit his guilt; and after a due interval, occupied in so far as practicable patching the crushed frame so that the "torture extraordinary" might bring him in a due sense of his exceeding guilt in refusing to acknowledge that the High Court of Justice knew better than he whether he had committed the crimes of which he lay accused, and he was condemned to the galleys for nine years, and his wife was banished from Paris for the like term.

Slightly over a year from the date of his sentence, d'Anglade died in the hospital at Marseilles, four months after his arrival at the galleys.

Hardly had the "High Justice of the King" had time to congratulate itself on the fact that this malefactor had met his doom, when some troublesome person commenced circulating anonymous letters in all directions, containing the statement that M. d'Anglade was entirely innocent of the crime for which he had died so miserably; that the real robbers of the Count de Montgommeri were one Vincent, alias Belestre, and the Abbé Gagnard, the almoner of the count!

The prosecutor immediately ordered a certain Degrais, a famous secret agent of the day, to make inquiries, and it was ascertained that Peter Vincent, or Belestre, was the son of a poor tanner at Mans. Under the latter alias he had been, when serving as a soldier, tried and condemned to the galleys as accessory to the robbery and murder of a rich miller, and after serving his time and obtaining his release had entered on a career of burglary and highway robbery. Suddenly, however, and quite recently he had purchased a small estate in the neighbourhood of Mans, for which he had paid ten thousand livres.

The Abbé Gagnard proved to be the son of the gaoler to the prison at Mans, and when he first went to live at Paris had no means but what he made by saying masses at the Saint Esprit.

The two men were arrested, and the evidence of the woman, La Combie who was Belestre's mistress, clearly proved that the robbery had been committed by the latter with false keys furnished by the Abbé Gagnard. Parliament solemnly pronounced a decree, which rehabilitated the memory of d'Anglade and justified his wife, but of this did not bring poor M. d'Anglade to life again.

Yesterday morning plenty of hay was offered on the market at from $14 to $16 a load.

HOW HE WON PEGGY

By Ernest Macgee

From outside the block of flats there came the throbbing and grunting of a taxi, but Harry Martin had settled himself to spend a lonely evening and did not dream that the noise heralded a visitor. He was mistaken, however, and a few minutes later the visitor arrived, in the person of Mr. Jack Palmer.

"Glad I got you in," he started. "I hear you're clearing out to-morrow — going down to a place in Cornwall called Haleworth, and that you're to be there for a week or a fortnight. That's so, isn't it?"

"Hilda Durrant is staying there. I heard that yesterday in a round-about way. And that's why I've come to warn you. You remember her, of course? At least, you've heard of her from me. She's the world's star flirt — an exquisite face, a charming manner, a clever brain — and no heart.

"What? Oh, yes, I see! I do thank you then. I am to beware of Miss Durrant. Right, Jack. But, after all, I'm sort of case-hardened. It would take a pretty smart flirt to get me to the sentimental point."

"Exactly, and that's the second reason for my coming here. I want to have the girl punished. I want her to be taught that she can be fooled just as she can fool. Two years ago I was a victim of hers — and she only smiled. Well, I've recovered, but I haven't forgotten, and I want her to be shown that every man isn't a confounded idiot where she's concerned."

. . . . . .

When Harry had been settled at the Cliff Hotel for a little more than half an hour, he noticed a girl coming slowly up the drive and when she drew near enough for him to see her clearly, he knew quite well that she must be that flirt for whom he had a rod in pickle. He was cautious, however, and, just for safety's sake, turned to the hotel bookkeeper, near whose office he was standing, and said, "You see that lady coming toward the hotel? I wonder if you can tell me what her name is?" And the bookkeeper, cloaking with tact an acute curiosity, answered, "Her name is Miss Durrant, sir. She has been with us for nearly a month."

The girl came nearer, nearer yet, and at last — still moving with graceful slowness, entered through the wide doorway. In passing Harry, she glanced at him with a half-smile, and then, evidently noticing that he was a stranger, averted her eyes, and walked on towards the wide staircase.

That night at dinner he contrived with an adroitness which surprised even himself, to make the first friendly advances to her, and these advances were met most graciously, but with a shyness which was in Harry's eyes the hall-mark of superb acting. And how wonderful she was! — and how those eyes disturbed him!

His plan was to make love to her with just as little waste of time as possible, and, even now confident in his own strength, he set himself to the task.

Apparently, too, he was vastly successful, for the acquaintanceship formed at dinner that night ripened and changed for something deeper in the days that followed.

At the end of the third day, Harry told himself that everything was going magnificently, and that — curious as it might seem — he had evidently made at least a slight impression on the flirts' heart; at the end of the fourth day he felt less sure of himself, and of the ultimate success of his scheme; at the end of the fifth he called himself a fool and maligned Jack Palmer; at the end of the sixth, he made up his mind that he must bring the crisis on at once; and at the end of the seventh, he knew that he would never bring on the crisis at all — that the crisis had come of its own accord, and was of a very different nature from that which he had expected.

And on the evening of the eighth day he told himself that he was the biggest idiot in England; that he was quite hopelessly in love, and that — and this was the worst thing of all — he must speak of his love. Must speak of his love, and be smiled at kindly, and told that he was behaving and speaking rather absurdly. He knew quite well that he should pack up his things and leave the hotel — but he could not.

Harry had spoken of love to women many times before, and indeed was supposed by his friends to be rather an adept at the game. But he floundered; he spoke in broken sentences — he called himself an ass, and called the girl an angel — working up at last to the point where he offered himself, and everything that he possessed, and saying that if she had no love for him, then he had no love for life.

Harry had stood a pace back from her — grown suddenly chill at the thought of the gentle chiding which would reward his outburst, but this chiding did not come. Instead she gave what sounded like a poorly crushed sob, and took a step towards him falteringly.

"Oh!" she managed. "Oh, yes! I— I feel like that, too."

Half an hour later Harry mentioned Jack Palmer — he felt that the time had come for that.

"You knew him didn't you?" he asked. "I think he told me that he was rather friendly with you once."

"No," she said, "I never knew him — but I've heard of him, of course. You see I was at school in Germany when he used to come to our house. It was Hilda he must have meant — my sister, you know. And," she laughed a little here, "that reminds me — you don't even know my first name yet. I do hope you won't think it's too frivolous — it's Peggy."

"Peggy," he said, his words coming with difficulty, "is the name I like best in all the world. And — so you're Peggy? Well, Peggy, that —

THE VEIL OF FUTURITY

By Martin Lyon

(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.)

Perfectly motionless lay the ship on the still water, awaiting the dawn to enter the harbor. In a deck-chair Leslie Cartwright stirred restlessly. It was late, and nearly all the other passengers had retired for the night; but he was in no mood for sleep.

In the dim light the man's face was gray with an unnatural pallor, scored blackly here and there, on the forehead and round the mouth, with short, hard lines. Every now and then his hands would clench nervously, and a quick, impatient sigh escaped his compressed lips. The light murmur from the bulwarks, where a late fellow-traveler and the first officer were chatting over a last cigar, came to him as an impertinence and an irritation. At length the voices died away as the speakers moved forward, and nothing broke the stillness save the long wash of the Australasian sea, and at intervals, with jarring suddenness, the striking of the ship's bell.

The man looked around to see if he was alone, and dropped back with an exclamation of satisfaction. By-and-by he began to murmur and fret once more. "What fools women are!" he growled. "They take an abstraction and make a god of it; they take a literature and make it a fetish. And what a fool I am to take so much notice of their chatter!"

He was silent for a time. Then he resumed his muttering. "Who said 'the Veil of Futurity is woven by the hand of Mercy'? Stuff! I should like to lift it, for one. Just as though there could possibly be any mercy in not letting a poor devil see what's ahead of him — and people have lifted it, too — what about the Eastern mystics — the sooth-sayers — the Chaldeans? — what about prophecy? The old prophets were more than the mere far-sighted statesmen as some would have us believe — wonderful — wonderful——"

His voice died away in a low, dreamy murmur; then he stirred again, and began to mutter once more.

"What about their wretched Western imitators! They are too grossly material to possess even a fraction of the occult power they presume to lay claim to. Centuries of European training have been quite enough to exterminate any force of the kind, even if it ever existed. Existed? — of course it did. Men have read the stars like an open book and seen their own fate in the signs of the wind and the wave — they have foretold war and famine and pestilence and the doom of nations; but they were men of old — not the puerile would-be mystics of to-day.

"I do not believe the most spiritualised, sensitive Anglo-Saxon could look five minutes into the unknown."

As he spoke, his white face grew whiter, and an expression almost of fear came over it. He shivered for a moment, then braced himself, evidently with an effort. He laughed nervously.

"Something is wrong with me," he said savagely. "I hope I am not going to get fever. I had a feeling then that I could know the future, if I would — only — that it would be well for me if I did not will to know. It's horribly uncanny; I can't shake it off. Well — his voice rose in excited defiance — "I will test this power. I demand to see myself a year hence."

x x x

Then he was floating in a thick, heavy atmosphere; now dark — dark to blackness — now lightening into transparent blue; sometimes flashing into silver, and even blazing into a splendor of gorgeous golden freshness.

Around him, with him, and of him, were long, spherical gray shapes. He was conscious of a curious sense of dispersion — of separation in some indefinite, indefinable manner from himself; and yet he was perfectly capable of connected thought.

"Can this be an answer to my demand?" he questioned. "Bah! As vague as all prophecy! Well, we will ask eleven months." There was no change. "Well, then, ten — nine — eight — seven six!"

A look of horror seized him. Great drops of sweat sprang out on his brow. One might have seen the muscles start and stiffen in his hands as he gripped the arms of the chair. "Five — four — three — two — a month, yes, a month!" he spoke with agonized intensity.

The sense of uneasiness was with him still, but in a modified degree. He seemed more sentient, more living, more human. His voice rose to a shriek. "Take me back to this hour — to this minute." He was alive now, but oh! the agony of that revival! Ah, that fierce, deadly grip on his shoulder! A score of cruel, sharp points were entering his flesh and crushing his loins as in a steel trap! What was that awful wrenching tug at his foot? "Ah, mercy! mercy!"

x x x

The first officer reported to the captain:

"I had been talking to Mr. Chadwick till he finished his cigar. I noticed Mr. Cartwright — he was lying in a deck-chair, I thought asleep. Before turning in finally, I made the round of the decks, after Mr. Chadwick had gone. When I came back Mr. Cartwright was still there, and, as I thought he might get a chill if he slept in the open air, I was going to awake him.

"As I got close to him, I found that he was talking in his sleep very excitedly. I was just about to rouse him when he sprang out of his chair with a most dreadful shriek for mercy and before I could stop him he had rushed to the side and jumped overboard. I snatched up a coil of rope and ran to the place, but I was too late. It would almost seem as if the sharks had been waiting for him. There were three of them."

And he turned away and put his hand over his eyes.

The man who always follows the dictation of his conscience must have pretty sharp ears.

All Saints' Athletic Club, in conjunction with the Girls' Guild will give a concert on Friday, November 24th, when refreshments will also be served. The programme is to include the presentation to the champion football team of medals and the Burnham shield.

Weighs 836 Pounds.

Miss Gertrude Burk of Chicago, largest woman in the world, is twenty-two years of age, weighs 836 lbs., stands five feet seven inches, and some of her measurements are: Arm, twenty-eight inches; waist, fifty-four bust, seventy-five. She wears No. 4½ shoes and No. 7 gloves.

When she was born Miss Burk weighed fifteen pounds and at eight years of age weighed 250. She ate on two chairs placed facing each other. Miss Burk goes through doors by turning sideways, and it is a pretty hard squeeze at that.

Efforts have been made by showmen to get Miss Burk to exhibit herself, but she has never been tempted. Her parents left her an estate, and she does not need the money.

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope and refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr., I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 837 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouched for according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate; it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure; not one but will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

1—Pain in the back.
2—Frequent or desire to urinate.
3—Burning or obstruction of urine.
4—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
5—Prostatic trouble.
6—Gas or pain in the stomach.
7—General debility, weakness, dizziness
8—Pain or soreness under right rib.
9—Swelling in any part of the body.
10—Constipation or liver trouble.
11—Palpitation or pain under the heart.
12—Pain in the hip joint.
13—Pain in the neck or head.
14—Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
15—Pain or swelling of the joints.
16—Pain or swelling of the muscles.
17—Pain and soreness in scrotum.
18—Acute or chronic rheumatism.

ONTARIO

Provincial Loan of $1,000,000.

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, under the authority of Chapter 4, of the Statutes of Ontario, 1911, invites subscriptions from the public for a loan of $1,000,000 on bonds of the Province of Ontario, or "Ontario Government Stock."

The bonds will be dated 1st November, 1911, and payable on the 1st November, 1941, in denominations of $1,000 each, with coupons attached for interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st May and 1st November in each year, at the office of the Provincial Treasurer, Toronto, or at the offices of the Bank of Montreal, in Montreal, Canada, and in New York, N. Y., at the holder's option. Bonds will be made payable to bearer, but on request will be registered in the office of the Provincial Treasurer and endorsed as payable only to the order of certain persons or corporations, and on request of holders will be exchanged for "Ontario Government Stock" at any time.

The issue price during the month of November, 1911, will be 102 for each $100, and after the 30th day of November, 1911, the issue price will be 102 and interest accrued from the 1st November, 1911.

ALL BONDS AND INSCRIBED STOCK ISSUED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE SAID ACT ARE FREE FROM ALL ONTARIO PROVINCIAL TAXES, CHARGES, SUCCESSION DUTY AND IMPOSITIONS WHATSOEVER.

Purchasers of Stock or Bonds will be required to send certified cheque with the application, payable to the order of the "Provincial Treasurer of Ontario."

This loan is raised upon the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Ontario, and is chargeable thereupon.

A. J. MATHESON,
Provincial Treasurer.

EX-SULTAN ABDUL HAMID IS IN BAD HEALTH

But Takes Lively Interest in the War With Italy.

Belgrade, Nov. 15.—Ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid's health has much deteriorated, although his condition has somewhat improved in the last few days. The deposed Sultan takes a keen interest in political events, and particularly in the present crisis. He realizes the difficulties facing the empire and the critical position of his enemies, the young Turks, but he is far from rejoicing about that. He said to his entourage that he was much grieved by the loss of Tripoli. He eagerly awaits the newspapers which are allowed to reach the Villa Alattini.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS

NOTICE is hereby given that owing to a change in the law requiring a report from the City Engineer, which takes considerable time to prepare, before local improvement works can be undertaken, petitions for sewers, sidewalks or pavements to be constructed as local improvements must be received before February 1st, 1912, to be acted upon in 1912.

S. R. ARMSTRONG,
City Clerk.

"THE FORT GARRY" HOTEL, WINNIPEG.

Adjacent to the ruins of that historic monument "Old Fort Garry," memorable in the early history of Canada's now Western metropolis is being erected "The Fort Garry," truly representative of greater Winnipeg—a magnificent edifice—to rank with the world's finest hotels, embodying in its construction the most advanced, scientific and architectural ideals. Located in the very heart of the city, to which all lines of traffic converge, it is readily accessible to the railroads and electric car lines, and within a radius of a few blocks of most of the leading theatres, while one minute's walk will place one among the largest and most pretentious of the great stores in the centre of the shopping districts, or enable one to reach the great new terminal station of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"The Fort Garry" to be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific will be built of the finest of Canadian granite and buff lime stone, in the style of the old French Chateaux of Normandy and Touraine and will rear its stately heights to fourteen stories. The building is to have approximately three hundred and fifty sleeping chambers and will be richly furnished in faultless taste. All its bedrooms are to have private bathrooms and are to be equipped with every approved modern appointment. Nothing that would in any way contribute to the comfort and welfare of its guests has been overlooked in the preparation of the plans and interior arrangements.

The keynote of the "Fort Garry" as judged from the design and interior arrangements is to be "homelike comfort." From basement to roof top, every detail of construction and furnishing has been worked out in perfect accord with this idea, and would seem to assure the largest measure of personal enjoyment and restfulness to its guests—a place where comfort-loving people might enjoy life to the utmost and feel thoroughly at home.

The main entrance of the hotel faces on Winnipeg's most beautiful thoroughfare "Broadway" and opens upon a spacious and imposing rotunda, which will suggest in its decoration and refinement the cheer and comfort provided within its walls, and from which one may enter the spacious dining rooms and cafe. The central feature of the main floor is the circular tea room of impressive and beautiful design, unbroken by columns, lofty in heighth, and finely lighted by broad windows and circular domed ceiling.

The Mezzanine Gallery is also to be a novel feature of "The Fort Garry" and is obtained by the introduction of a storey midway between the office floor and the parlors. It is reached by a broad marble staircase from the main entrance lobby, and is to be finished and decorated in white and delicate shades of color. It overlooks the entrance lobby, dining room, cafe and tea room, and will be used as ladies' parlor, writing room and library. It commands a splendid view of those portions of the hotel where the most life occurs, and yet at the same time affords a quiet sense of retirement.

The ball room, banquet hall and foyer have been located on the seventh floor. These rooms are of the richest of the public rooms, and have been so arranged with separate kitchen service, reception and dressing rooms, so as to in no way interfere with the privileges of the guests of the hotel. The ball room is designed in the Louis Quartorize period, and will be beyond all question one of the most striking of its kind in Canada.

Immediately in front of the foyer of the ballroom and banquet hall is a beautiful Loggia, 30 feet in width, forming a promenade for the entire width of the building, and commanding a view of the entire city of Winnipeg.

The building, as a whole, will form a fine example of what modern science can do in the elimination of fire risk. Every girder, beam and rafter is to be of non-expansive steel, every partition of terra cotta, every floor of mrable tile or cement, and the stairways of iron. It is to be absolutely fireproof, and while every precaution has been taken to insure absolute protection to life and property an equal measure of attention has been devoted to its sanitation and the safe-guarding of health.

The bathrooms are to be models of sanitation and simplicity and are to be equipped with porcelain fittings and finished in exquisite tile work. They are of comfortable size, and so placed as to be in direct communication with every bed-chamber in the hotel.

Notable features of the residential portion of "The Fort Garry" are the several state and family apartments on every floor from the second to the seventh. These consist of an anteroom, drawing and dining rooms, and the necessary bedrooms, each suite having its own private hall and bathroom. The remaining rooms on these floors, and the rooms of the upper floors from the seventh to the eleventh are divided into smaller rooms and suites, small only by comparison with the spacious state apartments already described, and each having its own private bathroom, seventy per cent. of which are outside rooms, lighted and ventilated with adequate windows. No treatment of the interior which affects garishness will be permitted. The color tones are to be in perfect harmony and the furniture is to be made to order from special designs, such as one would ordinarily find in private homes of refinement.

There is not to be a dark or uninviting chamber in the entire building, and comfort and spaciousness have not been sacrificed to secure a maximum of accommodation. Large closets have been provided in every bedchamber, and in the suites there are commodious clothes presses equipped throughout with every modern device.

A NEW MOUNTAIN WORLD.

As further particulars are received from the exploration party under Mr. A. O. Wheeler, Director of the Canadian Alpine Club, regarding their recent expedition over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway through the Canadian Rocky Mountains, it is known that the new Transcontinental Railway will be able to offer to its patrons the finest scenery of any of the Transcontinental Railways in America.

In the last report received the territory in the vicinity of the head waters of the Athabasca and Whirlpool rivers is touched upon, and are. Mr. Wheeler states, opening up a field for exploration and research, mountaineering and camping that is absolutely new, and of which practically nothing is known. This group of mountains is magnificent. It rises approximately to 12,000 feet above sea level, and shows contours of the wildest and boldest possible forms. Immense snowfields and huge glaciers are everywhere. Boldest and most inaccessible rise the awful black precipices of Mount Geikie, the central point of the group. Again to the south are an endless array of peaks, towers, pyramids, domes, castles and ramparts in bewildering confusion.

A CHANCE TO LOVE

By Berge Bertmire

The pack train crawled upward with great labor, for the day was ending and there had been eight hours of work for the mules, with close to three hundred pounds in the packs. The beasts were carrying crude ore, in which the gold nestled, to the great crushing machine, high in the mountains of South America.

A woman rode the bell-mare. She had no saddle, but sat upon a blanket cinched about the cross old gray leader. The woman was not used to horses, but she had missed the stage.

She was looking for a man at the mines — a man who she had once loved and married. She alone had received the clue of his hiding place; and it was her purpose now to bring him back to the States, to the laws of men, and to those of God afterward.

Nat Reid had made the world call him a wolf. He had even, at the last, estranged himself from the woman who had loved him, and left her in shame and poverty. He had forged and fled to this American mining colony in the Andes. Only the woman knew where he had gone. There was a big reward for him. In the anguish and rebellion of the first hour, in the pressure of actual hunger she had taken a commission from a detective agency to bring him back.

She found a house in which there was no bar; but the bars and the gambling houses were all about. From across the street, voices reached her as she sat in her room that night. At last she heard his voice, the voice of the man she wanted.

"When we get money, we import champagne, Jim. Beer is just as good. Water is better still. What kids men are when they are left alone—babes with toys they tire of, one after another, and all futile as hell! Painted paper and stamped metal — and I lost my sweetheart and my soul to get it! Your's a friend of mine, Jim Smart, and may never learn this lesson of mine. But if you ever get the one woman that Mammy Earth plucked for you, stick to her with the last clutch of your hand and the last twinkle of your brain.

The woman leaning out of the window felt his heart calling for her. She couldn't think of sleep. She was taking her bread from the law to bring him in.

When the dawn had not yet come, but the gray of it was creeping up the mountains, the game stopped across the street, and Reid and others emerged. In a parting of the group, Reid appeared to her eyes in the light of the doorway — gambler, forger, husband of her early visions. He was all that a woman could ask, just as she had seen him first — slender as a cadet, steady as a man. Smart was with him.

"Jim," he said, in a quiet, humorous tone, which she knew as well as she knew the house of their honeymoon, "I want you to do a favor for me. There's a spring lock on the door of my room across the street. Here's the key. I have a duplicate. There'll be some stuff on the table and full directions what to do with it. I want you to follow these directions to the letter. Come back in an hour, but I won't be there."

She recalled the delights of the men in his even days. The understanding came that he had something of that feminine element of artists which needs the courage of another to tide him over his depressions of spirit. Reid, up here in the heart of the mountains, needed the hand and the broken heart of her.

The desire came for one look at her husband in the lamplight. What had the months done to his face which only a wife can read?

Reid was sitting by the open window. Upon the table under the lamp was the letter he had written; beside it, a six-shooter and a big leather pouch, stuffed with coins and currency.

"I dare not even write to her," he muttered. "A woman forgives much, but not what I have done."

She saw it all. His going away, as he had explained to Jim Smart, meant the pistol on the table. He was squaring the forgery, and felt too mean even to write her!

"There is an end, even to an angel's forgiveness," he added, in a low way, his eyes lost upon the castellated peaks. "Good old Jim will get the money to them and to her. I'm—well, I go out with the new day which I do not deserve. Whipped and lonely, I take the last trail — but with a prayer for the lady who loved me once."

The woman, swaying in the hallway, had never seen Nat Reid with a finer face than was his now. He was restoring the money of the forgery and sending her what was left —"half as much again." He was taking his life with a bullet and a prayer for her.

"God, who loves me not, love that lady of mine," he said, with a last look at the dawn and the mountains, picking up the six-shooter.

"Nat—I have come!"

His arm, with pistol half raised, was clear against the outer light. She caught from his hand the cold metal, filled with concentrated death. Reid stepped back from her in the thick dawn dusk, no sound from his lips, as she sent the pistol flying out of the window.

"I thought it was all over, Jessie," he muttered at last, not daring yet to reach for her hand, "and that you had met me beyond the pale."

. . . . . .

She sat by the window in full daylight, and the man was bending down to her.

"Yes, I can love you again, boy o' mine," she whispered. "And, when the express office is open, I will go and repair with money the error of that one bad day of yours. A good name again for my——"

"A good name never, Jessie. Money will not give that back, but love from you again — that is all I need. Love and your sweet, glad face."

"Ah I ask," she answered, "a chance to love on—and on!"

WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

HON. WILLIAM TURGEON

The Young Man of the Saskatchewan Cabinet is Attorney General Turgeon, who looks about twenty three years old, but is really, according to the Registration department in the thirty neighborhood.

Mr. Turgeon comes from a parliamentary family as his father is

HON. WM. TURGEON,
Attorney-General, Saskatchewan

the New Brunswick member of the Dominion house. O. Turgeon. He was admitted to the bar in Quebec after graduation at Laval, but immediately afterwards moved to Prince Albert where he became a partner of Hon. J. H. Lamont. Mr. Lamont was the province's first attorney-general and upon moving up to a judgeship in 1907 the attorney-general job was kept in the family and Turgeon took over the work. Turgeon is the orator of the cabinet and has the Frenchman's proverbial ability as a platform speaker.

The Hon. gentleman, whose full title baptismal and otherwise reads William Ferdinand Alphonse Turgeon, B.A., K.C., and M.L.A., was born at Bathurst, N.B., and took his educational courses at Laval University and Quebec.

GEORGE G. FOSTER, K.C.
Of Blarney Castle, Quebec Province

Mr. George Green Foster, K.C., of Montreal, is one of the prominent legal men of Canada's Commercial capital, and as an advocate made a name for himself as far back as 1896. Mr. Foster is a McGill graduate, a native of Knowlton, Que., and carries his love for the scenes of his boyhood days to the extent of a country residence in that locality, a home, which for reasons known to its owner no doubt, carries the title of Blarney Castle.

Mr. Foster's specialty is company law and from time to time his opinion has been sought in connection with some of the largest undertakings launched from Montreal. He has taken an active interest in financial and industrial affairs, holding among other positions, that of President of the St. Lawrence Power Company, director of the Eastern Townships Bank and of the Dominion Guarantee Company, vice-president of the George Hall Coal Company, director of the Aluminum Company of America, the Northern Aluminum Company of Canada, the Montreal Street Railway, the Canadian Light and Power Company, the Imperial Realty Company of Ottawa, and the Johnston, Richardson Company, Limited, and vice-president of the Orford Mountain Railway Company.

With a live interest in politics Mr Foster has proven himself a strong supporter of the Conservative party, as a ready platform orator and energetic organizer, having carried out some particularly good work in connection with the Eastern Townships Conservative Association. As result of strong representations from the party he went out against the Hon. Sydney Fisher in Brome County in 1896, and while defeated, had the satisfaction that comes from an effort well done.

Mr. Foster married in 1896 Mary Maud, daughter of the late Mr. Justice Buchanan of Montreal, and the family consists of one son and one daughter.

PROF. GEORGE CROSS, M.A., Ph.D.
A popular Canadian Divine

A Canadian who has recently won added fame as a theologian is Prof. George Cross, M.A., Ph.D., who has the chair of Systematic Theology at Newton Theological Seminary, Newton Centre, Massachusetts, and was until recently professor of Church History in McMaster University, Toronto.

Prof. Cross is an honor graduate of Toronto University in philosophy. He took his theology at McMaster University, preached for several years in Ontario churches, took his degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Chicago University, and was later called to the chair at McMaster. There he was exceedingly popular as a professor, for he has a warm heart and a sympathetic insight into the religious problems which perplex so many young men today who are in preparation for the gospel ministry. By the rigidly orthodox he was regarded as somewhat heterodox, and, being of a peaceable disposition, when the opportunity came for him to escape from the broadsides which the heresy-hunters were hurling against the Baptist University, he took it and went to Newton Centre in 1906. Since that time he has been most eagerly sought after by several of the leading Baptist theological seminaries of the United States. His heart is still in Canada, and every summer is [illegible] at his cottage near Brighton, Ont.

Advertisement by Water.

An ingenious machine has just been put on the Parisian market. According to details given in "La Publicité" the machine prints an announcement on the ground in water, which it sprays upon the soil in a fine shower. The letters or signs will last from twenty to thirty minutes, until the evaporation of the water is complete, and as the spray of water also serves the welcome purpose of laying the dust, the invention will doubtless be accorded a heartier welcome than the majority of advertising devices of this nature receive.

NOT EVEN IN DEATH

By Eve Grantly
(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.)

"Don't let anything worry or distress him," said the doctor. "He won't live through the night; but he will probably be quiet and comfortable up to the end. The least excitement may bring on the pain again."

He was a young, soft-hearted doctor with a pair of Irish eyes that had a trick of growing misty at times over the death-beds of his patients. This grey-haired man had interested him from the first. How had he spent his life?

"Poor fellow!" he said to the nurse. "I feel sure he is a somebody. He looks like a man with an interesting past. Has he no friends, I wonder?"

But the landlady knew of no one. He had lived in her house for five years and always paid her regularly. Business letters, or what looked like business letters, came for him, and he burned a great deal of oil sitting up far into the night—writing, she believed—but beyond that she knew nothing of him.

A coal fell into the grate and startled her from her reverie. She had been thinking of the old days, the days when she had been a happy, laughing young thing, loving and loved of everyone and without a care in the world. It would be springtime now in the country, and there were primroses and violets under the hedges, and the woods would be all green and leafy. Their woods! and now others would be walking in the narrow paths, and over the leaf-strewn mosses where frail anemones unfolded their buds.

Over the calm, steadfast face there stole a tear, the lonely descendant of all those she had shed long, long ago. She wiped it away with a furtive look towards the bed. The professional instinct reasserted itself; she loved her work and excelled in it; it was time for the patient to take his medicine, perhaps the last draught which would pass his lips till he should drink of the waters of Lethe and be at peace. As she poured the mixture into the glass he opened his eyes and fixed them on her in a fixed, vacant gaze.

"Nurse," he said suddenly, "I shall die to-night."

She gave him the medicine and smoothed his pillow before she answered.

"You will be glad to go?" she asked quietly.

"Out of this hell? Yes! Whatever lies beyond it can't be worse. Nurse, I have spoken to no one of what I have suffered, to no one in the world. May I talk to you a little? It will ease me, I think, and you don't know my name — or hers. Yes, it was a woman, of course. They're the curse of the world, I tell you! No, I won't say that, though—you've been good to me; but then I wasn't your nearest and dearest."

"Listen, I was young and strong and on the high-road to fame, and I married the woman I adored, heaven help me for a blind fool! Yes, I worshipped her, and I thought she worshipped me; but—pah! there was no truth or constancy in her. She deceived me and we parted. I never saw her again in all these fifteen years, and all the time I've been going downhill—you see what I've come to! I didn't care for fame or money or anything else after she went away, and I lost everything by degrees. That's my life-story, nurse. Why, I believe you're crying! Have you such a tender heart?"

"I am not crying; but—it's terrible! Have you never forgiven her? Suppose—suppose there was some mistake? Suppose you were hasty and hurt her too cruelly, and she was proud and went away without speaking? Are you sure you were in the right? Did you never wonder whether she were not innocent after all?"

"She had dark blue eyes like yours," he said dreamily. "But her face was round and her hair was dark and curly. Heaven — or the devil — had made her very beautiful."

"He must not be excited or the pain will come back," the woman kept repeating to herself, and the nails made deep marks in the flesh of her clenched hands. "To tell him — but he would not forgive — he would not believe that he was wrong — and then, the cruel agony!"

The lamp began to burn low; strange shadows danced on the ugly wall-paper, and a cold breath seemed to pass through the room. The nurse rose to look at her watch on the chest of drawers. There was a small cracked looking-glass over it, and as she passed she caught a glimpse of her own reflection. No wonder he had not recognised her, she thought with a sad smile. Fifteen years of bitter pain and hard work had left her little beauty.

The man's breath was coming in gasps, beads of sweat stood out on the wide brow; he was not of those to whom the crossing comes easily. Men of his stamp fight with death as they have fought with life, and suffer horribly. It was midnight now; he would scarcely live another hour.

"Is the pain coming back?" asked the nurse, bending over him. He took no notice of her question.

"Yes, she was beautiful," he gasped. "I wonder where she is now?"

Her eyes shone with a light that was new to them.

"Would you forgive—if she were here?" she asked softly.

But he turned his face fretfully to the wall.

"No, I would never forgive, not on my death-bed, not even now!"

The light died out of her eyes and left her face older and greyer.

"Ah! the pain!" he groaned. "Nurse, give me something!"

She took up the little bottle, the contents of which would send him quietly and painlessly to rest. Then she hesitated.

"No, I would never forgive!" he repeated. "She spoilt my life. Ah, heaven, the pain!"

"Of what use?" the woman said to herself. "He would never forgive."

She uncorked the bottle and bent over him.

Animal Love.

Mother love is universal, and there is no love like the mother love. Most of the high and lofty loving in this world is done by mothers. Apart from this the work of wooing falls to the male members of the family whether it be the human family or some one of the other animal tribes. We read how, ages ago, a Bulbul, or Oriental Nightingale, wooed a white rose until it blushed red, and that was the beginning of the red rose. The Spanish Cavalier stands out in the rain and serenades his "Dulce Mia" until there is a crick in his neck, while she sits sheltered in a window above.

The cackle of the loon may be a love song for all we know. Maybe that's what made him loony in the first place.

The wild moose bellows his passion across the lake, and as likely as not the answering call is from a bark horn in the hands of a hunter, luring him to death.

It seems a sizzling shame, but if you will take a Grand Trunk train and travel into the "Highlands of Ontario" you will find men doing that very thing; arguing, doubtless, that all is fair in love and war.

Facts About Coronation

Coronation is the first divisional town east of Lacombe, and is splendidly situated about twenty miles east of Castor, in the centre of some of the finest farming districts of Western Canada. Its natural advantages, combined with important railway developments, assure to it a future of considerable importance. Engineers are now locating two branch lines north and northwesterly from Coronation, and a third line is projected southeasterly to connect with the branch running northwesterly from Swift Current.

CORONATION will be:

A divisional centre on the great new railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton.

An important junctional centre, as three branch lines are already projected.

A distributing centre for a large and wealthy district.

A purchasing centre for thousands of Western Canada's most prosperous farmers.

If you wish to go into business or make a safe and profitable investment you cannot do better than purchase lots at Coronation, which is bound to rapidly become one of the most important towns of the West.

SPEND A WEEK AT ALGONQUIN.

The popularity of the Algonquin National Park, Ontario, has been pronounced this year, and it has been necessary to use at least 25 large tents as an auxiliary to the accommodation of the Highland Inn, at Algonquin National Park Station.

Most people return to their homes in the early part of September, but as this is one of the most delightful months in this territory, those who can make it convenient are advised to spend a week or two there. The hotel is also open all the winter and with the bracing air of this locality (1700 ft. above the sea) a most delightful sojourn can be spent even in the winter months.

A handsome illustrated booklet may be had on this territory upon application to Mr. A. E. Duff, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Lad Injured While Hunting.

While out hunting with several of his companions on Thanksgiving Day George James, of 505 Sherbrooke street was the victim of a painful accident. One of the party stumbled over a stump and having his finger on the trigger of the gun, discharged it, with the result that George, who was standing nearby received the shot in his leg. When he was taken home, Drs. Young and Boucher were called. They extracted the bullet which had passed right through the bone. The boy is now doing nicely.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered stomach. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and correct that and the headaches will disappear. For sale by all dealers.

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers.

WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

HON. WILLIAM TURGEON

The Young Man of the Saskatchewan Cabinet is Attorney General Turgeon, who looks about twenty three years old, but is really, according to the Registration department in the thirty neighborhood.

Mr. Turgeon comes from a parliamentary family as his father is the New Brunswick member of the Dominion house, O. Turgeon. He was admitted to the bar in Quebec after graduation at Laval, but immediately afterwards moved to Prince Albert where he became a partner of Hon. J. H. Lamont. Mr. Lamont was the province's first attorney-general and upon moving up to a judgeship in 1907 the attorney-general job was kept in the family and Turgeon took over the work. Turgeon is the orator of the cabinet and has the Frenchman's proverbial ability as a platform speaker.

HON. WM. TURGEON, Attorney-General, Saskatchewan

The Hon. gentleman, whose full title baptismal and otherwise reads William Ferdinand Alphonse Turgeon, B.A., K.C., and M.L.A., was born at Bathurst, N.B., and took his educational courses at Laval University and Quebec.

GEORGE G. FOSTER, K.C.

Of Blarney Castle, Quebec Province

Mr. George Green Foster, K.C., of Montreal, is one of the prominent legal men of Canada's Commercial capital, and as an advocate made a name for himself as far back as 1896. Mr. Foster is a McGill graduate, a native of Knowlton, Que., and carries his love for the scenes of his boyhood days to the extent of a country residence in that locality, a home, which for reasons known to its owner no doubt, carries the title of Blarney Castle.

Mr. Foster's specialty is company law and from time to time his opinion has been sought in connection with some of the largest undertakings launched from Montreal. He has taken an active interest in financial and industrial affairs, holding among other positions, that of President of the St. Lawrence Power Company, director of the Eastern Townships Bank and of the Dominion Guarantee Company, vice-president of the George Hall Coal Company, director of the Aluminum Company of America, the Northern Aluminum Company of Canada, the Montreal Street Railway, the Canadian Light and Power Company, the Imperial Realty Company of Ottawa, and the Johnston, Richardson Company, Limited, and vice-president of the Orford Mountain Railway Company.

With a live interest in politics Mr Foster has proven himself a strong supporter of the Conservative party, as a ready platform orator and energetic organiser, having carried out some particularly good work in connection with the Eastern Townships Conservative Association. As result of strong representations from the party he went out against the Hon. Sydney Fisher in Brome County in 1896, and while defeated, had the satisfaction that comes from an effort well done.

Mr. Foster married in 1896 Mary Maud, daughter of the late Mr. Justice Buchanan of Montreal, and the family consists of one son and one daughter.

PROF. GEORGE CROSS, M.A., Ph.D.

A popular Canadian Divine

A Canadian who has recently won added fame as a theologian is Prof. George Cross, M.A., Ph.D., who has the chair of Systematic Theology at Newton Theological Seminary, Newton Centre, Massachusetts, and was until recently professor of Church History in McMaster University, Toronto.

Prof. Cross is an honor graduate of Toronto University in philosophy He took his theology at McMaster University, preached for several years in Ontario churches, took his degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Chicago University, and was later called to the chair at McMaster. There he was exceedingly popular as a professor, for he has a warm heart and a sympathetic insight into the religious problems which perplex so many young men today who are in preparation for the gospel ministry. By the rigidly orthodox he was regarded as somewhat heterodox, and, being of a peaceable disposition, when the opportunity came for him to escape from the broadsides which the heresy-hunters were hurling against the Baptist University, he took it and went to Newton Centre in 1906. Since that time he has been most eagerly sought after by several of the leading Baptist theological seminaries of the United States. His heart is still in Canada, and every summer is spent at his cottage near Brighton, Ont.

Advertisement by Water.

An ingenious machine has just been put on the Parisian market. According to details given in "La Publicité" the machine prints an announcement on the ground in water, which it sprays upon the soil in a fine shower. The letters or signs will last from twenty to thirty minutes, until the evaporation of the water is complete, and as the spray of water also serves the welcome purpose of laying the dust, the invention will doubtless be accorded a heartier welcome than the majority of advertising devices of this nature receive.

NOT EVEN IN DEATH

By Eve Grandy

(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.)

"Don't let anything worry or distress him," said the doctor. "He won't live through the night; but he will probably be quiet and comfortable up to the end. The least excitement may bring on the pain again."

He was a young, soft-hearted doctor with a pair of Irish eyes that had a trick of growing misty at times over the death-beds of his patients. This grey-haired man had interested him from the first. How had he spent his life?

"Poor fellow!" he said to the nurse. "I feel sure he is a somebody. He looks like a man with an interesting past. Has he no friends, I wonder?"

But the landlady knew of no one. He had lived in her house for five years and always paid her regularly. Business letters, or what looked like business letters, came for him, and he burned a great deal of oil sitting up far into the night—writing, she believed—but beyond that she knew nothing of him.

A coal fell into the grate and startled her from her reverie. She had been thinking of the old days, the days when she had been a happy, laughing young thing, loving and loved of everyone and without a care in the world. It would be springtime now in the country, and there were primroses and violets under the hedges, and the woods would be all green and leafy. Their woods! and now others would be walking in the narrow paths, and over the leaf-strewn mosses where frail anemones unfolded their buds.

Over the calm, steadfast face there stole a tear, the lonely descendant of all those she had shed long, long ago. She wiped it away with a furtive look towards the bed. The professional instinct reasserted itself; she loved her work and excelled in it; it was time for the patient to take his medicine, perhaps the last draught which would pass his lips till he should drink of the waters of Lethe and be at peace. As she poured the mixture into the glass he opened his eyes and fixed them on her in a fixed, vacant gaze.

"Nurse," he said suddenly, "I shall die to-night."

She gave him the medicine and smoothed his pillow before she answered.

"You will be glad to go?" she asked quietly.

"Out of this hell? Yes! Whatever lies beyond it can't be worse. Nurse, I have spoken to no one of what I have suffered, to no one in the world. May I talk to you a little? It will ease me, I think, and you don't know my name — or hers. Yes, it was a woman, of course. They're the curse of the world, I tell you! No, I won't say that, though—you've been good to me; but then I wasn't your nearest and dearest."

"Listen, I was young and strong and on the high-road to fame, and I married the woman I adored, heaven help me for a blind fool! Yes, I worshipped her, and I thought she worshipped me; but—pah! there was no truth or constancy in her. She deceived me and we parted. I never saw her again in all these fifteen years, and all the time I've been going downhill—you see what I've come to! I didn't care for fame or money or anything else after she went away, and I lost everything by degrees. That's my life-story, nurse. Why, I believe you're crying! Have you such a tender heart?"

"I am not crying; but—it's terrible! Have you never forgiven her? Suppose—suppose there was some mistake? Suppose you were hasty and hurt her too cruelly, and she was proud and went away without speaking? Are you sure you were in the right? Did you never wonder whether she were not innocent after all?"

"She had dark blue eyes like yours," he said dreamily. "But her face was round and her hair was dark and curly. Heaven — or the devil — had made her very beautiful."

"He must not be excited or the pain will come back," the woman kept repeating to herself, and the nails made deep marks in the flesh of her clenched hands. "To tell him — but he would not forgive — he would not believe that he was wrong — and then, the cruel agony!"

The lamp began to burn low; strange shadows danced on the ugly wall-paper, and a cold breath seemed to pass through the room. The nurse rose to look at her watch on the chest of drawers. Peterborough Should Celebrate Also.

Orillia is arranging to celebrate the opening of the new C.P.R. line between the Georgian Bay, Orillia, Lindsay and Peterborough, and it is thought by many that some similar action should be taken here to mark the event. It appears to be up to the Council and Board of Trade to move in this matter.

Mexico Oil

The Mexican Oil Fields, will probably break all records in the production of oil. The largest oil wells in the world are now flowing in the Tampico field, and development is just fairly begun. We offer an exceptionally attractive investment in the stock of a conservative Company, just organized, which controls 3500 acres, in the midst of the big producing section of the field. We are certain we can convince any one of the merits of the enterprise, and we want you to

INVESTIGATE

It will only cost you two cents to secure maps, booklet, and full description of what we have to offer. The stock is being sold for the purpose of drilling the property. Oil is now being produced on all four sides of this property. We will give you every opportunity to investigate the proposition itself and the officers in charge of its affairs. WRITE US for full information.

SPEND A WEEK AT ALGONQUIN.

The popularity of the Algonquin National Park, Ontario, has been pronounced this year, and it has been necessary to use at least 25 large tents as an auxiliary to the accommodation of the Highland Inn, at Algonquin National Park Station.

Most people return to their homes in the early part of September, but as this is one of the most delightful months in this territory, those who can make it convenient are advised to spend a week or two there. The hotel is also open all the winter and with the bracing air of this locality (1700 ft. above the sea) a most delightful sojourn can be spent even in the winter months.

A handsome illustrated booklet may be had on this territory upon application to Mr. A. E. Duff, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

Auction Sales Conducted

I beg to announce to the residents of Peterborough County that I am prepared to conduct sales promptly and satisfactorily at reasonable rates

Your patronage is solicited. See me at home, Lot 16, Con, 5, Smith, (or at Massey Harris office Saturdays P.M.), or write to S. J. Brooks R. R. No. 8, Peterborough.

J. W. Copeland, of Dayton, Ohio, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for his boy who had a cold, and before the bottle was all used the boy's cold was gone. Is that not better than to pay a five dollar doctor's bill? For sale by all dealers.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Lad Injured While Hunting.

While out hunting with several of his companions on Thanksgiving Day George James, of 505 Sherbrooke street was the victim of a painful accident. One of the party stumbled over a stump and having his finger on the trigger of the gun, discharged it, with the result that George, who was standing nearby received the shot in his leg. When he was taken home, Drs. Young and Boucher were called. They extracted the bullet which had passed right through the bone. The boy is now doing nicely.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered stomach. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and correct that and the headaches will disappear. For sale by all dealers.

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers.

May Convene in This City.

Rev. H. J. Keith says that the Students Volunteer Movement, which organization met in convention at Belleville recently, may convene in Peterborough next November, if arrangements for entertaining the delegates can be made. Some three hundred representatives from Ontario and Quebec were in attendance at Belleville convention.

Real Estate, Mining and Industrial Investments

HOW $100 GREW TO $31620

The value and importance of any enterprise must be based on the profits and dividends it can earn. In this respect the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, is without a parallel in the line of investments.

It combines the attractive factors which are needed to make the perfect investment—viz., safety, large earning capacity and low cost of the stock at the start. It is not at all uncommon for oil stocks to begin at a few cents a share and jump to hundreds of dollars a share—sometimes thousands.

	Started at	Has Sold at
Central	10 cents	$2.10
Monte Cristo	10 cents	$4.00
Lucile	10 cents	$16.00
Silver Tip	25 cents	$4.00
San Francisco and McKittrick	40 cents	$28.00
Kern River	50 cents	$8.75
Peerless	50 cents	$8.75
Puente	$10.00	$150.00
Home	$10.00	$5000.00

This list, taken from San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchange records, could be added to almost indefinitely.

Fortunes have been made from stock increases. stock is $200, YOUR YEARLY PROFIT ON AN INVESTMENT OF $300.

When we have ten wells sunk you can reasonably figure on AN ANNUAL PROFIT ON YOUR HOLDINGS OF $2000.

$2000 A YEAR. DOESN'T THIS APPEAL

Many a case could be cited similar to that of Richard Ellis, clerk in a store in Los Angeles, whose investment of $100 became worth $31,620 in a short time. There are hundreds of such cases in Los Angeles alone.

$2000.00 Profit a Year

Do you realize that stock in the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, at the present price of 30 cents a share is not merely the opportunity of the year—IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

If you have $10, $50, $100 or $500 YOU SIMPLY CAN NOT AFFORD TO PASS IT UP.

If we develop only a 1000 barrel well of 26 gravity oil, this production alone will be sufficient to enable the corporation to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. and at the same time have sufficient capital to continue the drilling of wells.

1000 shares of stock at the present price of 30c costs only $300.

20 per cent. dividend on the par value of the TO YOU? Wouldn't you like to be coming up to this office every three months and getting your dividend cheque for $500?

Remember, too, that your stock holdings in Midway Maple Leaf, if you should want to sell them should be worth $18,000 or sixty times the amount of your original investment.

Consider These Facts

The Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company is working in proven gusher territory, the richest oil zone in the world, controlling 40 acres on one-eighth royalty, with the great advantage of the option to purchase at only $1250 per acre after oil is struck, and the ground must then be worth at least $5000 per acre. This means a clean profit of $150,000 over purchase price. It has been demonstrated completely by gushers on adjoining Standard and Honolulu ground, that this portion of the Midway field is not only the richest portion of the whole district, but that it produces the highest grade of oil found in the entire vicinity, and worth 50 per cent. more per barrel at the well.

$60 cash, or $12 down and $12 a month for four months, buys 200 shares.

$120 cash, or $24 down and $24 a month for four months, buys 400 shares.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY IN VANCOUVER REALTY

Investors seeking an opportunity to secure large returns for their money will find an exceptional chance offered by Keith Park Land Co., Limited, of Vancouver, B. C. This company has placed on the market for immediate sale the choicest piece of property on the North Shore.

This tract known as Keith Park, D. L. 676, lies at the junction of the Pipe line Road, (owned by the city of Vancouver) and the Keith Road and is the Junction point for North side traffic.

The Second Narrows Bridge, which is to connect Vancouver and North Vancouver will be constructed so that Keith Park will be in the line of its northern end.

It is confidentially expected that a new town will be created at this point. Dominion, Provincial and Municipal subsidies to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars have already been secured for the bridge project and plans are now being drawn for the bridge. It is expected that actual workwill be started within the next ninety days.

Keith Park presents the best chance to buy ahead of the important municipal and government projects that are planned for the North Side. It will stand the most critical investigation.

Full information and maps supplied upon request. Lots range in price from $200 upwards. Terms one-quarter cash, balance in six equal quarterly payments.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

WANTED BACK THE PRESENTS

Thrifty Young Man of Massachusetts Makes a Legal Effort to Recover the Price of Presents Made to a Sweetheart.

New Bedford, Mass., seems to have the unenviable distinction of owning the meanest man who has come into the light of publicity in recent times. He is a well-to-do-young man, and he can now claim to be prominent as well.

For three years he "paid considerable attention" to a young school teacher. He waited too long before attempting to clinch matters, for before he got around to talk matrimony a rival had appeared, and his offer was refused.

Although unfortunate in love, he was thrifty, for he demanded the return of the presents he had made. "This," says the teacher, "I was only too glad to do, giving him back a ring a bracelet, a neck-chain and several other articles. I thought that ended the affair."

It did not, for the thrifty young man found that he was still out on presents exactly $29.16, and in order to recover that amount he instituted legal proceedings and had the teacher's salary attached.

The man who can calculate the value of presents to a sweet-heart down to sixteen cents has a soul of about that size.

The Dirigible Balloon

It will be remembered that a year or two ago a lot of hysterical people in England were scared half out of their wits over the alleged danger of invasion from Germany by means of dirigible balloons, notes the "Colonist". It was in vain that saner people pointed out that the chief trouble with Count Zeppelin's machines was that they were never sure of going where they were sent, and that they displayed a fondness for such peaceful things as church steeples, groves of trees and other objects usually at right angles or so to the line of flight. The Kaiser has decided that the dirigible is not of much practical use, and is going to experiment with aeroplanes. This recalls the definition given by a boy, who was asked how flying machines could be used to advantage in war. He, having in mind the long list of fatal accidents, said: "By inducing the enemy to go up in them."

England's Surplus Women

The proportion of females to males in the population of England and Wales was 1,057 to 1,000 in 1801; it then declined census after census, though with some irregularity, down to 1851, when it stood at 1,042 to 1,000. But after that a change in the opposite direction set in, and up to 1901 there was a slight but continuous increase in the proportion of females to males. The proportion of females to males was the same in 1911 as in 1901, viz., 1,048 to 1,000.

Sifting Out the Manchus

The Chinese rebels, who are the "original" Chinese, have resorted to an ancient Israelitish trick to sift out the real Chinese from the doomed Manchus.

Instead of saying to the suspect "Say now Shibboleth," as the Gileadites said to the Ephraimites, they say to them, "Say liushiliu," the Chinese word for "six." And if the suspect doesn't pronounce it right according to ancient Chinese fashion, he gets it in the neck, literally, as the Ephraimites got it who said "Sibboleth" instead of "Shibboleth."

The test imposed by the Chinese insurgents is a numerical one. The suspect is told to count. When he passes six his fate is sealed.

If the suspect says "Lo-ow" he is spared. If he says "Lo-Kee-Haw", as the Manchus do, it's all day with him. "Then they took him and slew him."

THE YAKUT EATS WOOD

Away Up North in Siberia the Natives Turn Down Fish and Fatten on Slabs of Wood with Snow-Brew.

Wood in a certain form is a common and constant article of food in all sections of Siberia where the Yakut lives.

North of Verchoyansk, except in a few sheltered valleys, there is little food, aside from that afforded by fish, than that furnished by the larch. The natives eat it, however, because they like it. Even in sections where fish may be had, wood usually forms part of the native's evening meal, as the many clearly stripped larch logs near every hut testify.

The natives strip off the thick layers immediately under the bark of a larch log, and, chopping it fine, mix it with snow. It is then boiled in a kettle. Sometimes a bit of fish roe is added, and in the southern sections cow's milk or butter.

TOMMY DID PREFER SAUSAGE

French War Office is So Particularly Straight that even Piglets in Streaks Must Be Less than Six Months Old.

The ways of the French red tape expert are many and delightful. Here is a French War Office story for which an authority vouches. A maker of tinned goods who dealt largely with the French War Office had invented a novelty. He had found a means of putting sausages into the boxes which preserved them absolutely. Dumanet, like Tommy Atkins, has a great love for the succulent sausage, and the action of preserving them was good.

But the French War Office has a rule with regard to preserves. They have to be left at the Rue St. Dominique for six months to see if they will really keep before any contract is given. M. X. left his box of sausages and went away happy. He was away for a year. At the end of this time he called at the War Office so that the sausages should be opened in his presence. He was told that it was no use opening them; he would not get a contract. 'Why not?' he asked. 'They have been here a year,' he was told, 'instead of six months. Our orders are to open after six months and see whether the goods are in a proper state of preservation.'

And although M. X. explained that a year held just twice six months, and that if the sausages were still sausages it would be proof positive that they were well tinned, red tape, as usual, held its own. He was obliged to take his sausages away, to bring back two boxes of others, and he will have to wait six months before he gets his contract. And poor Dumanet will have to wait for his sausages.

WHERE THEORIES SUFFER

The only justification America had yet had comes direct from the self-satisfaction of the individual American. His satisfaction, however, is both unmistakable and voluble, says a writer critic. He is content, though the competition becomes daily more severe and evident. He is beginning to realise now that many are handicapped at the very outset, that the struggle is prolonged by the stronger or the sheer joy of conquest, and even that a good third of the energy expended is consumed in piling up success on the top of victory. Yet a cheerful acceptance of the situation is the price of his individuality, his optimism, and his chance of winning out, and he pays it ungrudgingly. There is a greater measure of content and less of a sense of environmental injustice in America than anywhere else in the world today. And the principles of conduct and social relationships, though elemental, are like the rules of a game, there is an immediate appeal to public censure or approval, and little discrepancy between theory and practice.

Naturally our theories suffer when compared with idealistic and more storced codes. Where every man is supposed to consider his own interests, no social blame is imputed, and no one, except for initial handicaps, has an excuse. That is not, on the whole, an unenviable state of affairs; the American temperament only approximates it. As an instinctive theory, this is what it believes in.

Yet with every man theoretically for himself, public spiritedness prevails to a marked and unusual degree. For every man drives a frank bargain with the community; there is a competitive and open market for altruistic wares. Consider for a moment that phenomenon of our civilisation, the millionaire philanthropist. Is he an enigma, this person who has seemed to change character and tactics under our very eyes? By no means; if Americans worship money, they worship it as power, as cornered energy and not in an intrinsic and miserly way.

You Need A Tonic

Mr. Business or Professional Man!

Excessive and constant mental occupation, protracted anxiety or care, continual work in the stuffy atmosphere of the office, causes rapid loss of nervous power, mental gloom and depression. YOU need a tonic and the very best preparation to be had on this market is

WILSONS INVALIDS PORT

(A la Quina du Pérou)

It will promptly relieve prostration, nervousness and debility, renew energy, vigour and activity—it is the first and simplest preparation to tone up the entire system.

In sickness or health, in business or pleasure, in prosperity or adversity, the benefit of Wilson's Invalids' Port is beyond comprehension, until you have actually experienced the glowing invigoration it generates.

Dr. J. DUNFIELD, Petrolia, Ont., says:

"I have used "Wilson's Invalids' Port" and have pleasure in recommending it as a tonic of rare quality for debilitated patients. It gives tone to the stomach by increasing the appetite and very greatly assisting digestion. I believe that it would alone cure many cases of "run-down" constitutions assisted by any other medicine."

Partridge Season Closes.

Wednesday was the last day for partridge shooting. Mr. Watt, Fish and Game Inspector, is authority for this statement and local huntsmen must govern themselves accordingly.

Baptist Hockey Club.

Murray and Park street hookey enthusiasts are requested to meee in the parlours of Park street Baptist church, this evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a Baptist hookey club.

Taking Stock.

Lindsay Warder: Mr. Frank Fairen of Peterborough, is a guest at the Simpson House for a few days. The object of his visit is for the purpose of taking an inventory of the stock and equipment on board the government dredge and drill scow.

For The Young Men.

The services in the George street Methodist church on Sunday evening will be for the young men of Peterborough. The choruses, solos and sermon will be for the young men. Rev. Mr. Couch will have a message that will no doubt do them a vast amount of good.

Dates For Registration.

The city's board of registration met yesterday morning at the Judge's Chambers and fixed the following dates for registration: Friday, Nov. 24, Saturday, Nov. 25, Monday, Nov. 27 and Tuesday, Nov. 28, with the hours the same as for the Dominion registration. The booths will also be open at the same places. Appeals will be heard on December 4th.

Our Members Seated.

Our two local members have secured prominent seats in the House at Ottawa. Mr. Burnham is located on the Opposition side of the House, opposite the Speaker, while Mr. Sexsmith has the seat formerly occupied by Mr. Stratton. From Mr. Burnham's vantage ground he ought to be able to "catch the eye" of the Speaker without any trouble.

Twilight Musicale.

The Women's Art Association will give a twilight musicale in the Conservatory of Music hall Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. The programme will include a reading by Miss Katie Leary; solos by Miss Mary Chalmers and Mr. A. Huycke, and a Schubert serenade by Miss Julia Choate. The Conservatory string orchestra will also be in attendance.

New Company May be Formed.

The Lindsay Warder says that the name of Mr. E. F. Clary, who has filled an important position in the Trent Canal office here, is mentioned as general manager of a new navigation Company about to be formed in the city. Our contemporary adds that Mr. Clary is well known in Lindsay, and being fully conversant with the Kawartha waters and navigation matters in general, should make a good manager.

Off To Ottawa.

The Power deputation, the members of which are to interview to-day Hon Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals, on the question of municipal-owned power for this city, left for Ottawa on the C.P.R. midnight train last night. Mayor Morrow and City Clerk Armstrong left at noon so as to reach the capital in time to discuss with Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission, details in connection with the presentation of what Peterborough hopes for from the Dominion Government in the way of power on the Trent Waterway.

Charged With Being Dangerous.

At the police court yesterday morning an East City lady complained that her brother, who is 45 years old, is mentally unbalanced and dangerous to be at large. Her evidence showed that several years ago the man had been confined in Mimico Asylum, and had improved under the treatment received there; recently, however, he has, according to her statement, returned to his old weak-minded condition, which is aggravated by his being subject to epileptic fits. The unfortunate man was remanded, and medical examination ordered to ascertain whether his mental condition justifies his being sent back to the asylum or not.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. John Carew, of Lindsay, was in the city yesterday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wood left yesterday morning for the Queen city.

Mrs. (Rev.) F. J. Sawers, St. Luke's rectory, will receive to-day.

Superintendent McClellan, of the Trent Valley Canal left for Ottawa yesterday.

Mrs. R. M. Glover, 305 Margaret avenue, will receive the second Wednesday of each month.

Mrs. W. H. Meldrum is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Green, Toronto, for a few days.

Mr. Eric A. Forson, representing the Canadian Hardware, Stove and Paint Journal, is in the city on business.

The friends of Mr. Samuel J. Fanning will regret to learn that he is in Nicholls Hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis early yesterday morning. His condition is favorable.

Kingston Standard: Miss Fisher left on Monday for Peterborough, to visit Mrs. McLeod, after spending a few days with Prof. and Mrs. W. L. Grant, Wellington street.

Kingston Standard: The marriage of Miss Mona Knight, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Knight, to Mr. Herbert S. Wood, barrister, of Vancouver, B.C., son of R. E. Wood, K. C., Peterborough, will take place the end of December.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. De Cordin Smith.

Wednesday night there passed away at Nicholls Hospital one of Peterborough's oldest and most highly esteemed residents in the person of Mrs. De Cordin Smith, who had been ailing for some time. Deceased was the wife of the late James Smith and the daughter of the late Frederic and Mary E. N. Ferguson. The deceased lady was born in Kingston, Ont., but moved to Peterborough when a child. Her married life was spent in Hamilton. After her husband's death, however, she came back to Peterborough.

The late Mrs. Smith enjoyed the fullest measure of respect and esteem of an exceedingly large circle of friends and acquaintances. She was an exemplary member of All Saints' church, where she will be greatly missed.

The deceased leaves to mourn her loss a niece, Miss Clementi of Peterborough, and three nephews, Mr. F. B. Clementi of Peterborough, Dr. F. H. Ferguson of Michigan and Mr. V. S. Ferguson, manager of the Union Bank, Souris, Manitoba.

The funeral, which will be private, will take place at 10 a.m. on Friday morning to Little Lake cemetery.

KILLED AT BOBCAYGEON.

Ladder Slipped and Mr. George McGregor Was Thrown Twelve Feet to the ground.

Robert Wright, ahighly esteemed citizen of Bobcaygeon, was instantly killed yesterday morning while putting up the storm windows at Mr. Monsom Boyd's house.

Details are few, but it appears that Mr. Wright, who was a man of about 60 years of age, was up the ladder, while Mr. Geo. McGregor was on the ground. The ladder slipped on the snow, and the deceased gentleman fell about 12 feet to the hard ground, striking his back on the cement work. Death resulted instantly.

The deceased leaves a wife, four sons and four daughters to mourn his loss. He was a carpenter by trade, and had resided in the village all his life.—Lindsay Post.

MONEY NO OBJECT

WHEN PEOPLE ARE SEEKING HEALTH OR RELIEF FROM ANY DISEASE THE PRICE NEVER COUNTS.

It is a fact that not less than a million is spent every year by people seeking a satisfactory cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

Probably the best and most highly recommended preparation is Catarrhozone which treats the local symptoms very effectually by means of medicated air supplied through a convenient hard rubber inhaler. The poisons in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone Tablets, which are taken after each meal. They promote appetite, aid digestion, and make the blood rich and pure, so that it will nourish all parts of the body.

This combined local and constitutional treatment in catarrhal diseases has met with wonderful success and can be relied upon to cure every time. The inhaler stops sneezing, coughing, droppings in the throat, and brings quick relief and cure to all the disagreeable symptoms of catarrh.

The following testimonials from well-known Canadians furnish abundant proof what Catarrhozone accomplishes in stubborn cases.

Mrs. James Tweedie, of Jay Bridge says: "For years my daughter doctored unsuccessfully for Catarrh. She had droppings in the throat, hawkings, nausea, and could not sleep at night. The first day's use of Catarrhozone benefitted and ultimately cured my daughter so that Catarrh has never returned. I can recommend Catarrhozone as a grand remedy for Catarrh."

Thousands of strong letters could be given like the above if necessary, but all that is required to prove the merit of Catarrhozone is a trial. It is sure as death to cure and if it fails your money will be refunded. Catarrhozone cured lots of cases worse than yours and can do it again.

Complete outfit costs $1.00. Small size 25c. Sold by druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

NEW ROLLING STOCK.

The Grand Trunk Railway System have placed an order for fifty first class coaches and twenty-five standard baggage cars.

The coaches are the standard equipment, 75 feet 6 inches long, mounted on six wheel trucks.

The inside finish is of mahogany, with green painted ceilings. All the latest improvements are installed in these cars, and they are models of perfection for railroad travel. The body of the coaches are upholstered in green plush and the smoking rooms in green leather. The total seating capacity of the cars is 69 persons. These cars are heated by steam, lighted with Pintsch gas, and are equipped with high speed Westinghouse air brake, and all the latest appliances for safety.

The baggage cars are 63 feet 10½ inches long, with a clear 60 feet in length inside. There are four doors to each car opening in the clear 5 ft. x 6 feet 2½ inches. These cars are mounted on four wheel trucks, are lighted with Pintsch Gas, and heated by steam. They are also equipped with the Westinghouse high speed air brake.

This equipment will be placed in service on different divisions of the system as soon as delivery is made.

THE COAL QUESTION.

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir,—Can you tell me if there is any combine between local coal dealers and the wholesale men which precludes the possibility of any person or persons starting up a new coal yard in Peterborough?

—A. H. M.

In reply to the above we would say that wholesale supply coal men are perfectly indifferent as to how many retailers are in business in any town, or at what price black diamonds are retailed at. The Times is assured from the best source of information that any individual or organized company, with a yard and a pair of scales can enter the coal business at libertum. All the supply men insist upon is that no order less than five car loads will be considered, and that their accounts shall be met the 15th of every month, irrespective of date of shipment. That is to say, that coal shipped the first of October would have to be paid for on October 15th, and coal shipped the 15th of same month need not be settled for until the 15th of the following month.—Ed.)

THE SUBJECT OF EDUCATION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I was very pleased to see the letter of "Julius" in your issue of yesterday. It is plain to me he has the cause of education very much at heart and is in earnest about it. I think his letter does him great credit for that reason. I view the achievements of the Whitney Government in regard to education, in a different way to him, and I ask him to read my answer with an open mind. What he says about the importance of education to modern conditions of living and competition, all thinking persons must agree. Now, Julius, you say, let us look at what Dr. Pyne has done for the local schools and then you simply mention the increased grant. You say nothing at all about the breaking up of the school book ring and the cheapening of school books. The cost of the set of readers in the Liberal regime was for a set of 5, $1.15, to-day the cost is 49c. There is also a discount of 20 per cent. off these prices if they are bought at the place of publication. Both the late King Edward and the present King wrote in terms of warm approval of these books. The public school text books are also much cheaper. The cost of a complete set of text books and readers under the Liberal Government was $4.55, under the Whitney Government, reduced to $2.70. The total relative savings on all authorized text books by the new contracts made through Dr. Pyne, will exceed one million dollars. Isn't that good work for education, Julius. The fee of $5 in the Model schools, and the fee of $10 in the Normal schools have been abolished, providing free tuition in professional training. Lots more of real good work for education you have not mentioned when you speak of what Dr. Pyne has done. You say, 15 years ago there were more teachers than schools and you blame the abolition of Model schools for this. Is this fair? The scarcity of teachers is caused by several reasons. Our prosperity attracts young people into other occupations. The provinces out West too take away a great number of teachers. Between May 1909 and October 1911, at least 475 Ontario teachers have gone to Alberta and Saskatchewan alone. The number of pupils has greatly increased—in 1904 there were 396,814 pupils, requiring 8,610 teachers; in 1910 there are 401,882 pupils requiring 9,369 teachers. All Model schools have not been abolished, Julius. In 1908, there were eight, these having been increased in 1911 to thirteen. I find the best answer to your complaint re the doing away with Model schools, to train teachers in your own words, viz., "It is certainly better to have ambitious men and women in charge of rural schools—teachers with modern methods than teachers with no certificates at all, or with temporary certificates." Hence Julius, the creation of the Normal schools and high grade teachers and the passing away of the Model schools with teachers as you describe. In 1903-4, there were two teachers with 3rd class certificates, and two with temporary certificates, to-day there are none. As I said yesterday, I intend to go into this matter more fully in another letter. Take my advice Julius, and vote for Mr. Peak on December 11th.

WINTER SEED FAIRS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Seed grain growers should avail themselves of the opportunity for advertising afforded by the winter exhibitions at Guelph (December 11-16) and Ottawa (January 16-19). In the general class prizes of $1, $2, $3 and $5 are offered for two bushel lots of seed grain representing seed for sale. In addition to that, through the Ontario Fairs Association, large prizes are offered to winning competitors in the field crop competitions. In oats, for instance, ten prizes are offered, from $3 to $25. Young Street, York County, divides the districts for showing at Guelph or Ottawa.

This season there is bound to be a big demand for seed grain at good prices. The hot wave which passed over Ontario while grain was filling caused a lot of it to shrink, and plump, well-filled grain will consequently be at a premium. This is shown by the price of barley.

As these fairs are attended each year by an increasing number of visitors, they give a splendid opportunity for buyers and sellers to meet and arrange their deals. Members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association should be alert and put up strong exhibits. As soon as fall work is well enough advanced, farmers should get their seed ready. It would be well to apply at once to A. P. Westervelt or F. D. Elderkin, Parliament Building, Toronto, for the two prize lists.

IF drinking tea and coffee results in a feeling of nervousness and irritability, you may depend upon it that caffeine—the drug in tea and coffee—is getting in its "back licks"—the reaction from the drug

Common sense would suggest stopping the cause—tea and coffee—short off.

The change is easy if you have well-made —the food-drink made of wheat, including Phosphate of Potash (grown in the grain) for rebuilding brain nerves.

POSTUM

Postum is known to be free from any drug whatever, and is rich in the vital elements which make for sturdy vigor.

QUIT TEA AND COFFEE

What the Great German Specialist Says.

It disappoints some people to be told that tea and coffee cause disease But it is best to look squarely at facts and set the face towards health for that's more fun than anything else anyhow. A Cincinnati man consulted a Berlin physician on nervous diseases and says:

"Four years ago I was an habitual coffee drinker having used it for 25 years and being naturally of a nervous temperament I became almost a nervous wreck, greatly suffering from insomnia, almost constantly constipated and weighing only 128 pounds.

"I consulted physicians and took medicines all the time but had no relief. About three years and a half ago I went abroad and while in Berlin heard frequently of a great physician, Prof. Mendel, an authority on nervous trouble, so I resolved to consult him.

"Prof. Mendel surprised me very much by asking at once if I was a coffee drinker and on my telling him I used it two or three times a day he said, 'It is poison.' After carefully examining me he told me there was nothing the matter with me whatever but what could be entirely cured in 30 days by letting coffee and other stimulants alone and dieting.

"I had a hard time following his advice. I did not know what to do until I came home and told my wife who got some Postum. We tried it but at first did not like it; then we went over the directions on the package together and found we had not boiled it long enough.

"That was the beginning of the end of my trouble, for the Postum was delicious after that and I drank it regularly and it helped from the start.

"In a very short time I began to feel much better and in the last three years I haven't been absent from business one hour on account of ill health for my health is fine now. I have a good appetite, sleep well and weigh 175 pounds."

Any nervous person who drinks tea or coffee will feel better from a 10 days change to Postum. Trial easily proves this.

CANADIAN CLUB TO-NIGHT.

First Meeting of the Season, to Be Addressed by Mr. Justice Riddell.

The members of the Canadian Club will hold their first meeting of the season this evening in the National Hotel. Mr. Justice Riddell, one of Canada's most noted judges and a gentleman reputed to be a brilliant and convincing speaker will address the assembly. His presence on this occasion should attract a record attendance. The report of the nominating committee will also be presented. Membership tickets may be secured from Mr. W. R. Morris, the secretary, or from Mr. G. C. Wainwright, treasurer, at the Bank of Ottawa.

INNOCENT MAN PUNISHED.

Oklahoman, After Pardon, Finds "Murdered" Man Alive and Well.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 16.—William M. Yoder, Oklahoma City hiveryman, after having served nineteen years of a lifetime sentence in the Oklahoma penitentiary, declared he has found the man he was convicted of killing, E. J. Fyack, alive and well in a Texas city.

Yoder was sent to prison in 1891 and was pardoned last year. Since his release Yoder has traveled from place to place seeking Fyack. The supposed murdered man will return to Oklahoma City, it is stated, and establish Yoder's innocence.

ANSWERS BY J. W. BROWETT, OPTOMETRIST

Q. Why do school children with good sight, require Glasses?

A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength; the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.

Q. Why do children squint?

A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain; this is nature's way. Study-glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squinting.

THE TIMES AND BI-LINGUALISM

The Times has been censured in certain quarters for its position in regard to bi-lingual schools. We therefore, would define our position in regard to the teaching of other languages than English in the public schools of the country. We would have one language only, in the public schools of the country. This, we conceive to be necessary to the development of a common nationality, to the easy transaction of business, and to economy in public service. As the Farmer's Sun clearly puts it, if to come down to the main point, the use of the French language is to be allowed in public schools in Eastern Ontario, we shall soon find French the only tongue in that part of the Province, and with that there will of necessity be two official languages in courts, in Legislatkre, etc., with the needless addition to public expenditure and the needless difficulty in transacting ordinary business thereby involved. Moreover the effect must be to isolate the part of Ontario in which French prevails from the rest of the Province as Quebec is now isolated from the rest of the Dominion. We shall have in Ontario a little Quebec, playing the part in this Province that Quebec has played and is playing in the Dominion.

THE NEW POWER HOUSE

Water Turned on in One of the Immense Four Power Units on Monday

On Monday last water was turned on at the Seymour Company's new power house, at Auburn, and one of the four large water wheels started. The power at present generated amounts to about 550 horse power, which is being distributed to the power users of the city. In about ten days a second water pit will be completed, when another big generator will be put into operation. The other two wheel pits will also be completed in a short time.

It is worthy of note that the entire machinery of the plant was manufactured in Peterborough, by the Canadian General Electric Company and the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company.

HURLED THE HEADS OF MANCHUS AT THE FEET OF THE DEPUTATION

EYE-WITNESSES TELL OF THE HORRORS OF REVOLUTION AROUND WU CHANG.

Fugitives Are Riddled—One Official Paid $18,000 for a Sampan, Only to Lose His Life.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 17.—L. Sumera of Yokohoma, who went with a deputation from Hankow to Wu Chang to rescue the missionaries and other foreigners clamored for admittance. The gates were suddenly opened and a large number of captured Manchus were dragged out by their hair, beheaded and their heads hurled at the feet of the delegates. The gates were then closed and the foreigners went back to tell what they had seen.

On the city walls a number of rebel soldiers stood to watch for Manchus trying to escape with ropes. Those attempting to escape were riddled with bullets as they lowered themselves. Sumera saw a Manchu official, who had paid a coolie $18,000 for a Sampan dragged ashore and beheaded

NAILED HEADS TO DOORS.

At a place near Hankow when foreign firms left their premises, the rebels caught a gang of looters, beheaded them and nailed their heads to the doors of the stores and dwellings with signs telling of the fate other robbers would meet.

One Manchu, who had boarded a Japanese river boat was making his way to the cabin, when rebels came aboard seized him and led him back to the city gate, where he was beheaded and his head stuck on a pole. A policeman who failed to stop looters was decapitated and his head put in a basket over which a placard was placed saying that the head was that of a policeman.

A CLEVAR RUSE.

The Han Yang arsenal was captured by a clever ruse. Several hundred insurgents crossed the river in Sampans and rushed to the gates of the arsenal shouting they were loyal troops and were escaping from Wu Chang. The gates of the arsenal were thrown open and once in, the rebels put back their white bandages. Resistance did not follow and the arsenal fell without a shot having been fired.

Can't Trifle With Nature

Sleeplessness, shaky nerves, stomach trouble, weak heart, headaches, etc., are effects often caused by tea and coffee drinking.

There can be no relief until the cause—if it be tea or coffee—is removed.

Then Nature will repair the damage and the return to health can be hastened by using well-boiled

POSTUM

8,184—MAJUBA HILL.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Will you please state the date of the battle of Majuba Hill and the losses on both sides?

—W. E. Archer.

Reply—The battle occurred on February 27, 1881. The night before, after an eight hours' climb, they had occupied the hill, which is situated in the extreme north of Natal. Towards noon it was unexpectedly carried by a sudden rush of the Boers, who were superior in numbers. The latter lost 130, the British more than 200 in killed and wounded, including their leader, Sir George Colley.

RED DEER GROWING BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS

Will Soon be a Large and Important City—Splendid Investment Offered to Eastern Capitalists—See Advertisement and Map on Another Page.

All eyes at present are turned on Red Deer, a bulletin of progress just issued by the Board of Trade, shows the rapid growth of this town. Building permits for the last five months went over $182,000, being four times greater than for the whole of the last year. Business at the lands office shows enormous gains, as also the passenger, freight, express and telegraph departments of the railways. The population of this place is growing by leaps and bounds and as it is the hub of the greatest railway development taking place in the West, it is destined to soon become a great city. The yards of the Alberta Central embrace an area of 140 acres. The Canadian Northern is now constructing a line West from its Vegreville Calgary branch to the Brazean coalfields and the Yellow Head Pass.

Construction has commenced on the "S" line of the C.N.R. from Red Deer to Calgary and Edmonton. The right of way of the Strathcona-Calgary branch of the C.N.R. running due north and south through the Red Deer on the west side of Third ave., has closed all the streets running from the town eastward except Ross ave. Third street north and Fifth street south. This will have the effect of materially increasing the population and value of property in the west end. A party of engineers are now camped on the outskirts of the town engaged on the construction of the enormous bridge across the river. As soon as this is completed a great forward movement is expected. Taking into consideration the rich country surrounding, with its unlimited coal, timber and dairying facilities Red Deer is bound to become one of, if not the greatest city in the whole of the Northwest.

REMOVING HER SKIN

(From the Feminine World)

The quickest and surest way to make a good complexion out of a bad one is to actually remove the thin veil of faded or discolored outer skin from the face. This can be done easily, safely and privately by any woman. The process is one of gentle absorption.

Get an ounce of pure mercolized wax from your druggist and apply it at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. In a few days the mercolide in the wax will have absorbed the disfiguring cuticle, revealing the fresh young skin underneath if you will have a beautiful, clear, natural complexion. The process is pleasant and harmless, making the face look brilliantly attractive and youthful. It also effectually removes such blemishes as freckles, tan, moth patches, liver spots, pimples, etc. Every woman should keep a little mercolized wax on hand, as this simple, old-fashioned remedy is the best complexion beautifier and preserver known.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with the whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

FIFTEEN MEN WERE DROWNED

THE POWER DEPUTATION AT OTTAWA YESTERDAY

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—Peterborough's City Council deputation to Ottawa to-day had an interesting interview with Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Hon. C. J. Dougherty, on the subject of power and privileges for Peterborough city on the Trent Waterway. The deputation was introduced by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., for West Peterborough, and appreciably supported by Hon Adam Beck and Mr. George Lynch Staunton, K.C., who asked that the Dominion lease the Hydro-Electric Commission the power right of dam fourson the Peterborough and Lakefield division and dam eight on the Rice Lake Division of the Trent Valley Canal. Strachan Johnston, K.C., opposed the application on behalf of the existing owners of power rights.

Mr. Beck said that the Trent Valley waters were public property and that according to the decision of the Privy Council the bed in the Ottonabee and water in river belong to the Province. "You own dams," he said to the Ministers, "but you have no right to take the water from the river which is not needed for canal purposes. Therefore you have no right to sell or dispose of surplus water. I am aware that the Dominion Government has been in the habit of selling the surplus water from canals, but that was before it was decided that they did not own the water. I want you to give us the right to use the provincial water through your dams. It is a question of principle which affects the whole Trent Valley.

Mr. Johnston contended that the Dominion should safeguard rights of existing companies and that the companies should be compensated if deprived of rights given them by previous governments.

Mayor Morrow offered that Peterborough City was desirous of entering into an agreement with the Hydro-Electric Commission, and urged the co-operation of the Dominion Government.

After considerable discussion the deputation was assured of power for municipal purposes through the Hydro-Electric Commission. At least the Minister conveyed the impression that his written decision would be along these lines.

NANKING HOLDS THE KEY

Lushfon, Nov. 17.—The Shanghai correspondent of The Times says that Nanking is regarded as the key to the situation. If the revolutionaries win, further resistance to the realisation of their plans seems unlikely, but if General Chang wins, scenes of devastation and carnage may be expected which may change the whole complexion of events. Chang has placed many guns on the walls of Pukow to check the advance of the revolutionaries from the north.

ITALY IN GREAT TROUBLE

London, Nov. 17.—In spite of the rigorous censorship of dispatches it is known that the position of the Italian forces in Tripoli is desperate. They are cooped up in the city they captured by a large army of Turks and Arabs hungry for blood. It is obvious that the war has attained more serious proportions than Italy expected in the beginning, for her troops went over to Africa confident as the British were who sailed to South Africa with the boast that their Christmas dinner would be eaten in Pretoria.

It seems that Italy did not expect such resistance as has been met, and the purpose to terrorize the people of the desert by slaughtering them has served to invite reprisals and to bring upon Italy denunciation for cruelty by nations who have under similar circumstances been no less barbarous.

There is no indication of intervention from any source, and Turkey is reported to have abandoned all idea of negotiating a settlement in Tripoli and to be preparing for war on a grand scale in anticipation of an attempted invasion of Turkish territory in Europe. It is true that Italy has much sea power and Turkey has none, but in a land campaign conditions would be different. In the event of a struggle in the field the result would be more uncertain, and the cost of such a war would be enormous.

MISSIONARIES WERE STABBED

TWO METHODISTS, ONE A CANADIAN, MURDERED IN SZE CHUEN.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 17.—The Canada Maru brought news to-day of the murder of two foreign missionaries in Sze Chuen. A Cheng Ta correspondent of The Shanghai Press said: "Two foreign missionaries, one of the American Methodist mission, the other of the Canadian Methodist mission. I do not know their names. Both were stabbed."

From The Toronto News.

"It was waterlogged and dead before it started.

"They had to get some way to get this pirate ship to go out.

"They got the money on notes and a bogus list of subscribers.

"It was one of the most fraudulent transactions that ever took place.—Mr. E. E. Du Vernet, Crown Prosecutor.

Mr. G. H. Watson for Mr. Stratton—There is no evidence of wrongful intent.

Mr. N. W. Rowell for Mr. Warren—"There is not a tittle of evidence that my client conspired to make misrepresentation to the Government."

The hearing of the charges against Messrs. J. K. Stratton and J. J. Warren of conspiring and agreeing with W. R. Travers to secure by false pretences the certificate for the Farmers Bank, was resumed before Judge Winchester yesterday morning.

DISCUSSED IN PRIVATE HOUSE.

Mr. W. R. Morris, an accountant, of Peterboro, the first witness called, told the court that he was present at a gathering in a private house in that city when the formation of the Farmers Bank was discussed by Mr. Stratton and others.

"Can you recollect the details?" asked Mr. Du Vernet, counsel for the Crown.

"No, it happened so long ago that I cannot recollect them. The conversation was general, and I cannot repeat anything of what was spoken."

At the conclusion of the witnesses' evidence his honor asked the Crown Counsel: "Do you think that there is sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction?"

OF GREAT IMPORTANCE.

"Well, your Honor, it is a question of great importance," replied counsel. "The simple question which arises is has an illegal act been committed? It is my duty to place the facts before your Honor.

"I would like to call your attention to a case in the English courts.

"In this the charge was of obtaining a passport from the Foreign Office in the name of one person, the intent being to use it for another, and the court held that it was public mischief and infringement of the common law.

"I maintain it is an evasion of the Banking Act. Anyone who assists in an evasion of an Act is also responsible."

The Act, continued Mr. Du Vernet, said clearly that the deposit of $250,000 must be intact. But in the case of the Farmers' Bank this amount had already been drawn on. The Bank started with a handicap.

"It was water logged and dead before it started," he said. "How could it possibly succeed?"

Mr. DuVernet, referring to previous evidence, said that it had been clearly shown that the president and the manager of the Trust & Guarantee Company had been in communication with the bank.

GET THE $1,000 BONUS.

"It was thought," said counsel, "that this money would only be required for thirty days. Why thirty days? Because it was plain that when the money was subscribed they would get their money back and the $1,000 bonus."

"Was it a transaction they knew was regular and right, or was it a transaction they knew would wreck the bank?" asked Mr. Du Vernet.

"Could anything be more deliberate? The money was paid into Mr. Mitchell in a manner which could not show the manner in which it was obtained."

"Was it a transaction bearing the imprint of a straightforward dealing?"

PIRATE SHIP.

They had to get some way to get this pirate ship to go out.

MR. HALL IN N. MONAGHAN

The Liberbal Candidate Delivers Address—Mr. D. O'Connel Also Speaks

In spite of the heavy roads, Mr. R. R. Hall's meeting in the town hall at North Monaghan last night, was largely attended. Sir James Whitney's rather crude scheme to bring on a winter campaign and prevent the country voter from hearing the issues discussed, because his Government gets its majority mostly in the cities, is not working out as intended.

The Liberal candidate, Mr. R. R. Hall and Mr. Daniel O'Connell, K.C. made speeches which covered the ground pretty thoroughly. Mr. O'Connell bore hard on the tenderness of the Whitney Government toward a vastly higher education for the few and its neglect of a good elementary education for the children of the many.

TWO OF THE BIG PLANKS.

Mr. Hall was listened to with deep interest when he discussed an effective cash compensation for the injured workingman, minus the law's expensive delays and the blood-sucking court costs. The farmer is a workingman himself and has an active sympathy with his now strenuous fellow workers in the city.

After Mr. Hall had touched on the hardships the farmer was under when the Whitney Government abolished County Model schools and deprived his son or daughter of the chance to get a teacher's education at a small cost, he turned to the constructive part of the Liberal agricultural policy.

The Whitney Government, he said, had failed to do anything for the farmer. It hadn't given him good roads, radial railways, competent instruction and practical assistance—in fact, had done nothing to make country life more profitable and more attractive. In failing to do this, which he conceived it was any democratic government's duty to do, the government not only injured the farmer, but also injured the town consumer, by drawing the boys away from the farms to the cities, decreasing the rural population, lessening the available supply of farm labor, diminishing farm production, and making food scarce and prices high.

"An enlightened agricultural policy," said Mr. Hall, "would get rid of all this. It would benefit the farmer by increasing the efficiency and productiveness of his farm—he would make more money, because he would grow more—and it would benefit the consumer by giving him a more bountiful supply at more reasonable prices, brought to him more cheaply over good roads and radial railways."

WHEN TOWN AND COUNTRY MEET.

Mr. Hall explained at length his plan of having an agricultural demonstrator located in Peterborough, who would act as expert adviser, soil analyzer, drainage engineer, and general farm doctor for the country round about.

"This man, on the spot," said Mr. Hall, "would be ready at your call. He would tell you when to spray your trees and would come out and show you how. He would tell you what kind of things to grow on your land and what fertilizer to use. He would tell you all these things by word of mouth and show you them by act of hand, and not leave you to dig your information out from the dreary technicalities of departmental blue books."

KEEPING THE BOY ON THE FARM.

"Show the boy that he can make more money on the farm" said Mr. Hall, "than he can in the cities, and he will stay on the farm. Put the farm in closer touch with the city, and the city will not have the charms—sometimes fatal charms—that it has now for the country. He will prefer his free healthy life in the open air. Let the local demonstrator show the country boy how he can make money out of his neglected apple orchard, let him show his brother how to specialize on poultry, let him show another brother what can be done with alfalfa and presently we'll have the whole farmer's family staying at home, doing extensive farming, running the farm on business principles, and making the hundred or hundred and fifty or two hundred acres do ten times what it did before at one-tenth of the previous expense to the fertility of the soil."

"It is only by some such policy as this," concluded Mr. Hall, "that we can repopulate the country districts, increase the food supply and bring down the cost of living in the cities. The Whitney Government has neglected its duty. It remains with you to send men to the Legislature who will press home these crying needs."

The meeting closed with cheers for the King and the candidate.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

was incorporated by Special Act of the Parliament of Canada for the purpose of carrying on the business of Fire Insurance, as outlined in the Insurance Act and the Special Act of Incorporation.

Capital Stock Authorized by the Board.....$2,000,000
Capital Stock Subscribed to date.....$1,650,000

The Head Office of the Company is in the city of Winnipeg, and, in addition to this, Branch Offices and Agencies will be established throughout the Dominion.

It must be generally conceded that, owing to the satisfactory conditions at present prevailing throughout not only Western Canada, but the entire Dominion, this Company is being organized at a most favorable and opportune time.

Canada, and particularly the Western portion of the Dominion, is advancing in population and wealth more rapidly than at any other time in its history, and every indication points towards a period of great prosperity and development.

The great influx of settlers into Western Canada is resulting in tremendous activity in every line of business. Railroad construction is proceeding on a scale hitherto unknown in this country, and as adequate transportation is of vital importance in moving our immense crops with a proper degree of facility, it is highly encouraging to see so much well-directed energy along the lines of railway extension

Coincident with railway expansion, we find many new districts rapidly filling up with desirable settlers, bringing with them a good supply of cash and effects. With the settlement of the rural districts, new towns and villages are springing up, which will, during the next few years, become, in many instances, important business centres.

With such unprecedented growth in Western as well as Eastern Canada, involving an expenditure of millions of dollars in building operations, it is at once evident that there is a very extensive and profitable field for a new Fire Insurance Company which will have a thorough organization throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, and more particularly in the four Western Provinces.

As a great volume of our business will be transacted in the West, it is a matter of the greatest importance that the Head Office of the Company, as well as the Directors, should be located in the West, so that the affairs of the Company may be conducted to the best possible advantage.

DIRECTORS.

The Board of Directors consists entirely of Western men with a very intimate knowledge of Western conditions, and they are, accordingly, well conversant with the financial and general business requirements of the West. They are thoroughly representative of the various important branches of financial, commercial, industrial and professional life in Western Canada, and with their wide reputation for business ability and integrity, as well as financial standing, combined with a long and varied experience, and practical knowledge of business affairs, they are exceptionally well qualified to render excellent service to a large financial institution.

As the Directors have valuable connections with extensive business interests and are also Directors of other financial corporations, as well as being otherwise identified with large and influential companies which control a great deal of high-grade fire insurance, they will be instrumental in placing a large portion of this desirable insurance with the new Company, so that we may safely conclude that from the very beginning of operations a large and profitable business will be assured.

Under these favorable conditions, and with a strong, energetic, as well as experienced and conservative management, combined with the fact that each Director has subscribed for eleven thousand five hundred dollars ($11,500) of the Capital Stock, on which all calls have been paid, and takes an active interest in the welfare of the Company, there is only one conclusion to draw, and that is that the affairs of the Company will be conducted in such a careful, conscientious and intelligent manner that the interests of both policyholders and stockholders will be fully protected.

IT IS WORTHY OF NOTE THAT $1,650,000 OF CAPITAL STOCK HAS ALREADY BEEN SUBSCRIBED BY PROMINENT BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN THROUGHOUT THE DOMINION AND ELSEWHERE.

No commission has been paid to anyone for securing stock subscriptions, and no expense has been incurred in the promotion and organization of the Company, except the expense in connection with securing the Charter and other necessary expenses.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE.

The Canada National Fire, being organized in the West, MAY BE TRULY CALLED A WESTERN COMPANY, and, as such, should receive the liberal patronage and hearty co-operation of the citizens of Western Canada, as well as the support of people from Eastern Canada who desire to become associated with a strong and progressive Canadian Company.

When promoting this Company the Directors were fully convinced that there was a splendid opening in Western Canada for a Company prepared to carry on the business of Fire Insurance on a large and comprehensive scale, and which, at the same time, could offer ADEQUATE PROTECTION TO BOTH POLICYHOLDERS AND SHAREHOLDERS. Accordingly, when making application for a Dominion charter, the Company was incorporated with a capital of $3,000,000.00, of which amount the Directors decided to offer for public subscription the sum of $2,000,000.00.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT FEATURE IN FIRE INSURANCE IS PROTECTION, and with the LARGE CAPITAL, combined with the high standard of Reserve, which will be maintained through careful selection of risks and profits from judicious investments, the Directors and Management feel confident that this Company will be accorded a very hearty reception by Canadian citizens, and will soon rank as one of the leading Fire Companies.

WITHOUT A LARGE AND SUBSTANTIAL CAPITAL FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE POLICYHOLDERS, A FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY IS SERIOUSLY HANDICAPPED, AND DOES NOT AFFORD THE POLICYHOLDER THAT PROTECTION TO WHICH HE IS JUSTLY ENTITLED, and the Directors of this Company, being fully aware of this most important fact, are adopting a very wise policy in OFFERING FOR SUBSCRIPTION SUCH A LARGE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL STOCK, and when our entire stock is subscribed and paid in full it will represent the largest amount of subscribed and paid-up capital of any Canadian Fire Insurance Company, and will be a tower of strength and of very material benefit to the company in carrying on its extensive operations.

GENERAL AGENT FOR CANADA

W. E. FUDGER, ESQ.

THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY to secure some of the Capital Stock of a Western Fire Insurance Company. With a large amount of desirable and profitable business so readily obtainable by the Company through its valuable and extensive business connections, rapid progress should be made, and with investments carefully selected and unexcelled in earning power, the Company will be enabled to not only pay substantial dividends, but build up a large reserve, and thereby materially increase the value of the stock.

The Directors firmly believe in the policy that EVERY SHAREHOLDER SHOULD CO-OPERATE WITH THE MANAGEMENT of a Company and take an active interest in its welfare. For that reason, it is their intention to WIDELY DISTRIBUTE the CAPITAL STOCK, and by that means obtain the support of the leading business and professional men throughout the country.

With the rapid development of the West during recent years, involving an outlay of many millions of capital, it has become generally recognized that WESTERN CANADA IS VERY MUCH IN NEED OF MORE LARGE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND ESPECIALLY OF WESTERN ORIGIN, to properly meet the growing requirements of the West, and to not only improve the present financial situation, but to materially assist in retaining, as much as possible, desirable business, with its resultant profits, within our own Western borders.

The business of fire insurance has now grown to such large proportions that it has become a very important factor in the financial and commercial world, and as its scope and influence is so general and widespread it is only natural to find that the question of AMPLE PROTECTION TO POLICYHOLDERS, which is the PRIMARY FUNCTION OF FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES, should be so GENERALLY DISCUSSED AT THE PRESENT TIME.

This important subject has given rise to a very STRONG FEELING in Western Canada that the TIME HAS NOW ARRIVED when the Western people should organize a Fire Insurance Company of such strength and proportions that it will soon rank as one of the leading fire companies of America, and command general respect and confidence, which is so ESSENTIAL to a company that solicits the support and patronage of all classes of the community.

The Directors have every confidence that they will receive the hearty co-operation of not only Western citizens, but of people from every part of the Dominion, to build up a GREAT fire insurance company with AMPLE PROTECTION for the people, and which will be a source of pride and credit to our country.

The following Canadian Government Insurance statistics should prove of ESPECIAL INTEREST:

In the year 1869 the total amount of fire premiums collected in Canada was $1,785,539.00, whereas in the year 1909 the total premiums charged amounted to the large sum of $22,293,633.25, and of this amount $6,551,644.41 was charged by Canadian Companies, $11,518,267.45 by British Companies, and $4,223,721.39 by American Companies.

During the last forty-one years the aggregate amount of fire insurance premiums collected in Canada reached the immense total of $280,740,466.00, of which the large sum of $218,310,047.00 represents the amount of fire premiums collected by FOREIGN COUNTRIES, and which, therefore, was taken out of the country to build up foreign companies and enrich foreign shareholders.

Notwithstanding that a considerable portion of the fire premiums collected in Canada by Foreign Companies has been repaid to Canadian policyholders, through fire losses, it must be evident that the larger the proportion of Canadian fire insurance that is placed with Canadian Companies, the larger is the amount of capital retained in the Dominion and always available for investment purposes, to build up our Canadian financial institutions, and thereby add to the general wealth and prosperity of our country.

The above figures are most significant and clearly demonstrate that while the CANADIAN FIRE COMPANIES have been doing a satisfactory business they HAVE SECURED only a SMALL portion of the Fire Insurance transacted in Canada, or, to be more exact, ONLY TWENTY-TWO PER CENT. of THE TOTAL FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN IN CANADA, covering a period of the last forty-one years. With the extraordinary progress which Canada has been making during recent years, the field for financial institutions has become so widely extended that there is a CONSTANTLY INCREASING DEMAND for new large financial corporations.

By further reference to our Government statistics it will be observed that at December 31st, 1909, the total number of Canadian Fire Companies operating under Dominion charter was ONLY TWENTY-ONE, and of this number ONLY TWO HAD A PAID-UP CAPITAL IN EXCESS OF $500,000.

In promoting this large Canadian Company the Directors are fully confident that the new organization will, with characteristic Western energy and enterprise, soon come to be recognized as an important factor in the insurance world, and as The Canada National Fire will be instrumental in RETAINING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF CANADA a large amount of money which would otherwise be taken out of the country to build up foreign corporations the people of the growing Dominion will readily see the advisability of giving this Company their MORAL AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT, in order that we may build up a STRONG and VIGOROUS Company which will prove a valuable acquisition to our Canadian monetary institutions.

This is the last opportunity to secure, direct from the Company, some of this desirable stock.

It is worthy of special note that the demand for the stock has exceeded the Directors' most sanguine expectations; in fact, of the $2,000,000 of stock to be issued, $1,650,000 has already been subscribed, and, from present indications, with the large number of applications for stock being received daily, the Directors are confident that the balance of the issue, which is now only $350,000, will be subscribed by August 26th, 1911, the date appointed for the closing of stock subscriptions.

For this reason, the Directors strongly recommend the investing public to mail their applications for stock at their earliest possible opportunity.

Subscribers are requested to kindly fill in attached application form, stating name in full, number of shares desired, occupation and address, and mail the application, along with the first call of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) per share on the stock, direct to the Head Office of the Company, Winnipeg, Man., or, if so desired, application may be made for the stock at any of the Company's Branch Offices or at any Branch of the Royal or Imperial Banks, where application blanks and any additional information will be readily furnished. Applications for stock will be considered in the order received, and on approval of the same by the Board of Directors a certificate for the number of shares subscribed will be issued and mailed the shareholders forthwith. Cheques, Drafts, Money Orders or other remittances on account of stock subscriptions should be made payable to The Canada National Fire Insurance Company.

KING EDWARD VACUM CLEANER

You cannot clean carpets, rugs and furniture by beating. If you think you have, just try a KING EDWARD VACUUM CLEANER and you will find the article full of dust, which breeds disease.

The KING EDWARD HAND MACHINE has no equal as compared with other hand machines. It is lighter to operate and its suction is much stronger. Its suction is stronger than many of the power machines, and the dusting is done away with. On account of the short stroke one person can operate it on carpets and rugs equally as well as two, and it is about half the weight of other hand machines to carry up and down stairs or from one room to another. It is sold for less money than any of the hand machines. All machines are guaranteed.

At the Court of St. James'.

But it is not everybody who realises that the Palace of Westminster—the correct name for the Parliamentary Houses—contains a second throne. This is placed in the King's robing room and is used by the King when he is putting on his legal garb before entering the House of Peers to read the "Speech from the Throne."

As a matter of fact, the official throne of these realms is the one at St. James' Palace, that very ordinary looking building at the foot of St. James' street. All ambassadors are accredited to this court, and, in the eyes of foreign governments, it stands for the majesty of Britain. Its throne is a very handsome one, and stands under a magnificent and most ornate canopy.

Though the throne at Windsor is but little used, it is unique in one respect. It is really an Eastern throne, after the style of the one we read of in the records of King Solomon, for it is composed entirely of ivory, and was the gift of one of the Princes of India.

There's Music!

Senator Depew, at a recent dinner in New York, said of Richard Strauss's music:

"To hear Strauss's 'Elektra' or his 'Domestic Symphony' always makes me think of the old Scotch piper who said: "'Ah, there's ane nicht I sall ne'er forget. There were nineteen pipers besides mysel' all in a wee bit parlor, all playin' different tunes. I just thought I was in heaven!"

WAR WOLVES OF THE TURK

The Bashi-Bazouks Recruited From All Quarters of the Empire Have Wild-Beast Courage and on the War-Path are Merciless.

The Bashi-Bazouks are to the Turkish army what the Cossacks are to the Russian. The Cossacks are, however, far more civilised and immeasurably the superior of the Bashi-Bazouks in all that goes to make the soldier. Bashi-Bazouks are almost without discipline; their courage is that of the wild beast seeking its prey, and on the war-path they are merciless. It was the Bashi-Bazouks who, by their monstrous cruelties, gave such point to the pen and tongue of Mr. Gladstone at the time of the Bulgarian atrocities." The name itself means "hot-brained." From every quarter of the empire and its numerous suzerainties this horde of cut-throats has been gathered — from Barbekar, from Yemen, from the far Sudan, from every nook and corner of the Caucasus, and from every imperial slum. Their motto is "Kill—kill" to which they freely add "and loot." Their weapons are the long lance, such as is used by the Cossack, the sabre, two or three pistols, and as many murderous-looking daggers.

FROM PULPIT TO BUSHRANGER

Recent Death Recalls the Remarkable Career in Australia of Man Who Played Double Part of Parson and Daring Robber.

One of the most remarkable criminals of our time is recalled by the death in Melbourne of Mrs. Marian Bowen. She was the widow of a senior constable killed in the attack on "Captain Moonlight" and his gang of bushranging desperadoes. "Captain Moonlight" was originally the Rev. Andrew George Scott, the Church of England clergyman on the Egerton goldfield. He broke into a bank at Egerton and robbed it so scientifically that for some time nobody suspected him. It was only when he resigned his charge and was reported to be spending money lavishly in Sydney that the police took action. He was convicted and sentenced to ten years' hard labour. Scott made a daring escape from jail and was at liberty for a few weeks. After his recapture he became the ringleader of a series of prison revolts. On his release he turned his notoriety to profit by going on a lecturing tour. A fluent speaker, and attired in evening dress, he drew large audiences. Suddenly he vanished from the platform, and was next heard of as "Captain Moonlight," emulating Ned Kelly as the head of a band of bushrangers. He was captured and executed in Sydney. The governor expressed a wish to see so interesting a criminal. "Tell His Excellency," was Scott's reply, "that I have no desire to encourage morbid curiosity."

Gathering Them In

The territorial possessions of the United States are just a little larger than they were a week or two ago. Quietly, unostentatiously, and with the simplest of ceremonies another island lying near the California coast, little known even to American citizens was added to the domain of the country.

The island was annexed by Commander W. A. Moffett, United States navy and inspector of the Eighteenth lighthouse district, during his last inspection trip. Commander Moffett performed all the legal requirements of taking possession of the little island, which is designated on the sailing charts as Bishop Rock, in the name of the United States. The Navy Department was immediately notified.

The island is a small one. Its sole denizens are herds of seals and sea lions. It is close to Cortez bank, about 110 miles from Point Loma. It is south of the east and west line which divides the United States and Mexico, but the Mexican government never has claimed it.

OLD LEATHER FOR DINNER

Hungry Men Existed on Hard Leather, and It Might Be Well to Hold Old Boots Against Possible Crop Failure.

The famous Captain Morgan and his piratical crew were sometimes in hard places at Panama, and on one occasion were reduced to eating their leathern bags. Some persons who never were out of their mothers' kitchens may ask how these pirates could eat, swallow, and digest these pieces of leather, so hard and dry. "But," states one of the company who narrated the story, "could they once experience what hunger, or, rather famine is, they would certainly find the manner, by their own necessity as the pirates did. For these first took the leather and sliced it in pieces. Then did they beat it between two stones and rub it, often washing it in the water of the river, to render it by these means supple and tender. Lastly, they scraped off the hair, and roasted or broiled it upon the fire. And being thus cooked they cut it into small morsels and ate it, helping it down with frequent sups of water, which by good fortune they had right at hand."

FIRST OF THE MOVING PICTURE

Birth of Popular Entertainment was in California in Effort to Obtain Exact Record of Fast Trotting Horse.

Eadweard Muybridge, a photographer of Oakland, California, invented moving pictures over a quarter of a century ago. The invention came about in this way: Leland Stanford, the Governor of California, was a great race-horse man. His celebrated trotter Occident was the first horse to make a record of 2.20 west of the Rocky Mountains, and Stanford engaged Muybridge to photograph him in every shape and form. Muybridge then made the first instantaneous pictures of a horse in motion — pictures which knocked out the old idea of artists and everybody else that an animal at speed sometimes extended all four feet at once.

Finally, in order to get the horse's full action exactly, the photographer placed a line of cameras a inch of a mile long on the track, and from these he stretched silk threads across the course at about the height of the trotter's knees. As the horse threads were broken each made a picture of the horse, and by putting them together and shuffling them the trotter could be seen in motion.

In 1885 Muybridge went to England, and with the help of several other men evolved the first moving picture camera. A year later some of those instruments reached America, and applications for patents began to pour into Washington.

Not many large fortunes have been made by the makers. Some of the early manufacturers made between $100,000 and $200,000 a year for three years, and are wealthy. It is not on record that Muybridge ever made much money from the invention which gave to the public this immensely popular form of cheap entertainment.

Judge Got the Baby.

A few years ago an Iowa county court judge tried to imitate King Solomon in his well-known decision respecting the child that was claimed by two women. In the Iowa Court the women claimed to be the mother of a child that was produced before the judge. Thinking that history would repeat itself, the judge asked for the instrument. Then, opening his knife, he announced his intention of cutting the child in half. Whereupon one of the mothers exclaimed, "Oh, no! If it comes to that you may keep the child yourself," and both women left the court.

"It appears to me that Solomon was a very over-rated man," murmured the judge.

THE BIG STONE MOSES STRUCK

Many Antiquarians Convinced That Stone of Destiny Carried From Scotland to London, is Rock From Which the Water Gushed.

The belief of the antiquary, quoted by Archdeacon Wilberforce, that the coronation stone was the rock struck by Moses and that from it flowed the water for the thirsty Israelites, has made visitors to Westminster Abbey more than usually keen to see the coronation chair and the famous stone which it encloses. The archdeacon, preaching in the Abbey stated that well-known antiquary who had made a special study of the history connected with the stone was convinced that it was the stone on which Jacob rested his head when he had a vision of angels at Bethel and knew that night it was consecrated and carried from place to place. "He believed it was the stone that Moses struck, and that it was used by the Israelites during their years of wandering. He showed a big cleft in the back from which he believed the water gushed." The antiquary traced the stone from Solomon's temple to Spain, then to Ireland, then to Scotland, then to Westminster.

Only the front and sides of the stone can be seen by visitors to the Abbey, for the top is hidden by a seat of the Coronation chair and a cushion prevents people passing behind the chair for an inspection of the back. To appearance it is a piece of purplish-grey rock about 2 ft. long, 16 in. wide, and 10 in deep. At each end is a much-rusted, decorative iron staple. Whatever its early history, there is little doubt that Kings of Scotland were crowned on it at Scone, and there is no doubt that Edward I. brought it to Westminster and that on it all the Sovereigns of Britain have been crowned from the time of Edward II.

In the book of Genesis it is recorded that Jacob, after his vision of the angels descending from Heaven, set up the stone on which his head had rested and poured oil on it. "And this stone which I have set for a pillar shall be God's House."

OUR NEW PREMIER
Is a man of Kent

Robert Laird Borden, the Premier of Canada, is a member of a famous Kentish family in England. The Borden or Burdens are "men of Kent," who have for centuries been associated with the parishes of Headcorn and Borden, near Maidstone. The present head of the family is an octogenarian miller living in Headcorn. A table is given tracing the descent of the present Conservative leader in a direct line from Henry Borden in 1380. Richard Borden left Headcorn and emigrated to New England in 1638, and his third son, Matthew, was the first white man born in Rhode Island. Richard's grandson, John Samuel, bought large tracts of land in Nova Scotia, and the latter was grandfather of the new Canadian Premier.

Popular Canadian Poetess

Mrs. Jean Blewett is a writer of verse which joins common sense and feeling in such a happy fashion as to have made her one of the most popular of Canadian poets. Her books of verse are "The Cornflower" and "Heart Songs."

The Cut Unkind

He was a suburban amateur gardener, whose pride in his tiny garden was apt to bore his friends. The other day he had taken his nephew — a youth fresh from a public school — round his retreat, holding forth at length on the four rose trees, pocket-brushery, half-inch fountain-jet with its little basin and pair of gold-fish, and the summer-house which would almost admit two persons at once. The youth endured it all without report, until he was asked to admire an "avenue" of about five feet in length. Then the worm turned. "The grounds are certainly very handsome," he said, "but I think you might improve them considerably." "How so?" questioned the owner, divided between gratification and wounded pride. "Well, if I were you," suggested the young critic blandly, "I should take a strip off that flower-bed, turf it over, and convert it into golf links."

A Dangerous Disease

Owing to its tendency to spread to all parts of the system, Catarrh should be checked in its incipient stages.

Catarrh commences generally with a slight cold, and because slight, it is often neglected. But the seed that has been sown brings forth a dangerous harvest—perhaps it is the harvest of consumption, which is the harvest of death.

Better spend a few moments each day inhaling Catarrhozone, an aromatic, antiseptic remedy that is breathed in through the mouth and, after permeating all the respiratory organs, is slowly exhaled through the nostrils.

The immediate effect of Catarrhozone is magical—so prompt and efficient. Relief is instantaneous, throat and nose cleared in a few moments by the penetrating vapor from the Inhaler. Ferrozone, taken in conjunction with Catarrhozone, purifies the blood, cleanses it of all poisons, and builds up the system so that Catarrh cannot exist.

You are sure to receive lasting benefit from Catarrhozone if bothered by Catarrh in any part of the system. It is highly recommended for Bronchitis, Asthma, and Lung Trouble, and used for Coughs and Colds in the head it has no equal.

Remember that Catarrhozone is both a local and constitutional treatment, and is warranted under all circumstances to give satisfaction. Money refunded if it fails.

Two months' treatment, consisting of a beautiful polished hard rubber Inhaler and large bottle of liquid for recharging, costs but $1; trial size, 25c. Sold by all druggists and The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE WAY TO TREAT BI-LINGUALISM.

The United States does not tolerate any bi-lingual abominations where it holds sway, says our esteemed contemporary the Kingston Standard. Here, for instance, is the way they manage such matters in the Phillipine Islands, as we learn from the Rochester Post:

"Half a million Filipino children are being taught in the schools and some 100,000 are receiving instruction in the useful arts. Think what the effect of that body of educated Filipinos will have on the rest of the population. The English language is rapidly becoming the speech of the islands. English is more largely spoken to-day in the Philippines than ever Spanish was and it is more prevalent than any dialect of the native language."

No nonsense here about French, or German or Spanish or Yiddish. The children are made to toe the mark and learn English if they want to learn anything at all. That has been the policy of the United States both at home and abroad; and what has been the result? All the foreigners that have gone into that country, and they are far more numerous than those that have come into Canada, have learned English; and the second generation of these people has been an English speaking generation, loyal to the country of their adoption.

Contrast with this the course that has been adopted in Canada and see what a fatal blunder has been made wherever any other language than the English has been recognized. In Ontario, at all events, we must put an end to bi-lingualism and make of the people here an English speaking people. If that is done their loyalty both to Canada and Britain will be assured. Otherwise it never can be.

A COMFORTABLE ROAD.

Traveller in West Gives Unsolicited Praise to New Railway.

A world-wide traveller, having just returned from a visit to Western Canada, has written to one of the chief officials of the Grand Trunk System his unsolicited opinion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and how it serves the travelling public. He says:

"I had the pleasure of travelling from Edmonton to Winnipeg on the new line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and I would like to say that of the 7000 miles travelled on railways during my last journey the time I spent on the Grand Trunk Pacific was the most comfortable of my entire trip.

"The road-bed is evidently a fine piece of work, the cars clean, and comfortable, the men in charge were most polite and obliging, and any question asked of them was answered in a most gentlemanly manner.

"I would like to refer specially to the dining car service and its equipment, which is the best I have seen. It was in fact a revelation to me after having travelled so far on other roads—the meals being specially good combined with pleasant surroundings and beautifully served.

"I beg to say that if it gives you as much pleasure to read this letter as it gives me to write you, you will perhaps pardon liberty I have taken in addressing you."

This is but a specimen of the many letters that are being received by the Grand Trunk Pacific officials, praising the exceptionally fine road and service that is now being operated in Western Canada.

BORDEN AND HIS CABINET

By E. W. Heilwell

(Copyright by Publishers Press Limited, Montreal.)

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier resigned office in favour of Mr. R. L. Borden he left behind him a position that had been made great by the man, — the man who will go down to posterity as the greatest Prime Minister since Sir J. A. Macdonald; and whose shoes were not easy to fill and though Mr Borden had shown something of his calibre as a statesman, while in opposition, he had yet to show his worth as the first minister of the crown. And the earliest test was the forming of his government. How he has succeeded we know. The prime minister's difficulty was not Sir J. A.'s when a friend once complained about the weakness of the make up of one of his governments, "Give me," said Sir John, "better timber and I'll build a better cabinet." Rather it was the splendid quality and number of his followers — practically it was the process of elimination. Further, it is an unwritten law in the Dominion that every Province shall be represented as well as the two races and two great religions, so that while it would be possible to have chosen better individually, on the whole the cabinet chosen by Premier Borden to help him in the governing of this great country is worthy not only of the leader but of the people as well. In short it is a government of which Canada can be proud.

HON. C. J. DOHERTY, Minister of Justice.

In dealing with the personal of a government, most of the members of which are new to official life, the private characters and influence amongst their fellows will help considerably to judge the reasons of their inclusion in this really representative Cabinet of Canada. When the task of leading his Majesty's loyal opposition fell to Mr. R. L. Borden in 1901 the Conservative party was weak in numbers and there was jealousy within the ranks — and to make matters worse even his friends had little confidence in this quiet lawyer from Nova Scotia to ultimately lead his party to victory. The old regime knew the man. He knew his law practice which was considerable, and gradually gathered around him young men — each a born fighter and of irreproachable character both in public and private life — and instilled into them something of his zeal and honest determination to win. The work of overturning a strong government was great but Borden and his men held on and there is no doubt that their opposition last session to the Liberal government was a magnificent example of a fighting combination who had confidence in each other and their leader. Sir Wilfrid Laurier realized the strong position of the opposition and trusting to the country again returning him to power resigned. Again the Liberal premier was frustrated, Mr. Borden and his lieutenants had organized the party so well that even Sir Wilfrid had no chance in the elections. This quiet man from the province by the sea had surmounted obstacles that few would attempt. He had after ten years of splendid labor, work, that as it began to be known gained the encouragement and then the admiration not only of his friends but of his political foes — coms to his own.

HON. J. A. LOUGHEED,
Minister without portfolio

That Mr. Borden is determined to carry on the governing of this country himself — without the aid of busy bodies — was well exemplified in the forming of his cabinet. Sir Hugh Graham of Montreal "Star" fame evident thinking he had won the election with his paper tried to force one or two of his friends on to the Premier — but he failed.

Mr. Robert Laird Borden, who is the eighth Prime Minister of Canada since confederation was born fifty seven years ago in the hamlet of Grand Pré and after a short scholastic career as professor in Glenwood Institute was called to the Bar in 1878. As a lawyer Mr. Borden soon had a good practice and his popularity amongst his fellow-members of the Bar is evidenced in his retaining for ten years the presidency of the Nova Scotia Barristers

HON. GEORGE FOSTER

In asking the old war horse Hon. As a jurist and authority on constitutional questions the new Minister of Justice has few equals and his knowledge of men will do much to leaven the purely technical side of his great position. GEORGE H. PERLEY

In looking over the list of ministers none is more popular than George H. Perley whose wonderful powers of organization as chief whip did so much to bring victory to his party in the last election. When Mr. Perley — who is a wealthy man and head of the great lumber firm of G. H. Perley & Co. — went in for politics he determined to make parliament take a keener interest in the elimination of disease from our congested districts, and though he has not succeeded of Quebec has the honour of being the birthplace of Mr. Rogers the East can claim an additional representative to its list. If previous experience goes for anything Canada has in Mr. Rogers an ideal Minister of the Interior, for previous to his taking up political work, this strong man — he was a cabinet minister when he was but thirty-six years of age — had made a fortune out of general and grain dealing and mining. Mr. Rogers who bears a splendid reputation in the West, is a typical son of the soil, a man who calls a spade a spade, who hates cant and who loves a good fight. Mr. Borden cer-

"THE FORT GARRY" HOTEL, WINNIPEG.

Adjacent to the ruins of that historic monument "Old Fort Garry," memorable in the early history of Canada's new Western metropolis is being erected "The Fort Garry," truly representative of greater Winnipeg—a magnificent edifice—to rank with the world's finest hotels, embodying in its construction the most advanced, scientific and architectural ideals. Located in the very heart of the city, to which all lines of traffic converge, it is readily accessible to the railroads and electric car lines, and within a radius of a few blocks of most of the leading theatres, while one minute's walk will place one among the largest and most pretentious of the great stores in the centre of the shopping districts, or enable one to reach the great new terminal station of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"The Fort Garry" to be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific will be built of the finest of Canadian granite and buff lime stone, in the style of the old French Chateaux of Normandy and Touraine and will rear its stately heights to fourteen stories. The building is to have approximately three hundred and fifty sleeping chambers and will be richly furnished in faultless taste. All its bedrooms are to have private bathrooms and are to be equipped with every approved modern appointment. Nothing that would in any way contribute to the comfort and welfare of its guests has been overlooked in the preparation of the plans and interior arrangements.

The keynote of the "Fort Garry" as judged from the design and interior arrangements is to be "homelike comfort." From basement to roof top, every detail of construction and furnishing has been worked out in perfect accord with this idea, and would seem to assure the largest measure of personal enjoyment and restfulness to its guests—a place where comfort-loving people might enjoy life to the utmost and feel thoroughly at home.

The main entrance of the hotel faces on Winnipeg's most beautiful thoroughfare "Broadway" and opens upon a spacious and imposing rotunda, which will suggest in its decoration and refinement the cheer and comfort provided within its walls, and from beautiful design, unbroken by columns, lofty in heighth, and finely lighted by broad windows and circular domed ceiling.

The Mezzanine Gallery is also to be a novel feature of "The Fort Garry" and is obtained by the introduction of a storey midway between the office floor and the parlors. It is reached by a broad marble staircase from the main entrance lobby, and is to be finished and decorated in white and delicate shades of color. It overlooks the entrance lobby, dining room, cafe and tea room, and will be used as ladies' parlor, writing room and library. It commands a splendid view of those portions of the hotel where the most life occurs, and yet at the same time affords a quiet sense of retirement.

FARMERS BANK

"I don't think anyone could have put it more strongly than the Minister wrote when he said there must be no evasion, but the money must be put up properly—and there had been some evasion.

"They got the money on notes and a bogus list of subscribers. They put down some John Smith, paid $1,000, when John Smith had not paid it.

"It was one of the most fraudulent transactions that ever took place. Travers had given this bogus information and sworn to it, but by whose power? Who enabled him to do it? HELPED TRAVERS EVADE LAW.

"Then the $80,000 was not enough and Travers had to go back and say I want another $20,000. What for? To pay the Minister of Finance. It was not a question of once breaking law, but again they say we will help you evade the law."

Mr. Du Vernet took up the exhibit showing the loan of $100,095 made on October 10th and repayable November 27th, with 10 per cent. interest, and $1,000 bonus. He asked was it any ordinary kind of transaction? ACTS, NOT WORDS, COUNT.

"It's the acts that count, your Honor, not the words. If I wanted to be a conspirator I could be a conspirator without saying a word. All I need to do is the act."

Judge Winchester — "The whole question is whether it was legal to advance money on notes given to the bank?"

Mr. DuVernet—"I think I should go further, your Honor, and add 'that that money was to be used to be paid into the Finance Department in order to get the certificate.'"

"If a man does something the law says he should not do, it is for him to show there was no intent," argued Mr. Du Vernet.

"Have you any cases to show that the advancing of money on these notes was illegal?" asked the Judge.

Mr. DuVernet replied to the effect that he had searched for such precedent without success, but the Government said plainly, "we are not going to issue certificate unless the actual cash is paid up by the subscribers."

"Is that a regulation understood by the public?" asked the Judge.

Mr. Du Vernet replied that it was plain enough in the Act.

J. W. Copeland, of Dayton, Ohio, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for his boy who had a cold, and before the bottle was all used the boy's cold was gone. Is that not better than to pay a five dollar doctor's bill? For sale by all dealers.

rainly made no mistake in taking [illegible] into his cabinet.

F. D. MONK

Probably one of the strongest men [illegible] Cabinet is Hon. F. D. Monk, who represents our French [illegible] through no humour is half English. Elected first in 1896 this sturdy minded patriot has taken his parliamentary responsibilities so seriously that his practice — which was [illegible] had to suffer and only his sense of duty to his people held him on so that Mr. Monk entered the Cabinet a comparatively poor man. Truly a life of self sacrifice and a splendid encouragement to men of culture to serve their country. As Minister of Public Works Mr. Monk is the spending man of the Cabinet.

HON. LOUIS P. PELLETIER

In choosing the Hon L. P. Pelletier to take the Post-office Department the Premier picked one of the most brilliant men in French Canada. Even as he won gold medals in his scholastic career, he won provincial portfolios when he was still a young man and his brilliancy at the Quebec bar won for him a large law practice. This experience will stand Mr. Pelletier in good stead in his new duties.

HON. T. W. CROTHERS, Minister of Labor.

W. B. NANTEL

The second French Canadian in the Cabinet is Mr. W. B. Nantel who is the new minister of Inland Revenue. He comes into the Government with a good reputation.

A. E. KEMP AND SENATOR LOUGHEED.

Two of the ministers without portfolios, Mr. A. E. Kemp and Senator Lougheed, have worked hard in the past for the party and though at present their positions are of an advisory nature yet much is expected of them.

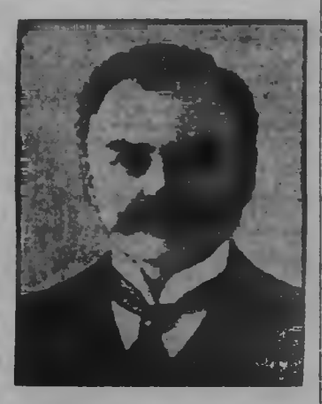
HON. A. E. KEMP, Minister without portfolio

T. W. CROTHERS

Mr. Crothers who served a good apprenticeship for his position as Minister of Labour when he acted as Chairman of the party, will make a good administrator as the legal knowledge and good judgment are known assets of this intellectual giant. When in opposition his acid speeches were more feared by his opponents than even Mr. Foster's; but underneath all his apparent brusqness Mr. Crothers has a warm heart as all his friends know.

HON. FRANCIS COCHRANE

Mr. Cochrane is one of Ontario's three representatives in the government and gave up the Provincial portfolio of Lands and Mines to enter Federal politics evidently knowing his opportunities, should the conservatives be returned. Mr. Cochrane is a man of strong common sense and holds in contempt anything smacking of the ward heeler. The [illegible] of Railways and Canals will suit Mr. Cochrane's abilities as a man of business.

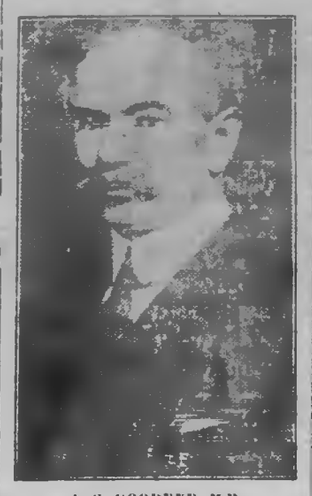


HON. J. D. HAZEN, Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

Murray and Park street hockey enthusiasts are requested to meet in the parlours of Park street Baptist church, this evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a Baptist hockey club.

HON. MARTIN BURRELL

For the second time in Canadian history an Englishman holds a cabinet position in Canada — the other being Sir Mackenzie Bowell, ex-Prime Minister. Mr. Martin Burrell is probably the best man that could be chosen for the portfolio of Agriculture. He is a practical farmer and a successful one at that. His particular branch is fruit growing but he knows all about every branch so that his experience combined with his splendid knowledge of public affairs and men will help Mr. Burrell in his propaganda of being the real representative of the farmer in the government.



A. S. GOODEVE, M.P. Who is slated for early promotion.

HON. SAM HUGHES

It is appropriate that the Militia Department should go to Col. Sam Hughes — though the Montreal Star wont like it — who during the long opposition kept his predecessor up to the scratch. It will be remembered that the Colonel also knows something of real war having served in South Africa. Being an old newspaper man Col. Sam will be the publicity agent of the Government.

HON. R. ROGERS, Minister of the Interior.

J. W. REID AND W. J. ROCHE

There are two medical men in the Cabinet, Dr. J. D. Reid of Prescott, who takes up the portfolio laid down by Wm. Patterson — Customs; and Dr. W. J. Roche, from Manitoba, whose position as Secretary of State is growing in importance.

HON. W. T. WHITE

The most difficult position in the Cabinet that Mr. Borden had to fill was that of Financial Minister. He had plenty of good material to pick from and in choosing Mr. W. T. White from Toronto he selected one of the best known financial men in Canada. His genius for organization has been in great demand by the public institutions of Ontario and now that the country has the command of his great talents many financial reforms will be made.

J. D. HAZEN

New Brunswick's loss in her Prime Minister is surely Canada's gain, for a harder fighter and more beloved man is not known in the Dominion. Mr. Hazen will have the delicate task as Minister of Marine and Fisheries of adjusting the naval policy of the new government. What that policy will be it is not for one to suggest, but that it will be in conformance with the Premier's promises to the electors we have every confidence.

Such in brief is the personnel of the government of Canada — a government with a clean slate, for Premier Borden has tied himself to no particular policy and no particular clique. His hands are free, he has a strong government backed up by a large party sent to Ottawa by the will of the people. That the premier will give a good account of his stewardship is the confident hope of Canadians — a stewardship that will make for the public and material prosperity of this fair dominion and its people.

Luxury is finding its way even to the Irish poorhouses. The Lisnaskea Guardians the other day decided to clothe five paupers in Irish tweeds and bury the dead ones in draped coffins.

CONSERVATIVES ARE ELECTED.

Two Bye-Elections in Nova Scotia Add to the Liberal Losses.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 16.—In the Provincial bye-elections yesterday, Marshall (Conservative) was elected in Digby by 465 majority, defeating Wall (Liberal). In Lunenburg, Zwicker (Conservative) was elected by about 100 majority over Duff (Liberal).

ON BERRY DIET FOR THREE DAYS

Undaunted by Three Days Bush Wandering, a Plucky Seventy Years Old Will Build a Home in the Wilds.

To be lost in the woods of Graham Island recently, without food or shelter for three days and two nights was the terrifying experience of Mr White, of Tow Hill, a seventy-year-old retired carriage-maker from Vancouver.

Mr. White, who has had a longing to spend his declining days by the seaside, went to Graham Island a few weeks ago to look for a small pre-emption for himself and wife. He found one on the north coast of the Island near Tow Hill, and is erecting a house and cultivating a small patch of the land there.

A few days ago he started out for a little walk inland, following a survey line. Before going far he lost the line, and though he walked to and fro all day he could not pick it up again. At night he built a fire and slept. Next day he set out again. Walking in a circle he only succeeded after a day's march in getting back to the remnant of his last night's fire. He was then without a match and had to sleep in the cold. Again next day and the succeeding night he walked about, vainly trying to find the way out. He could hear shots and shouts of the searchers, and the sound of the breakers on the shores, but could not find any path out.

At last on the third day he found the trail to Cape Fife, but mistaking the direction walked further into the bush, where fortunately he was picked up by a settler.

During the whole time Mr. White subsisted on wild berries and is little the worse for his adventure. Nothing daunted by his experience, he is still firmly decided to spend the remainder of his days with his wife on Graham Island.

When We Were Poor

"When we were poor," remarked the prosperous business man, "we looked forward to the time when we could have a summer home."

"Well?" asked his friend.

"Well, when we got rich enough to have one we didn't like going to the same place every summer, because it was monotonous, and we looked forward to the time when we could have another for variety."

"Yes."

"We got another, and then we began to long for a winter place, so that we shouldn't have to spend so much time in Toronto."

"I see."

"Well, we have them all now."

"And are you happy?"

"I suppose so. At least I suppose my wife is. She keeps them all shut up and spends most of her time travelling around but she knows she has them."

Survival of an Instinct

Memory handed down through thirty generations is one of the perplexing facts of science. The beaver flourished along French rivers until killed off for its fur, but is now known only in about a dozen of the villages on the Rhone near Avignon. For three centuries these villages have had no trees to cut down for dams. The animals were compelled to adopt a new mode of life, and have burrowed in the banks, shaping mud with their tails as usual. Recently some of them were taken by a Polish count to forest on his estate. Very strangely, they resumed the habits dropped three centuries before they were born, and at once began cutting trees and building dams.

To Cure Ear Defects

Because many school children cannot hear well and because this deficiency makes them appear stupid in their classes, Prof. McCallie, a Trenton, N. J., school principal, recently got busy to determine their defects by inventing an ear testing machine.

This has proved a great success and by its means children who formerly appeared stupid are enabled to have their ears treated and cured. The merit of the invention is that the ears are tested without the little subject suspecting it.

The machine consists of a metal box, containing a tiny bell. Stethoscope tubes reach the child's ears and a tiny hammer strikes the bell at varying degrees of sound. The test consists in learning at what strength the tinkle of the bell is audible. Pupils are tested at the rate of one a minute.

Could the Tree Talk

Bishop Seymour was very fond of trees, and one day while walking with a young woman he pointed out to her some of the fine trees of the neighborhood. She professed great interest and delight. She cried—

"How the noble aspects of beautiful trees stir up the keenest emotions of the soul."

Then, patting a great rough trunk, she went on—

"You superb oak, what would you say to me if you could talk?"

The bishop smiled.

"I believe I can be his interpreter," he murmured. "He would probably say, 'I beg your pardon, miss; I am a beech.'"

Origin of "Tip"

In English coffee-houses, in the olden time, a contribution box was placed against the wall, and it was customary for guests to drop in small donations for the waiters. Over the box were the words, "To Insure Promptness." From the initials comes the modern tip.

Weird Meals

There are many eccentric eaters in our midst, but not all of them allow their eccentricities to became known. At one of the most aristocratic clubs in London, (England), however, a certain duke may frequently be seen lunching on oatmeal porridge and treacle, while a well-known marquis insists upon gratifying his taste for raw cockles and mussels in vinegar; and one of the wealthiest noblemen in the land dines cheaply off a plate of soup and cold beef and pickles, except when he is entertaining a friend.

But these peculiarities fade into insignificance beside the habits of one English statesman, who will frequently eat five or six heavy courses at four o'clock in the morning, and then fast till the following evening, when he will dine in sumptuous style.

WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

C. A. MAGRATH

Mr. Magrath, who represented Medicine Hat in last parliament, notwithstanding his recent defeat, looked upon by his friends, and by the Conservative party in general, as one of the strong men in the public life of the times, and strong confidence is expressed that he will come to the front at quite an early time. He is a native of Eastern Ontario, the son of a brilliant Irish School master, with in his veins a dash of the blood of the bold Macgregors. Of extensive physique, powerful intellect, and strong will, he was in each respect prominent during his term at Ottawa.

C. A. MAGRATH
Late M.P. for Medicine Hat

RICHARD S. LAKE

By birth a native of the old land, Mr. Lake reached Canada when he was in his twenty third year, coming direct from Cyprus, where during a five years service in the British Admiralty Civil service, he had added in considerable measure to the learning imbibed in earlier days at Haversham school in Westmoreland.

Landing on this side Mr Lake lost no time in hitting the trail for the north west, his programme having for its ultimate the laying out of an up to date farm in that territory. In this his energy and methods brought their reward and today he is acknowledged as one of the front rank agriculturists of the West.

During 1898-1904 he represented Grenfell Constituency in the Legislative Assembly of the North West

RICHARD STUART LAKE
Farmer and Parliamentarian

Territories and in 1904 was sent to the House of Commons by the voters of Qu'Appelle. He is unmarried.

JAMES FORMAN SMELLIE
Lawyer and Athlete of Ottawa

Mr. Smellie, who was one of the hard workers of Ottawa in connection with the recent political campaign is a native of Glasgow, Scotland, where he was born on September 16th, 1869. But he came out to Canada when he was two years old, and now he is a Canadian of the Canadians.

Few who see in Mr Smellie the sedate and serious lawyer will find it easy to think of him as an athlete, yet it was as such that he first became known to the public. Not so many years ago the name of "Jimmy" Smellie was one to conjure with in the athletic world. As a football quarterback he has never been surpassed, and many prominent Ottawans still remember the time when they used to travel far to rugby matches to cheer for Smellie.

His first appearance in senior football was at Queen's, captaining the college team in 1889. Later he played with Osgoode Hall and Toronto City. He was captain of the Osgoode Hall team in 1893. Moving to Ottawa in 1894, he started to practice law in the city. Still he played rugby, and was captain of the Ottawa team in 1896.

Mr. Smellie is a son of Mr. W. B. Smellie, C.E., of Brockville, one of Canada's best known engineers, who was the C.P.R. consulting expert for the construction of much of their transcontinental line in 1880. When Mr. Smellie, senior, came to Canada he settled at Newcastle, N.B., where he engaged in construction work on the Intercolonial Railroad. Subsequently the family lived in Ottawa, Montreal and Brockville. Mr. Smellie Junior had his schooling in Ottawa, where he at one time attended the Collegiate Institute, and at Montreal, where he studied at Lincoln's College. He took his B.A degree at Queen's University, and then went to Osgoode Hall, graduating in 1893.

Lucky for the Peasant

To her resemblance to the German Empress a peasant woman owes her present good fortune. Not only is she the Empress's counterpart in form and feature, but she was married on the same day as her illustrious double, and the dates of birth and sex of the Imperial children are those of her own. This extraordinary sequence of coincidences was brought to the notice of the Emperor, who not only stood godfather to the poor woman's baby daughter, but promised to provide for the family's future.

Animal Love.

Mother love is universal, and there is no love like the mother love. Most of the high and lofty loving in this world is done by mothers. Apart from this the work of wooing falls to the male members of the family whether it be the human family or some one of the other animal tribes. We read how, ages ago, a Bulbul, or Oriental Nightingale, wooed a white rose until it blushed red, and that was the beginning of the red rose. The Spanish Cavalier stands out in the rain and serenades his "Dulce Mia" until there is a crick in his neck, while she sits sheltered in a window above.

The cackle of the loon may be a love song for all we know. Maybe that's what made him loony in the first place.

The wild moose bellows his passion across the lake, and as likely as not the answering call is from a bark horn in the hands of a hunter, luring him to death.

It seems a sizzling shame, but if you will take a Grand Trunk train and travel into the "Highlands of Ontario" you will find men doing that very thing: arguing, doubtless, that all is fair in love and war.

CORONATION,

ALBERTA

The Pacific Realty Co., Limited

154 Bay Street, Toronto, Phone Main 2435

has been authorized by the Land Department of the Candian a Pacific Railway to sell to the public CORONATION town lots.

Plan and map may be inspected at the office of The Pacific Realty Co., Limited, 154 Bay Street, Toronto, from 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p. m., except Saturday, when the office closes at 1.00 p.m.

Facts About Coronation

Coronation is the first divisional town east of Lacombe, and is splendidly situated about twenty miles east of Castor, in the centre of some of the finest farming districts of Western Canada. Its natural advantages, combined with important railway developments, assure to it a future of considerable importance. Engineers are now locating two branch lines north and northwesterly from Coronation, and a third line is projected southeasterly to connect with the branch running northwesterly from Swift Current.

CORONATION will be:

A divisional centre on the great new railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton.

An important junctional centre, as three branch lines are already projected.

A distributing centre for a large and wealthy district.

A purchasing centre for thousands of Western Canada's most prosperous farmers.

If you wish to go into business or make a safe and profitable investment you cannot do better than purchase lots at Coronation, which is bound to rapidly become one of the most important towns of the West.

Mexico Oil

The Mexican Oil Fields, will probably break all records in the production of oil. The largest oil wells in the world are now flowing in the Tampico field, and development is just fairly begun. We offer an exceptionally attractive investment in the stock of a conservative Company, just organized, which controls 3500 acres, in the midst of the big producing section of the field. We are certain we can convince any one of the merits of the enterprise, and we want you to

INVESTIGATE

It will only cost you two cents to secure maps, booklet, and full description of what we have to offer. The stock is being sold for the purpose of drilling the property. Oil is now being produced on all four sides of this property. We will give you every opportunity to investigate the proposition itself and the officers in charge of its affairs. WRITE US for full information.

Taking Stock.

Lindsay Warder: Mr. Frank Farren of Peterborough, is a guest at the Simpson House for a few days. The object of his visit is for the purpose of taking an inventory of the stock and equipment on board the government dredge and drill scow.

For The Young Men.

The services in the George street Methodist church on Sunday evening will be for the young men of Peterborough. The choruses, solos and sermon will be for the young men. Rev. Mr. Couch will have a message that will no doubt do them a vast amount of good.

SPEND A WEEK AT ALGONQUIN.

The popularity of the Algonquin National Park, Ontario, has been pronounced this year, and it has been necessary to use at least 25 large tents as an auxiliary to the accommodation of the Highland Inn, at Algonquin National Park Station.

Most people return to their homes in the early part of September, but as this is one of the most delightful months in this territory, those who can make it convenient are advised to spend a week or two there. The hotel is also open all the winter and with the bracing air of this locality (1700 ft. above the sea) a most delightful sojourn can be spent even in the winter months.

A handsome illustrated booklet may be had on this territory upon application to Mr. A. E. Duff, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

Real Estate, Mining and Industrial Investments

HOW $100 GREW TO $31620

The value and importance of any enterprise must be based on the profits and dividends it can earn. In this respect the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, is without a parallel in the line of investments.

It combines the attractive factors which are needed to make the perfect investment—viz., safety, large earning capacity and low cost of the stock at the start. It is not at all uncommon for oil stocks to begin at a few cents a share and jump to hundreds of dollars a share—sometimes thousands.

	Started at	Has Sold at
Central	10 cents	$2.10
Monte Cristo	10 cents	$4.00
Lucile	10 cents	$16.00
Silver Tip	25 cents	$4.00
San Francisco and McKittrick	40 cents	$28.00
Kern River	50 cents	$8.75
Peerless	50 cents	$8.75
Puente	$10.00	$150.00
Home	$10.00	$5000.00

This list, taken from San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchange records, could be added to almost indefinitely.

Fortunes have been made from stock increases. stock is $200, YOUR YEARLY PROFIT ON AN INVESTMENT OF $300.

When we have ten wells sunk you can reasonably figure on AN ANNUAL PROFIT ON YOUR HOLDINGS OF $2000.

$2000 A YEAR. DOESN'T THIS APPEAL

Many a case could be cited similar to that of Richard Ellis, clerk in a store in Los Angeles, whose investment of $100 became worth $31,620 in a short time. There are hundreds of such cases in Los Angeles alone.

$2000.00 Profit a Year

Do you realise that stock in the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, at the present price of 30 cents a share is not merely the opportunity of the year—IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

If you have $10, $50, $100 or $500 YOU SIMPLY CAN NOT AFFORD TO PASS IT UP.

If we develop only a 1000 barrel well of 26 gravity oil, this production alone will be sufficient to enable the corporation to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. and at the same time have sufficient capital to continue the drilling of wells.

1000 shares of stock at the present price of 30c costs only $300.

20 per cent. dividend on the par value of the TO YOU? Wouldn't you like to be coming up to this office every three months and getting your dividend cheque for $500?

Remember, too, that your stock holdings in Midway Maple Leaf, if you should want to sell them should be worth $18,000 or sixty times the amount of your original investment.

Consider These Facts

The Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company is working in proven gusher territory, the richest oil zone in the world, controlling 40 acres on one-eighth royalty, with the great advantage of the option to purchase at only $1250 per acre after oil is struck, and the ground must then be worth at least $5000 per acre. This means a clean profit of $150,000 over purchase price. It has been demonstrated completely by gushers on adjoining Standard and Honolulu ground, that this portion of the Midway field is not only the richest portion of the whole district, but that it produces the highest grade of oil found in the entire vicinity, and worth 50 per cent. more per barrel at the well.

$30 cash, or $6 down and $6 a month for four months, buys 100 shares.

$60 cash, or $12 down and $12 a month for four months, buys 200 shares.

$120 cash, or $24 down and $24 a month for four months, buys 400 shares.

$480 cash, or $96 down and $96 a month for four months, buys 1600 shares.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY IN VANCOUVER REALTY

Investors seeking an opportunity to secure large returns for their money will find an exceptional chance offered by Keith Park Land Co., Limited, of Vancouver, B. C. This company has placed on the market for immediate sale the choicest piece of property on the North Shore.

This tract known as Keith Park, D. L. 676, lies at the junction of the Pipe line Road, (owned by the city of Vancouver) and the Keith Road and is the Junction point for North side traffic.

The Second Narrows Bridge, which is to connect Vancouver and North Vancouver will be constructed so that Keith Park will be in the line of its northern end.

It is confidentially expected that a new town will be created at this point. Dominion, Provincial and Municipal subsidies to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars have already been secured for the bridge project and plans are now being drawn for the bridge. It is expected that actual workwill be started within the next ninety days.

Keith Park presents the best chance to buy ahead of the important municipal and government projects that are planned for the North Side. It will stand the most critical investigation.

Full information and maps supplied upon request. Lots range in price from $200 upwards. Terms one-quarter cash, balance in six equal quarterly payments.

TO SAFEGUARD THE SAILOR

Dangerous and Tedious Duties of the Lightshipmen Who Point Jack the Way Past the Rocks to Port in Safety.

Sailors say that there is a little cherub sitting up aloft in their rigging to keep and guard over Jack Tar. The real guardians of those who go down to the sea in ships are the brave fellows who man the lighthouses.

Ships passing outward to sea, or inward to port, are guided on their way at night by the beams flashed from these lighthouses, or warned to steer clear of the dangerous rock upon which the lighthouse stands. In fair weather and in foul the lighthouse casts over the sea its unspoken message of guidance, encouragement, and warning. It seems like some unfailing machine, and few people can realise that in that lonely watch-tower are men imprisoned, week after week, perhaps month after month. It is a man who lights the lamps and keeps them burning, but he is so removed from the everyday affairs of life that he is hardly ever included in the company of heroes to which he belongs.

Only men of exceptional character are chosen for these distant posts. They undergo a long training on land, in the management of the machinery which controls the lamps, and in all the routine of lighthouse duty; they are taught to cook, to sew, to keep house, for there are no women to cook and mend for them in the lighthouses. When they have had all this training, they are sent from place to place to the less lonely lighthouses, until they are finally qualified for the more isolated ones.

There may be more than three men in the big lighthouses, where there is machinery to manage for the production of gas or electricity, for the winding of clocks, the manipulation of the lamps, and so forth. There are never too many. Six or seven years ago the three men of the Flannan Lighthouse, in the Hebrides, Scotland, disappeared, and to this day we can only guess their end. For several nights the lamps were seen to be unlighted, but nobody could approach, owing to a storm.

When the storm passed away the light still failed to shine. Men went off in a boat, but not one of the lighthouse crew could be found nor have they ever been found. Two hundred feet distant from the lighthouse there is a recess, cut for the reception of lighthouse ropes and implements. It is supposed that the three men, seeing these latter in danger of being washed away by the storm, went down to make them secure, and were themselves swept to death.

Romans in Britain

The Roman galley found during the excavations in connection with the new County Hall for London was moved from Westminster Bridge to the new London museum at Kensington Place the other day. When the oaken beams were hoisted from the Thames mud a quantity of decayed bones was discovered. These included the rib of a man and other human remains, and also the jaw of a dog. Their condition was such that it was found necessary to enclose them in wire netting to prevent them falling to pieces.

The Down-Trodden.

A certain battalion — the Terrors" — possessed but a very small band. The commanding officer's feet — he was a burly farmer — were — well, very large. One day the battalion was to march out, but the music was not forthcoming.

"Where on earth is the band?" queried the adjutant.

For some time there was no reply; but when the question was repeated, a gruff voice was heard from the rear rank:—

"I do believe, sir, the colonel trod on it by accident."

WANTED BACK THE PRESENTS

Thrifty Young Man of Massachusetts Makes a Legal Effort to Recover the Price of Presents Made to a Sweetheart.

New Bedford, Mass., seems to have the unenviable distinction of owning the meanest man who has come into the light of publicity in recent times. He is a well-to-do-young man, and he can now claim to be prominent as well.

For three years he "paid considerable attention" to a young school teacher. He waited too long before attempting to clinch matters, for before he got around to talk matrimony a rival had appeared, and his offer was refused.

Although unfortunate in love, he was thrifty, for he demanded the return of the presents he had made. "This" says the teacher, "I was only too glad to do, giving him back a ring a bracelet, a neck-chain and several other articles. I thought that ended the affair."

It did not, for the thrifty young man found that he was still out on presents exactly $29.16, and in order to recover that amount he instituted legal proceedings and had the teacher's salary attached.

The man who can calculate the value of presents to a sweet-heart down to sixteen cents has a soul of about that size.

Sifting Out the Manchus

The Chinese rebels, who are the "original" Chinese, have resorted to an ancient Israelitish trick to sift out the real Chinese from the doomed Manchus.

Instead of saying to the suspect "Say now Shibboleth," as the Gileadites said to the Ephraimites, they say to them, "Say liushiliu," the Chinese word for "six." And if the suspect doesn't pronounce it right according to ancient Chinese fashion, he gets it in the neck, literally, as the Ephraimites got it who said "Sibboleth" instead of "Shibboleth."

The test imposed by the Chinese insurgents is a numerical one. The suspect is told to count. When he passes six his fate is sealed.

If the suspect says "Lo-ow" he is spared. If he says "Lo-Kee-Haw", as the Manchus do, it's all day with him. "Then they took him and slew him."

TOMMY DID PREFER SAUSAGE

French War Office Is So Particularly Straight that even Piglets in Streaks Must Be Less than Six Months Old.

The ways of the French red tape expert are many and delightful. Here is a French War Office story for which an authority vouches. A maker of tinned goods who dealt largely with the French War Office had invented a novelty. He had found a means of putting sausages into the boxes which preserved them absolutely. Dumanet, like Tommy Atkins, has a great love for the succulent sausage, and the action of preserving them was good.

But the French War Office has a rule with regard to preserves. They have to be left at the Rue St. Dominique for six months to see if they will really keep before any contract is given. M. X. left his box of sausages and went away happy. He was away for a year. At the end of this time he called at the War Office so that the sausages should be opened in his presence. He was told that it was no use opening them; he would not get a contract. 'Why not?' he asked. 'They have been here a year,' he was told, 'instead of six months. Our orders are to open after six months and see whether the goods are in a proper state of preservation.'

And although M. X. explained that a year held just twice six months, and that if the sausages were still sausages it would be proof positive that they were well tinned, red tape, as usual, held its own. He was obliged to take his sausages away, to bring back two boxes of others, and he will have to wait six months before he gets his contract. And poor Dumanet will have to wait for his sausages.

WHERE THEORIES SUFFER

The only justification America has yet had comes direct from the satisfaction of the individual American. His satisfaction, however, is both unmistakable and voluble, says a writer critic. He is content, though the competition becomes daily more severe and evident. He is beginning to realise now that many are handicapped at the very outset, that the struggle is prolonged by the stronger for the sheer joy of conquest, and even that a good third of the energy expended is consumed in piling up success on the top of victory. Yet a cheerful acceptance of the situation is the price of his individuality, his optimism, and his chance of winning out, and he pays it ungrudgingly. There is a greater measure of content and less of a sense of environmental injustice in America than anywhere else in the world today. And the principles of conduct and social relationships, though elemental, are like the rules of a game, there is an immediate appeal to public censure or approval, and little discrepancy between theory and practice.

Naturally our theories suffer when compared with idealistic and more divorced codes. Where every man is supposed to consider his own interests, no social blame is imputed, and no one, except for initial handicaps, has an excuse. That is not, on the whole, an unenviable state of affairs: the American temperament only approximates it. As an instinctive theory, this is what it believes in. Yet with every man theoretically for himself, public spiritedness prevails to a marked and unusual degree. For every man drives a frank bargain with the community; there is a competitive and open market for altruistic wares. Consider for a moment that phenomenon of our civilisation, the millionaire philanthropist. Is he an enigma, this person who has seemed to change character and tactics under our very eyes? By no means; if Americans worship money, they worship it as power, as cornered energy and act in an intrinsic and miserly way.

Horses Leg Swelled

Animal Was Too Sore and Lame to Work—Quickly Cured by Nerviline.

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P. O. I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fore leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff, sore and swollen. I applied Nerviline and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

NERVILINE IS A TRUSTY LINIMENT

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment."

We have received nearly five thousand letters recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an all-round cure for aches and pains. One million bottles used each year. Try it yourself. Large size bottle 50c, or sample size 25c. All dealers or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingpany, Kingston, Ont.

Dr. Alex. Bell, formerly of Apsley, has taken up his residence at Ogdensburg, N.Y., for the present having been joined by Mrs. Bell, who arrived from a visit to the Pacific coast a few days ago. In a letter to The Times Dr. Bell wishes to be remembered to his many friends in Apsley and Peterborough. He and Mrs. Bell are happily enjoying the best of health.

Fined Fifty Dollars.

At the police court yesterday morning Magistrate Dumble imposed a fine upon a local automobile owner, for violation of the law governing auto driving, in permitting his 16-year-old son to drive his automobile on the public highway. His Worship did not doubt the lad's ability to control the car, but felt incumbent upon him to enforce the act. The fine was paid.

Transferred to New York.

Mr. J. Hague Sawyers, savings teller in the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, has been transferred to the bank's offices at Pine street, New York. He leaves this morning for the big metropolis. His position will be filled by Mr. Marrotte. Mr. Sawers was a valued member of St. John's church, where he will be much missed.

Two Feet of Snow.

While on a trip to the North Country in the interests of the Storey livery, Mr. Roy Cavanaugh set out in a buggy to drive to a lumber camp. He got as far as Bancroft. But was prevented from proceeding on his way by the snow which was two feet deep in places and afforded splendid sleighing.

Is He the Hugger?

The West City young ladies, who have complained of having been recently molested by a suspicious character on the public streets, are invited to visit the police department in the hope of their identifying as their assailant an alleged insane man who is held in custody by the police. The man gives his name as Pete Johnston, and offers an unprepossessing appearance.

NOTHING LIKE THEM FOR A SORE BACK

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS STILL DOING GREAT WORK.

Mrs. T. G. Alexander, of Hawthorne, after twelve years' suffering, tells the public what they are doing for her.

Hawthorne, Ont., Nov. 17—(Special)—"There is nothing like Dodd's Kidney Pills for a sore back." That is the statement of Mrs. T. G. Alexander of this place, and all her neighbors agree that she should know. "I suffered for twelve years from a pain in my back, Rheumatism and Heart Disease." Mrs. Alexander continues. "I was always tired and nervous and my sleep was broken and unrefreshing. Since taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I am feeling so much better that I feel I must say a good word for them."

No matter how long you have suffered Dodd's Kidney Pills cannot fail to help you if your trouble is of the Kidneys. If you use Dodd's Kidney Pills early the cure will be quick. If your trouble is of long standing it will take them longer to cure you. But they always cure. People from all parts of Canada who have been cured are telling about it in the newspapers almost every day.

USHERS ENTERTAINED.

The twelve ushers of the George street Methodist church were delightfully entertained last night, to a banquet the refreshments being provided by the cadets of the congregation.

An Instantaneous Wrinkle Remover

(From Eastern Styles)

The average woman is always surprised to learn, after experimenting with all sorts of patent so-called "wrinkle removers," that the most effective remedy in the world is a simple face wash which she can make herself at home in a jiffy.

She has only to get an ounce of pure powdered saxolite from her near est druggist and dissolve it in half a pint of witch hazel. Apply this refreshing solution to the face every day. The result is charming—marvellous. Even after the very first treatment the wrinkles show less plainly and the face has a nice, firm, comfortable feeling that is thoroughly delightful and lends self-confidence in one's appearance. This harmless home remedy is used by thousands of women to obliterate the unwelcome traces of time.

WIFE IS AFRAID OF HUSBAND.

The Italian Wife Beater is Again Remanded Until Thursday.

Antonio Mascarrion was arraigned the second time yesterday in the police court to answer to the charge of ill-treating his wife. The accused is an Italian and Mr. Thomas Minicolo acted as interpreter. Mascarrion's wife was present to give evidence and her face was badly bruised and discolored as the consequence of ill-treatment on the part of her husband. The complainant asserted that her husband had on more than one occasion abused her.

"He has always whipped me," she added. "One day recently he lifted a chair against me, but was prevented from striking by two of the boarders."

"Does she want to be separated from him?" asked His Worship, through the interpreter.

"Yes," was the answer, "because he has no affection for me, and I am afraid he will kill me."

But the prisoner contended vigorously that he was not desirous of a separation and promised to cut out the kicking and fighting treatment of his wife.

Magistrate Dumble replied that he was not going to be permitted a continuance of such a luxury.

The prisoner was remanded for a second time until Nov. 23rd.

Mascarrion is the man whose child died the very day he was sent to jail under remand, under the foregoing charge. Out of a family of seven, this couple have but one living little one.

You Need A Tonic

Mr. Business or Professional Man!

Excessive and constant mental occupation, protracted anxiety or care, continual work in the stuffy atmosphere of the office, causes rapid loss of nervous power, mental gloom and depression. YOU need a tonic and the very best preparation to be had on this market is

WILSONS INVALIDS PORT

(A la Quina du Pérou)

It will promptly relieve prostration, nervousness and debility, renew energy, vigour and activity—it is the first and simplest preparation to tone up the entire system.

In sickness or health, in business or pleasure, in prosperity or adversity, the benefit of Wilson's Invalids' Port is beyond comprehension, until you have actually experienced the glowing invigoration it generates.

Dr. J. DUNFIELD, Petrolia, Ont., says:

"I have used "Wilson's Invalids' Port" and have pleasure in recommending it as a tonic of rare quality for debilitated patients. It gives tone to the stomach by increasing the appetite and very greatly assisting digestion. I believe that it would alone cure many cases of "run-down" constitutions unaided by any other medicine."

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

GENTLEMEN,—

As the unanimously nominated candidate of the Liberals of this Riding, it is incumbent upon me to suggest some of the considerations and features of policy I favor, in order to justify me in soliciting your support. I therefore submit to you some of the main planks of the Liberal Platform and my own, upon which I stand and if as a result of your support, I am elected, I shall use my best endeavors to have them given effect.

WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION ACT.

The Workman's Compensation Act should be radically remodelled, embodying the best features of the English and German Acts, and extended so that full and ample damages may be given to a workman or his family on account of any injury he may sustain in the course of his employment, and without a law suit.

Moreover, the Workman or his family, under such a law should not be called upon to fight an expensive law suit in the courts with a wealthy corporation and be dragged from one Court of Appeal to another with the evident advantage in the long run to the longest purse, or else be compelled to accept a mere pittance for the injury he has sustained.

THE FACTORY'S ACT.

In order to prevent accidents to workmen, provision should be made for a more frequent inspection, by competent inspectors, whose duty should be to see that dangerous machinery and places are properly guarded, fire escapes furnished, sanitary and ventilation facilities improved, and every step taken to protect and preserve the life, limbs and health of employees.

Many accidents happen to employees due to working them too long hours. The employer should be made liable for this increased risk. He should either be forced to give shorter hours to his employees or else be compelled to assume the increased risk which follows in consequence of an employee being over tired and over-worked.

EDUCATION.

A more progressive and adequate Educational policy is urgently needed. More liberal grants should be given in aid of primary education, in the promotion of industrial training and technical schools in urban and rural communities; and in the establishment of night schools for the benefit of those who have been forced to leave school at an early age to earn their own living. Model schools should be restored with a view of increasing the supply and efficiency of teachers.

Two great general principles should underlie our Educational system in this English-speaking Province, which forms such an important part of this English-speaking continent, namely:—

(a) Every child in the Province should have a thorough elementary Education.

(b) Every child should have a thorough knowledge of the English language.

To attain this end, necessary laws and regulations should be passed and enforced and liberal aid should be given to provide further adequate training schools and a sufficient supply of competent and qualified teachers for every School Section in every part of the Province.

Were this done tens of thousands of our fellow citizens would not be as they are now, deprived of the opportunity of acquiring any knowledge of the English language.

AGRICULTURE.

The rural population of Ontario is declining in this Province, which contains the richest and best farm lands on this continent. This state of affairs can be reversed by bringing about the active immigration into this Province of suitable people for settlement and employment upon our farm lands; by the building of good roads throughout Ontario and thereby facilitating traffic and insuring quick delivery of farm and garden produce; by increasing the rural telephone service; by the location of a demonstrator in every rural riding and by the establishment of suitable demonstration farms in each Riding and by showing to the farmers through such demonstration farms the results of successful experiments in every branch of agriculture.

A government with an earnest desire to do something to develop the agricultural possibilities of this splendid farming region would do something to facilitate its settlement which is now handicapped from lack of roads to give new settlers access to or egress from their premises. Without roads or the sympathetic attitude of a government the settler in new Ontario is greatly handicapped, and the settlement of the country is correspondingly retarded.

TAXATION.

The Assessment Act should be amended so as to permit a Municipality, if it so desires, to exempt improvements from taxation, either in whole, or in part and to provide for the removal of the existing inequalities of taxation.

NEW ONTARIO.

New Ontario should be developed and settled and its Railway facilities utilized and the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway should be made to do service as a colonization road and should be extended to the Hudson Bay and branches should be built as the development of the country demands.

AID TO CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

The alarming prevalence of Tuberculosis calls for the aid of the Provincial Government, which it is not now receiving, and is rudely denied, to assist in the provision of facilities for curative or palliative treatment for those whose means prevent this. To this end I would favor amendment of the Succession Duties Act so as to impose an additional percentage of taxation on the estates of very wealthy men, say $250,000.00 and over, to provide a fund to be devoted to the maintenance of Tuberculosis Sanitaria and the aid of the work of the Children's Aid Society.

PROVINCIAL AID TO RADIAL RAILWAYS.

Peterborough is particularly well located for the establishment of a system of Radial Railways in this District owing to the large number of water powers that would furnish cheap operation. These Railways would provide the City with more of the necessaries of life at a cheaper rate; would furnish cheaper and better accommodation to farmers in bringing their produce to market; and attract tourists to our summer resorts. Aid should be given to attain this end, with a percentage of profits to be returned to the Province after they are in operation earning reasonable dividends.

In addition to what I have above recited I shall feel it my duty to support any measure to meet the legitimate demands of a progressive people. If you think that I shall be able to give you valuable and effective, as it shall be my aim to give you faithful service, I respectfully ask your vote and support.

As it will be impossible for me to personally call upon all the Electors I trust that this means of communicating my position will meet with your approval and secure the favor of your vote and support.

Yours Respectfully,

R. R. HALL

ANSWERS BY J. W. BROWETT, OPTOMETRIST

Q. Why do school children with good sight, require Glasses?

A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength; the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.

Q. Why do children squint?

A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain; this is nature's way. Study-glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squinting.

VOL XXXIV NO 260 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 20 1911 PRICE TWO CENTS

TERRIBLY SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. ROBT. H. LEARY

The announcement of the death of Mr. Robert H. Leary, which took place about 10 o'clock on Saturday night, at his late residence, 182 Macdonnell street, will come with a great shock to his many friends in this city and neighborhood. Mr. Leary appeared to be in perfect health on Saturday, attending to his business as usual. Returning from down town about 9.30 p.m., he found the family had retired for the night. Going to Mrs. Leary's bedroom, he remarked: "You have gone to bed early to-night, and I will go down and have a smoke." He then enquired for the daily papers, and proceeded down stairs. About half an hour later, one of the inmates of the house heard a moan, and becoming alarmed, she awakened Mrs. Leary, who proceeded down stairs and was horrified to find her husband cold in death.

The late Mr. Leary was 50 years of age, and leaves a wife and one grown up daughter to mourn his demise. The family will have the sympathy of the entire community in the sudden and sad bereavement.

The late Mr. Leary was a son of the late Mr. Christopher Leary, a highly esteemed pioneer of South Monaghan, who also resided for about twenty years in Haliburton and only passed away a few years ago at an advanced age. The late Mr. Leary was educated in this city, where he at one time successfully conducted a livery business at the stand now occupied by Mr. R. Gibbs, on Water street. He had enjoyed public confidence as an alderman for two years, during which term he made an exceedingly capable and efficient civic legislator, and his voluntary retirement was generally regretted. Up to a year ago he held a lieutenant's commission in the 24th Field Battery and his services were highly acceptable in military quarters. But his greatest public work is conceded to have been in connection with the Peterborough Agricultural Society of which he was president up to the hour of his untimely death. When assuming the presidency of this society several years ago, it was all but defunct, and owing in no small measure to the hearty application of the late Mr. Leary's energetic characteristics, out of chaos there was evolved a live agricultural society, rapidly forging ahead into the front ranks of similar organizations.

The deceased was a Liberal in politics, actively associated with the West Peterborough Liberal Association. In religion, he was an Anglican, being a consistent member of St. Luke's church, East City.

The funeral will take place to-morrow, (Tuesday) afternoon, at 2.30 p.m.

PREMIER ORDERS ARMY TO REPRESS THE REBELLION

London, Nov. 18.—The Times' Pekin correspondent says Yuan Shi Kai has appointed General Tsin Chi Jui commander of the second army, as acting viceroy of the provinces of Hu-Nan and Hu-Peh, and ordered him to proceed to Hankow with a mixed division, to suppress the rebellion. The correspondent adds that Yuan Shi Kai hopes by this move to coerce the rebels into accepting one of the compromise under which the Manchu dynasty may be retained.

GREAT BATTLE IMPENDING.

Shanghai, Nov. 18.—It was expected here this morning that the revolutionists and the Imperial troops would come to a clash before nightfall somewhere in the district between Chin Kiang and Nanking. If revolutionary forecasts are correct, this will be the beginning of the decisive battle of the war.

The revolutionary strategists have manned their planned their attack carefully. During the past three days a large body of rebel troops with guns, provisions ammunition and horses have been despatched, from Shanghai for Chin Kiang by rail. Thence they are advancing to-day on Nanking 15 miles distant. Simultaneously other bodies of troops are converging on the Imperial outposts via the Yangtse river, and a small tributary stream from the interior, with the object of delivering attacks from three sides.

END OF TRIAL NOW IN SIGHT

The Result of the Camorra Effort Not Yet Foreseen

Government in Earnest in Trying to Bring It to Justice—Intense Interest Awakened Over Trial Throughout the World.

Rome, Nov. 19. The sensational opening of the Camorra trial and the length of the as yet unfinished proceedings have aroused in the public a sense of the interest and the importance attaching to the subject of secret organizations in southern Italy.

Different from the Mafia, which refers to a mode of life rather than to an organization, the Camorra is a secret society, deriving its ritual from Spain, and having taken its rules direct from those of an association of thieves which flourished at Toledo in the Fifteenth Century. It was imported into Naples at the time of the Spanish occupation, and has flourished since then as a smuggling, blackmailing organization. The mystery as to how it has been able to achieve its present strength is partly explained by the fact that in 1860 several of its members were enrolled in the police force, and in this connection it is significant to notice that the arrests in the case of the present trial were made not by the police, but by Captain Fabronni, a captain of the "gendarmerie," who came to Naples with a well established reputation won in Sicily.

Belong to Lower Classes.

The members of the Camorra for the most part belong to the lower middle class. Large numbers of them keep grain and harness shops, and levy a regular blackmail off the coachmen in Naples. Their connection with politicians and others in positions of considerable importance secured them immunity, as was shown by the fact that Captain Fabronni was hampered in his investigations by the police. The protection afforded to the gang was so barefaced that shortly after Captain Fabronni's arrival several lawyers, themselves members of the Camorra, started a paper in which they made repeated attacks upon him and upon the methods he employed. The openness of their procedure is, indeed, one of the most remarkable facts about the organization. It was shown strikingly by the act that led to the whole inquiry. A certain Cuocolo, a barrista, or one of those who plan robberies for the others to execute, began giving information about some of his fellows, and at a meeting of the gang, at which the present head, Ringuil, presided, that he and his wife must be put to death. To celebrate the occasion they held a banquet, and it was while they were holding this that the news was brought to them that the double murder had been successfully accomplished.

Levy Blackmail and Death.

The strength of their organization is shown in many ways. Those of their members who are in prison levy blackmail on the other prisoners, and death is the price of refusal to submit to their demands. Robbery and crime generally are kept strictly to members of the gang and the outsider who encroaches upon what they regard as their preserves is very soon put out of the way. A crime of violence is demanded as the price of admission, and it is this that is the cause of many senseless, objectless murders for which Naples is notorious. At times, too, they congregate for collective duels; the captains of two parties start quarrelling, then followers support their several principals, and a number are usually killed. Another result of the disregard they show for society is the annual pilgrimage they make to Monte Vergine, a place about four days' journey from Naples. They travel in specially decorated with banners and bells, and no one interferes with them though their identity is well known.

Issue of Trial in Doubt.

The issue of the present trial is still doubtful. The accused were five years in prison before the case ever came into court, and it is very doubtful after all this time whether it will be possible to get sufficient evidence for a conviction. But the Camorra is an institution from which Italy must be purged, and the present trial is encouraging as showing that the government, which directly intervened to support Captain Fabronni, has evidently realized that it is time to take effective steps to suppress what really amounts to a petty state that thinks nothing of setting the government at defiance to gain its violent ends.

GERMAN WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC

Hundreds of German Children are Sold Every Year

STARTLING REVELATIONS

Little Ones Are Sent to All Parts of Continent—Effort Will be Made to Put a Stop to It.

Berlin, Nov. 19.—A sensation has been caused in Berlin by the publication of a book entitled "Little White Slaves," written by a former female police assistant, Sister Henriette Arendt, in which the writer alleges that every year hundreds of German children are sold into slavery.

Sister Arendt bases her assertions on her professional experiences, and declares the authorities, as well as the private children protection societies, either intentionally or unintentionally disregard a state of things of which they cannot possibly be ignorant. She directs her chief accusations against the adoption homes and private maternity hospitals, and declares that every year these concerns, for a stipulated fee, get rid of large numbers of unhappy little mites, who even before their birth have become obnoxious to their parents.

The book gives one definite instance after another of cases of which the writer has personal knowledge. One of these adoption homes, in reply to a "catch" letter of inquiry, stated that it was able to send from Germany to France, Belgium, Holland or Switzerland 3,000 "discreet" children monthly. This statement, says the writer of the book, is probably exaggerated for the sake of advertisement but in any case it is an admission that the concern in question is prepared to negotiate the procuring of children.

What Prices They Bring.

A female "employment agent" in Berlin, says the writer, told her in the presence of witnesses that she sent children abroad at prices ranging from $75 to $2,500, a particularly large number going to Russia. Neither the police, the municipal guardians nor the children rescue societies ever created any trouble. Only a few weeks ago a child had been sent to a Russian "baron" for $2,500, but in this case the child came of good stock, from aristocratic parents, and was well worth the price paid for it. The average buying price for a child of working-class parents in Berlin is said to be $75, while for children of better-class people more money is paid, ranging up to $1,250 and $2,500 for children of noble birth.

The publication of the book has created so great a scandal that the police authorities have been obliged by the pressure of public opinion to open a thorough investigation into the alleged trading in children, and are making exhaustive inquiries into each single case mentioned in Sister Arendt's book.

SUBMARINE FLEET URGED ON GERMANY BY EXPERT

In War With Great Britain They Would be More Valuable Than Dreadnaughts

Berlin, Nov. 19.—Colonel Gadke, one of the foremost publicists on matters military and tactical, publishes an article in the "Berliner Tageblatt," under the title "Submarines to the Front," in which he advocates the building by Germany of a great fleet of submarines. His argument is, that in a naval war between Great Britain and Germany the operations would be confined to the limited area of the North Sea, in which case submarines would play a more important part even than the giant Dreadnoughts. He says:

"It is now impossible to imagine a naval war in which submarines would not play an important role. Immediately upon mobilization each party, except in cases where their coasts lay too far apart, would send its submarines to watch the entrance of the enemy's harbors and prevent the departure of his big battleships. Submarines would be used for coast defence, to patrol harbor entrances and river mouths, and to blockade narrow waterways. Finally, working in conjunction with battleships, submarines would be one of the principal weapons of offence upon the high seas.

"Against the submarine the large battleships, in spite of its heavy defence armor, mighty armament and high speed, is in a very poor position. It is hardly able to see its enemy, whose small periscope is visible only intermittently above the water, and when it does discover a periscope its only chance is to run, and even this means of escape would often fail in case of a simultaneous attack from two or three submarines coming from different quarters."

SEPARATE SCHOOLS IN MANITOBA

Winnipeg, Nov. 17. — Archbishop Langevin, of St. Boniface, was reported in the Eastern papers as having declared in a sermon which he preached at St. Constant in Laprairie county, across the river from Montreal, on the Sunday before last, that "the Manitoba school question had never been settled," and that "if he could get the necessary permission, he would make a tour of the Province of Quebec to arouse public opinion upon the subject."

Archbishop Langevin was reported as having said further in the same sermon that it was his desire to open a campaign in Quebec, and to have petitions to Parliament signed at every church door, "demanding that the extensions of Manitoba should be made the occasion for giving the French and Catholic minority of that Province their rights in regard to schools and the use of their language."

MRS. HERBERT'S MARRIAGE VALID IN EYES OF CIVIL LAWS OF CANADA

HUSBAND WHO GOT MARRIAGE ANNULLED SAYS HE HASN'T THE FUNDS.

But Lawyer, Who Thinks Man Has a Good Case, Hopes for Financial Backing—Wife May Get Rights.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 18.—Questions involving the legality of the marriage laws of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada—whether or not the Catholic Church can step in and interfere in matters pertaining to marriage, and whether the ne temere decree is valid for Canada or not—may now not be settled. It is likely that the famous Hebert marriage annulment case, in which it was expected these points would be finally decided, and on the result of which the whole of the Dominion was interested, may drop out of sight altogether. Late yesterday afternoon Mr. L. P. Lefebvre, counsel for Mr. Hebert, filed a discontinuance of the suit.

The present hearing of the case is on a motion for a rehearing of the case made on behalf of Mrs. Hebert by her attorney, Mr. Geo. Cousins. The case was formerly decided in favor of the husband, and the marriage was declared null and void. The application for rehearing was made on the ground that Mrs. Hebert was prevented from defending the first suit by intimidation, she alleging that Hebert threatened to take her child away from her if she entered opposition.

MAY GET BACKING.

The result of Hebert's discontinuance of the case appears, on the face of it, to mean that he gives in absolutely. There will be no rehearing and conditions will be as they were before the first suit was entered. The marriage will be legal, so far as the courts are concerned, Hebert's discontinuance nullifying the original judgment, though the Roman Catholic Church will hold that she is not married and the point in dispute will remain unsettled.

It is expected however, that some one will be found by the attorneys for the husband when motion for discontinuance comes up to-day in view of Mr. Justice Charbonneau having remarked that the case being a difficult one to decide and the necessity for adjudication by the Privy Council.

Speaking of the matter last night Mr. Lefebvre pointed out that his client, being simply a railway engineer, did not have sufficient resources to bear the expenses incurred in the litigation proceedings.

When you have a bad cold you want the best medicine obtainable so as to cure it with as little delay as possible. Here is a druggist's opinion: "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for fifteen years," says Enos Lollar of Saratoga, Ind., "and consider it the best on the market." For sale by all dealers.

LIGHTS WENT OUT WHEN MURDERER WAS SENTENCED

London, Nov. 17.—A trial for murder of the Stroud assizes ended under dramatic circumstances last night. Just as the jury was about to pronounce the verdict of guilty the electric light in the court room suddenly went out and the whole building was plunged into darkness.

After a long and painful silence candles were procured by court attendants. Two lights were placed on the Judge's desk and one was held in front of the prisoner, who stood erect in the dock waiting to hear his fate. Other candles were put on the jury box and the barrister's table, and in this dim light the jury formally delivered the verdict.

The prisoner, who was accused of murdering his sweetheart was then sentenced to death.

OBITUARY

A sad death occurred last evening when Harold, the 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton, of No. 5 Hunter street, East, passed away from anaemia. The deceased was a clever boy and was beloved by all. A noble and upright, and had a promising future. He was a member of George street Methodist church and Sunday School.

He leaves to mourn his loss besides his sorrowing parents, one sister.

The funeral announcement will appear in to-morrow's issue.

MILITARY BANDS MAY WEAR UNIFORMS AND PLAY FOR MONEY

COL. HUGHES DECIDES THAT THEY CAN PARADE FOR ANY OLD BODY.

Even for Orangemen—Or on St. Patrick's or Jean Baptiste Days—Must Carry Flag.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—That military bands in uniform may play in any parade where they can make an honest dollar, provided they carry the British flag, is the opinion expressed this morning by Col. Sam. Hughes, Minister of Militia.

The statement was made during a discussion on bands at the military conference which is being held with the leading officers of the various arms of the service, from all parts of Canada. In the past, in Ottawa, as in other cities, there has been a great deal of criticism as to the military bands in uniform marching in national, religious, and political parades, and it was contrary to regulations.

The Minister of Militia, however, has come out flatfooted with the statement that regimental bands, in uniform, according to his views, may march in parades on the twelfth of July, St. Jean Baptiste Day, St. Patrick's Day, or any other day in which they can make an honest dollar, provided the British flag is carried at their head.

THE WEATHER.

Generally fair and cold.

SERMON TO YOUNG MEN AT GEORGE ST. CHURCH

Last night the George street church was filled to overflowing, the occasion being the address of Rev. Mr. Couch to young men. The sermon was one of the best, we believe, that was ever delivered on this subject, the points all being well brought out and delivered with force and eloquence. The music was also afeature of the service. Mr. Renwick, the talented choir leader and organist having taken considerable trouble in its preparation. The Rev. Mr. Couch pastor of the church, took his text from Zack 2-4: "Run, Speak to this young man."

This young man was the prophet Zechariah, who in early life had his lips touched with a live coal from off the altar, and on whom in youth, the spirit of prophecy descended. He lived when the captivity was drawing near its close, and the burden of his eloquence was to encourage the Jews to rebuild Jerusalem and the temple. In the preceding verses he is represented as holding conversation with an angel, and while thus engaged; he saw another angel in the form of a man, with a measuring line in his hand, and who was the second one, but "the angel of the covenant" who with his measuring line of sovereign grace, marks out and prescribes the limits of his church, which is the spiritual Jerusalem. "The angel of the covenant commands the other—"Run," speak to this young man." Let us leave the context and dwell upon the command. It was a message sent on a special occasion to a pacified young man, and in a light we intend to view it.

I. "Speak to this young man." Which one? How am I to get the ear of the right one? How make him feel the message personal?

THIS ONE. I see him yonder, the son of godly parents, nursed in the lap of piety and cradled in prayer; ten thousand holy influences have surrounded him. Can he not see in the dim haze of the past a face bending over him as he rests in the child's cot? He will remember those lips said something about loving Jesus; and all along those silken cords of a mother's influence have drawn heavenward. The home is all the brighter and parents the happier for his presence. I am glad to hear such good things of you, but still my Lord says "Run, speak to this young man."

But here is another, how different his experience!

No prayers were offered on his behalf. His early remembrances are bad. His sins are more the sin of his bringing up than anything else. If present you are welcome here to-night for my Master has said "Run, speak to this young man."

Then here is a young man of ability. He will make his mark in the world. But I want your attention, for I am to run and speak to you.

Still another and this time one who prefers SEEING life, he says rather than getting on in life. Perhaps some very surprised to see him come, as his face is more familiar elsewhere than in the sanctuary. A light, frivolous, pleasure seeker. We are glad to see you here.

And yet again I think of another. He has spurned every entreaty and mocked every warning. He is bringing his father's grey hairs down to the grave and he has broken his mother's heart. He seems intent on ruin. If here, you must pay attention, for the Lord has marked you out and said "Run, speak to this young man."

I notice on your face he tries to keep out of sight. He is a seeking sinner. Cheer up poor despondent heart, to you Lord has told me not to forget you.

II. Why should I speak to him?

(1) Because danger awaits him.

Playing on the sandbank are a number of thoughtless ones. They do not see the tide is on the flow, that between them and the shore there is the water, deepening every minute. Soon the treacherous sand will sink beneath their feet, and the whole laughing company will be swept away.

And I stand upon the shore; wondering whether I am predestinated to give the alarm? Out with such nonsense. My duty is to cry out, "Beware! Beware! the tide is coming in; come ashore, while there is time."

This is my position to-night. I see before me a mass of young men upon the sandbank "time." Some engaged about one thing, and some about another, but all forgetful that the tide is coming in. Do you ask "What tide?" I answer the tide of eternity. With some of you its waves are breaking at your feet—"Ahoy, there! come to the rock while there is time; to Jesus come away."

Do you see that steamer ploughing its way through the ocean? Do you mark the snowy "wake" it leaves behind. I can hear the merry laugh of the passengers, but let me tell you, it is out of its course, and ahead is a sunken rock over which the water just quietly flows. In a moment it will hurl itself to ruin. "Down with the helm—port her—turn astern—Never mind frightening the crew."

Young men, are you going upon the rocks?

Enough water to hide them, but not enough to tide you over. Shall I stand with folded arms and silent lips? No! my duty is to cry—Rocks ahead, sinner!! Rocks ahead! down on your knees! Stop! Turn your course. God save you from eternal shipwreck."

(2) Because one wrong step will lead to many. I see before me two roads, one broad and pleasant, but it leads to destruction. The other straight and narrow, but it leads to the celestial city. These roads start from this church to-night. Does some one take the broad way? Then my Master says "Run, speak to this young man."

(2) If I do not speak, many others will. The speaker here forcibly pictured what the world is doing.

III. Why should I run?

(1) Because he is running. The feet turned from God are winged. The sinner is not on a placid stream, but he is in the rapids.

(2) Because time is running.

Time is a ship that never anchors—an eagle that is ever on the wing—a shuttle that always flies—an ocean that never ebbs.

(3) Because opportunities are running.

The water of a river was rising to a flood. A man tried to save his timber and ventured with a light boat into the current, hoping to keep sheltered from the full force of the stream under the lea of a projecting shore. Vain hope. He was drawn into the rushing tide and was at the mercy of the torrent. A friend saw there was only one way of saving him, so mounting a fleet horse, he plied his spurs and made for a bridge down below, reaching the bridge before the light craft which came like an arrow toward the arch he dropped a rope to the surface of the stream and called to the man to seize it. The hand was stretched forth the rope was grasped, the boat sped on from under him, but the man was saved.

Young man, such is my position to-night. I have run and reached the bridge before you; I let down the rope which is called "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." Lay hold of it. This may be the last opportunity I shall ever have of offering you the gospel or you of receiving it.

To-night's service may be to some one present the last bridge of mercy across the stream. God help you to seize the rope to-night.

(3) Run because death is coming. The speaker here vividly portrayed the shortness of life.

IV. And have I touched on one heart that I [illegible] in the case of godly parents with [illegible] morality will not save you. You must be born again. You must have a new conscience, a new life, you must be a change of the life principle. Nothing short of this made with a little [illegible].

(5) You who have had nought but evil example, to you let me speak. This does not free you from responsibility. If you perhaps led you willingly followed. You now know the way of salvation, for you have just heard it.

(6) Young man, occupied in getting on. Just one word to you—"What shall it profit a man, if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul, or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

(7) Poor pleasure seeker. You are being duped. The world laughs at

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

was incorporated by Special Act of the Parliament of Canada for the purpose of carrying on the business of Fire Insurance, as outlined in the Insurance Act and the Special Act of Incorporation.

Capital Stock Authorised by the Board.....$2,000,000
Capital Stock Subscribed to date.....$1,650,000

The Head Office of the Company is in the city of Winnipeg, and, in addition to this, Branch Offices and Agencies will be established throughout the Dominion.

It must be generally conceded that, owing to the satisfactory conditions at present prevailing throughout not only Western Canada, but the entire Dominion, this Company is being organized at a most favorable and opportune time.

Canada, and particularly the Western portion of the Dominion, is advancing in population and wealth more rapidly than at any other time in its history, and every indication points towards a period of great prosperity and development.

The great influx of settlers into Western Canada is resulting in tremendous activity in every line of business. Railroad construction is proceeding on a scale hitherto unknown in this country, and as adequate transportation is of vital importance in moving our immense crops with a proper degree of facility, it is highly encouraging to see so much well-directed energy along the lines of railway extension.

Coincident with railway expansion, we find many new districts rapidly filling up with desirable settlers, bringing with them a good supply of cash and effects. With the settlement of the rural districts, new towns and villages are springing up, which will, during the next few years, become, in many instances, important business centres.

With such unprecedented growth in Western as well as Eastern Canada, involving an expenditure of millions of dollars in building operations, it is at once evident that there is a very extensive and profitable field for a new Fire Insurance Company which will have a thorough organization throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, and more particularly in the four Western Provinces.

As a great volume of our business will be transacted in the West, it is a matter of the greatest importance that the Head Office of the Company, as well as the Directors, should be located in the West, so that the affairs of the Company may be conducted to the best possible advantage.

DIRECTORS.

The Board of Directors consists entirely of Western men with a very intimate knowledge of Western conditions, and they are, accordingly, well conversant with the financial and general business requirements of the West. They are thoroughly representative of the various important branches of financial, commercial, industrial and professional life in Western Canada, and with their wide reputation for business ability and integrity, as well as financial standing, combined with a long and varied experience, and practical knowledge of business affairs, they are exceptionally well qualified to render excellent service to a large financial institution.

As the Directors have valuable connections with extensive business interests and are also Directors of other financial corporations, as well as being otherwise identified with large and influential companies which control a great deal of high-grade fire insurance, they will be instrumental in placing a large portion of this desirable insurance with the new Company, so that we may safely conclude that from the very beginning of operations a large and profitable business will be assured.

Under these favorable conditions, and with a strong, energetic, as well as experienced and conservative management, combined with the fact that each Director has subscribed for eleven thousand five hundred dollars ($11,500) of the Capital Stock, on which all calls have been paid, and takes an active interest in the welfare of the Company, there is only one conclusion to draw, and that is that the affairs of the Company will be conducted in such a careful, conscientious and intelligent manner that the interests of both policyholders and stockholders will be fully protected.

IT IS WORTHY OF NOTE THAT $1,650,000 OF CAPITAL STOCK HAS ALREADY BEEN SUBSCRIBED BY PROMINENT BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN THROUGHOUT THE DOMINION AND ELSEWHERE.

No commission has been paid to anyone for securing stock subscriptions, and no expense has been incurred in the promotion and organization of the Company, except the expense in connection with securing the Charter and other necessary expenses.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE.

The Canada National Fire, being organized in the West, MAY BE TRULY CALLED A WESTERN COMPANY, and, as such, should receive the liberal patronage and hearty co-operation of the citizens of Western Canada, as well as the support of people from Eastern Canada who desire to become associated with a strong and progressive Canadian Company.

When promoting this Company the Directors were fully convinced that there was a splendid opening in Western Canada for a Company prepared to carry on the business of Fire Insurance on a large and comprehensive scale, and which, at the same time, could offer ADEQUATE PROTECTION TO BOTH POLICYHOLDERS AND SHAREHOLDERS. Accordingly, when making application for a Dominion charter, the Company was incorporated with a capital of $3,000,000.00, of which amount the Directors decided to offer for public subscription the sum of $2,000,000.00.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT FEATURE IN FIRE INSURANCE IS PROTECTION, and with the LARGE CAPITAL, combined with the high standard of Reserve, which will be maintained through careful selection of risks and profits from judicious investments, the Directors and Management feel confident that this Company will be accorded a very hearty reception by Canadian citizens, and will soon rank as one of the leading Fire Companies.

WITHOUT A LARGE AND SUBSTANTIAL CAPITAL FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE POLICYHOLDERS, A FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY IS SERIOUSLY HANDICAPPED, AND DOES NOT AFFORD THE POLICYHOLDER THAT PROTECTION TO WHICH HE IS JUSTLY ENTITLED, and the Directors of this Company, being fully aware of this most important fact, are adopting a very wise policy in OFFERING FOR SUBSCRIPTION SUCH A LARGE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL STOCK, and when our entire stock is subscribed and paid in full it will represent the largest amount of subscribed and paid-up capital of any Canadian Fire Insurance Company, and will be a tower of strength and of very material benefit to the company in carrying on its extensive operations.

GENERAL AGENT FOR CANADA

W. E. FUDGER, ESQ.

THE LARGEST AMOUNT of subscribed and paid-up capital of any Canadian Fire Insurance Company, and will be a tower of strength and of very material benefit to the company in carrying on its extensive operations.

It shall be the policy of the Company to use the UTMOST DISCRETION in the selection of desirable risks, and, at the same time, to so widely distribute its business that any danger arising from a possible conflagration at any point may be reduced to a minimum.

The investment of the Company's funds will be given the GREATEST OF CARE AND ATTENTION by the Board of Directors.

Only GILT-EDGE securities will be considered, such as first mortgages on improved, productive real estate, stocks, bonds and debentures of companies of high repute, as well as Dominion securities and municipal, county and school debentures of well-established districts.

As a LARGE PERCENTAGE of these securities is READILY NEGOTIABLE, the Company will have abundant LIQUID ASSETS to meet any possible contingency that might arise.

Our first mortgage investments will be confined to Western Canada, and as the rate of interest obtainable on first-class productive real estate is FULLY TWO PER CENT. greater in the West than in Eastern Canada, the Company will have a DECIDED ADVANTAGE over Companies operating exclusively in the older portions of the Dominion. A fixed policy of the Company is to loan NOT MORE THAN FIFTY PER CENT. of a conservative value of the property, and to stipulate for a definite return of principal, together with interest, each year during the term of the loan. With these periodical repayments of principal, and with land values in Western Canada steadily increasing, the Company's first mortgage securities will continue to improve year by year.

With the active development in Western Canada, a great deal of capital will be required for many years to come, and the Company will, therefore, experience a very ready demand for its funds on high-grade securities and at a profitable rate of interest.

The Directors decided to issue the stock at the price of ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTEEN DOLLARS PER SHARE, being at a premium of fifteen per cent.

THE TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION ARE:

On application, $25.00 per share, which shall include the premium of $15.00 per share, and the balance, payable in ten consecutive half-yearly instalments of $9.00 per share, the first of such half-yearly instalments to become due and payable six months from date of allotment of shares.

Shares may be PAID IN FULL at time of subscription, but if purchased on the INSTALMENT PLAN the subscriber shall have the privilege of paying any or all of the instalments prior to due dates.

The Following Table Shows the Amount of First Call as Well as the Subsequent Payments:

No. of Shares.	Amount of First Call.	Half-yearly Payments.

200	23,000.00
300	34,500.00

NO BONUS STOCK shall be issued for any purpose whatsoever, and even the Directors, who are very heavy stockholders in the Company, have paid the SAME PRICE for their shares as the general public. NOT ONE SHARE has been or will be issued to any person at a price less than $115.00 per share.

THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY to secure some of the Capital Stock of a Western Fire Insurance Company. With a large amount of desirable and profitable business so readily obtainable by the Company through its valuable and extensive business connections, rapid progress should be made, and with investments carefully selected and unexcelled in earning power, the Company will be enabled to not only pay substantial dividends, but build up a large reserve, and thereby materially increase the value of the stock.

The Directors firmly believe in the policy that EVERY SHAREHOLDER SHOULD CO-OPERATE WITH THE MANAGEMENT of a Company and take an active interest in its welfare. For that reason, it is their intention to WIDELY DISTRIBUTE the CAPITAL STOCK, and by that means obtain the support of the leading business and professional men throughout the country.

With the rapid development of the West during recent years, involving an outlay of many millions of capital, it has become generally recognized that WESTERN CANADA IS VERY MUCH IN NEED OF MORE LARGE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND ESPECIALLY OF WESTERN ORIGIN, to properly meet the growing requirements of the West, and to not only improve the present financial situation, but to materially assist in retaining, as much as possible, desirable business, with its resultant profits, within our own Western borders.

The business of fire insurance has now grown to such large proportions that it has become a very important factor in the financial and commercial world, and as its scope and influence is so general and widespread it is only natural to find that the question of AMPLE PROTECTION TO POLICYHOLDERS, which is the PRIMARY FUNCTION OF FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES, should be so GENERALLY DISCUSSED AT THE PRESENT TIME.

This important subject has given rise to a very STRONG FEELING in Western Canada that the TIME HAS NOW ARRIVED when the Western people should organize a Fire Insurance Company of such strength and proportions that it will soon rank as one of the leading fire companies of America, and command general respect and confidence, which is so ESSENTIAL to a company that solicits the support and patronage of all classes of the community.

The Directors have every confidence that they will receive the hearty co-operation of not only Western citizens, but of people from every part of the Dominion, to build up a GREAT fire insurance company with AMPLE PROTECTION for the people, and which will be a source of pride and credit to our country.

The following Canadian Government Insurance statistics should prove of ESPECIAL INTEREST:

In the year 1909 the total amount of fire premiums collected in Canada was $1,785,539.00, whereas in the year 1909 the total premiums charged amounted to the large sum of $22,293,638.25, and of this amount $6,551,644.41 was charged by Canadian Companies, $11,518,267.45 by British Companies, and $4,223,721.39 by American Companies.

During the last forty-one years the aggregate amount of fire insurance premiums collected in Canada reached the immense total of $280,740,466.00, of which the large sum of $218,310,047.00 represents the amount of fire premiums collected by FOREIGN COUNTRIES, and which, therefore, was taken out of the country to build up foreign companies and enrich foreign shareholders.

Notwithstanding that a considerable portion of the fire premiums collected in Canada by Foreign Companies has been repaid to Canadian policyholders, through fire losses, it must be evident that the larger the proportion of Canadian fire insurance that is placed with Canadian Companies, the larger is the amount of capital retained in the Dominion and always available for investment purposes, to build up our Canadian financial institutions, and thereby add to the general wealth and prosperity of our country.

The above figures are most significant and clearly demonstrate that while the CANADIAN FIRE COMPANIES have been doing a satisfactory business they HAVE SECURED only a SMALL portion of the Fire Insurance transacted in Canada, or, to be more exact, ONLY TWENTY-TWO PER CENT. of THE TOTAL FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN IN CANADA, covering a period of the last forty-one years. With the extraordinary progress which Canada has been making during recent years, the field for financial institutions has become so widely extended that there is a CONSTANTLY INCREASING DEMAND for new large financial corporations.

By further reference to our Government statistics it will be observed that at December 31st, 1909, the total number of Canadian Fire Companies operating under Dominion charter was ONLY TWENTY-ONE, and of this number ONLY TWO HAD A PAID-UP CAPITAL IN EXCESS OF $500,000.

In promoting this large Canadian Company the Directors are fully confident that the new organization will, with characteristic Western energy and enterprise, soon come to be recognized as an important factor in the insurance world, and as The Canada National Fire will be instrumental in RETAINING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF CANADA a large amount of money which would otherwise be taken out of the country to build up foreign corporations the people of the growing Dominion will readily see the advisability of giving this Company their MORAL AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT, in order that we may build up a STRONG and VIGOROUS Company which will prove a valuable acquisition to our Canadian monetary institutions.

This is the last opportunity to secure, direct from the Company, some of this desirable stock.

It is worthy of special note that the demand for the stock has exceeded the Directors' most sanguine expectations; in fact, of the $2,000,000 of stock to be issued, $1,650,000 has already been subscribed, and, from present indications, with the large number of applications for stock being received daily, the Directors are confident that the balance of the issue, which is now only $350,000, will be subscribed by August 26th, 1911, the date appointed for the closing of stock subscriptions.

For this reason, the Directors strongly recommend the investing public to mail their applications for stock at their earliest possible opportunity.

Subscribers are requested to kindly fill in attached application form, stating name in full, number of shares desired, occupation and address, and mail the application, along with the first call of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) per share on the stock, direct to the Head Office of the Company, Winnipeg, Man., or, if so desired, application may be made for the stock at any of the Company's Branch Offices or at any Branch of the Royal or Imperial Banks, where application blanks and any additional information will be readily furnished. Applications for stock will be considered in the order received, and on approval of the same by the Board of Directors a certificate for the number of shares subscribed will be issued and mailed the shareholders forthwith. Cheques, Drafts, Money Orders or other remittances on account of stock subscriptions should be made payable to The Canada National Fire Insurance Company.

KING EDWARD VACUM CLEANER

You cannot clean carpets, rugs and furniture by beating. If you think you have, just try a KING EDWARD VACUUM CLEANER and you will find the article full of dust, which breeds disease.

The KING EDWARD HAND MACHINE has no equal as compared with other hand machines. It is lighter to operate and its suction is much stronger. Its suction is stronger than many of the power machines, and the dusting is done away with. On account of the short stroke one person can operate it on carpets and rugs equally as well as two, and it is about half the weight of other hand machines to carry up and down stairs or from one room to another. It is sold for less money than any of the hand machines. All machines are guaranteed.

At the Court of St. James'.

But it is not everybody who realizes that the Palace of Westminster—the correct name for the Parliamentary Houses—contains a second throne. This is placed in the King's robing room and is used by the King when he is putting on his legal garb before entering the House of Peers to read the "Speech from the Throne."

As a matter of fact, the official throne of these realms is the one at James' Palace, that very ordinary looking building at the foot of St. James' street. All ambassadors are accredited to this court, and, in the eyes of foreign governments, it stands for the majesty of Britain. Its throne is a very handsome one, and stands under a magnificent and most ornate canopy.

Though the throne at Windsor is but little used, it is unique in one respect. It is really an Eastern throne, after the style of the one we read of in the records of King Solomon, for it is composed entirely of ivory, and was the gift of one of the Princes of India.

There's Music!

Senator Depew, at a recent dinner in New York, said of Richard Strauss's music:

"To hear Strauss's 'Elektra' or his 'Domestic Symphony' always makes me think of the old Scotch piper who said: "'Ah, there's ane nicht I sall ne'er forget. There were nineteen pipers besides mysel' all in a wee bit parlor, all playin' different tunes. I just thocht I was in heaven!"

WAR WOLVES OF THE TURK

The Bashi-Bazouks Recruited From All Quarters of the Empire Have Wild-Beast Courage and on the War-Path are Merciless.

The Bashi-Bazouks are to the Turkish army what the Cossacks are to the Russian. The Cossacks are, however, far more civilised and immeasurably the superior of the Bashi-Bazouks in all that goes to make the soldier. Bashi-Bazouks are almost without discipline; their courage is that of the wild beast seeking its prey, and once on the war-path they are merciless. It was the Bashi-Bazouks who, by their monstrous cruelties, gave such point to the pen and tongue of Mr. Gladstone at the time of the "Bulgarian atrocities." The name itself means "hot-brained." From every quarter of the empire and its numerous suzerainties this horde of cutthroats has been gathered — from Barbekar, from Yemen, from the far Indian, from every nook and corner of the Caucasus, and from every imperial slum. Their motto is "Kill—Kill!" to which they freely add "and Rob!" Their weapons are the long lance, such as is used by the Cossack, the sabre, two or three pistols, and as many murderous-looking daggers.

ONTARIO

Provincial Loan of $1,000,000.

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, under the authority of Chapter 4, of the Statutes of Ontario, 1911, invites subscriptions from the public for a loan of $1,000,000 on bonds of the Province of Ontario, or "Ontario Government Stock."

The bonds will be dated 1st November, 1911, and payable on the 1st November, 1941, in denominations of $1,000 each, with coupons attached for interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st May and 1st November in each year, at the office of the Provincial Treasurer, Toronto, or at the offices of the Bank of Montreal, in Montreal, Canada, and in New York, N. Y., at the holder's option. Bonds will be made payable to bearer, but on request will be registered in the office of the Provincial Treasurer and endorsed as payable only to the order of certain persons or corporations, and on request of holders will be exchanged for "Ontario Government Stock" at any time.

The issue price during the month of November, 1911, will be 102 for each $100, and after the 30th day of November, 1911, the issue price will be 102 and interest accrued from the 1st November, 1911.

ALL BONDS AND INSCRIBED STOCK ISSUED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE SAID ACT ARE FREE FROM ALL ONTARIO PROVINCIAL TAXES, CHARGES, SUCCESSION DUTY AND IMPOSITIONS WHATSOEVER.

Purchasers of Stock or Bonds will be required to send certified cheque with the application, payable to the order of the "Provincial Treasurer of Ontario."

This loan is raised upon the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Ontario, and is chargeable thereupon.

A. J. MATHESON,

ROCKS RUN RED WITH BLOOD

Brown Assyrian Sweeps Down Annually on Pacific Haunt of Primeval Nature, and Slaughters the Mutton Bird in Millions.

There are some virgin spaces in the world yet. There is Stewart Island, for example, in the South Pacific south of New Zealand. Although only fifteen miles from the mainland its rocky promontories and stupendous headlands are still the haunt of primeval nature. Only the boom of the southern surf and the cry of the wheeling sea birds. That is all for eleven months of the year. In the twelfth a portion of that virgin solitude is ruthlessly disturbed. The quiet coves and shelly beaches of the island become a shambles running with innocent blood while man, the master butcher, conducts an orgy of slaughter.

For Stewart Island and the group of rocky land specks that surround it are the home of that marvellous migrant, the sooty or short tailed petrel, a brownish black bird about the size of an English wood pigeon, popularly known throughout Australasia as the mutton bird, because of a faint resemblance between its cooked flesh and mutton.

The mutton bird is a migrant, but the Sewart Island group is its breeding home, and thither it comes every season to lay its eggs, hatch its young and remain till the young birds are able to fly away to the north with the parent birds, those which do not fall victims to the organized savagery of the brown barbarians.

So wonderfully is the homing instinct developed in the mutton bird that each pair of birds rear their young in the same nest year after year. Identical markings on young birds reared in the same hole during successive seasons have proved this remarkable fact.

The female birds all lay on or about the same day and at the same time. Some of the mutton bird catchers actually assert that all the birds lay exactly on the same day, but such unanimity seems hardly possible.

The islands known as mutton bird islands are claimed by different Maori families who during April and the early part of May go and live upon these small tempest swept dots of earth rocks in the great Southern Pacific. The brown Assyrian sweeps down on the mutton bird fold at nighttime, lighting himself thereto with unconscious irony by the flare of a torch dipped in mutton bird oil. The butchery of the young birds is a pitiful sight.

OLD LEATHER FOR DINNER

Hungry Men Existed on Hard Leather, and It Might Be Well to Hold Old Boots Against Possible Crop Failure.

The famous Captain Morgan and his piratical crew were sometimes in tight places at Panama, and on one occasion were reduced to eating their leathern bags. Some persons who never were out of their mothers' kitchens may ask how these pirates could eat, swallow, and digest these pieces of leather, so hard and dry. "But," states one of the company who narrated the story, "could they once experience what hunger, or, rather, famine is, they would certainly find the manner, by their own necessity, as the pirates did. For these first took the leather and sliced it in pieces. Then did they beat it between two stones and rub it, often dipping it in the water of the river, to render it by these means supple and tender. Lastly, they scraped off the hair, and roasted or broiled it upon the fire. And being thus cooked they cut it into small morsels and ate it, helping it down with frequent gulps of water, which by good fortune they had right at hand."

FIRST OF THE MOVING PICTURE

Birth of Popular Entertainment was in California in Effort to Obtain Exact Record of Fast Trotting Horse.

Eadweard Muybridge, a photographer of Oakland, California, invented moving pictures over a quarter of a century ago. The invention came about in this way: Leland Stanford, the Governor of California, was a great race-horse man. His celebrated trotter Occident was the first horse to make a record of 2.20 west of the Rocky Mountains, and Stanford engaged Muybridge to photograph him in every shape and form. Muybridge then made the first instantaneous pictures of a horse in motion — pictures which knocked out the old idea of artists and everybody else that an animal at speed put all times extended all four feet at once.

Finally, in order to get the horse's full action exactly, Muybridge placed a line of cameras a tenth of a mile long on the track, and from these he stretched silk threads across the course at about the height of the trotter's knees. As these threads were broken each made a picture of the horse, and by running them together and shuffling them the trotter could be seen in motion.

In 1885 Muybridge went to England, and with the help of several other men evolved the first moving picture camera. A year later some of those instruments reached America, and applications for patents began to pour into Washington.

Not many large fortunes have been made by the makers. Some of the early manufacturers made between $100,000 and $200,000 a year for three years, and are wealthy. It is not on record that Muybridge ever made much money from the invention which gave to the public this immensely popular form of cheap entertainment.

Judge Got the Baby.

A few years ago an Iowa county court judge tried to imitate King Solomon in his well-known decision respecting the child that was claimed by two women. In the Iowa Court two women claimed to be the mother of a child that was produced before the judge. Thinking that history might repeat itself, the judge asked for the infant. Then, opening his knife, he announced his intention of cutting the child in half. Whereupon one of the mothers exclaimed, "Oh, no! If it comes to that you may keep the child yourself," and both women left the court.

"It appears to me that Solomon was a very over-rated man," murmured the judge.

THE MAN WHO BEAT BIG BEN

[illegible] a forest fire, the news [illegible] camp. Big Ben, the mighty, [illegible] champion of the world, had [illegible] up, beaten to a lay[illegible] whipped, bumbled [illegible] and by [illegible] man. Wonders would never [illegible] the loggers swore when they heard the news, but there was one satisfaction, back of it all. There would be a fight worth going miles to see.

And that night, in camp, the gauntlet was hurled. Big Ben, striding upon his silent conqueror, knotted his huge fists and glowered down upon him. "You ——" he said wickedly. "I'll make your head break your back." The Indian stared back stolidly.

"Mebbyse."

"When will you fight?"

"Sunday good 'nuff day for me."

The white man turned away with a growl. This was Friday night, and the one mentioned was not unreasonably distant. He rolled himself in his blankets, grumbling like an angry bear, but the Indian, slipping quietly from the room, stood long in the biting air without, his face again turned toward the North. And as he looked and listened there came through the starlight night a long, faint, quivering howl, and at its first note he started as though stung. With a quick leap he reached the bunk house, and, snatching his snowshoes from the nail where they hung against the wall, thrust his feet into the straps, and went slipping away almost noiselessly into the woods along his ghostly obliterated trail of three days before.

Kenny, a hostler, coming from the stable, saw him as he vanished in the forest, and hurried with the news to the long building.

"The Injun has "puckacheed," skinned out, dead scert to fight," he said disgustedly. And Big Ben, hearing the words, sat up in his bunk, and roared with disappointment and rage.

Down the steep hillside that led to the lake, the runaway shuffled and slid, the razor-edged air of the night cutting keenly through flannels and deerskin. At the edge of the frozen surface he stopped and swept it with his black eyes, but it lay like a spotless sheet, and he hurried on. Ahead of him was a low peninsula of tangled, snow-buried brush heaps, and as he rounded its point he gave a guttural cry, for a quarter of a mile ahead of him a black mass lay upon the snow, while slinking upon it from the shadow of the near-by forest was the gaunt form of one of the great gray runners of the North woods.

"Puckachee!" cried the man, from a distance of four yards. The wolf's lip curled.

"Get out," repeated the Indian, more harshly, his knife suddenly gleaming in the moonlight. Slowly, ominously, the brute got upon all fours; and, with ears flattened and legs held stiffly, paced around the man at a distance of six feet. The latter, seeing his great size, his gauntness, and the famine in his eyes, crouched and pivoted in his tracks, with his blade held low. Three times the beast made the circle complete, and three times the man turned round and round about, and never for an instant did the red eyes of the one or black eyes of the other fail to meet, point to point. Then the Indian rushed.

With a catlike leap, a snarl, and a snap of his teeth, the wolf was far to one side, while the assailant, tripping unluckily, fell floundering through the crust, from the violence of the wasted knife sweep. And, before he could clear the smother from his eyes, the stiletto-like teeth of the starving one had sunk into his right wrist, and at the first crunch of the iron jaws the knife fell from the helpless hand. But the man, twisting like a worm, buried the sinewy fingers of his free hand in the shaggy throat above him, and floundered to his knees.

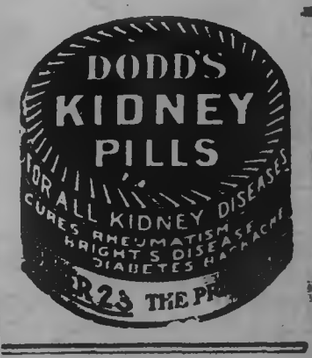
Not many men have strangled a timber wolf that stood three feet high at the shoulder with their naked hand; but, for that matter, only one man ever bore the brunt of Big Ben's giant strength, and came off victorious. The Indian killed his enemy with the strength that the pioneering spirit of lovers gave him; choked him until the slathering jaws fell apart, and the glowing eyes grew dull as dead ashes. Then, bleeding and dizzy, he arose.

"Live," he whispered, as he painfully swung the motionless form of the woman across his broad shoulders. "Live, and I will always work and hunt for you. And may Mo-no-ko lend me his strength once more, for the trail is long, and my strength runs away like the waters of a river." Bent nearly double beneath his burden, he shambled across the bosom of the lake, floundered up the ridge, headed along the summit, and fell prostrate upon the floor of the bunk house.

Slowly the sleep-benumbed camp aroused itself, and stared through heavy eyelids at the speechless woman and grasping man. With the rest to look upon him. Then, one by one, they crept from their bunks and cast over the motionless pair. With [illegible] cold, but muscle-knotted arms and them tenderly in a bunk, and rough hands chafed the icy wrists of [illegible] until she sat up, gazed wonderingly about, and then, with a cry, threw herself upon the still heavily breathing form by her side.

"It is the wish of Mo-no-ko that we part no more," said he, as his head rested over hers. "Your tongue was long, and my patience short, but now we are square, and our trails [illegible] on side by side. One torpe is enough [illegible] both of us, and the wolf-kin shall [illegible] us when we are old."

Big Ben slowly got upon his feet, and glared at his companions. "That Injun is the best man in the woods, and I want to hear some one say different," he said threateningly. "He's the one man that's got me beat, and we two will saw those others out of their hides yet. Shake hands, partner."



ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

SUCCESSFULY RESCUED

Mr. Harry Gibson, of Kingston, was rescued from an enemy that had relentlessly pursued him for years

Mr. Gibson was born and brought up in Kingston. By profession he is a school teacher. He received his training in Queen's University, where he took a course in arts and medicine that well befits him to talk on almost any subject.

The enemy that for 25 years relentlessly pursued Mr. Gibson is a menace to our entire population—it is the demon, Catarrh.

Mr. Gibson says:—"For years I was never free from Catarrh of the nose and throat. It bothered me winter and summer and kept me so continually coughing and hawking that I found it a great impediment to the proper performance of my duties at school. I used every available means of obtaining a cure, took bottle after bottle of medicine prescribed by local doctors, but never got more than temporary relief. I consulted a well-known specialist in the States, but after spending a considerable amount of money with him to no advantage, was forced to look elsewhere for relief, which I first received from Catarrhozone.

I consider Catarrhozone a genuine cure for Catarrh. It drove that loathsome disease completely out of my system, and to-day I am as well as if I never knew what the word Catarrh implied."

A straightforward proof of cure, coming from a well-known gentleman like Mr. Gibson carries conviction of the fact with it that Catarrhozone does all that is claimed for it. As a cure for Catarrh and Bronchitis it positively has no equal. All druggists, price $1.00; small size, 25c. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

SIR WILFRID'S NAVAL SCHEME.

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier first placed his naval scheme before Parliament he estimated the cost of building and equipping the ships called for if the work were done in England, at $11,000,000; if the work were done in Canada the cost was placed at some $15,000,000. The Montreal Gazette, evidently basing its statement on figures contained in tenders which have not yet been officially made public, now places the cost of the vessels fully armed and equipped at something like $24,000,000. The cost of maintenance first placed at something like $5,000,000 a year, will also, it is said, be considerably more than the original estimate.

WILL EMPEROR WILLIAM RESORT TO THE CANE?

At the present moment Germany is a house divided against itself. There is a condition of civil war in the imperial household. Emperor William and the Crown Prince are at loggerheads over the Moroccan treaty, the father being satisfied that it is compatible with the honor of the fatherland, but the fire-eating young prince is not at all pleased with the peaceful policy adopted by his father and his chancellor. For a young prince to sit in the royal box at the Reichstag and applaud the critics of his own father's will is a sight that has stirred Germany from centre to circumference. Emperor William storms in the palace, and all the war lords of the empire are saying of the young hot-head, "He is a splendid fellow in whom we have great hope!" At all events, the Crown Prince has made his debut in German politics. Whether he receives parental correction or not, he has jumped into the limelight at one fierce bound. We might say along with multitudes of ordinary Germans that we think the young man who seems to be so anxious for trouble, should be ordered to have a private interview with his royal father and treated to a taste of the old outraged father's royal cane.

But even the mild action of the writer would work more than a theatrical political effect. The fact that the Conservatives of Germany, the fighting aristocracy who are really the Chauvinists, have abandoned the Crown Prince will serve to bring a hush of silence on the mouth of the people. William and his government were the cause of the Moroccan trouble, and in this affair the Emperor "the great peacemaker" of the peoples of Europe, has shown to the world that in England and in France he is considered a firebrand. Even if Emperor William has not at all pleased with the peaceful policy adopted by his father and his chancellor, for all lovers of peace throughout Europe, that sense of such an offence is preferable to have that the Emperor will not go to the fire-eating lengths that some of his enemies say he does.

Business Done Remarkable.

Prince Rupert, British Columbia, the Pacific Coast terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, is going a pace, and for a young city the business that is now done there is remarkable. During the month of September there were 80 steamers called at the port and 81 departures.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS

NOTICE is hereby given that owing to a change in the law requiring a report from the City Engineer, which takes considerable time to prepare, before local improvement works can be undertaken, petitions for sewers, sidewalks or pavements to be constructed as local improvements must be received before February 1st, 1912, to be acted upon in 1912.

THE VEIL OF THE FUTURE

By Martin Lyon

(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.)

Perfectly motionless lay the ship on the still water, awaiting the dawn to enter the harbor. In a deck-chair Leslie Cartwright stirred restlessly. It was late and nearly all the other passengers had retired for the night but he was in no mood for sleep.

In the dim light the man's face was gray with an unnatural pallor, smeared blackly here and there, on the forehead and round the mouth, with short hard lines. Every now and then his hands would clench nervously, and a quick, impatient sigh escaped his compressed lips. The light murmur from the bulwarks, where a late fellow-traveler and the first officer were chatting over a last cigar, came to him as an impertinence and an irritation. At length the voices died away as the speakers moved forward, and nothing broke the stillness save the long wash of the Australasian sea, and at intervals, with jarring suddenness, the striking of the ship's bell.

The man looked around to see if he was alone, and dropped back with an exclamation of satisfaction. By-and-by he began to murmur and fret once more. "What fools women are!" he growled. "They take an abstraction and make a god of it; they take a literature and make it a fetish. And what a fool I am to take so much notice of their chatter!"

He was silent for a time. Then he resumed his muttering. "Who said 'the Veil of Futurity is woven by the hand of Mercy'? Stuff! I should like to lift it, for one. Just as though there could possibly be any mercy in not letting a poor devil see what's ahead of him — and people have lifted it, too — what about the Eastern mystics — the sooth-sayers — the Chaldeans? — what about prophecy? The old prophets were more than the mere far-sighted statesmen as some would have us believe — wonderful — wonderful——"

His voice died away in a low, dreamy murmur; then he stirred again, and began to mutter once more.

"What about their wretched Western imitators! They are too grossly material to possess even a fraction of the occult power they presume to lay claim to. Centuries of European training have been quite enough to exterminate any force of the kind, even if it ever existed. Existed? — of course it did. Men have read the stars like an open book and seen their own fate in the signs of the wind and the wave — they have foretold war and famine and pestilence and the doom of nations; but they were men of old — not the puerile would-be mystics of to-day.

"I do not believe the most spiritualized, sensitive Anglo-Saxon could look five minutes into the unknown."

As he spoke, his white face grew whiter, and an expression almost of fear came over it. He shivered for a moment, then braced himself, evidently with an effort. He laughed nervously.

"Something is wrong with me," he said savagely. "I hope I am not going to get fever. I had a feeling then that I could know the future, if I would — only — that it would be well for me if I did not will to know. It's horribly uncanny; I can't shake it off. Well — his voice rose in excited defiance — "I will test this power. I demand to see myself a year hence."

x x x

Then he was floating in a thick, heavy atmosphere; now dark — dark to blackness — now lightening into transparent blue; sometimes flashing into silver, and even blazing into a splendor of gorgeous golden freshness.

Around him, with him, and of him, were long, spherical gray shapes. He was conscious of a curious sense of dispersion — of separation in some indefinite, indefinable manner from himself; and yet he was perfectly capable of connected thought.

"Can this be an answer to my demand?" he questioned. "Bah! As vague as all prophecy! Well, we will ask eleven months." There was no change. "Well, then, ten — nine — eight — seven six!"

A look of horror seized him. Great drops of sweat sprang out on his brow. One might have seen the muscles start and stiffen in his hands as he gripped the arms of the chair. "Five — four — three — two — a month, yes, a month!" he spoke with agonized intensity.

The sense of uneasiness was with him still, but in a modified degree. He seemed more resilient, more living, more human. His voice rose to a shriek. "Take me back to this hour — to this minute." He was alive now, but oh! the agony of that relief! Ah, that fierce, deadly grip on his shoulder! A sense of cruel, sharp pain was exploring his flesh and crushing his bones as in a steel trap! What was that awful irresistible tug at his feet? "Ah, mercy! mercy!"

x x x

The first officer reported to the captain:

"I had been talking to Mr. Chadwick till he fastened his cigar. I noticed Mr. Cartwright — he was coming in a hurry-skurry. I thought nothing [illegible] finally, I [illegible] after [illegible] and [illegible]. When I got down to him, I found that he was talking in his sleep very excitedly. I was just about to rouse him when he sprang out of his chair with a most dreadful shriek for mercy and before I could stop him he had rushed to the side and jumped overboard. I snatched up a coil of rope and ran to the place, but I was too late. It would almost seem as if the sharks had been waiting for him. There were three of them."

And he turned away and put his hand over his eyes.

The man who always follows the dictation of his conscience must have pretty sharp ears.

C.P.R. "BEAUTY SPOTS."

List of Prize Winners for Best Garden Along the Line of the Railway.

The list of prize winners in the competition of "Best Garden" along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway is announced. One thousand five hundred dollars in gold was distributed by the Floral department to deserving competitors, while all along the many branching lines of the iron arteries of the road, many splendid gardens, while not reaching the height of "best," have given joy and pleasure to the thousands upon thousands of tourists and travellers who have crossed the lines.

The Grand prize ($25.00) is keenly competed for; this year A. Wright, of Woodstock, N. B., D. J. Steele of Sherbrooke, Quebec, J. A. Nicol of Rossport, Ontario, and a lady living at Agassis in B. C., carried off highest honors. Mr. Preece of Portage la Prairie, was also a grand prize winner, his garden was "the talk of the town." Other prize winners were Messrs. Oliver, Crouse, Lowe, Panshke, Bull, Hurd, Appleton, Freeman, Porte, Kellogg and Byrne.

The C. P. R. is gaining for itself praise for being the neatest kept railway line on the American continent, and much of this honor is due the toiling men and women who are the watchdogs of the iron way which reaches from ocean to ocean.

The tiny beauty spots of the C.P.R. have become so much a factor of Canada itself that other railways abroad are said to be following in the footsteps of the man who first thought of planting a flower along the wayside. The credit of this thought belongs to a man who twenty years ago was an agent of the road. He set out a few garden seeds which seem to have increased at such a rate as to have made a chaplet which to-day crowns the height and decks the valleys of the east and west. So it is with "small things," which oftimes become the monumental things of life.

In the matter of tree planting, flower culture and the encouragement of the artistic, the C.P.R. Railway stands unique. It is a big railway, and yet it stops to consider "the little things" of human life. To this road is due the thanks of all Canada, for making the bare spots of this world a little brighter for the passerby.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than fakirs. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got Their New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."

"THE FORT GARRY" HOTEL, WINNIPEG.

Adjacent to the ruins of that historic monument "Old Fort Garry," memorable in the early history of Canada's new Western metropolis is being erected "The Fort Garry," truly representative of greater Winnipeg—a magnificent edifice—to rank with the world's finest hotels, embodying in its construction the most advanced, scientific and architectural ideals. Located in the very heart of the city, to which all lines of traffic converge, it is readily accessible to the railroads and electric car lines, and within a radius of a few blocks of most of the leading theatres, while one minute's walk will place one among the largest and most pretentious of the great stores in the centre of the shopping districts, or enable one to reach the great new terminal station of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"The Fort Garry" to be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific will be built of the finest of Canadian granite and buff lime stone, in the style of the old French Chateaux of Normandy and Touraine and will rear its stately heights to fourteen stories. The building is to have approximately three hundred and fifty sleeping chambers and will be richly furnished in faultless taste. All its bedrooms are to have private bathrooms and are to be equipped with every approved modern appointment. Nothing that would in any way contribute to the comfort and welfare of its guests has been overlooked in the preparation of the plans and interior arrangements.

The keynote of the "Fort Garry" as judged from the design and interior arrangements is to be "homelike comfort." From basement to roof top, every detail of construction and furnishing has been worked out in perfect accord with this idea, and would seem to assure the largest measure of personal enjoyment and restfulness to its guests—a place where comfort-loving people might enjoy life to the utmost and feel thoroughly at home.

The main entrance of the hotel faces on Winnipeg's most beautiful thoroughfare "Broadway" and opens upon a spacious and imposing rotunda, which will suggest in its decoration and refinement the cheer and comfort provided within its walls, and from beautiful design, unbroken by columns, lofty in height, and finely lighted by broad windows and circular domed ceiling.

The Mezzanine Gallery is also to be a novel feature of "The Fort Garry" and is obtained by the introduction of a storey midway between the office floor and the parlors. It is reached by a broad marble staircase from the main entrance lobby, and is to be finished and decorated in white and delicate shades of color. It overlooks the entrance lobby, dining room, cafe and tea room, and will be used as ladies' parlor, writing room and library. It commands a splendid view of those portions of the hotel where the most life occurs, and yet at the same time affords a quiet sense of retirement.

RED DEER GROWING BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS

Will Soon be a Large and Important City—Splendid Investment Offered to Eastern Capitalists—See Advertisement and Map on Another Page.

All eyes at present are turned on Red Deer, a bulletin of progress just issued by the Board of Trade, shows the rapid growth of this town. Building permits for the last five months went over $182,000, being four times greater than for the whole of the last year. Business at the lands office shows enormous gains, as also the passenger, freight, express and telegraph departments of the railways. The population of this place is growing by leaps and bounds and as it is the hub of the greatest railway development taking place in the West, it is destined to soon become a great city. The yards of the Alberta Central comprise an area of 110 acres. The Canadian Northern is now constructing a line West from the Magnetic Calgary branch of the Canadian Northern and the Yellow Head Pass.

Construction has commenced on the "S" line of the C.P.R. from Red Deer to Calgary and Edmonton, and part of one of the steel gangs is now north and south through the Red Deer on the east side of Lloyd avenue, closed up the streets running from the town east and across Gaetz ave. Third street north and Fifth street south. This will have the effect of materially increasing the population and value of property in the west end. A party of engineers are now camped on the outskirts of the town engaged on the construction of the enormous bridge across the river. As soon as this is completed a great forward movement is expected. Taking into consideration the rich country surrounding, with its unlimited coal, timber and dairying facilities, Red Deer is bound to become one of, if not the greatest city in the whole of the Northwest.

MORTAL DUEL FOUGHT IN JAIL.

When Spanish Prison Was Searched 50 Knives Were Found.

Madrid, Nov. 19.—A mortal duel has been fought in the jail at Malaga between two prisoners. The story throws a strange light on Spanish prison methods.

Eleven men sleeping in the same room were playing cards when two of them quarreled and a duel with knives was arranged between Antonio Jimenez and Juan Domingo. They plunged their weapons into each other several times, and finally Jimenez collapsed in a dying condition. He was picked up by his comrades and carried to the prison infirmary, where by a priest. Soon after he died.

The examining magistrate had the sleeping room searched, and there were discovered at least fifty knives and revolvers and boxes of dice, quantity of wine and brandy.

Jimenez had recently won $80 at cards, and he left a will distributing this among his comrades.

OUT IN CHASE OF THE WHALE

An Exciting and Interesting Pursuit, Which However Seems to Point To An Extermination of the Species.

It may not be known generally but it is a fact that many varieties of the whale are now as extinct as the buffalo, and unless the remnants be protected from slaughter they will, it is feared, be altogether exterminated.

The whale is a mammal and not a fish; that is to say, it is a warm-blooded animal which breathes air instead of water, drowns if submerged too long, brings forth its young alive and nourishes it with milk from its own body. The largest of the family is the sulphur-bottom whale. Specimens measuring 97 feet in length have been killed. Such a creature would weigh 110 to 120 tons. A fair number of these creatures still exist in the Pacific Ocean, though they are now being killed off very rapidly.

Then there is the bowhead, also called the Greenland or Polar whale, which inhabits the waters round the North Pole. This species is now very scarce.

The right whale, slightly larger than the bowhead, is now virtually extinct. A quarter of a century ago it was found in large numbers in both the North and South Atlantic Oceans. The whale generally seen by passengers crossing the Atlantic is the humpback species, which attains a length of from forty-five to sixty feet. Then there is the finback of the North Atlantic coast, which attains a length of sixty feet, and yields little oil and is difficult to kill. In the Pacific Ocean there is the California gray whale, often found in comparatively shallow water, but savage and dangerous. It attains a length of about forty-five feet.

The virtual extinction of the right whale and the bowhead has been brought about by the invention of the harpoon gun. In the old days whales were captured from boats. It required courage, pluck, and the whaler took his life in his hands. To-day the animals are slaughtered by firing at them from the bow of a vessel with a heavy cannon, which shoots a harpoon weighing more than a hundred pounds, and having an explosive head of point, called the "bomb."

Not a particle of the great carcase is wasted. The blubber is "tried out" for oil, and the meat and bones are boiled for the same purpose. The flesh is artificially dried and sifted, making a very fine guano, and the bones are ground for fertiliser. Even the blood is boiled and dried with the flesh, and the water in which the blubber has been tried out makes excellent glue. The fins and tail, after being sliced into thin strips, salted, and barrelled, are sent to Japan, where they are used as food.

The Trials of a Parson.

If he delivers a written sermon, he is a back-number. If he preaches extempore, he is a shallow thinker.

If he is not constantly calling upon his people, he is unsociable. If he visits to any extent, he is a gadabout.

If he is married "he is an awfully nice fellow, but his wife doesn't amount to much." If he lives in single blessedness (?) woe be to him. All the eligibles and many of the others never speak to each other at the guilds and parish socials, or else they do speak — gossip!

If he is content to serve his Master and his people on a small monthly sum (paid at irregular intervals) he is "cheap." If he timidly asks for a large enough stipend to keep his household "decently and in order," he is worldly-minded.

If he would be "all things to all men," he is a hypocrite. If he is somewhat reserved, it is a cloak to conceal his sly attempts to foist a mediaeval priestcraft upon his people.

If he quotes the sources from which his best ideas are drawn, he is lacking in originality. If he fails to give due credit for these various ideas, he is dishonest and a thief.

RESCUED FROM THE IDOL

By Angus Fraathier

The sun was beating pitilessly down with that intense white heat that only those who have travelled in tropical countries can realise. The long white road was covered with a cloud of dust in which swarms of flies buzzed noisily while its entire length was taken up by a straggling mass of humanity, all pressing towards one goal.

And in the midst of this motley crowd a single European mounted on a scrub pony, his pith helmet showing up with marked distinction amongst the rainbow-hued headgear surrounding him.

Dismounting from his pony at some little distance from the entrance to temple Roydhouse flung the reins to one of the numerous hangers-on who swarmed round him, eager to pick up a few annas; and proceeding on foot he strode toward the grotesquely-carved and gaudily-decorated portals of the holy palce.

As Jack Roydhouse entered from one side, a long procession of priests trained in from the other, several of them carrying lights that burnt with the same curious faint blue light. And as they advanced they chanted in a low tone some sort of doxology in praise of the deity they worshipped.

Suddenly waving their torches the lights flashed up brilliantly, revealing to Roydhouse's astonished gaze the idol he had come such a distance to see. Grotesque in the extreme, and yet so strangely weird that it was absolutely forbidding; whilst to add to its barbaric splendour it bore on its legs and arms jewels that would have been worth a king's ransom.

But it was the head that naturally attracted Roydhouse's attention. Was he dreaming? He rubbed his eyes and gazed again. True, the face was hideous to a degree, with protruding ears and a long, beak-like nose. But the eyes! By what conjuring trick had these priests effected such a marvellous deception.

At the termination of the ceremonies, and when the worshippers began to file slowly out, Roydhouse, passing through the Hall of Columns, suddenly felt himself plucked by the sleeve, and a native woman, closely veiled, with one finger held to her lips, thrust a small piece of paper into his hand; then, disappeared from view.

Half a mile down the road he seated himself on a moss grown stone, and drew forth the strange note.

It read:—"I see you are an Englishman. For God's sake come to the south entrance of the temple at midnight. You may be able to rescue me from a living death. You will—"

There the strange letter finished. Evidently the writer had been interrupted.

. . . . . .

Leaning against some palm stems, and almost indistinguishable amid the luxurious undergrowth, were the forms of two men.

"Keep quiet, man. See! the door opening."

Roydhoure gazed intently in the direction indicated, and sure enough a small door had opened an inch or two. Slowly, and without any sound, it swung back, till it was wide enough to admit the passage of a single figure clothed in white.

The one second the figure hesitated there, evidently recognising the English men, advanced and he at once discovered that it was the Indian woman who had thrust the note into his hand.

"'Tis even here, my lord!" And the woman as she spoke took his hand and placed it upon what he felt was an iron-bound door.

"'Tis through here I pass the food which her food, and it was through here she gave me the letter my lord."

Then, as though another door had been opened farther off the sound of a chant came suddenly surging on the air, and at the same instant a piercing shriek rang out, and a voice in unmistakable English called "Help!"

Roydhouse blew out the lock with a revolver shot, and there, facing him, and struggling in the grasp of two priests, was what he might have taken for a human being, but for the head.

To his last hour he will never forget the sight — the tall, graceful form, the bare white arms. But the face, with its ghastly whiteness, its protruding ears and beak-like nose! Then in an instant the solution flashed across his brain. It was a mask similar to those he had seen used by the lamas in distant parts of Thibet, and darting forward he wrenched the wearer from the hands of those who held her, and before they had recovered from their surprise, had knocked one senseless with the butt end of his revolver, and sent the other sprawling with a well-planted blow between the eyes.

With his knife he quickly severed the cords that bound the hideous thing, and as it fell apart there was revealed to his gaze the blue eyes and golden hair of Maisie Pargiter, daughter of the Colonel who had mysteriously disappeared some time before.

During the ride back to Faisabad, Maisie confided to Roydhouse how she had been kidnapped by the priests, and being taken to the Rock Temple had been forced to act the part of an idol; and how, the body of the real idol being hollow, she was concealed within it with the exception of her head, which, enclosed in the hideous mask, was visible to the public gaze; and as her eyes were allowed to be seen, the priests had reaped an abundant harvest from the credulous natives who came to worship at the shrine of the Idol with the Living Eyes.

A week after the occurrence related above, Murray Bover, coming suddenly into Roydhouse's room, caught his friend gazing intently at a small locket in which reposed a tiny curl of golden hair.

"Hullo, old man!" he cried gaily, "Let's know when the wedding is coming off.

No preacher can make a success at fishing for men and angling for flattery at the same time.

England's Surplus Women

The proportion of females to males in the population of England and Wales was 1,057 to 1,000 in 1901; it then declined census after census, though with some irregularity, down to 1851, when it stood at 1,042 to 1,000. But after that a change in the opposite direction set in, and up to 1901 there was a slight but continuous increase in the proportion of females to males. The proportion of females to males was the same in 1911 as in 1901, viz., 1,063 to 1,000.

HUDSON'S BAY AND WESTERN PROSPECTS.

Ancient Corporation's Big Increase In Profits.

Some very interesting information regarding western Canadian conditions was given by Lord Strathcona when presiding over the annual meeting of the Hudson's Bay company, held in London recently. After reviewing the excellent reports which had been in the hands of the shareholders for some time, his lordship referred to the conditions which obtain at the present time. He quoted from a cablegram received from the stores commissioner, Mr. Burbidge, at Winnipeg, which stated that the volume of sales for the first five months of the current year had increased $500,000. This is at the rate of $100,000 per month. The cable messages read by his lordship were as follows: —

From Land Commissioner

"From personal observation, which corresponds with reports from the company's surveyor and other authoritative sources, the larger acreage in crop, seeded under ideal conditions, was followed by exceptionally favorable growing weather, and with present season the crop promises to be very considerably larger than any previous harvest yield in western Canada. This will no doubt stimulate the demand for agricultural lands from prospective occupants, and have an invigorating effect on growing cities and towns in the several districts."

From Fur Trade Commissioner.

"Compared with last year the fur catch has declined in British Columbia, Manitoba and Keewatin. An increase has occurred in Saswatchewan, Lake Superior, Lake Huron, St. Lawrence. There is no change worthy of mention in Athabasca. No advice to hand from James Bay, Labrador, Mackenzie river ,but it is very probable volume has declined owing to unfavorable winter and scarcity of periodical furs. Adequate supplies have been forwarded districts. Transport service is well organized for efficiency and economy. The prospects are encouraging."

From the Stores Commissioner.

"The volume of sale shop trade for first five months of current year shows increase of over five hundred thousand dollars. Prospects during remainder of sale shop year are excellent, the outlook for a record crop being very favorable."

CALAGARY STREET RAILWAY HAS GOOD HALF-YEAR.

The net profits from the operation of the Calgary street railway system for the first six months of the present year were almost three times as great as for the corresponding half year in 1910.

The comparative statements of the receipts, expenses and profits of the system prepared and submitted to the city commissioners by Superintendent McCauley shows a wonderful growth of the city and increasing patronage of the system.

After deducting five per cent of the gross receipts and paying a percentage of the interest and sinking fund, the net profits for the six months of the year amounted to $49,705.51. For the half year in 1910 the profits amounted to $17,061.

The total revenue for the first half of 1911 amounted to $149,437.67. After deducting the total operated expenses of $75,966.80, five per cent of the gross receipts amounting to $7,471.90 and $16,295.28 for interest and sinking fund, a net profit of $49,705.51 was left.

Spanish 5 and 10 Cent Stores

Spanish newspapers are commenting on the new system of merchandising just introduced into Spain through the opening in Madrid of two bazaars along lines corresponding to the American 5 and 10 cent store. The Madrid bazaars have been started with a stock of toys, cheap jewellery, notions, perfumery, underwear, collars and cuffs, neckties, caps, chinaware, fans, handkerchiefs, belts, brushes, purses, small hardware and other articles priced to sell at 65 centimes, an equivalent of about 13 cents American money.

The American 5 and 10 cent store idea has not been developed in Spain to any extent ,although the two bazaars recently established approach the system, at least in the range of articles carried, more closely than anything heretofore attempted.

Bazaars carrying articles offered within a certain price range have been operated in the larger Spanish cities for some time — Malaga has had such a store for over twenty years, prices varying from two to nine cents — but the limited variety of goods obtained and sold at these prices did not strongly attract the

NONE ARE MADE IN PANAMA

The Hat of the Name is not Made in Panama, the Material Not Being a Product of that Country.

It is not generally known that the popular head-gear known as the "Panama" hat is not made in the Republic of Panama, but in Peru, Ecuador, and Colombia, and that the material, the "toquilla" straw, is exclusively an Ecuatorian product. The city of Panama was, and is yet to some extent, a trading centre for this article, hence the name. In an article on the subject in "Peru To-Day" it is stated that these hats are waterproof and sunproof, and can be roughly handled and washed many times. The finest grades of hats are made in Ecuador. The material used is toquilla straw, which is obtained from the leaves of a squatty plant of the palm family.

The manufacture is carried on in the homes of the weavers and taken to the wholesale dealers on certain market days. They work about six to eight hours every day, fine hats being made only in the early morning or evening hours, when there is greater humidity; while the coarser grades are woven at any time. The quality and value of the hats depend upon their weight, evenness, compactness, and colour.

In Ecuador, where the finest hats are made, it is not uncommon for the wealthy planters to wear hats valued at one hundred sucres, about $50 and many fancy prices have been paid for specially made hats, particularly when used as gifts to princes or potentates.

Until within the last few years, when these hats came into fashion, the prices they brought, outside of their district and within the tropics, were entirely out of proportion to their real value. This was due chiefly to the difficulty in getting the hats direct and in suitable styles.

Animal Love.

Mother love is universal, and there is no love like the mother love. Most of the high and lofty loving in this world is done by mothers. Apart from this the work of wooing falls to the male members of the family whether it be the human family or some one of the other animal tribes. We read how, ages ago, a Bulbul, or Oriental Nightingale, wooed a white rose until it blushed red, and that was the beginning of the red rose. The Spanish Cavalier stands out in the rain and serenades his "Dulce Mia" until there is a crick in his neck, while she sits sheltered in a window above.

The cackle of the loon may be a love song for all we know. Maybe that's what made him loony in the first place.

The wild moose bellows his passion across the lake, and as likely as not the answering call is from a bark horn in the hands of a hunter, luring him to death.

It seems a sizzling shame, but if you will take a Grand Trunk train and travel into the "Highlands of Ontario" you will find men doing that very thing; arguing, doubtless, that all is fair in love and war.

Facts About Coronation

Coronation is the first divisional town east of Lacombe, and is splendidly situated about twenty miles east of Castor, in the centre of some of the finest farming districts of Western Canada. Its natural advantages, combined with important railway developments, assure to it a future of considerable importance. Engineers are now locating two branch lines north and northwesterly from Coronation, and a third line is projected southeasterly to connect with the branch running northwesterly from Swift Current.

CORONATION will be :

A divisional centre on the great new railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton.

An important junctional centre, as three branch lines are already projected.

A distributing centre for a large and wealthy district.

A purchasing centre for thousands of Western Canada's most prosperous farmers.

If you wish to go into business or make a safe and profitable investment you cannot do better than purchase lots at Coronation, which is bound to rapidly become one of the most important towns of the West.

Real Estate, Mining and Industrial Investments

HOW $100 GREW TO $31620

The value and importance of any enterprise must be based on the profits and dividends it can earn. In this respect the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, is without a parallel in the line of investments.

It combines the attractive factors which are needed to make the perfect investment—viz., safety, large earning capacity and low cost of the stock at the start. It is not at all uncommon for oil stocks to begin at a few cents a share and jump to hundreds of dollars a share—sometimes thousands.

	Started at	Has Sold at
Central	10 cents	$2.10
Monte Cristo	10 cents	$4.00
Lucile	10 cents	$16.00
Silver Tip	25 cents	$4.00
San Francisco and McKittrick	40 cents	$28.00
Kern River	50 cents	$8.75
Peerless	50 cents	$8.75
Puente	$10.00	$150.00
Home	$10.00	$5000.00

This list, taken from San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchange records, could be added to almost indefinitely.

Fortunes have been made from stock increases. stock is $200, YOUR YEARLY PROFIT ON AN INVESTMENT OF $300.

When we have ten wells sunk you can reasonably figure on AN ANNUAL PROFIT ON YOUR HOLDINGS OF $2000.

$2000 A YEAR. DOESN'T THIS APPEAL

Many a case could be cited similar to that of Richard Ellis, clerk in a store in Los Angeles, whose investment of $100 became worth $31,620 in a short time. There are hundreds of such cases in Los Angeles alone.

$2000.00 Profit a Year

Do you realise that stock in the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, at the present price of 30 cents a share is not merely the opportunity of the year—IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

If you have $10, $50, $100 or $500 YOU SIMPLY CAN NOT AFFORD TO PASS IT UP.

If we develop only a 1000 barrel well of 26 gravity oil, this production alone will be sufficient to enable the corporation to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. and at the same time have sufficient capital to continue the drilling of wells.

1000 shares of stock at the present price of 30c costs only $300.

20 per cent. dividend on the par value of the TO YOU? Wouldn't you like to be coming up to this office every three months and getting your dividend cheque for $500?

Remember, too, that your stock holdings in Midway Maple Leaf, if you should want to sell them should be worth $18,000 or sixty times the amount of your original investment.

Consider These Facts

The Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company is working in proven gusher territory, the richest oil zone in the world, controlling 40 acres on one-eighth royalty, with the great advantage of the option to purchase at only $1250 per acre after oil is struck, and the ground must then be worth at least $5000 per acre. This means a clean profit of $150,000 over purchase price. It has been demonstrated completely by gushers on adjoining Standard and Honolulu ground, that this portion of the Midway field is not only the richest portion of the whole district, but that it produces the highest grade of oil found in the entire vicinity, and worth $0 per cent. more per barrel at the well.

SWEEPING OUT THE STOKERS

Introduction of New Type Lake Steamers Will Dispense With Stokers and Otherwise Reduce Cost of Freight Transport.

The "Toiler", latest addition to the Canadian Lake fleet, and first of a type which promises to revolutionise the carrying fleet is propelled entirely by internal combustion engines in much the same manner as a motor car. Above its deck appears neither funnel nor mast. Its fuel is oil and while the absence of funnels, masts and stays gives greater deck room and convenience, the use of oil entirely as a propelling force gives far greater storage capacity inside the vessel, as oil fuel takes up only a small fraction of the room that the coal bunkers occupy. Moreover, oil combustion engines occupy less than one-quarter of the space occupied by the other type of engine.

The new type marks a further effort to reduce the cost of lake transportation. The greater freight carrying possibility of this boat over a similar sized coal burning engined boat helps to this end. Moreover, the oil engines, requiring but half, or even less, of an engine crew, materially cuts down the wage account. At one sweep, all stokers are dispensed with.

Enormous capital is invested in great lake carriage, and any expense reducing device will be rapidly seized upon and developed. The lake capitalists in the past have spent great sums to this end. A few years ago the whaleback type promised to revolutionise lake traffic and many of these boats were built and still plough the lakes. None, however, have been built in recent years. Nevertheless, the history of recent lake lake navigation shows that the men in charge of the work are not conservatively minded, and any new and promising departure will receive thorough investigation.

REINDEER FOR THE NORTH LAND

Recent Importation to Northern Canada Promises Splendid Results, Being Much More Useful than the Dog.

The importation of reindeer into Northern Canada is not altogether an experiment, because in the neighboring territory of Alaska imported reindeer and their off-spring have now for some time flourished and proved their usefulness. They were imported into Alaska by the United States Government, just as they are being imported into the Mackenzie District by our Department of the Interior.

In Alaska the reindeer have increased rapidly; they have found there abundance of suitable food; they have proved useful as beasts of burden, especially for prospectors and travellers visiting remote parts of the wild country; and they have supplied a needy class of the population with a most valuable article of food — reindeer milk, not to take into account the meat always available by killing an animal.

The traveller in the North has had to depend upon a dog-train. These dogs are difficult to manage, and their food almost invariably has to be carried — a serious drawback where transportation facilities are so limited. In hauling power one reindeer is equal to several dogs. In the natural mosses of the country the reindeer can almost everywhere find its own food; and in case of dire distress the slaughtered reindeer can save the traveller from starvation.

WANTED BACK THE PRESENTS

Thrifty Young Man of Massachussets Makes a Legal Effort to Recover the Price of Presents Made to a Sweetheart.

New Bedford, Mass., seems to have the unenviable distinction of owning the meanest man who has come into the light of publicity in recent times. He is a well-to-do-young man, and he can now claim to be prominent as well.

For three years he "paid considerable attention" to a young school teacher. He waited too long before attempting to clinch matters, for before he got around to talk matrimony a rival had appeared, and his offer was refused.

Although unfortunate in love, he was thrifty, for he demanded the return of the presents he had made. "This," says the teacher, "I was only too glad to do, giving him back a ring a bracelet, a neck-chain and several other articles. I thought that ended the affair."

It did not, for the thrifty young man found that he was still out on presents exactly $29.16, and in order to recover that amount he instituted legal proceedings and had the teacher's salary attached.

The man who can calculate the value of presents to a sweet-heart down to sixteen cents has a soul of about that size.

Sifting Out the Manchus

The Chinese rebels, who are the "original" Chinese, have resorted to an ancient Israelitish trick to sift out the real Chinese from the doomed Manchus.

Instead of saying to the suspect "Say now Shibboleth," as the Gileaditas said to the Ephraimites, they say to them, "Say liushiliu," the Chinese word for "six." And if the suspect doesn't pronounce it right according to ancient Chinese fashion, he gets it in the neck, literally, as the Ephraimites got it who said "Sibboleth" instead of "Shibboleth."

The test imposed by the Chinese insurgents is a numerical one. The suspect is told to count. When he passes six his fate is sealed.

If the suspect says "Lo-ow" he is spared. If he says "Lo-Kee-Haw", as the Manchus do, it's all day with him. "Then they took him and slew him."

FOOTBALL IN ENGLAND

The Foster Game Now in Full Swing and the Land is Covered with Kickers.

Football is now over all the land in Britain, so to speak; the big clubs in their high-priced enclosures, the smaller on public grounds and open spaces, and the juveniles unattached, on all the unbuilt lots and quiet residential streets from which the local constables have neither time nor inclination to drive them. Baseball fever is a mild disease in comparison to Britain's football outbreak.

In England alone there are more than 16,000 regularly constituted football clubs playing a schedule of games throughout the season. There are 500 recognized important leagues, some of them embracing twenty, 30 or even 40 clubs. The football association, the largest governing body in the game, has jurisdiction over 14,000 clubs and on its rolls are more than 750,000 members. It registers and sanctions 20,000 referees and has a more or less authoritative control over every big game played in the country.

These astounding figures do not include the thousands of clubs and the hundreds of thousands of players in schools throughout England. They are not registered by the football association, but have a separate organization of their own.

Professional football gets a support from the spectator public that is truly remarkable. The biggest baseball crowd on this continent would bring grief to the backers of the great empire clubs. Those who have marvelled at the thousands that have packed the benches of the big American enclosures should see the tweed-capped legions of Crystal Palace on cup-tie day. That is the day when the championship is decided. More than 110,000 persons have pushed and crowded and squeezed their way into the grounds to witness the great struggle.

Cup-tie day is one of the most astonishing observances in the English year. Men and boys, girls and women, all over the country, even in the lowliest walks of life, save their money months ahead to defray the railway and other expenses of the day. If the game is played at Crystal Palace, London for a day becomes a Babel. Everyone of the widely different accents and dialects of the country is heard in its streets. The first train-loads arrive soon after midnight and from then until noon time trainload after trainload of football enthusiasts are emptied at the various London stations, while the way-going in the evening is a never-to-be-forgotten sight.

Deathly Cramps Stomach was Bloated

A Bad Case That Proves Cramps and Stomach Disorders are Cured Fast by Nerviline.

"The distress I suffered from cramps last summer was so severe I thought it meant death," writes F. R. Emerson, of Guys Hill P. O. "I was doubled up with pain and in such bad shape I couldn't walk a hundred feet. I remembered having Nerviline on hand and took half a teaspoonful in sweetened water. In five minutes I was well and my stomach derangements disappeared entirely."

For cramps, flatulence, diarrhoea and disorders of the stomach and bowels, Nerviline knows no equal—one million bottles used every year—fifty years on the market, that's proof enough of its merit. Large size bottle 50c, or sample size 25c. All dealers or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Addresses on China.

Mr. J. G. McPherson, secretary of the Y.M.C.A. at Hong Kong, China, yesterday delivered three interesting addresses on Y. M. C. A. work in China. He spoke to men only at the Y.M.C.A. assembly hall in the afternoon, and at St. Paul's church in the morning and Knox church at night.

Something Big.

The Campbellford Herald reports a proposition to the town from a manufacturing company seeking a suitable place to locate. It is a large concern and would expend from $300,000 to $400,000 on buildings and the equipment, employing 125 hands and whose annual pay roll would amount to $110,000. The representatives of the concern and the town council will meet to discuss the details.

Former Residents Bereaved.

Mr. Frank Degen, a member of this city's fire brigade received word on Saturday that his nephew Frank Degen, of Berlin, had died after a lingering illness. Deceased was but 14 years of age, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Degen are well known to many in this community, of which they were residents ten years ago.

Killing Ducks Wholesale.

A number of duck shooters and guides at Rice Lake have been summoned to appear before the Police Magistrate, at Cobourg, for violating the game laws. Guides have been employed at a wage to kill ducks, which their employers are selling. One man alone has sold over five hundred. A number of Peterborough sports have also had a share in the killing this season on Rice Lake.

Horse Falls on Icy Road.

Driving in the slippery condition of the roads Saturday, a horse attached to a junk wagon slipped and fell on George street, about 10 a.m. Saturday, in front of the Peterborough quick lunch. It was immediately unharnessed, and after many unsuccessful attempts, the animal gained its feeble legs.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Underwent an Operation.

Mr. Stubbs, of the Collegiate Institute staff, went up to Toronto last week, where he was operated on for appendicitis. He is doing nicely and expects to be able to return to Peterborough in the course of a couple of weeks.

Has Much Sympathy.

The many friends of Mr. Joseph Jones will be sorry to hear that he is having some further trouble with his eyes. For a time, it will be remembered, he was almost blind, waiting for the trouble to develop sufficiently to make an operation comparatively safe. The operation was performed some months ago, and was a complete success, Mr. Jones being able to see quite clearly. He was, with the aid of proper glasses, able to read The Times, the paper he always preferred. Lately, however his vision is not so good, and naturally his friends are much concerned about it. However, they hope for the best, and all join in extending to both Mr. and Mrs. Jones, their sympathy, in this their period of anxiety.

Returned From Military Conference.

Col. E. B. Clegg and Major J. Mills, of the 57th Regiment have returned home from Ottawa, where they were in attendance at the meeting of the Infantry Officers' Association of the Third Division. Col. Clegg and Major Mills were invited by Col. Sam. Hughes, Minister of Militia, to be present at the Militia Conference held in Ottawa, and they were also guests at the banquet given by Col. Hughes to the officers, at which His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier were present.

Saturday's Market.

Despite the bad weather Saturday morning there was a good attendance at the market. No hay was in evidence. The few dozen of eggs offered went at 30c a dozen.

The following prices prevailed:

Eggs—30c.
Butter—28c to 30c.
Geese—$1.25 and $1.30.
Ducks—50c each.
Chickens—45c and 50c pair.
Turkeys—$2.00.
Potatoes—$1.50 per bag.
Apples—(Spies) $4 per barrel.
Lamb—10c and 13c.
Pork—11c and 12c.
Beef—7½c and 8½c.
Baled hay—$5c per cwt.
Live hogs—$6.50.
Dressed hogs—8.50.
Farmers' hides—8 and 8½c.
Butchers' hides—9 and 9½c.

A FAST RUN.

C.P.R. Special Makes 110 Miles In Two Hours and Twenty-five Minutes, Including Unlooked for Delays.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—(Special).—Hitting the tracks for a speed of over fifty miles an hour, a special C.P.R train covered the distance between Montreal and Lennoxville to-day in the time of two hours and twenty-five minutes. The special train carried Dr. W. J. Jamieson of this city to Lennoxville to perform a critical operation on a patient in that place. Windsor station officials were given orders regarding the train at 11.45 a.m. for one o'clock and the train left their sharp on time. It is one hundred and ten miles from Montreal to Lennoxville and had it not been for the fact that the train had to stop at Lachine bridge and slow down for a number of level diamond crossings the time would have been cut down a great deal lower than two hours and twenty-five minutes. As it was the train reached Lennoxville at 3.15 p.m. after having lost over a five minute stop. This is nearly an hour faster than the time made by the regular passenger trains between these points. Conductor Sheldon was in charge of the train, while Engineer Langstreth drove the engine 199919 for the distance.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. Samuel Fanning is making satisfactory progress towards recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Snider and daughter, of Stanley avenue, left Saturday to reside permanently in Deseronto.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents.

OPEN AIR SKATING.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see The Times invites its readers to write letters making suggestions regarding public matters. I therefore would suggest that some large common or field be obtained and flooded with water, to be used as an open rink for the children of the city. I would further suggest that the firemen be requested to keep it watered and the snow cleaned off. I am sure Chief Howard and his excellent staff of men would cheerfully agree to do this, provided the rink is not too far removed from the Fire Hall, so that they could look after it without danger of neglecting their duties. The flooding need not be done more than two or three times during the season, as the ice, once made, generally sticks.

Such a place would keep our boys and girls off the dangerous river, and what is best of all, it would afford them good healthy exercise in the open.

I hope good Chief Howard will earn the gratitude of the boys and girls of Peterborough, and through them the heads of the older ones.

—Veritas.

RECKLESS AUTO DRIVERS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Replying to the article signed "Auto" in The Times a few days ago, I would like to say that there are many careless automobile drivers. Saturday night I was waiting to board a George street car. As the car slowed down an automobile came rushing by and I was forced to run back to the sidewalk to avoid being run down. As the auto passed the driver shouted to me, "Get out of the way, d—n you, or I'll run over you," and emphasized his remarks by calling me a vile name. I tried to distinguish the number on the license tag, but was unable to do so, although there was a lamp within 20 feet, owing to the color of the license tag. The present tag must have been designed especially for the careless auto driver. I missed my car and had to wait several minutes for another.

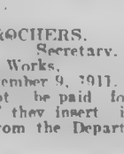
You Need A Tonic



Mr. Business or Professional Man!

Excessive and constant mental occupation, protracted anxiety or care, continual work in the stuffy atmosphere of the office, causes rapid loss of nervous power, mental gloom and depression. YOU need a tonic and the very best preparation to be had on this market is

WILSONS INVALIDS PORT

(A la Quina du Pérou)

It will promptly relieve prostration, nervousness and debility, renew energy, vigour and activity—it is the first and simplest preparation to tone up the entire system.

In sickness or health, in business or pleasure, in prosperity or adversity, the benefit of Wilson's Invalids' Port is beyond comprehension, until you have actually experienced the glowing invigoration it generates.

Dr. J. DUNFIELD, Petrolia, Ont., says:

"I have used "Wilson's Invalids' Port" and have pleasure in recommending it as a tonic of rare quality for debilitated patients. It gives tone to the stomach by increasing the appetite and very greatly assisting digestion. I believe that it would alone cure many cases of "run-down" constitutions assisted by any other medicine."

BIG BOTTLE ASK YOUR DOCTOR

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

GENTLEMEN,—

As the unanimously nominated candidate of the Liberals of this Riding, it is incumbent upon me to suggest some of the considerations and features of policy I favor, in order to justify me in soliciting your support. I therefore submit to you some of the main planks of the Liberal Platform and my own, upon which I stand and if as a result of your support, I am elected, I shall use my best endeavors to have them given effect.

WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION ACT.

The Workman's Compensation Act should be radically remodelled, embodying the best features of the English and German Acts, and extended so that full and ample damages may be given to a workman or his family on account of any injury he may sustain in the course of his employment, and without a law suit.

Moreover, the Workman or his family, under such a law should not be called upon to fight an expensive law suit in the courts with a wealthy corporation and be dragged from one Court of Appeal to another with the evident advantage in the long run to the longest purse, or else be compelled to accept a mere pittance for the injury he has sustained.

THE FACTORY'S ACT.

In order to prevent accidents to workmen, provision should be made for a more frequent inspection by competent inspectors, whose duty should be to see that dangerous machinery and places are properly guarded, fire escapes furnished, sanitary and ventilation facilities improved, and every step taken to protect and preserve the life, limbs and health of employees.

Many accidents happen to employees due to working them too long hours. The employer should be made liable for this increased risk. He should either be forced to give shorter hours to his employees or else be compelled to assume the increased risk which follows in consequence of an employee being over tired and over-worked.

EDUCATION.

A more progressive and adequate Educational policy is urgently needed. More liberal grants should be given in aid of primary education, in the promotion of industrial training and technical schools in urban and rural communities; and in the establishment of night schools for the benefit of those who have been forced to leave school at an early age to earn their own living. Model schools should be restored with a view of increasing the supply and efficiency of teachers.

Two great general principles should underlie our Educational system in this English-speaking Province, which forms such an important part of this English-speaking continent, namely:—

(a) Every child in the Province should have a thorough elementary Education.

(b) Every child should have a thorough knowledge of the English language.

To attain this end, necessary laws and regulations should be passed and enforced and liberal aid should be given to provide further adequate training schools and a sufficient supply of competent and qualified teachers for every School Section in every part of the Province.

Were this done tens of thousands of our fellow citizens would not be as they are now, deprived of the opportunity of acquiring any knowledge of the English language.

AGRICULTURE.

The rural population of Ontario is declining in this Province, which contains the richest and best farm lands on this continent. This state of affairs can be reversed by bringing about the active immigration into this Province of suitable people for settlement and employment upon our farm lands; by the building of good roads throughout Ontario and thereby facilitating traffic and insuring quick delivery of farm and garden produce; by increasing the rural telephone service; by the location of a demonstrator in every rural riding and by the establishment of suitable demonstration farms in each Riding and by showing to the farmers through such demonstration farms the results of successful experiments in every branch of agriculture.

A government with an earnest desire to do something to develop the agricultural possibilities of this splendid farming region would do something to facilitate its settlement which is now handicapped from lack of roads to give new settlers access to or egress from their premises. Without roads or the sympathetic attitude of a government the settler in new Ontario is greatly handicapped, and the settlement of the country is correspondingly retarded.

TAXATION.

The Assessment Act should be amended so as to permit a Municipality, if it so desires, to exempt improvements from taxation, either in whole, or in part and to provide for the removal of the existing inequalities of taxation.

NEW ONTARIO.

New Ontario should be developed and settled and its Railway facilities utilized and the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway should be made to do service as a colonization road and should be extended to the Hudson Bay and branches should be built as the development of the country demands.

AID TO CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

The alarming prevalence of Tuberculosis calls for the aid of the Provincial Government, which it is not now receiving, and is rudely denied, to assist in the provision of facilities for curative or palliative treatment for those whose means prevent this. To this end I would favor amendment of the Succession Duties Act so as to impose an additional percentage of taxation on the estates of very wealthy men, say $250,000.00 and over, to provide a fund to be devoted to the maintenance of Tuberculosis Sanitaria and the aid of the work of the Children's Aid Society.

PROVINCIAL AID TO RADIAL RAILWAYS.

Peterborough is particularly well located for the establishment of a system of Radial Railways in this District owing to the large number of water powers that would furnish cheap operation. These Railways would provide the City with more of the necessaries of life at a cheaper rate; would furnish cheaper and better accommodation to farmers in bringing their produce to market; and attract tourists to our summer resorts. Aid should be given to attain this end, with a percentage of profits to be returned to the Province after they are in operation earning reasonable dividends.

In addition to what I have above recited I shall feel it my duty to support any measure to meet the legitimate demands of a progressive people. If you think that I shall be able to give you valuable and effective, as it shall be my aim to give you faithful service, I respectfully ask your vote and support.

As it will be impossible for me to personally call upon all the Electors I trust that this means of communicating my position will meet with your approval and secure the favor of your vote and support.

Yours Respectfully,

R. R. HALL

SERMON TO YOUNG MEN.

you. You are flinging away happiness not getting it.

"Tis religion that can give Sweetest pleasure while we live."

(e) young man, you who have hardened yourself in sin, and are running a steeplechase to hell, just a solemn word to you. The day is coming when you will be unable to despise those mother's prayers; the day when they will add their deep "Amen" to your damnation.

(f) Poor anxious seeker. Your very anxiety is God's work. Your broken heart is not despised by Him, for He has broken it on purpose—to bind it up. Vest your soul's eternal interest on Him and you are saved.

And now Lord, I have done as Thou has bid me, but to save is thine alone. O, Divine Master, arise, and from thy throne of mercy "Run" and speak thyself to these young men and they shall live.

ANSWERS BY J. W. BROWETT, OPTOMETRIST

Q. Why do school children with good sight, require Glasses?

A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength; the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.

Q. Why do children squint?

A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain; this is nature's way. Study-glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squinting.

PETERBOROUGH BOARD OF TRADE SHOULD AWAKEN TO A SENSE OF ITS RESPONSIBILITIES

Apathy and Indifference Threaten the Life of the Organization Which Should Exercise a Big Influence in the Community's Interests

The Times Municipal Editor has been asked to give his views as to the present lack of interest manifested in the Board of Trade by its members. There is a membership of 80, out of which some twelve or fourteen were present at the last meeting the first since the election of officers last spring. We regret exceedingly that the Board of Trade, to use Vice-President O'Connell's own words, seems of late to have become contaminated with a species of dry rot that is threatening the life of a body composed of gentlemen representing the best of Peterborough's manufacturing, mercantile and legal interests. In our opinion the trouble seems to be in a prevailing lack of system, together with an absorption of executive work by a prolixity of address that ofttimes wearies. Not infrequently men have held the floor to a length, and in a manner that would have pardoned the assumption that they were, to use the late LordBeaconsfield's own original criticism, inebriated by the exuberance of their own verbacity, to the exclusion of others' opinions. Of course, their oratorical efforts were well meant, but that sort of thing is not conducive to co-operative interest where citizens gather to discuss public questions and formulate measures in the community's welfare. We had a City Council once in which oratory dominated, with the result that the members sat longer hours than any subsequent or preceding one, and accomplished less actual work. We HAVE a Board of Education at present that sits less hours than any other civic body and the results of its labors reflects exceeding great credit upon Peterboro' City. In the latter organization and in the present City Council harmony prevails; in the former body discord was rife.

It is the activity of strong Committees that infuses life into public organizations and offers co-operative interest for the rank and file. The Board of Trade has at present but one Committee, the one appointed at its annual meeting to strike the Standing Committees, and they are not struck yet. Last year's President postponed the 1911 annual meeting for weeks in order to accommodate the convenience of a certain authority on Boatd of Trade matters, who had promised to give an address, and when the annual meeting was event-

THE UNITED STATES

The World makes the following sensational remarks editorially. "The condition of affairs in the United States, political and economic, grows more discouraging daily. You cannot take up a magazine, or read the speeches of leading men, or read the editorials in the reputable dailies or weeklies, without being surprised by the tone of despair that pervades them. Taft has almost lost hope; Morgan is turning defiant; the best authority on public rights as affected by the railroads, Judge Knapp of the United States Court of Commerce, says that if the railroads are not regulated they must be taken over by the state; the inability of congress or legislatures to pass laws that are "constitutional"; the labor disorders; the failure to secure trials because of lawyers' technicalities; bad faith laid at the door of nearly everyone; Wall-street, which has wrought so much evil by its methods, still blaming the government for its attacks on business, though Wall-street must know that it is the cause of much of the disorder; everywhere is a lack of hope, a lack of light, of sane leading.

"Things are getting near the bursting point. The World does not wish to be alarmist, but it cannot help noting the unmistakable trend that things are taking.

"Of all the political gold bricks in the world the inflexible constitution of the United States is easily the biggest. But Americans are slow to find it out, and when found out, still slower in saying so."

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for opinions of its correspondents.

MR. PECK'S PLEDGE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I understand that Mr. E. A. Peck has given a written pledge to a prominent organization regarding bi lingual schools. If this is true, I think it will be in the interests of the electors of Peterborough to know exactly what the letter contains. Is there any objection to your publishing it?

An Elector.

Reply—The above was submitted to Mr. Peck, and he sent us the following reply in substance. "Some electors called upon me some time ago and asked me for my views on the bi-lingual question. I understand they also requested Mr. Hall to express his opinion on the same subject. I wrote a letter to these parties expressing my views. I have of course no objection to the letter being published." The Times was informed by "one of the deputation which waited on Mr. Peck, that the letter pledges him to oppose bi-lingualism. The gentleman referred to, said that the letter was entirely satisfactory, but he did not care to have it published.—Ed.

GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I am much interested in the proposal which was made by Ald. Edgar at the Council to change our city council for a commission. I, however, see many difficulties in the way, and it may take a lot of persuasion to induce the ratepayers to make a change. In Toronto the matter has been discussed, and there developed a strong opposition to the plan. The success of the Hydro-Electric system is being used as a lever to popularize the idea. Temporary success may attend the efforts of a body of experts entrusted with administration of civic affairs. But no body of experts can give that stability of constructive government which accrues from direct popular control. The mutations of a democracy may check progress for a brief period, but this only ensures a cautious advance. Popular opinion, recorded at regular intervals, must be the driving force behind all governments, whether civic or national. Any attempt to set up an administrative commission in the place of popular representation is a retrograde step in the development of true democracy.

Direct election of Mayor, Aldermen and School Trustees gives Peterborough the most democratic form of government obtainable. Year by year the citizens decide what shall be done for the benefit of the town. Every year members of Council have to render an account of their stewardship. It would be impossible to secure more complete popular control. The policy which shall guide the growth of Peterborough, has yet to be formed, and until this has been done, and the seal of public approval has been set upon it, we cannot loosen the grip of the people on the administrative machinery.

Although only a comparative newcomer, I can see that Peterborough is on the verge of big developments. Let us, therefore, unite in helping to build up a great and good community, that will become one of the leading cities of the country.

DISORDERLY HOUSE.

A. Crouter and Wife in Police Court On Serious Charge.

Magistrate Dumble was out of town yesterday morning and City Clerk Armstrong presided at the Police Court.

Albert Crouter was charged with keeping a disorderly house, his wife with being an inmate thereof. Two policemen on entering the house arrested the couple. Several whiskey bottles were found, only one of which was full. The house was in a filthy state, according to the officials report. Both accused pleaded not guilty. No evidence was taken, and the case was enlarged until this morning.

MR. BURNHAM MAKES SOME SPLENDID SUGGESTIONS

The Commercial Life-Blood of Peterborough Now Being Diverted Elsewhere

Yesterday His Worship Mayor Morrow received the following letter from Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., which speaks for itself:

The suggestions made by our energetic member will no doubt receive prompt attention as they are of the greatest importance to the city as well as to the country which is now practically cut off from us.

To the Mayor and Council of Peterborough,

Gentlemen,—On Friday, Nov. 24th, at 11 a.m., the County Council of Peterborough appears before the Minister of Railways and Canals regarding several county matters. The Minister is extremely busy getting ready for Parliament, and this will likely be the last opportunity, at any rate at an early date, for the City of Peterborough to press upon the Minister's notice the absolute necessity of providing a grant towards the building of Bald Lake Narrows' bridge. If you will allow me to suggest, you might get Mr. Peck to interview the Whitney people, and then armed with their promise you could press the matter here with some success, I am sure. Then the County will be on hand to say what they can do in the matter, and thus we ought to be able to launch a scheme that can be of great benefit to Peterborough City and County.

The easterly projection of Pigeon Lake, known as Bald Lake and Little Bald Lake, cuts off the trade of the north one-third of the west riding completely from the city clear through to Buckhorn. This cut-off acts also like a destroyer of circulation. It prevents the commercial life-blood of that part of the world from circulating. All that part of the north country has become tributary to Lindsay, and we in Peterborough have done very little to help ourselves, and now is our time.

Then we must all unite in a request for an 8 foot 4 inch T.V.C., and the necessary conservation accompanying it to the full capacity of the Trent watershed.

Then your honorable body might think it well for us to have a senator and I think Mr. Kendry would meet with the general approval of the people. I merely suggest this.

Now let me propose that your honorable body send down as large a deputation as possible to co-operate with the County Council. There is nothing like a big deputation in business matters.

Pardon me for addressing you at such length, but there really should be a move in the direction referred to.

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

TORONTO SATURDAY NIGHT ON M'REA MURDER CASE

Handles Rev. Father Burke and the Catholic Register Without Gloves

The following from the last issue of our talented contemporary, Toronto Saturday Night, will be read with interest by our readers:

"Father Burke is a merry old soul and a merry old soul is he. According to his way of thinking a little gun play now and then is relished by the best of men. Most newspaper readers are familiar with the McRae murder case recently disposed of in Cornwall assizes. Influenced by a sudden attack of atavism a Highland Scotchman named Farquhar McRae fired a rifle at an automobile in which was seated a family connection whom he hated. The shot hit the wrong man and killed him. McRae in his excitement had forgotten that the scene was not the Highlands of Scotland and that the time was not the seventeenth century. The enemy was a Dr. Magee, the husband of his niece. She had left her husband, it is alleged, on religious grounds, although bad tempers on both sides of the household appear to have had more to do with their domestic unhappiness than religious convictions. Dr. Magee, in company with a friend, a druggist in Carp, Ont., had made an unsuccessful attempt to obtain possession of his child. As he was departing from the McRae domicile the shot was fired,

THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY TO BE EXTENDED

At a special meeting of the Council of North Monaghan, a by-law was introduced granting a franchise to the Peterborough Radial Railway Company for the construction of a line to Byersville. The by-law will have to go to the ratepayers for their approval, and will be voted on in January on municipal election day. Those ratepayers who are entitled to vote at the municipal elections may exercise their franchise in respect to the by-law, a majority vote being all that is necessary to carry it.

Under the by-law the company will have the right to construct a line from the terminus of the present C. G.E. branch to Albert street, and westward along this street to Alfred street, and on to Chamberlain street to Byersville. The rails and ties are on hand for this portion of the work, which will be put through early in the spring.

The by-law also empowers the company to build a line from Charlotte street, down the boundary line to the Otonabee river at Crawford's Grove, where a splendid park will be located.

BRITISH IMPERIAL ASSOCIATION

A splendid meeting of the British Imperial Association was held last night in the Association rooms. Hundreds of members assembled to enjoy a social time, but it was late when the president, Mr. R. J. Dovey called the meeting to order. The resolutions passed were not in any way milk and water. "Ne Temere" was promptly put into plain English as a violation of home life; Bi-lingual schools were promptly called as French, English (with an accent on the French) and both candidates will have to come out plainly on this question to gain votes. The meeting was unanimous as to a standard of "English" education for Ontario.

An amusing episode occurred when an excited member rose to ask "Mr. Chairman, are you a member of the P.P.A.?" Promptly came the answer, "No," and the chairman said: "We are subjects of the greatest Empire the world has ever seen, embracing Christians, Jews, Turks, Infidels and Heretic's, take your own heading, and live up to it, for the day will come when you will not only give account for the seeming, but the reality.

The committees for Ward workers were appointed and the meeting adjourned until the first week in December.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and mild with not much change in temperature.

SIR JAMES—"Huh; for the length of time taken to hatch it out, it's a skimpy chicken."

MUST FARMERS BANK CASES BE TRIED AGAIN?

Toronto, Nov. 20.—An interesting situation has arisen over the trial of Mr. J. R. Stratton and J. J. Warren which was conducted before Judge Winchester last week. When Mr. Justice Riddell opened up the Farmers Bank cases this morning he read the different indictments over and remarked "I see here that Mr. Stratton and Mr. Warren have pleaded before a high court judge before on this indictment; how is it that they were tried before a county judge? How is that Mr. Greer?"

"I believe that is another charge," answered the Crown Attorney.

Justice Winchester was sent for and he and Mr. Justice Riddell held a five-minute consultation and the circumstances of the trial last week were gone over, after which Mr. Justice Riddell remarked: "According to the information I now have the trial is null and void, but further consideration of the facts will have to be indulged in before I give my ruling."

Judge Winchester was asked for his opinion, after court adjourned at one o'clock, as to whether the trials were valid or not.

HIS HONOR UNCERTAIN.

"I can't say just yet. When they appeared before me they said they had not previously pleaded, and I am having the stenographer extend the notes so as to present the proceedings as they took place. However, I will not give judgment until the point is settled."

MIXED MARRIAGES ARE COMMON IN ONTARIO

In these days of discussion on the question of mixed marriages, the report of the Registrar-General for Ontario for rthis year, which is just closing, contains interesting information. Last year, out of atotal of 7,351 weddings in which Roman Catholics figured, 1,509 married out of their own denomination. Anglicans, Presbyterians, Baptists and Lutherans allied themselves to the Catholics in the order named. Five Roman Catholic girls married Jewish young men, while two Roman Catholic grooms chose wives from among the Hebrews. Methodist brides favored Presbyterians while Baptist young ladies preferred Methodists, with Presbyterians and Anglicans next in their affections. The majority of Salvation Army lassies loved the men with the red jerseys, only seventeen out of eighty-seven going outside the army for custodians.

Only seventeen Hebrew men forsook the Miriams and Rachels. Jewesses, however, were prone to fall in love with Anglicans, for of the seven who married out of their faith of their fathers, five chose Anglicans, Roman Catholics being the happy parties in the other two cases.

Blushing couples who are not sure how long they should wait for the happy day will note with interest that last year in Ontario one-third of the young men married between the ages of twenty and twenty-four. Forty-seven per cent. of the brides were also between those ages. June is still the month of the wedding bells. September and December were the next months in favor.

THE MEN OF ST. JOHN'S MEET

Mr. A. H. Stratton must have been very much gratified at the number of men of St. John's who answered his invitation to his home last night. Although a private meeting, it may not be out of place to say that a goodly number of vital questions were ventilated. Briefly, 'The Laymens' Missionary Movement,' was forcibly dealt with by Mr. Mr. Aylmer. The A. Y. P. A., by Mr. Coleman, and the Sunday School position by Mr. R. J. Dovey.

The Rev. Canon Davidson appealed for a wide interest in the work of the church, for home and abroad, which meant nothing less than personal service.

In the desultory discussion that followed, the leaders, Mr. Campbell, Mr. Conway, Mr. Wainwright, and Mr. Coleman, all urged the importance of the A.Y.P.A., and an influential committee was appointed to meet on Wednesday next.

6,000 MINERS BACK TO WORK.

Mines Will Be Working to Capacity By Wednesday.

Winnipeg, Nov. 20.—Nearly six thousand miners returned to work this morning in the Crow's Nest Pass coal mines. It is expected the mines will be working to full capacity by Wednesday. Coal from the mines will be on the market before the end of the week. The strike was started March 27th and has lasted over since.

MR. HALL AT YOUNG'S POINT

Mr. R. R. Hall, Liberal candidate, held a successful meeting at Young's Point last night, at which there was a large attendance. Mr. Hall was accompanied by Mr. D. O'Connell, who also delivered a spirited address dealing with the issues of the campaign in a logical and masterly way.

Mr. Hall, on rising to speak, was greeted with prolonged and hearty applause. He dealt mainly with agricultural issues and in the course of a vigorous address, in part, said:

"What is the cause of the rural population of the Province of Ontario decreasing? asked Mr. Hall. What is the cause of so many of our farmers' sons leaving the farms of Ontario and going elsewhere? The answer is plain. The Whitney Government is doing practically nothing to make farming profitable or to make farm life attractive. The fact of the matter is that farming should be considered one of the most profitable and one of the most attractive enterprises in which a man can engage.

"Both the Dominion Government and the Provincial Government have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in making costly experiments in every branch of agriculture. The vast majority of these experiments have not been successful, but an immense number of them have been successful.

"What has the Whitney Government done to show to the farmer of this riding the results of successful experiments? They have done practically nothing.

"It is no advantage to the farming community to distribute among them costly reports and bulletins upon agriculture which are not read, and which if they were read it would be difficult to apply. The Government should place in the City of Peterborough a practical demonstrator who has had athorough agricultural college training and who knows all about the successful experiments that have been made.

"If a farmer wants to have his orchard treated he could go to this demonstrator and find out from him or be shown on his own farm exactly the best way to scrape and prune his apple trees and he could tell him the proper time of the year to spray them with the best results.

"Were this done every orchard in the county should produce from three to five times more apples than it does to-day and of a better quality.

"Another question a farmer can ask the demonstrator is 'what is the cheapest and best kind of fodder I can grow on my farm?' It may be alfalfa. It may be corn or some other produce. A practical demonstrator from observing the land or analyzing the soil could tell. Another question. What is the cheapest way that has been found to destroy noxious weeds? A sample of the particular weed could be shown to the demonstrator. He could tell because he knows the results of the most successful experiments that have been made in destroying noxious weeds.

"What is the cheapest way of raising chickens and producing eggs all of which command high prices and particularly so in the winter. A demonstrator knows because he knows from successful experience.

"So much for producing farm products the cheapest, but they must be marketed.

"If a radial railway between Young's Point and Peterborough were built it would be a great service. It would increase the value of every farm along its route. It would be a source of convenience and profit to every farmer in the district.

"I would strongly advocate, said Mr. Hall, as I have done in my address to the electors, that such Radial Railways should be given Provincial assistance. We have the water powers, we have the rich agricultural lands. We have the industrious and progressive people in this district.

"All that we require is an active and aggressive representative who will see that we get this railway."

How to Safely Peel Your Face

(From Beauty Culture)

If you have a muddy, sallow or blotchy complexion, the most sensible thing to do is to remove it—rather than to patch it over or "doctor" it with any cosmetic, rouge or lotion. The only way to really remove the complexion—aside from resorting to an expensive and painful surgical operation—is by means of ordinary mercolized wax. Spread the wax over the face, as you would cold cream, washing it off in the morning. This gradually absorbs the lifeless and the half-dead outer skin, in minute, almost invisible particles — and gradually the fresh young skin beneath beams forth. Then you have a clear, smooth, velvety, healthy-hued complexion, such as no unnatural method can possibly produce.

Surface defects due to weather, ill-health or the ravages of time, of course disappear with the discarded skin. Ask the druggist for an ounce of pure mercolized wax; this is usually sufficient.

FALL SESSION OF THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

Bridge Construction Requirements Will Be Presented to the Minister of Railways and Canals.

The fall session of the County Council opened at the County Council Chambers yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. The docket is light and the council is in hopes of clearing everything off the slate this week. Some bridge construction requirements are needed in the county and a deputation will be sent to Ottawa to interview the Minister of Railways and Canals on the subject. This deputation contemplates leaving for the capital on Thursday night.

The County Council is composed of the following representatives: Warden Cobden: Councillors, W. Breault E. A. Tanner, J. Knox, W. Comstock J. W. Russell, W. Tucker, W. Hales, C. J. Darling, F. Mober, S. Killen, C. Cobden (Warden); R. Shaw, W. G. Howden, J. Miller, T. H. Graham and J. H. Garbutt.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

was incorporated by Special Act of the Parliament of Canada for the purpose of carrying on the business of Fire Insurance, as outlined in the Insurance Act and the Special Act of Incorporation.

Capital Stock Authorized by the Board.....$2,000,000
Capital Stock Subscribed to date.....$1,650,000

The Head Office of the Company is in the city of Winnipeg, and, in addition to this, Branch Offices and Agencies will be established throughout the Dominion.

It must be generally conceded that, owing to the satisfactory conditions at present prevailing throughout not only Western Canada, but the entire Dominion, this Company is being organized at a most favorable and opportune time.

Canada, and particularly the Western portion of the Dominion, is advancing in population and wealth more rapidly than at any other time in its history, and every indication points towards a period of great prosperity and development.

The great influx of settlers into Western Canada is resulting in tremendous activity in every line of business. Railroad construction is proceeding on a scale hitherto unknown in this country, and as adequate transportation is of vital importance in moving our immense crops with a proper degree of facility, it is highly encouraging to see so much well-directed energy along the lines of railway extension.

Coincident with railway expansion, we find many new districts rapidly filling up with desirable settlers, bringing with them a good supply of cash and effects. With the settlement of the rural districts, new towns and villages are springing up, which will, during the next few years, become, in many instances, important business centres.

With such unprecedented growth in Western as well as Eastern Canada, involving an expenditure of millions of dollars in building operations, it is at once evident that there is a very extensive and profitable field for a new Fire Insurance Company which will have a thorough organization throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, and more particularly in the four Western Provinces.

As a great volume of our business will be transacted in the West, it is a matter of the greatest importance that the Head Office of the Company, as well as the Directors, should be located in the West, so that the affairs of the Company may be conducted to the best possible advantage.

DIRECTORS.

The Board of Directors consists entirely of Western men with a very intimate knowledge of Western conditions, and they are, accordingly, well conversant with the financial and general business requirements of the West. They are thoroughly representative of the various important branches of financial, commercial, industrial and professional life in Western Canada, and with their wide reputation for business ability and integrity, as well as financial standing, combined with a long and varied experience, and practical knowledge of business affairs, they are exceptionally well qualified to render excellent service to a large financial institution.

As the Directors have valuable connections with extensive business interests and are also Directors of other financial corporations, as well as being otherwise identified with large and influential companies which control a great deal of high-grade fire insurance, they will be instrumental in placing a large portion of this desirable insurance with the new Company, so that we may safely conclude that from the very beginning of operations a large and profitable business will be secured.

Under these favorable conditions, and with a strong, energetic, as well as experienced and conservative management, combined with the fact that each Director has subscribed for eleven thousand five hundred dollars ($11,500) of the Capital Stock, on which all calls have been paid, and takes an active interest in the welfare of the Company, there is only one conclusion to draw, and that is that the affairs of the Company will be conducted in such a careful, conscientious and intelligent manner that the interests of both policyholders and stockholders will be fully protected.

IT IS WORTHY OF NOTE THAT $1,650,000 OF CAPITAL STOCK HAS ALREADY BEEN SUBSCRIBED BY PROMINENT BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN THROUGHOUT THE DOMINION AND ELSEWHERE.

No commission has been paid to anyone for securing stock subscriptions, and no expense has been incurred in the promotion and organization of the Company, except the expense in connection with securing the Charter and other necessary expenses.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE.

The Canada National Fire, being organized in the West, MAY BE TRULY CALLED A WESTERN COMPANY, and, as such, should receive the liberal patronage and hearty co-operation of the citizens of Western Canada, as well as the support of people from Eastern Canada who desire to become associated with a strong and progressive Canadian Company.

When promoting this Company the Directors were fully convinced that there was a splendid opening in Western Canada for a Company prepared to carry on the business of Fire Insurance on a large and comprehensive scale, and which, at the same time, could offer ADEQUATE PROTECTION TO BOTH POLICYHOLDERS AND SHAREHOLDERS. Accordingly, when making application for a Dominion charter, the Company was incorporated with a capital of $3,000,000.00, of which amount the Directors decided to offer for public subscription the sum of $2,000,000.00.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT FEATURE IN FIRE INSURANCE IS PROTECTION, and with the LARGE CAPITAL, combined with the high standard of Reserve, which will be maintained through careful selection of risks and profits from judicious investments, the Directors and Management feel confident that this Company will be accorded a very hearty reception by Canadian citizens, and will soon rank as one of the leading Fire Companies.

WITHOUT A LARGE AND SUBSTANTIAL CAPITAL FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE POLICYHOLDERS, A FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY IS SERIOUSLY HANDICAPPED, AND DOES NOT AFFORD THE POLICYHOLDER THAT PROTECTION TO WHICH HE IS JUSTLY ENTITLED, and the Directors of this Company, being fully aware of this most important fact, are adopting a very wise policy in OFFERING FOR SUBSCRIPTION SUCH A LARGE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL STOCK, and when our entire stock is subscribed and paid in full it will represent the largest amount of subscribed and paid-up capital of any Canadian Fire Insurance Company, and will be a tower of strength and of very material benefit to the company in carrying on its extensive operations.

THE GREATEST AMOUNT OF CARE AND ATTENTION by the Board of Directors.

It shall be the policy of the Company to use the UTMOST DISCRETION in the selection of desirable risks, and, at the same time, to so widely distribute its business that any danger arising from a possible conflagration at any point may be reduced to a minimum.

The investment of the Company's funds will be given the GREATEST OF CARE AND ATTENTION by the Board of Directors.

Only GILT-EDGE securities will be considered, such as first mortgages on improved, productive real estate, stocks, bonds and debentures of companies of high repute, as well as Dominion securities and municipal, county and school debentures of well-established districts.

As a LARGE PERCENTAGE of these securities is READILY NEGOTIABLE, the Company will have abundant LIQUID ASSETS to meet any possible contingency that might arise.

Our first mortgage investments will be confined to Western Canada, and as the rate of interest obtainable on first-class productive real estate is FULLY TWO PER CENT. greater in the West than in Eastern Canada, the Company will have a DECIDED ADVANTAGE over Companies operating exclusively in the older portions of the Dominion. A fixed policy of the Company is to loan NOT MORE THAN FIFTY PER CENT. of a conservative value of the property, and to stipulate for a definite return of principal, together with interest, each year during the term of the loan. With these periodical repayments of principal, and with land values in Western Canada steadily increasing, the Company's first mortgage securities will continue to improve year by year.

With the active development in Western Canada, a great deal of capital will be required for many years to come, and the Company will, therefore, experience a very ready demand for its funds on high-grade securities and at a profitable rate of interest.

The Directors decided to issue the stock at the price of ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTEEN DOLLARS PER SHARE, being at a premium of fifteen per cent.

THE TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION ARE:

On application, $25.00 per share, which shall include the premium of $15.00 per share, and the balance, payable in ten consecutive half-yearly instalments of $9.00 per share, the first of such half-yearly instalments to become due and payable six months from date of allotment of shares.

Shares may be PAID IN FULL at time of subscription, but if purchased on the INSTALMENT PLAN the subscriber shall have the privilege of paying any or all of the instalments prior to due dates.

The Following Table Shows the Amount of First Call as well as the Subsequent Payments:

NO BONUS STOCK shall be issued for any purpose whatsoever, and even the Directors, who are very heavy stockholders in the Company, have paid the SAME PRICE for their shares as the general public. NOT ONE SHARE has been or will be issued to any person at a price less than $115.00 per share.

THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY to secure some of the Capital Stock of a Western Fire Insurance Company. With a large amount of desirable and profitable business so readily obtainable by the Company through its valuable and extensive business connections, rapid progress should be made, and with investments carefully selected and unexcelled in earning power, the Company will be enabled to not only pay substantial dividends, but build up a large reserve, and thereby materially increase the value of the stock.

The Directors firmly believe in the policy that EVERY SHAREHOLDER SHOULD CO-OPERATE WITH THE MANAGEMENT of a Company and take an active interest in its welfare. For that reason, it is their intention to WIDELY DISTRIBUTE the CAPITAL STOCK, and by that means obtain the support of the leading business and professional men throughout the country.

With the rapid development of the West during recent years, involving an outlay of many millions of capital, it has become generally recognized that WESTERN CANADA IS VERY MUCH IN NEED OF MORE LARGE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND ESPECIALLY OF WESTERN ORIGIN, to properly meet the growing requirements of the West, and to not only improve the present financial situation, but to materially assist in retaining, as much as possible, desirable business, with its resultant profits, within our own Western borders.

The business of fire insurance has now grown to such large proportions that it has become a very important factor in the financial and commercial world, and as its scope and influence is so general and widespread it is only natural to find that the question of AMPLE PROTECTION TO POLICYHOLDERS, which is the PRIMARY FUNCTION OF FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES, should be so GENERALLY DISCUSSED AT THE PRESENT TIME.

This important subject has given rise to a very STRONG FEELING in Western Canada that the TIME HAS NOW ARRIVED when the Western people should organize a Fire Insurance Company of such strength and proportions that it will soon rank as one of the leading fire companies of America, and command general respect and confidence, which is so ESSENTIAL to a company that solicits the support and patronage of all classes of the community.

The Directors have every confidence that they will receive the hearty co-operation of not only Western citizens, but of people from every part of the Dominion, to build up a GREAT fire insurance company with AMPLE PROTECTION for the people, and which will be a source of pride and credit to our country.

The following Canadian Government Insurance statistics should prove of ESPECIAL INTEREST:

In the year 1909 the total amount of fire premiums collected in Canada was $1,785,530.00, whereas in the year 1909 the total premiums charged amounted to the large sum of $23,293,636.25, and of this amount $6,551,044.41 was charged by Canadian Companies, $11,518,267.45 by British Companies, and $4,223,721.39 by American Companies.

During the last forty-one years the aggregate amount of fire insurance premiums collected in Canada reached the immense total of $280,740,466.00, of which the large sum of $216,310,047.00 represents the amount of fire premiums collected by FOREIGN COUNTRIES, and which, therefore, was taken out of the country to build up foreign companies and enrich foreign shareholders.

Notwithstanding that a considerable portion of the fire premiums collected in Canada by Foreign Companies has been repaid to Canadian policyholders, through fire losses, it must be evident that the larger the proportion of Canadian fire insurance that is placed with Canadian Companies, the larger is the amount of capital retained in the Dominion and always available for investment purposes, to build up our Canadian financial institutions, and thereby add to the general wealth and prosperity of our country.

The above figures are most significant and clearly demonstrate that while the CANADIAN FIRE COMPANIES have been doing a satisfactory business they HAVE SECURED only a SMALL portion of the Fire Insurance transacted in Canada, or, to be more exact, ONLY TWENTY-TWO PER CENT. of THE TOTAL FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN IN CANADA, covering a period of the last forty-one years. With the extraordinary progress which Canada has been making during recent years, the field for financial institutions has become so widely extended that there is a CONSTANTLY INCREASING DEMAND for new large financial corporations.

By further reference to our Government statistics it will be observed that at December 31st, 1909, the total number of Canadian Fire Companies operating under Dominion charter was ONLY TWENTY-ONE, and of this number ONLY TWO HAD A PAID-UP CAPITAL IN EXCESS OF $500,000.

In promoting this large Canadian Company the Directors are fully confident that the new organization will, with characteristic Western energy and enterprise, soon come to be recognized as an important factor in the insurance world, and as The Canada National Fire will be instrumental in RETAINING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF CANADA a large amount of money which would otherwise be taken out of the country to build up foreign corporations the people of the growing Dominion will readily see the advisability of giving this Company their MORAL AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT, in order that we may build up a STRONG and VIGOROUS Company which will prove a valuable acquisition to our Canadian monetary institutions.

This is the last opportunity to secure, direct from the Company, some of this desirable stock.

It is worthy of special note that the demand for the stock has exceeded the Directors' most sanguine expectations; in fact, of the $2,000,000 of stock to be issued, $1,650,000 has already been subscribed, and, from present indications, with the large number of applications for stock being received daily, the Directors are confident that the balance of the issue, which is now only $350,000, will be subscribed by August 26th, 1911, the date appointed for the closing of stock subscriptions.

For this reason, the Directors strongly recommend the investing public to mail their applications for stock at their earliest possible opportunity.

Subscribers are requested to kindly fill in attached application form, stating name in full, number of shares desired, occupation and address, and mail the application, along with the first call of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) per share on the stock, direct to the Head Office of the Company, Winnipeg, Man., or, if so desired, application may be made for the stock at any of the Company's Branch Offices or at any Branch of the Royal or Imperial Banks, where application blanks and any additional information will be readily furnished. Applications for stock will be considered in the order received, and on approval of the same by the Board of Directors a certificate for the number of shares subscribed will be issued and mailed the shareholders forthwith. Cheques, Drafts, Money Orders or other remittances on account of stock subscriptions should be made payable to The Canada National Fire Insurance Company.

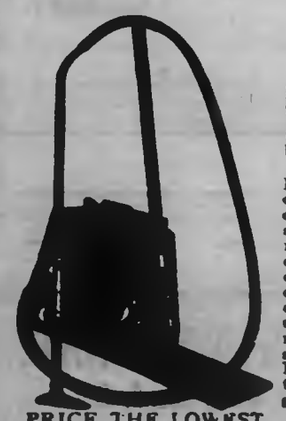
KING EDWARD VACUM CLEANER



You cannot clean carpets, rugs and furniture by beating. If you think you have, just try a KING EDWARD VACUUM CLEANER and you will find the article full of dust, which breeds disease.

The KING EDWARD HAND MACHINE has no equal as compared with other hand machines. It is lighter to operate and its suction is much stronger. Its suction is stronger than many of the power machines, and the dusting is done away with. On account of the short stroke one person can operate it on carpets and rugs equally as well as two, and it is about half the weight of other hand machines to carry up and down stairs or from one room to another. It is sold for less money than any of the hand machines. All machines are guaranteed.

Progress in India

An Englishman, while walking through a remote village of the Deccan, noticed a large stone pillar, richly carved, lying by the roadside. He asked the origin and destination of the monolith. It was for the porch of a temple on the brow of a precipice two miles away, overlooking the hamlet. The headman of the place, to whom the Briton had applied for information, explained that the villagers dragged the monolith on great festival days. In his lifetime, he added, they had moved it a hundred yards.

The headman was nearly fifty years of age, a circumstance that occasioned the foreigner much astonishment in connection with the foregoing statements. He wondered how long a period would elapse before the pillar would reach its destination.

"The English are in such a hurry," was the reply. "They come and they go. Others have come and gone their way, and so will you. But the pillar will reach the summit."

There's Music!

Senator Depew, at a recent dinner in New York, said of Richard Strauss's music:

"To hear Strauss's 'Elektra' or his 'Domestic Symphony' always makes me think of the old Scotch piper who said: "'Ah, there's ane nicht I sall ne'er forget. There were nineteen pipers besides mysel' all in a wee bit parlor, all playin' different tunes. I just thoucht I was in heaven!"

A Thought for To-day

As in that which is above Nature, so in Nature itself: he that breaks one physical law is guilty of all. The whole universe, as it were, takes up arms against him, and all Nature, with her numberless and unseen powers is ready to average herself upon him, and on his children after him, he knows not when nor where. He, on the other hand, who obeys the law of Nature with his whole heart and mind, will find all things working together to him for good. He is helped and befriended alike by the sun above his head and the dust beneath his feet: because he is obeying the will and mind of Him who made sun, and dust, and all things: and who has given them a law which cannot be broken. Kingsley.

Thought it was a Crack.

A corpulent gentleman with a large appetite entered a mean-looking restaurant, and ordered a chop, and waited twenty minutes. Then the waiter reappeared with a plate on which rested a dab of mashed potatoes, a bit of meat burnt almost to a cinder, out of which emerged a long, thin piece of bone.

The waiter set it down before the starving gentleman and hurried off.

"See here," called the customer, "I ordered a chop."

"Yes sir," replied the man, "there it is."

"Ah, so it is," mused the hungry man, readjusting his spectacles. "I thought it was a crack in the plate."

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Workshop, Victoria Island, Ottawa," will be received until 4 p.m., on Thursday, November 23, 1911, for the construction of a Workshop, Victoria Island, Ottawa.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

MEN OF CANADA IN PLAY TIME

Some Interesting Facts and Figures Relating to the Recreations of the Grown-Ups in their Hours of Leisure

The Canadian "Who's Who" is an interesting study in the careers of several thousands of Canadian men and women who have attained distinction in some line of activity; but the significant features of these brief histories are not so often in the records of success and accomplishment as in the list of recreations in which these men indulge in their moments of leisure.

Of the 660 whose recreations are quoted, 225, or more than one-third, acknowledge shooting as a favourite form of play. Of these fourteen at least specify rifle target shooting, and six big game shooting. The rest it may be presumed are devoted to hunting in one form or another. "Let us go out and kill something," is the way a witty Frenchman once described the Englishman's idea of sport, and the Canadian seems in a fair way to follow his example. Fishing and shooting go together with a large number of people and 162 mention fishing as a recreation.

For a country with such splendid water courses and lakes, the number among those mentioned who are devoted to water sports is surprisingly small. With only forty-four is yachting or sailing a recognized diversion. Canoeing appeals to thirty-one, boating without special preference to forty, rowing to thirteen, swimming to six, and camping, which of course includes any or all of the pleasures of the water, to thirty-one.

The same thing may be said of winter sports. The Canadian winter is the glory of the Canadian climate, but in view of the general favour in which winter sports are held, it is remarkable that only 96 — perhaps largely the Scotch proportion of the population — go in for curling, thirteen for skating, three for hockey, two for snowshoeing, two for skiing, and one for tobogganing.

Athletic and outdoor sports do not occupy as important a place as might be expected. This may be due to the fact that as men grow older — old enough to qualify for admission to "Who's Who" — they have usually passed from the performing to the onlooking stage in athletics.

Beware of Imitation Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

OLD LEATHER FOR DINNER

Hungry Men Existed on Hard Leather, and It Might Be Well to Hold Old Boots Against Possible Crop Failure.

The famous Captain Morgan and his piratical crew were sometimes in tight places at Panama, and on one occasion were reduced to eating their leathern bags. Some persons who never were out of their mothers' kitchens may ask how these pirates could eat, swallow, and digest these pieces of leather, so hard and dry. "Lint," states one of the company who narrated the story, "could they once experience what hunger, or, rather, famine is, they would certainly find the manner, by their own necessity, as the pirates did. For these first took the leather and sliced it in pieces. Then did they beat it between two stones and rub it, often dipping it in the water of the river, to render it by these means supple and tender. Lastly, they scraped off the hair, and roasted or broiled it upon the fire. And being thus cooked they cut it into small morsels and ate it, helping it down with frequent gulps of water, which by good fortune they had right at hand."

FIRST OF THE MOVING PICTURE

Birth of Popular Entertainment was in California in Effort to Obtain Exact Record of Fast Trotting Horse.

Eadweard Muybridge, a photographer of Oakland, California, invented moving pictures over a quarter of a century ago. The invention came about in this way: Leland Stanford, the Governor of California, was a great race-horse man. His celebrated trotter Occident was the first horse to make a record of 2.20 west of the Rocky Mountains, and Stanford engaged Muybridge to photograph him in every shape and form. Muybridge then made the first instantaneous pictures of a horse in action — pictures which knocked out the old idea of artists and nobody else that an animal at speed sometimes extended all four feet at once.

Finally, in order to get the horse's full action exactly, the photographer placed a line of cameras a tenth of a mile long on the track, and from these he stretched silk threads across the course at about the height of the trotter's knees. As these threads were broken each made a picture of the horse, and by putting them together and shuffling them the trotter could be seen in motion.

In 1885 Muybridge went to England, and with the help of several other men evolved the first moving picture camera. A year later some of those instruments reached America, and applications for patents began to pour into Washington.

Not many large fortunes have been made by the makers. Some of the early manufacturers made between $100,000 and $200,000 a year for three years, and are wealthy. It is not on record that Muybridge ever made much money from the invention which gave to the public this immensely popular form of cheap entertainment.

Judge Got the Baby.

A few days ago an Iowa county court judge tried to imitate King Solomon in his well-known decision respecting the child that was claimed by two women. In the Iowa Court two women claimed to be the mother of a child that was produced before the judge. Thinking that history might repeat itself, the judge asked for the infant. Then, opening his knife, he announced his intention of cutting the child in half. Whereupon one of the mothers exclaimed, "Oh, if it comes to that you may keep the child yourself," and both women left the court.

"It appears to me that Solomon was very over-rated man," murmured the judge.

BABES OF ERIN ON THE SLUMP

Toll of Emigration and Decreased Marriage Market has Serious Effect on the Birthrate in the Green Isle.

In the report of the commissioners of national education in Ireland, just issued, is the statement that there are places in Sligo where there are no children. The senior inspector of the Sligo education circuit says:

"Those who in the past did not emigrate, but remained at home, have grown up and, confronted by the difficulty of subsistence, have never married.

"Within a radius of two miles there are 63 houses, and in 49 there are no children.

"In other places young men and women emigrate year after year, and there are none left to help on the farms except the children, who are therefore kept away from school."

Those Can't Laugh

Laughter is unknown among the Veddahs of Ceylon. They are the most solemn people of the world. When a traveller asked some of them why their people never gave indications of mirth, they replied that they never saw anything to laugh at. On the other hand, some savages appear to have a more robust sense of humour than their civilised brethren. Dr. Livingstone tells of an African tribe who, when dressed in clothes for the first time, "rolled about on the ground in uncontrollable fits of laughter."

Well Worth the Price

Sir James Crichton Browne tells a new story of the railway tunnel. A friend of his once travelled in a first-class carriage, when they were not so well lit as to-day, with a newly married couple. On emerging from a long tunnel they "were very much in love" and "to minimise the confusion" (his own confusion presumably) the superfluous third party said: "This tunnel cost £100,000." To this the bridegroom replied: "It was well worth the money."

THE DEATH TRAP OF THE AGES

California Tar-Pool has Revealed More Regarding Pre-Historic Animal Life than any other Source on Record.

The amazing assortment of mastodon specimens at the University of California at Berkeley have been drawn mostly from the well-known oil sump at Rancho la Brea, near Los Angeles. In this pool, widely described as the death trap of the ages, there have been dug up from the asphalt beds a vast number of skulls and remains of prehistoric creatures. As an active collection agency the tar pool was more efficient than the best fly trap ever invented. In digging through the asphalt, the geologists in one spot encountered the bones of not less than seven sabre-toothed tigers. In two cubic yards of material seventeen perfect skulls of the sabre-tooth were discovered. Besides this, there were unearthed one complete skeleton and four perfect skulls of a great prehistoric wolf. Indeed, the tar pool has revealed more of the history of the prehistoric animal life of California than any other source.

For nearly half a century the asphalt deposits that stretch through the region of the Los Angeles tar pool were known to contain hundreds of bones, but no investigator had a suspicion of what the bones were. In 1875 Major Hancock, owner of the Rancho la Brea, gave William Denton one of the huge fossil sabres that he had found in the asphalt. Mr. W. W. Orcutt, a noted Californian geologist, recognized the bones as those of prehistoric animals.

The Second Largest

Moosejaw is likely to have further rush of capital in course of next spring and rumor tells that the C. P. R. will lurk around the top-liners on the list of labor-employers.

At present several new tracks are being laid down, and the cash expenditure means considerable heap of bank balance to the credit of the gentlemen who hand groceries and things across the counter, the payroll for the small army totting up to over $200,000 per month.

Here, by the way, is located the second largest individual railway yard in the world — a yard containing over 70 miles of tracks and an engine house housing three dozen locomotives. The cattle yards are the largest between Calgary and Winnipeg.

Advertisement by Water.

An ingenious machine has just been put on the Parisian market. According to details given in "La Publicité" the machine prints an announcement on the ground in water, which it sprays upon the soil in a fine shower. The letters or signs will last from twenty to thirty minutes, until the evaporation of the water is complete, and as the spray of water also serves the welcome purpose of laying the dust, the invention will doubtless be accorded a heartier welcome than the majority of advertising devices of this nature receive.

SLOWLY DYING

THOUSANDS ARE SLOWLY DYING FROM CATARRH, BUT DON'T KNOW THEIR DANGER.

A Case in Point

Mr. Ulric Berault, a young gentleman who has lived for years in Sweetsburg, Quebec, inherited Catarrh from his mother. The disease spread through his system till he was a physical wreck.

"As a child," said Mr. Berault, "I was prone to an ulceration of the mucous lining of the throat and nasal passages.

"I grew pale and emaciated, lost all desire for food, and got into such a dreadful condition that my friends said that Catarrh was fairly eating me up.

"Every organ of my body seemed affected and the doctor said it was the first stage of consumption. He advised Catarrhozone, and I inhaled it ten minutes at a time every few hours, and was rewarded in a few days by a wonderful improvement.

"Catarrhozone pleased me and the doctor so well that I used it continually, and took Ferrozone Tablets after each meal to build up my strength. In about three weeks I was quite recovered, and the doctor says no remedy but Catarrhozone could work such a miracle.

"Every one in town knows I was just about dead with Catarrh, and my cure is an evidence of what Catarrhozone can do. It is a pleasure to recommend Catarrhozone."

(Signed) Ulric Berault."

Catarrhozone beyond question is the proper remedy for catarrhal and bronchial troubles. The medicated air goes all through the air passages of the head, throat and lungs. It kills the germs, heals the sore spots, allays irritation and keeps the breath pure.

Complete outfit, sufficient for two months' treatment, price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE [illegible]

By Martin Lyon

(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.)

Perfectly motionless lay the ship on the still water, awaiting the dawn to enter the harbor. In a deck-chair Leslie Cartwright stirred restlessly. It was late and nearly all the other passengers had retired for the night; but he was in no mood for sleep.

In the dim light the man's face was gray with an unnatural pallor, scored blackly here and there, on the forehead and round the mouth, with short hard lines. Every now and then his hands would clench nervously, and a quick impatient sigh escaped his compressed lips. The light murmur from the bulwarks, where a late fellow-traveler and the first officer were chatting over a last cigar, came to him as an impertinence and an irritation. At length the voices died away as the speakers moved forward, and nothing broke the stillness save the long wash of the Australasian sea and at intervals, with jarring suddenness, the striking of the ship's bell.

The man looked around to see if he was alone, and dropped back with an exclamation of satisfaction. By-and-by he began to murmur and fret once more. "What fools women are!" he growled. "They take an abstraction and make a god of it; they take a literature and make it a fetish. And what a fool I am to take so much notice of their chatter!"

He was silent for a time. Then he resumed his muttering. "Who said 'the Veil of Futurity is woven by the hand of Mercy'? Stuff! I should like to lift it, for one. Just as though there could possibly be any mercy in not letting a poor devil see what's ahead of him — and people have lifted it, too — what about the Eastern mystics — the sooth-sayers — the Chaldeans? — what about prophecy? The old prophets were more than the mere far-sighted statesmen as some would have us believe — wonderful — wonderful——"

His voice died away in a low, dreamy murmur; then he stirred again, and began to mutter once more.

"What about their wretched Western imitators! They are too grossly material to possess even a fraction of the occult power they presume to lay claim to. Centuries of European training have been quite enough to exterminate any force of the kind, even if it ever existed. Existed? — of course it did. Men have read the stars like an open book and seen their own fate in the signs of the wind and the wave — they have foretold war and famine and pestilence and the doom of nations: but they were men of old — not the puerile would-be mystics of to-day.

"I do not believe the most spiritualized, sensitive Anglo-Saxon could look five minutes into the unknown."

As he spoke, his white face grew whiter, and an expression almost of fear came over it. He shivered for a moment, then braced himself, evidently with an effort. He laughed nervously.

"Something is wrong with me," he said savagely. "I hope I am not going to get fever. I had a feeling then that I could know the future, if I would — only — that it would be well for me if I did not will to know. It's horribly uncanny; I can't shake it off. Well — his voice rose in excited defiance — "I will test this power. I demand to see myself a year hence."

x x x

Then he was floating in a thick, heavy atmosphere; now dark — dark to blackness — now lightening into transparent blue; sometimes flashing into silver, and even blazing into a splendor of gorgeous golden freshness.

Around him, with him, and of him, were long, spherical gray shapes. He was conscious of a curious sense of dispersion — of separation in some indefinite, indefinable manner from himself; and yet he was perfectly capable of connected thought.

"Can this be an answer to my demand?" he questioned. "Bah! As vague as all prophecy! Well, we will ask eleven months." There was no change. "Well, then, ten — nine — eight — seven six!"

A look of horror seized him. Great drops of sweat sprang out on his brow. One might have seen the muscles start and stiffen in his hands as he gripped the arms of the chair. "Five — four — three — two — a month, yes, a month!" he spoke with agonized intensity.

The sense of uneasiness was with him still, but in a modified degree. He seemed more sentient, more living, more human. His voice rose to a shriek. "Take me back to this hour — to this minute." He was alive now, but oh! the agony of that revival! Ah, that fierce, deadly grip on his shoulder! A score of cruel, sharp points were entering his flesh and crushing his loins as in a steel trap! What was that awful wrenching tug at his foot? "Ah, mercy! mercy!"

x x x

The first officer reported to the captain:

"I had been talking to Mr. Chadwick till he finished his cigar. I noticed Mr. Cartwright — he was lying in a deck-chair, I thought asleep. Before turning in finally, I made the round of the decks, after Mr. Chadwick had gone. When I came back Mr. Cartwright was still there, and, as I thought he might get a chill if he slept in the open air, I was going to awake him.

"As I got close to him, I found that he was talking in his sleep very excitedly. I was just about to rouse him when he sprang out of his chair with a most dreadful shriek for mercy and before I could stop him he had rushed to the side and jumped overboard. I snatched up a coil of rope and ran to the place, but I was too late. It would almost seem as if the sharks had been waiting for him. There were three of them."

And he turned away and put his hand over his eyes.

The man who always follows the dictation of his conscience must have pretty sharp ears.

BOARD OF TRADE

ually called, its attendance was, as might have been expected, slim. On another occasion, much friction arose over the question of whether the meeting was a Board of Trade one, or a gathering of citizens at which the Board had no authority to recommend a certain proposition above its official signatures, and some members left in a huff. Such irregularities would undermine the life of any organization, if not checked in time.

The Times would respectfully offer that the conduction of the Board of Trade might be to advantage, more thoroughly systematized. Let it meet once every month, excepting perhaps in July and August, and not ONLY when some subject of an attractive nature crops up incidentally. Should the interval between meetings be unduly prolonged some members are prone to get out of the HABIT of attending, and habit enters largely into one's life. Then it's up to the Board's executive to furnish business for each meeting for discussion and committee activity. With Committees actively engaged on live questions interest in the Board will be revived.

A committee was appointed at last meeting to act in conjunction with the Council's Manufacturers Committee, and if that Committee does its duty, it will meet with the Council's Committee on all occasions of an industrial nature, and should these two committees co-operate as they ought, one Board of Trade Committee will have its hands full.

Still another Committee should have been appointed, at last meeting if interest in the Board's meetings is to be retained, and encouraged. The statement was made that power is generated at Trenton — part of our own water way system—and sold at Oshawa as cheap as power is sold in Peterborough, the Electric City, with power at its own doors. Of course, the incident was not sufficiently important to warrant "following up", so was passed indifferently over with a "Yes, I know that is so." But many citizens, including members of the Board itself, would like to know why it is so, and a report by a committee as to these conditions would arouse keen interest. Again, at that meeting Mr. Denham admitted that the city would make no mistake in acquiring a block of power for municipal purposes; and it did seem to The Times representative that the Board of Trade might find commendable activity in supporting the City Council's Power Committee in its fight for municipal-controlled power for Peterborough. Such power, if only employed for public utilities, such as street lighting and house lighting, would prove a valuable asset in the city's bid for new industries, if, as Mr. Denham contended, power for manufacturing energy does not enter so largely into the question of where a new industry will locate, as does RESIDENTIAL ADVANTAGES FOR THE WORKING MAN and transportation facilities. But the Board passed the matter over lightly, did not even introduce a resolution endorsing the City Council's deputation on the power question, to say nothing of following the precedence of past Peterborough Board of Trades in naming representatives to accompany the city's deputation to Ottawa in support of demands in the city's general interests.

Now the Board of Trade in its 80 members represents so many divergent interests that it should be and can be of weighty influence in the community. All that is needed is active participation in momentous questions at regular sessions, at which business conducted in a business-like way.

With such a policy vigorously pursued, decent attendance will be assured and enthusiasm awakened. We had ample evidence of this when the Board actively interested itself in the disposal of the surplus power at the waterworks dam to the C.G.E., the Bonner-Wortin by-law, the Reciprocity Pact, the Industrial Commission office, the C. P. R.'s new grain route, and other occasions of a similar nature. All of which goes to show that given opportunity to actively engage in live issues of community interest, the members of the Board of Trade are prone to rise to the occasion and participate therein. BUT let the occasions be regular and not so intermittent, that the members are weaned off the habit of attending; and, above all, let there be work, and plenty of it for committees to engage in and submit to the rank and file for endorsation.

M'RAE CASE

and the druggist was killed. In the trial the fate of the latter was temporarily forgotten by everybody, although on his death bed he might well have cried as did Mercutio, with reference to the Montagus, and the Capulets, "A Curse on both your houses." The jury composed of both Catholics and Protestants found McRae guilty of manslaughter and the presiding judge sentenced him to imprisonment for life, as a reminder that the place was Canada and the time the twentieth century.

Enter Father Burke, who, in his paper, the Catholic Register, writes as though he felt a tinge of regret that under our criminal code there is no open season for Protestants. McRae's offence in his eyes is that of having through ignorance broken the game laws. Everybody in connection with the case is Dr. Magee's "victim," the wife, the friend who was killed and the murderer himself. He makes the suggestion that Dr. Magee should be imprisoned for life and that McIlse should be freed. The writer is half inclined to believe that Father Burke is the long lost brother of George Bernard Shaw. His editorial reads like some of the jokes the Irish dramatist likes to have at the expense of the British community, though it lacks urbanity.

Father Burke ignores the ungebaugh theory, which is privately held by most of those who are acquainted with the Highland settlements, and attributes the whole crime to "mixed marriages,"—whatever that hybrid term may mean — which he declares should, if possible, be prevented by law in every part of Canada as they now are in the Province of Quebec. If he means anything, he means that such marriages are vile because Protestants and the children born to them are vile. Since in nearly every Roman Catholic family of means and education, there are numerous mixed marriages so-called, which have proven happy, he libels the class of the community for whom he professes, as an editor, to speak. When such an alliance proves unhappy, true religion has nothing whatever to do with it; it is simply the nasty disposition of one or both of the parties thereto. Among marriages performed within the Catholic fold, just as with Protestant espousals, there are glaring instances of matrimonial unhappiness No one traces these tragedies to religion. They are traceable to innate perversity of disposition. The married couple who fight over such a secondary matter as dogma, would just as readily fight over a fly in the coffee, or the husband's desire to keep a dog. The meddling cleric may at times provoke a rupture, but he is a comparatively scarce bird. The average priest of whatever faith, is a man of peace, who is too busy ameliorating the sorrows of his flock to go about stupidly stirring up family differences. The average Roman Catholic clergyman would be enraged at the suggestion that Father Burke spoke for the cloth. Perhaps one is treating the utterance of this troublous scribe too seriously. It may be just a manifestation of his peculiar form of humor."

"THE FORT GARRY" HOTEL, WINNIPEG.

Adjacent to the ruins of that historic monument "Old Fort Garry," memorable in the early history of Canada's new Western metropolis is being erected "The Fort Garry," truly representative of greater Winnipeg—a magnificent edifice—to rank with the world's finest hotels, embodying in its construction the most advanced, scientific and architectural Meals. Located in the very heart of the city, to which all lines of traffic converge, it is readily accessible to the railroads and electric car lines, and within a radius of a few blocks of most of the leading theatres, while one minute's walk will place one among the largest and most pretentious of the great stores in the centre of the shopping districts, or enable one to reach the great new terminal station of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"The Fort Garry" to be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific will be built of the finest of Canadian granite and buff lime stone, in the style of the old French Chateaux of Normandy and Touraine and will rear its stately heights to fourteen stories. The building is to have approximately three hundred and fifty sleeping chambers and will be richly furnished in faultless taste. All its bedrooms are to have private bathrooms and are to be equipped with every approved modern appointment. Nothing that would in any way contribute to the comfort and welfare of its guests has been overlooked in the preparation of the plans and interior arrangements.

The keynote of the "Fort Garry" as judged from the design and interior arrangements is to be "homelike comfort." From basement to roof top, every detail of construction and furnishing has been worked out in perfect accord with this idea, and would seem to assure the largest measure of personal enjoyment and restfulness to its guests—a place where comfort-loving people might enjoy life to the utmost and feel thoroughly at home.

The main entrance of the hotel faces on Winnipeg's most beautiful thoroughfare "Broadway" and opens upon a spacious and imposing rotunda, which will suggest in its decoration and refinement the cheer and comfort provided within its walls, and from beautiful design, unbroken by columns, lofty in height, and finely lighted by broad windows and circular domed ceiling.

The Mezzanine Gallery is also to be a novel feature of "The Fort Garry" and is obtained by the introduction of a storey midway between the office floor and the parlors. It is reached by a broad marble staircase from the main entrance lobby, and is to be finished and decorated in white and delicate shades of color. It overlooks the entrance lobby, dining room, cafe and tea room, and will be used as ladies' parlor, writing room and library. It commands a splendid view of those portions of the hotel where the most life occurs, and yet at the same time affords a quiet sense of retirement.

RED DEER GROWING BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS

Will Soon be a Large and Important City—Splendid Investment Offered to Eastern Capitalists—See Advertisement and Map on Another Page.

All eyes at present are turned on Red Deer, a bulletin of progress just issued by the Board of Trade, shows the rapid growth of this town. Building permits for the last five months went over $182,000i being four times greater than for the whole of the last year. Business at the lands office shows enormous gains, as also the passenger, freight, express and telegraph departments of the railways. The population of this place is growing by leaps and bounds and as it is the hub of the greatest railway development taking place in the West, it is destined to soon become a great city. The yards of the Alberta Central embrace an area of 140 acres. The Canadian Northern is now constructing a line West from its Vegreville Calgary branch to the Brazean coalfields and the Yellow Head Pass.

Construction has commenced on the "S" line of the C.N.R. from Red Deer to Calgary and Edmonton. The right of way of the Strathcona-Calgary branch of the C.N.R. running due north and south through the Red Deer on the west side of Third ave., has closed all the streets running from the town eastward except Ross ave, Third street north and Fifth street south. This will have the effect of materially increasing the population and value of property in the west end. A party of engineers are now camped on the outskirts of the town engaged on the construction of the enormous bridge across the river. As soon as this is completed a great forward movement is expected. Taking into consideration the rich country surrounding, with its unlimited coal, timber and dairying facilities, Red Deer is bound to become one of, if not the greatest city in the whole of the Northwest.

RECALLS TRAGEDY OF AN EMPRESS.

Paris, Nov. 19.—The tragedy of an empress is recalled by some curious tidings coming from Bouchout, the residence of the ex-Empress Charlotte of Mexico, who became insane on the execution of the Emperor Maximilian by the Mexican rebels in 1867.

According to the "Tempe" the Empress, who is regarded as hopelessly insane, has recently pronounced the name of her husband for the first time since she became demented.

The Emperor Maximilian, who was the younger brother of the Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, in the midst of the growing opposition of the Mexican [illegible] was [illegible] late King of the Belgians, to Paris to appeal for help to the Emperor Napoleon.

Empress Charlotte pleaded despairingly for her husband, she retired—having failed to accomplish anything—to Italy, where her mind gave way beneath the strain of her troubles.

The ex-Empress lives in the most complete retirement, seeing only her nurse, her lady-in-waiting, and her physician. She spends much of her time going for long walks in the park of Bouchout, and is in good bodily health, contrary to unfavorable reports recently in circulation regarding her condition.

AN EPISODE IN ITALY

"It isn't you who [illegible] are going to do in Italy," said the woman.

"It's the cabby.

"I thought I was going to leave Naples that morning. In fact, I had my valises with me as I stood at the door while the porter whistled for a cab, seven of which rushedout of the shimmering sunlight around the corner at me. A handsome young cabby grabbed the valises, put them in the cab, helped me in, and started off.

"'I want to go to the station,' I told him as we went along. 'I'm going home.'

"He slowed up, rested his left hand on the back of the seat, turned half way around ,and said smilingly in French:

"'You want to go to Pompeii?'

"'No!' I cried. 'I want to go to the station. I am starting for home, for America, for home!'

"'I'll take you to Pompeii,' he offered graciously, 'for 8 lire.'

"I braced myself for the conflict.

"'I want to go home,' I declared. If I went to Pompeii, I wouldn't go over that old road anyway. I'd go by train. That's the same road you take to Vesuvius. I was over it the day before yesterday. It is full of beggars and ruts.'

"My driver paid not the slightest attention. Instead he pointed proudly to a passing cabby.

"'That's my brother,' he grinned, adding softly, 'I'll take you to Pompeii for 7 lire.'

"'A handsome fellow ,I said, 'and if you paid me 7 lire I wouldn't go to Pompeii to-day. I'm going home.'

"He drove awhile, then turned and smiled at me again.

"'This road takes you to the station,' he said, 'and to Pompeii, too. I'll take you to Pompeii for 6 lire. A whole long day, a handsome driver, a fine carriage, and all to yourself for 6 lire,' he summed up, flashing a triumphant face full upon me.

"'If you gave me the cab and the harness and the horse thrown in,' I wailed, 'I wouldn't go. You couldn't pay me to go, I know that old road. Besides, I want to start for home. Amerike! Home!'

"He drove and drove. I got absorbed in the things we passed. In the doorways, back of which was invariably the single room of the family, the one large bed, the three chairs at the foot of it ,the table, and in the rear the altar, before which burned the little lamp to the Blessed Virgin, and in her humble worshippers, who lived, it seemed, on the door steps, there being only one room inside.

"There played the children, the little ragged girls of 5 and 6 holding the bambino done up in swaddling clothes, tossing it between them as they would toss an overgrown doll, and the boys more ragged yet, if that were possible. There were the dogs, cats, the chickens, and now and then a proud turkey, ignominiously tied, far from barnyards and its kind, by a string to a post.

"I didn't know which I pitied most, the babies in training for cripples swaddled so, their tiny limbs so unnaturally bound, the unwashed cats and dogs, or the turkeys in chains.

"I recalled my destination with a start.

"'Where are we?' I demanded to know.

"'The station is about a mile back yonder,' my handsome driver said stolidly, 'and you'll be too late for your train. I'm taking you to Pompeii now for 5 lire.'

"I could have wept, but what was the use? I was now too late for my train.

"'Anyway,' I petitioned, 'you'll rescue me from the beggars. Won't you? When you get to them drive fast.'

"To my amazement he complied. We sped past the man with the withered arm, the cripple tangled up with the donkey, and passed another cab. The driver flung a bright look at me.

"'Do you see that man?' he asked.

"'Yes,' I answered.

"'Well, he's my brother,' gloated he.

He seemed to have an oversupply of brothers, but he endeavored to compensate for bringing me out of my way for five lire by showing me the sights.

"He pointed out all the pictures of the saints by the roadside, the crucifixes on the walls, the Holy Virgins at the corners of the lead-colored houses, until at last the wide sweep of level country where the dust and ashes of the buried city were began to show.

"Arrived there, a babbling guide hurried me through with the velocity of a whirlwind, showed me broken columns, old fountains, Madusa heads with the faces worn away by hands long since ashes, the buried dog, its mouth in the attitude of barking, prints of chariot wheels, gray walls through the apertures of which the smoky peak of the mountain that had done all the harm glowed purple, and hurried me out again through the gate to my cab.

"My cabby stood there smiling, a man beside him who was even handsomer than he.

"'My brother,' said he.

"I smiled and bowed, and we started over the long gray road of the poor to Naples.

"The sight saddened me. I wished I had started for America, for home! As we bumped over the terrible slags of the Naples streets my resentment grew. It was not lessened by the behavior of my guide. Three times more he had pointed out brothers. Now he leaned over to me, smiled, and pointed out another before we drove up to my door.

"Some acquaintances ran out, amazed at seeing me.

"'I thought,' they cried, 'that your started for home this morning.'

"'I thought so, too,' said I, 'but my cabby thought differently.'"

ANGEL OR CATAMOUNT

By Kit Brun

Many years ago, relates a woman writer, a lonely man dwelt in a cave up in the hills where rise the waters of the Iwagu. None know whence he came, nor who he was, except that he called himself Randolph Jackson, and that he had made himself a habitation in the cave.

Beyond the lodge the hill arose, its crest looking towards the north-west where Greylock loomed and opposite towards the south-eastern hills, below the valley lay the guarding hill precipitate in its descent. At the bottom the river murmured over its pebbled bed and between the forest-clad hills. For the stately pines the rugged oaks and spruce and the graceful birches were crowded close on either side, and far upward, till they reached the fertile fields that the first settlers had cleared.

From the front of the cave, Randolph could look far across the valley, and could see no human habitation or human being; only now and then he might watch an eagle soaring across, or see a fox skulk away in the shadow, or hear the soft flap of the wings of an owl, when the great darkness had come down.

Randolph worked for the farmers down beyond the valley and took for his pay mostly provisions, for money was scare then in all this region, and trade was made by bartering. So from one he took the cloth, spun and woven there, that another farmer's wife made his garments from. Another gave him meal, another potatoes From a fifth he secured the maple sugar that was his only luxury and from a sixth the pork that served as meat or now and then a pat of butter. And then, too, he could use his musket, and sometimes also furnished himself a meal from the tender flesh of a rabbit, coon or quail; he would stride down the valley and from a brook on the other side of the river draw out an unsuspecting, unsophisticated trout. So Randolph lived.

One winter morning Randolph arose long before light, for he had work with a farmer down the valley whose hours were early, and he must be there to help before the tardy winter sun arose above the eastern hills. The winter had been hard, a thick coat of snow lay upon the ground. A day or two before more had come, and then had turned to rain, and then the rain had frozen into sleet, and formed a crust, hard enough to bear up the fox taken away from home, unawares and unfortunate, but not hard enough to bar the weight of the lone cave-liver.

When the long day's work was done, and the weary oxen in their stalls, and the dog snoring in the chimney corner and dreaming of the fox he had seen that day, Randolph started to his sheltering cave, across his shoulder a bag of potatoes, a side of salt pork, and a loaf of corn bread, given him by kindly Mistress Leonard. But it was darker than ever then. The dim ghosts of farm buildings, or towering trees were only a visible inky darkness, the fog was so thick and close. And Randolph had no lantern, and perforce must find his way, alone and unlighted, up the slope of the valley to the ledge that made his roof tree. And he was tired, and painfully groped his way along the beaten road that was his path for a part of the distance.

Then he left it to try and find his path through the forest trees, his path alone, for none other lived in that valley, and none other ever passed that way.

Did he find it? He could not tell, but groped darkly and alone through the misty trees. Soon he could not tell where he was. He could not tell how far up the hillside he had come, nor where the edge began its sinuous length. And he paused alarmed at last.

And then, far off in the distance, there came a noise, indistinguished at first from the breath and whisper of the fir trees, then more plain and plainer yet until it seemed to Randolph that it was a voice crying, "This-a-way! This-a-way! Heere-eere! This-a-way!"

"Hey!" said the wanderer, and paused perplexed. "This-a-way!" cried the voice. "What was that?" he ejaculated. "Heere-eere!" pealed the voice far away in the darkness behind the spruces. "Heere-eere!" it pealed again and again. Randolph wiped the sweat from his brow, replaced his old fur cap, and went on again, slowly and painfully up the snow clad hill. Again it seemed to him that his path was not here, and again he paused, and then, "This-a-way!" cried the voice, "This-a-way! Here, heere-eere."

And the clump of dark spruce trees close at hand seemed strange to him, and lacked their familiar outlines. When he stumbled over a log that he had no recollection of, and paused again, the ghostly voice would be heard again in the forest. "This-a-way! This-a-way! This-a-way!" And so he climbed the mountain, pausing ever and anon for the sound of the welcome voice far away calling plaintively, "This-a-way," or near at hand, echoing with a sighing cadence, across the valley, "This-a-way!"

Until at last, while supposing himself to be a long way from home, he suddenly saw before him the glimmer of a fire; the few embers left burning from his fire of the morning, and he stumbled across the rocks of his threshold with a sigh of relief, and threw himself down upon his couch of fir branches, tired and content.

And always, when he told the story of his long wandering up the hillside in the dark night, and mimicked the sound that had come to him, and led him upward in safety, he said that he never knew if it was an angel calling him or a catamount.

"THE FORT GARRY" HOTEL, WINNIPEG.

Adjacent to the ruins of that historic monument "Old Fort Garry," memorable in the early history of Canada's new Western metropolis is being erected "The Fort Garry," truly representative of greater Winnipeg—a magnificent edifice—to rank with the world's finest hotels, embodying in its construction the most advanced, scientific and architectural ideals. Located in the very heart of the city, to which all lines of traffic converge, it is readily accessible to the railroads and electric car lines, and within a radius of a few blocks of most of the leading theatres, while one minute's walk will place one among the largest and most pretentious of the great stores in the centre of the shopping districts, or enable one to reach the great new terminal station of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"The Fort Garry" to be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific will be built of the finest of Canadian granite and buff lime stone, in the style of the old French Chateaux of Normandy and Touraine and will rear its stately heights to fourteen stories. The building is to have approximately three hundred and fifty sleeping chambers and will be richly furnished in faultless taste. All its bedrooms are to have private bathrooms and are to be equipped with every approved modern appointment. Nothing that would in any way contribute to the comfort and welfare of its guests has been overlooked in the preparation of the plans and interior arrangements.

The keynote of the "Fort Garry" as judged from the design and interior arrangements is to be "homelike comfort." From basement to roof top, every detail of construction and furnishing has been worked out in perfect accord with this idea, and would seem to assure the largest measure of personal enjoyment and restfulness to its guests—a place where comfort-loving people might enjoy life to the utmost and feel thoroughly at home.

The main entrance of the hotel faces on Winnipeg's most beautiful thoroughfare "Broadway" and opens upon a spacious and imposing rotunda, which will suggest in its decoration and refinement the cheer and comfort provided within its walls, and from beautiful design, unbroken by columns, lofty in heighth, and finely lighted by broad windows and circular domed ceiling.

The Mezzanine Gallery is also to be a novel feature of "The Fort Garry" and is obtained by the introduction of a storey midway between the office floor and the parlors. It is reached by a broad marble staircase from the main entrance lobby, and is to be finished and decorated in white and delicate shades of color. It overlooks the entrance lobby, dining room, cafe and tea room, and will be used as ladies' parlor, writing room and library. It commands a splendid view of those portions of the hotel where the most life occurs, and yet at the same time affords a quiet sense of retirement.

RED DEER GROWING BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS

Will Soon be a Large and Important City—Splendid Investment Offered to Eastern Capitalists—See Advertisement and Map on Another Page.

All eyes at present are turned on Red Deer, a bulletin of progress just issued by the Board of Trade, shows the rapid growth of this town. Building permits for the last five months went over $182,000i being four times greater than for the whole of the last year. Business at the lands office shows enormous gains, as also the passenger, freight, express and telegraph departments of the railways. The population of this place is growing by leaps and bounds and as it is the hub of the greatest railway development taking place in the West, it is destined to soon become a great city. The yards of the Alberta Central embrace an area of 140 acres. The Canadian Northern is now constructing a line West from its Vegreville Calgary branch to the Brazeau coalfields and the Yellow Head Pass.

Construction has commenced on the "S" line of the C.N.R. from Red Deer to Calgary and Edmonton. The right of way of the Strathcona-Calgary branch of the C.N.R. running due north and south through the Red Deer on the west side of Third ave., has closed all the streets running from the town eastward except Ross ave, Third street north and Fifth street south. This will have the effect of materially increasing the population and value of property in the west end. A party of engineers are now camped on the outskirts of the town engaged on the construction of the enormous bridge across the river. As soon as this is completed a great forward movement is expected. Taking into consideration the rich country surrounding, with its unlimited coal, timber and dairying facilities, Red Deer is bound to become one of, if not the greatest city in the whole of the Northwest.

RECALLS TRAGEDY OF AN EMPRESS.

Paris, Nov. 19.—The tragedy of an empress is recalled by some curious tidings coming from Bouchout, the residence of the ex-Empress Charlotte of Mexico, who became insane on the execution of the Emperor Maximilian by the Mexican rebels in 1867.

According to the "Temps" the Empress, who is regarded as hopelessly insane, has recently pronounced the name of her husband for the first time since she became demented.

The Emperor Maximilian, who was the younger brother of the Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, in the midst of the growing opposition of the Mexican revolutionaries sent his late King of the Belgians, to Paris to appeal for help to the Emperor Napoleon.

Empress Charlotte pleaded despairingly for her husband, she retired—having failed to accomplish anything—to Italy, where her mind gave way beneath the strain of her troubles.

The ex-Empress lives in the most complete retirement, seeing only her nurse, her lady-in-waiting, and her physician. She spends much of her time going for long walks in the park of Bouchout, and is in good bodily health, contrary to unfavorable reports recently in circulation regarding her condition.

AN EPISODE IN ITALY

"It isn't' you wh. decide[illegible] going to do in Italy," said the woman.

"It's the cabby

"I thought I was going to leave Naples that morning. In fact, I had my valises with me as I stood at the door while the porter whistled for a cab, seven of which rushedout of the shimmering sunlight around the corner at me. A handsome young cabby grabbed the valises, put them in the cab, helped me in, and started off.

"'I want to go to the station,' I told him as we went along. 'I'm going home.'

"He slowed up, rested his left hand on the back of the seat, turned half way around ,and said smilingly in French:

"'You want to go to Pompeii?'

"'No!' I cried 'I want to go to the station. I am starting for home, for America, for home.'

"'I'll take you to Pompeii,' he offered graciously, 'for 8 lire.'

"I braced myself for the conflict.

"'I want to go home,' I declared. If I went to Pompeii, I wouldn't go over that old road anyway. I'd go by train. That's the same road you take to Vesuvius. I was over it the day before yesterday. It is full of beggars and ruts.'

"My driver paid not the slightest attention. Instead he pointed proudly to a passing cabby.

"'That's my brother,' he grinned, adding softly, 'I'll take you to Pompeii for 7 lire.'

"'A handsome fellow ,' I said, 'and if you paid me 7 lire I wouldn't go to Pompeii to-day. I'm going home.'

UNCLE TOBY'S RUSE

"Twenty-six! You surprise me. Yes, sir, you should be married. No young man should pass that age and remain single."

"You did, Uncle Toby," grinned Gerald McIntyre. Tobias Brenton was a confirmed bachelor of many years' standing.

"That's all right, boy," returned his uncle. "I'm the exception. But you should be married. Tell you what—Jerry—"

"What, uncle?"

"The day you get married I'll give you a thousand dollars for a wedding present."

"You will?"

"I will—with one proviso. If you marry anybody but Patience Allene Truesdale."

"Who?"

"Patience Allene Truesdale."

"Who's Patience Allene Truesdale? And why couldn't I marry her? And where does she live?"

"I didn't say you couldn't marry her," replied Tobias Brenton. "I haven't anything to say concerning her. I believe she is now at Collegeville. What I did say was that if you married anyone but her I would give you a thousand dollars."

"But, Uncle, I don't know this Truesdale, and there's no possibility of my marrying her, or anybody else."

"It's nearly train time," observed Uncle Toby, rising. "I realize you don't know Miss Truesdale, and so what I said may seem foolish. But you can't say I haven't put the proposition up to you. Think over this getting married, Jerry. A thousand dollars is a thousand dollars, these days. Let me hear from you."

The rest of the day Jerry gave his muscle to the hardware store where he was employed, but not his mind for that was elsewhere.

"Who was Patience Allene — Patience Allene; it was a quaint, sweet name — against whom his uncle seemed so prejudiced.

After supper he changed his clothes, tried on four neckties, and went to Collegeville.

There was chattering and laughter and an undercurrent of palntive tinkling in the College building, for three of the party in the center had stringed instruments. From out of the pleasant babel, as Gerald passed the gate a voice said:

"Lead 'My Sweetheart Was a Rover,' Patience Allene."

He met Patience Allene Truesdale presently; the girl of the soprano voice was really she. It took five trips to Collegeville, and three ice cream socials before he accomplished an introduction.

Then he made up for lost time. He called on Patience Allene as often as decorum convention and the girl herself would permit patronized soda fountains and confectionary stores, as well as two moving picture theatres, generally, and otherwise followed the path which his uncle's words should have barred. He fell heels over head in love with Patience Allene.

He puzzled still over the mystery of his uncle's dislike for her. She came from his uncle's home town. Long months, and when he had craftily introduced his name into the conversation one night, she had spoken slowly of Mr. Brenton, who was her father's best friend, she said. It was Mr. Brenton who had advised her to attend the Normal, so she could be a high school teacher.

"There's something troubling you, Jerry," she said, so unexpectedly, that he was taken completely off guard. "Tell me what it is."

Jerry, blundering, attempted to confess it delayed things a little later, but at last he had to tell.

"Your uncle needn't have worries," she said coolly, when he had finished. "I haven't any designs on you or your prospects. You are wasting time with me. You better begin trying to earn that thousand dollars. No, I'm not angry; good night!

Jerry, raging, went home to find Uncle Toby, having dropped into town unexpectedly, the centre of his own merry family circle.

In five minutes Uncle Toby the wealthy, the courted and the masterful was on his way to Collegeville, virtually a prisoner in the custody of this grim and silent young stranger.

"Now, sir," grated Jerry, "I brought you here to say that your prejudice against Miss Truesdale doesn't make any difference. We're going to be married; and we don't need that thousand dollars."

"Is this true, Patience Allene?" asked Uncle Toby.

Patience Allene did not seem to mind the queerness of Jerry's proposal. "Yes," she said, simply; "but, Mr Brenton, what did you say to Jerry?"

"What did I say, Jerry?"

"You said you'd give me a thousand dollars if I married anybody but Patience Allene."

"Correct. Anything else; any reflection on her?"

"No-o."

He took a hand of each. "My dear young people," he said, "your uncle has 'put one over,' as the boys say. If you dreamed I wanted you to marry, you'd have flown apart. There, now, never mind thanking me. I must be getting back. I suppose the last car goes pretty soon. I'll let you walk that three miles alone. And — the thousand dollars shall be five thousand."

And Uncle Toby smiled whimsically as he went away, yet sighed a little, too; for he knew he was already forgotten.

His Idea of Importance.

'In one benighted region of a certain state in the southwest,' says a Chicago lawyer, 'they cherish some peculiar notions touching the duties of a juror.'

One day a case was being tried, when suddenly the justice exclaimed:

"How is this? There are only eleven jurymen in the box. Where is the twelfth?"

The foreman arose and addressed the court respectfully, as follows:

"May it please your honor, the twelfth juror had to go away on important business, but he has left his verdict with me."

Highest on Earth

The Loa Bridge in the China Andes is the highest bridge in the world. This wonderful construction is four hundred feet high, eight hundred feet long, and stands ten thousand feet above sea-level. It crosses a great ravine some three hundred miles from Antofagasta, on the railway running from that port into Bolivia. This line is also of interest from the fact that it is the highest railway in the world, climbing at one point up to over sixteen thousand six hundred feet above sea-level.

RUSSIA'S BAY AND WESTERN PROSPECTS.

Audnat Corporation's Big Increase In Profits.

Some very interesting information regarding western Canadian conditions was given by Lord Strathcona when presiding over the annual meeting of the Hudson's Bay company, held in London recently. After reviewing the excellent reports which had been in the hands of the shareholders for some time, his lordship referred to the conditions which obtain at the present time. He quoted from a cablegram received from the stores commissioner, Mr. Burbidge, at Winnipeg, which stated that the volume of sales for the first five months of the current year had increased $500,000. This is at the rate of $100,000 per month. The cable messages read by his lordship were as follows: —

From Land Commissioner

"From personal observation, which corresponds with reports from the company's surveyor and other authoritative sources, the larger acreage in crop, seeded under ideal conditions, was followed by exceptionally favorable growing weather, and with present season the crop promises to be very considerably larger than any previous harvest yield in western Canada. This will no doubt stimulate the demand for agricultural lands from prospective occupants, and have an invigorating effect on growing cities and towns in the several districts."

From Fur Trade Commissioner.

"Compared with last year the fur catch has declined in British Columbia, Manitoba and Keewatin. An increase has occurred in Saswatchewan, Lake Superior, Lake Huron, St. Lawrence. There is no change worthy of mention in Athabasca. No advice to hand from James Bay, Labrador, Mackenzie river, but it is very probable volume has declined owing to unfavorable winter and scarcity of periodical furs. Adequate supplies have been forwarded districts. Transport service is well organised for efficiency and economy. The prospects are encouraging."

From the Stores Commissioner.

"The volume of sale shop trade for first five months of current year shows increase of over five hundred thousand dollars. Prospects during remainder of sale shop year are excellent, the outlook for a record crop being very favorable."

CALAGARY STREET RAILWAY HAS GOOD HALF-YEAR.

The net profits from the operation of the Calgary street railway system for the first six months of the present year were almost three times as great as for the corresponding half year in 1910.

The comparative statements of the receipts, expenses and profits of the system prepared and submitted to the city commissioners by Superintendent McCauley shows a wonderful growth of the city and increasing patronage of the system.

After deducting five per cent of the gross receipts and paying a percentage of the interest and sinking fund, the net profits for the six months of the year amounted to $49,705.81. For the half year in 1910 the profits amounted to $17,061.

The total revenue for the first half of 1911 amounted to $149,437.57. After deducting the total operated expenses of $75,966.80, five per cent of the gross receipts amounting to $7,471.96 and $16,296.28 for interest and sinking fund, a net profit of $49,706.51 was left.

Spanish 5 and 10 Cent Stores

Spanish newspapers are commenting on the new system of merchandising just introduced into Spain through the opening in Madrid of two bazaars along lines corresponding to the American 5 and 10 cent store. The Madrid bazaars have been started with a stock of toys, cheap jewellery, notions, perfumery, underwear, collars and cuffs, neckties, caps, chinaware, fans, handkerchiefs, belts, brushes, purses, small hardware and other articles priced to sell at 65 centimes, an equivalent of about 13 cents American money.

The American 5 and 10 cent store idea has not been developed in Spain to any extent, although the two bazaars recently established approach the system, at least in the range of articles carried, more closely than anything heretofore attempted.

Bazaars carrying articles offered within a certain price range have been operated in the larger Spanish cities for some time — Malaga has had such a store for over twenty years, prices varying from two to nine cents — but the limited variety of goods obtained and sold at these prices did not strongly attract the [illegible]

How Jones Lost Toes

Jones was a man whose boast had always been that whatever he dared he could do, but his braggadocio ended rather seriously — for him.

His friends declared that he would not stay in a certain haunted room for one night, and as the idea of being afraid of anything was particularly distasteful to him, Jones decided to accept the challenge to do so.

He slipped a revolver under his pillow and slept peacefully for a few hours. Then he was awakened by a peculiar moaning sound, the weirdness of which thrilled him with an apprehensive fear and a longing for home.

Looking towards the foot of the bed he thought he saw — a human hand!

"Remove that hand or I fire!" he shouted, bracing himself up for action.

One—two—three—no reply — then, bang!

And that's how Jones lost three of his toes.

Breakfast and the Morning Mail.

Did you ever hear that it is dangerous to open your morning mail at the breakfast table? According to a Berlin scientist, Professor Kron, it is dangerous—very. Professor Kron has succeeded in tracing several cases of contagion to the old custom of waiting until you sit down at the breakfast table before opening and going through your morning mail. He calls attention to the fact that the average man goes down to breakfast with hands and face scrupulously clean, teeth scrubbed and throat gargled. In that condition he is prepared to eat without danger of swallowing more disease germs than may have possibly escaped the watchful attentions of the cook.

But instead of doing that, he handles letters and papers which have passed through many hands before reaching his own. Between bites he opens envelopes and wrappers, and in doing so unthinkingly paves the way for the absorption of all kinds of germs which may, or may not, do him a great deal of harm.

SPECIES USED FOR LATHS—1910.

Within two years, the number of the kinds of wood used for laths has been doubled. This increase is illustrative of the extent to which lath production is becoming an adjunct to larger wood industries. Small quantities of lumber of odd sizes, slabs, and what would otherwise be mill waste are conserved and used to advantage in this way. The Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior has compiled statistics for 1910 showing that twelve species of wood were used in the production of the eight hundred and fifty-two million pieces of lath produced in 1910, worth one million, nine hundred and forty-three thousand dollars. The first six species in importance were spruce, white pine, cedar, douglas fir, hemlock and balsam, which also are the woods used for some time in the manufacture of laths. The remaining six; jack-pine, red pine, yellow pine, poplar, basswood and larch are the new species increasing in importance. Spruce and white pine laths, the two most important species, show a decrease in 1910 from the year previous, but together form nearly seventy per cent. of the annual output. Some million and a half more pieces of cedar were cut in 1910 than in 1909, and the amount for this species of seventy million pieces made up one twelfth of the total. Prices ranged from $1.25 for yellow pine to $3.18 per thousand for poplar.

New Chateau Laurier.

Work of the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, the new $2,000,000 hotel, constructed by the Grand Trunk System is progressing very favorably.

Nearly all of the plastering of the hotel is now completed and there remains to be done only the lobby, bar and grill room ceiling. Most of the marble floors for the dining room corridor are laid, and after the plaster work of the lobby is completed, work will be started on the marble work of the floor. Heat and light have been in the building for the last two months, and when the plaster is sufficiently dried in the various public rooms, the decorators will be able to commence the interior decorations. Some of the wood work for the big rooms is in the hotel, and the erection of this is going on. The general appearance of the various rooms, is beyond expectation, and when completed will be of the richest effect, artistic in design, and wonderfully beautiful.

Facts About Coronation

Coronation is the first divisional town east of Lacombe, and is splendidly situated about twenty miles east of Castor, in the centre of some of the finest farming districts of Western Canada. Its natural advantages, combined with important railway developments, assure to it a future of considerable importance. Engineers are now locating two branch lines north and northwesterly from Coronation, and a third line is projected southeasterly to connect with the branch running northwesterly from Swift Current.

CORONATION will be:

A divisional centre on the great new railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton.

An important junctional centre, as three branch lines are already projected.

A distributing centre for a large and wealthy district.

A purchasing centre for thousands of Western Canada's most prosperous farmers.

If you wish to go into business or make a safe and profitable investment you cannot do better than purchase lots at Coronation, which is bound to rapidly become one of the most important towns of the West.

Mexico Oil

The Mexican Oil Fields, will probably break all records in the production of oil. The largest oil wells in the world are now flowing in the Tampico field, and development is just fairly begun. We offer an exceptionally attractive investment in the stock of a conservative Company, just organized, which controls 3500 acres, in the midst of the big producing section of the field. We are certain we can convince any one of the merits of the enterprise, and we want you to

INVESTIGATE

It will only cost you two cents to secure maps, booklet, and full description of what we have to offer. The stock is being sold for the purpose of drilling the property. Oil is now being produced on all four sides of this property. We will give you every opportunity to investigate the proposition itself and the officers in charge of its affairs. A COMFORTABLE ROAD.

Traveller in West Gives Unsolicited Praise to New Railway.

A world-wide traveller, having just returned from a visit to Western Canada, has written to one of the chief officials of the Grand Trunk System his unsolicited opinion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and how it served the travelling public. He says:

"I had the pleasure of travelling from Edmonton to Winnipeg on the new line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and I would like to say that of the 7000 miles travelled on railways during my last journey the time I spent on the Grand Trunk Pacific was the most comfortable of my entire trip.

"The roadbed is evidently a fine piece of work, the cars clean, and comfortable, the men in charge were most polite and courteous, and any question asked of them was answered in a most gentlemanly manner.

"I should like to refer briefly to the dining car service and its equipment, which is the best I have seen. It was in fact a revelation to me after having travelled on the other roads—the meals being specially good considering the surroundings and beautifully served.

"I beg to say that if it gives you as much pleasure to read this letter as it gives me to write you will perhaps pardon, liberty I have taken in addressing you."

This is but a specimen of the many letters that are being received by the Grand Trunk Pacific officials, praising the exceptionally fine road and service that is now being operated in Western Canada.

Real Estate, Mining and Industrial Investments

HOW $100 GREW TO $31620

The value and importance of any enterprise must be based on the profits and dividends it can earn. In this respect the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, is without a parallel in the line of investments.

It combines the attractive factors which are needed to make the perfect investment—viz., safety, large earning capacity and low cost of the stock at the start. It is not at all uncommon for oil stocks to begin at a few cents a share and jump to hundreds of dollars a share—sometimes thousands.

	Started at	Has Sold at
Central	10 cents	$2.10
Monte Cristo	10 cents	$4.00
Lucile	10 cents	$16.00
Silver Tip	25 cents	$4.00
San Francisco and McKittrick	40 cents	$28.00
Kern River	50 cents	$8.75
Peerless	50 cents	$8.75
Puente	$10.00	$150.00
Home	$10.00	$5000.00

This list, taken from San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchange records, could be added to almost indefinitely.

Fortunes have been made from stock increases. stock is $300, YOUR YEARLY PROFIT ON AN INVESTMENT OF $300.

When we have ten wells sunk you can reasonably figure on AN ANNUAL PROFIT ON YOUR HOLDINGS OF $2000.

$2000 A YEAR. DOESN'T THIS APPEAL

Many a case could be cited similar to that of Richard Ellis, clerk in a store in Los Angeles, whose investment of $100 became worth $31,620 in a short time. There are hundreds of such cases in Los Angeles alone.

$2000.00 Profit a Year

Do you realize that stock in the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, at the present price of 30 cents a share is not merely the opportunity of the year—IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

If you have $10, $50, $100 or $500 YOU SIMPLY CAN NOT AFFORD TO PASS IT UP.

If we develop only a 1000 barrel well of 26 gravity oil, this production alone will be sufficient to enable the corporation to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. and at the same time have sufficient capital to continue the drilling of wells.

1000 shares of stock at the present price of 30c costs only $300.

20 per cent. dividend on the par value of the TO YOU? Wouldn't you like to be coming up to this office every three months and getting your dividend cheque for $500?

Remember, too, that your stock holdings in Midway Maple Leaf, if you should want to sell them should be worth $18,000 or sixty times the amount of your original investment.

Consider These Facts

The Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company is working in proven gusher territory, the richest oil zone in the world, controlling 40 acres on one-eighth royalty, with the great advantage of the option to purchase at only $1250 per acre after oil is struck, and the ground must then be worth at least $5000 per acre. This means a clean profit of $150,000 over purchase price. It has been demonstrated completely by gushers on adjoining Standard and Honolulu ground, that this portion of the Midway field is not only the richest portion of the whole district, but that it produces the highest grade of oil found in the entire vicinity, and worth 50 per cent. more per barrel at the well.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY IN VANCOUVER REALTY

Investors seeking an opportunity to secure large returns for their money will find an exceptional chance offered by Keith Park Land Co., Limited, of Vancouver, B. C. This company has placed on the market for immediate sale the choicest piece of property on the North Shore.

This tract known as Keith Park, D. L. 676, lies at the junction of the Pipe line Road, (owned by the city of Vancouver) and the Keith Road and is the junction point for North side traffic.

The Second Narrows Bridge, which is to connect Vancouver and North Vancouver will be constructed so that Keith Park will be in the line of its northern end.

It is confidentially expected that a new town will be created at this point. Dominion, Provincial and Municipal subsidies to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars have already been secured for the bridge project and plans are now being drawn for the bridge. It is expected that actual workwill be started within the next ninety days.

Keith Park presents the best chance to buy ahead of the important municipal and government projects that are planned for the North Side. It will stand the most critical investigation.

Full information and maps supplied upon request. Lots range in price from $300 upwards. Terms one-quarter cash, balance in six equal quarterly payments.

PRACTICAL POET JUST EMERGED

Energetic Poem-Maker Whispers Along the Words that Silence is Not Quite So Golden as It May Appear.

He was a young but decidedly practical poet, and he was favouring a friend with his latest effusion. The verses were descriptive of a beautiful girl. He read:—

"Her hair was massed in flowing curls,
The colour of a whisper."

This awoke the listener. "What's that?" he said. "Read that again."

"I thought you would say something about that," the poet answered. "That phrase gives some scope for the exercise of the mind."

"In what way?"

The poet laughed.

"Don't you see," he said, "how beautifully that describes the shade of her hair. Every poet speaks of golden hair or raven locks. To be a success one must be original. Well, she did not have golden hair. It was nearly golden, and I convey the impression by means of that one word."

The other still looked puzzled.

"You have heard," said the poet patiently, "that silence is golden?"

"Yes," the other admitted.

"Well," resumed the poet, "if silence is golden, what would a whisper be? It would be nearly golden, wouldn't it?"

BIG FORTUNE IS ON OFFER

Five Franc Coin of Great Napoleon Contains Order for Over Seven Million Dollars Which Can Still be Redeemed.

Somewhere in the world — possibly among the relics kept by some lover of the great Napoleon — there is a fortune, perhaps unsuspected.

Among the coins Napoleon had minted, were some millions of 5 franc pieces, and he determined to popularize these in an extraordinary way. In one of the coins, folded to a tiny size, was enclosed a note signed by Napoleon, and promising the sum of 5,000,000 francs, about $1,000,000, to the finder of that particular coin. Naturally everybody who changed a large piece demanded the new 5 franc coins in exchange, and as a rule probed and dug and sounded the metal in eager search for the hidden note. Put the years went on and yet the note did not appear. Napoleon's plighted word is a sacred trust to the French nation, and today the government stands ready to pay the debt — which, with interest, is now worth $7,250,000 — upon demand.

WANTED BACK THE PRESENTS

Thrifty Young Man of Massachusetts Makes a Legal Effort to Recover the Price of Presents Made to a Sweetheart.

New Bedford, Mass., seems to have the unenviable distinction of owning the meanest man who has come into the light of publicity in recent times. He is a well-to-do young man, and he can now claim to be prominent as well.

For three years he "paid considerable attention" to a young school teacher. He waited too long before attempting to clinch matters, for before he got around to talk matrimony a rival had appeared, and his offer was refused.

Although unfortunate in love, he was thrifty, for he demanded the return of the presents he had made. "This," says the teacher, "I was only too glad to do, giving him back a ring a bracelet, a neck-chain and several other articles. I thought that ended the affair."

It did not, for the thrifty young man found that he was still out on presents exactly $29.16, and in order to recover that amount he instituted legal proceedings and had the teacher's salary attached.

The man who can calculate the value of presents to a sweet-heart down to sixteen cents has a soul of about that size.

Sifting Out the Manchus

The Chinese rebels, who are the "original" Chinese, have resorted to an ancient Israelitish trick to sift out the real Chinese from the doomed Manchus.

Instead of saying to the suspect "Say now Shibboleth," as the Gileadites said to the Ephraimites, they say to them, "Say Hushitu," the Chinese word for "six." And if the suspect doesn't pronounce it right according to ancient Chinese fashion, he gets it in the neck, literally, as the Ephraimites got it who said "Sibboleth" instead of "Shibboleth."

The test imposed by the Chinese insurgents is a numerical one. The suspect is told to count. When he passes six his fate is sealed.

If the suspect says "Lo-ow" he is spared. If he says "Lo-Kee-Haw", as the Manchus do, it's all day with him. "Then they took him and slew him."

RUBY MINES AT DISCOUNT

Nature's Secret of Precious Stone Manufacture Said to Have Been Laid Bare and Big Slump in Prices is Promised.

Attempts to manufacture diamonds in the laboratory have drawn the attention of the public from time to time, notably in connection with a recent lawsuit. The rich harvest which awaits the successful and not too scrupulous experimenter, and the extraordinary political consequences which must follow upon any sudden collapse of the diamond market and of the diamond mining industry, are absolutely startling to think of; certainly both rewards and consequences would be out of all proportion to the scientific value of the achievement. Yet there is reason to believe that before many years have passed the "synthetic diamond" may be as much a reality as the synthetic ruby is today. But the public will not be allowed to hear of the discovery at once — the process will be kept secret as long as possible in order to maintain high prices — and it is pretty safe to prophecy that ten times as many swindles will be perpetrated with the synthetic diamond as there have been with the synthetic ruoy. Even yet, although the industry has been in full swing for several years, and all the essential points of the process are known, the general public has not wakened to the fact that rubies of the finest quality and of the purest "pigeon's blood" colour, as well as sapphires, spinelles, and chrysoberyls, are being turned out in quantity from several laboratories in France and Germany. It is extremely difficult to get people to understand that these products are not imitation rubies — they are quite different from the red "paste" which masquerades as ruby in the cheaper sorts of jewellery. The new products are real rubies in every sense of the term, but they have been made by man, not by nature.

APPLES OF GOLD IN TASMANIA

Great Apple-Growing Centre Opening Up in Australia and Orchard-Owners on this Continent Will Have to Keep Awake.

Recent enlightenment has shown that Tasmania, which is one of the States of the Commonwealth, has a considerable area of splendid land suitable for agriculture and fruit-growing situated in the Great Tamar Valley, near the city of Launceston. This Tamar Valley is destined, in a few years, to be more famed for the production of apples than Oregon and Washington, or the Pacific slopes of U.S.A. Cox's "apples of gold" from this district, are among the choicest fruits, and have been selling in Great Britain recently at over $5.00 per bushel case, after over 12,000 miles in cool storage.

The River Tamar extends over 34 miles; in parts it is two miles wide, and is a great attraction for pleasure seekers. Some of the land here has recently been sold at low figures, but prices are rising owing to the greater knowledge of its value as fruit land. This locality has originally been settled by hardy pioneers from the River Tamar and the town of Launceston in Cornwall, England, from which places the local names have been derived. The climate has plenty of sunshine and no great extremes; in fact, it may be summed up in one word, "ideal"; also the rainfall is from 30 to 35 inches per annum. The land is being readily taken up by settlers from the various countries of Great Britain, Canada, India, and other parts.

The interment of the remains of the late R. H. Leary will take place this afternoon. The funeral will leave the family residence, Macdonnell street, at 2.30, and will proceed to the Little Lake cemetery.

First Skating of the Season.

The small boy is just now enjoying the first skating of the season on the small ponds, and creeks, and elsewhere. All parents should be careful to keep their children off the river, as the ice is yet hardly formed.

Bad Walking.

The sidewalks throughout the city have been in bad shape for several days, being covered in many places with a heavy coating of ice. The result is that many falls are recorded An elderly lady slipped near the Post Office yesterday, and received a severe shaking up, but fortunately without serious injury.

St. Andrew's Day.

Thursday, 30th inst., will be "St. Andrew's Day," and will be observed more or less throughout the civilized world by Scotchmen. In Peterborough, we are informed a dinner is likely to be served, under the auspices of the recently organized Scotch society.

Are Working at Omemee.

The proposed electric railway from Port Hope to Georgian Bay, via Peterborough, Lindsay and Orillia, is being proceeded with. A surveying party is now at work between Peterborough and Omemee. The Lindsay Warder says: Work from Omemee will be started next week. Already several teams have been engaged to haul gravel and other material which will be used in its construction.

Another Admirer of The Times.

Mr. S. J. Dixon, of Smith, called at this office yesterday to pay his subscription to The Times. He was quite enthusiastic in his praise of the paper, and said that it was greatly appreciated by people in his section. Mr. Dixon gets the paper every day, being on Rural Route, No. 2.

Surveyors at Work.

Lindsay Post: This morning the attention of our citizens was attracted by seeing surveyors at work on Kent street. These men are surveying the right of way for the new electric car line, which is going to be built along the lake front, also passing through Lindsay and ajacent centres. It is expected that the road will proceed along Ridout street, and Kent street. In all probability work will be commenced in the spring as soon as the weather will permit.

Local Option in Hastings.

Hastings Council will submit a local option by-law next January to the electors of that village, as a result of a petition having been recently presented by the temperance people. There were seventy-two names left on the petition after the ineligible signatures had been struck off—just the requisite twenty-five per cent of the names on the last revised voters list of those eligible to vote on the by-law.

Demonstration at Lakefield.

The physical department of the Y. M.C.A. think of putting on a demonstration of physical work in Lakefield town hall Friday night, similar to what they held at this city's Y. M.C.A. gymnasium last week.

Visit the Schools.

Would it not be well for the parents who have children attending schools in the city to take interest enough in the schools and the children, to visit the schools at least one time during the term? We hear parents complaining of the schools, who have no more knowledge of how they are being conducted than a resident of China has. We do know that strangers have gone away and said we have the best schools of any town in the country.

Presentatios to Mr. Ridyard.

Mr. Ridyard, a valued member of Charlotte street church choir will shortly make a trip to England, where he will remain until January next. In recognition of Mr. Ridyard's splendid and faithful work in connection with the choir, his fellow members have presented him with a handsome steamer rug, a very appropriate gift considering the occasion. The presentation was accompanied by hearty wishes for a bon voyage on his visit to the land of his birth.

Penny Banks for Schools.

Some months ago Mr. Angus McMurchy, the well-known C.P.R. solicitor, Toronto, addressed the Board of Education here in regard to the advisability of establishing the Penny Bank system in the schools. It is claimed that these banks have served to instill into the minds of the pupils the virtue and benefits of saving. A few days ago Smith's Falls School Board adopted the plan, after having been addressed by Mr. McMurchy and at once passed a resolution favoring the system and appointed a committee of seven to confer with the teachers regarding it.

Government by Commission.

It will be interesting to those of our citizens who favor government by commission in Peterborough to learn that Vancouver has adopted the system. That city will be in the hands of a board consisting of the mayor and four commissioners, the present aldermanic body being dispensed with. These will be subject to the direction of the ratepayers at all times by means of the initiative, referendum and recall. Each of the four commissioners will be in charge of one or other of the large departments, and the board will meet every day for the transaction of business. The mayor will be elected for two years, and two of the commissioners for two years, and two for four years. All will be paid salaries, the amounts of which have yet to be decided. In all elections where the number of candidates is more than three times the number to be elected, voting will be on the "three-choice" or "selective" principle.

Some Auto Suggestions.

It will be interesting to Peterboro' autoists to learn that important suggestions were made by the Grand Jury in their presentment to Justice Riddell in Toronto a few days ago. The principal one of these was a suggestion that on their second offence of exceeding the speed limit, automobile drivers should have their licenses cancelled for a period of not less than six months. The grand jury were also of the opinion that all persons should undergo an examination for efficiency before being allowed to drive automobiles. All automobiles approaching a street car standing and loading or unloading passengers should be required to come to a standstill by the street car, that every motor car should be equipped with a government speedometer, which would show maximum speed allowed by the law, and that all automobile horns should be uniform in sound were other recommendations.

Peterborough Boys' Success.

Mr. Albert A. Harvie, superintendent of the Nicholl Square Co., is an old Peterborough boy, and the Iowan Ottumwan thus refers to his genius:

The inventor of a knock-down carpenter's square, a square that comes apart and the tongue slides into the body and locks, so that it can be thrown about without impairing the accuracy of the tool, has been recently granted letters of patent and the genius is Mr. Albert A. Harvie. Another invention, a means of hardening carpenter's squares and similar tools is also the fruit of Mr. Harvie's genius, and the patent rights in this process have been assigned by the inventor to Martin Hardsoog of the Nicholl Square Co., of Iowa and other manufacturing enterprises, who is quite an inventive genius himself.

Mr. Harvie received his early training as a mechanic in the Wm. Hamilton Company's machine shop, Peterborough.

The Two Year Term.

The London Township Council, says the Kingston Standard, will submit a by-law to the ratepayers in January, asking them to change the law so as to permit reeves and councillors to hold office for two years instead of one as now. To which the Lindsay Post adds that if the Londoners are wise they will remain as they are. It is much better to elect a good man over again for a second year, or for longer if desired, than to be obliged to endure a poor man until his term has expired. Moreover, once a long-term man is in, he is apt to grow indifferent, whereas the short term man usually attends pretty closely to business, lest the electors should get on his trail. It is easier to remember the shortcomings within a year than within two years.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Archie H. Seymour.

A large circle of friends and acquaintances will regret to learn of the death of Mr. Archie H. Seymour, who passed away on Sunday at Oshawa. The deceased was a son of Mr. C. J. Seymour, Smith street, this city, and had a host of friends here, where he had been a faithful and energetic member of the 57th regiment bugle band. For some time he had charge of the Prudential Life Insurance Co's agency at Oshawa. He leaves a wife and one small child. Interment will be made at Port Perry.

Gladys Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Moore have suffered a second bereavement within one week in the death from diptheria of their eight-year-old daughter, Gladys, who passed away at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. The funeral of their young son took place at 11 o'clock yesterday morning from the family residence, Garden avenue.

The Times joins with many friends and acquaintances in extending its sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Moore in their exceptionally sad bereavement.

Miss Sarah Ann Sullivan.

The funeral of the late Miss Sarah Ann Sullivan, will take place this morning at 9 o'clock from the residence of her brother, Mr. Patrick Sullivan, 264 Murray street. Interment in St. Peter's cemetery.

Deceased was 74 years of age, and well known in Peterborough County. She passed away at the home of her niece, Mrs. Thomas Sweeney, 1155 Dufferin street, Toronto, where she had been visiting, death being due to heart failure. The late Miss Sarah Ann Sullivan was born in the township of Douro.

WEDDING BELLS.

Coursey—White.

Early yesterday morning Miss Laurine White, daughter of Mr. James White, this city, was united in marriage to Mr. Patrick Coursey, at the Sacred Heart church, south city. Rev. Dr. O'Brien performed the interesting ceremony. The bride was supported by Miss Theresa Guerin, and the groom by Mr. Joseph Ranger. The happy couple will reside on Park street.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Lillie Cunningham left yesterday for Buffalo, where she will reside permanently.

Mrs. J. H. Renwick, 571 Aylmer street, will receive this (Tuesday) afternoon, and not again until January 16, 1912.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mollmoyle, of Toronto, were in the city yesterday, on their way to visit at Warsaw.

Mrs. Alex. J. Robertson, 174 Antrim Street, will receive on Wednesday, Nov. 22nd, from 4 to 6 o'clock; afterwards on the End Thursday and Friday of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Kennedy and their son Maxwell have left for Toronto, where they will remain for the winter. Mr. Kennedy, however, will make week-end business trips to this city.

Kingston Standard: A most delightful afternoon tea was given yesterday by Mrs. Torrence, Brock street, in honor of her mother, Mrs. Dennistoun, of Winnipeg, who is her guest. The drawing room was attractively decorated with large mauve and white chrysanthemums and a smaller vase of white carnations and maiden hair fern. The tea table was very pretty with Maltese lace over pink silk with a tall vase of mauve and white chrysanthemums and white carnations. The ladies assisting were Mrs. Garrett, Mrs. Alex. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Louise Kirkpatrick, Miss Constance Cooke, Miss Aileen Rogers, Miss Anna Leslie, Miss Kathleen Crisp, Miss Lassie Kirkpatrick, and Miss May Rogers.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

Mr. M. Pappas has disposed of the Princess motion picture theatre to Mr. W. E. King of Winnipeg.

Mrs. M. Calnan and family of Sherbrooke street, wish to thank their many friends for the kindness and sympathy extended to them in their recent bereavement, and also for the many spiritual and floral tributes sent.

Another meeting of the church hockey league is called for to-night, at 7.30, in the Y.M.C.A. parlours. The Methodist denomination was not represented at Saturday night's meeting, and it is urged that all four denominations be present to-night, for which business of much importance is slated.

The funeral of the late John Richards, formerly of Peterborough, who died at Vancouver last week, will take place to-day at 2 p.m. from the residence of Mrs. Cornthwaithe, Port Hope, to Port Hope cemetery.

THE DRAWING ROOM

Amongst those who attended the "drawing room" at Ottawa, and were presented to His Excellency the Governor General and Duchess of Connaught, were the following:

Miss Lillian Cox, white satin and veil, bouquet of lillies.

Mrs. A. Barnett (Renfrew), Paris gown of amethyst velvet, silver lace, feathers and veil, orchids and lilies.

Mrs. George Barnet (Renfrew), white and silver of pale blue satin, diamonds, pink and white roses, feathers and veil.

Miss Barnet (Renfrew), white and gold chiffon, over satin, feathers and veil, bouquet of yellow roses surrounded with violets.

Hon. Geo. A. Cox; Mrs. Cox looking very handsome in a magnificent gown, imported from Paris and made in Toronto for Mrs. Cox, of white and moire, with overdress of Honiton lace, court train of pearls on silver tissue, diamond ornaments of pearls and diamonds and bouquet of orchids.

Col. the Hon. Sam. Hughes, Mrs. Sam. Hughes, silver-grey brocade with embroidery of pearls and emeralds, with a little emerald and pink velvet introduced, ornaments of pearls and diamonds, feathers and veil. American Beauties Miss Bobby Hughes, seagreen and white satin, veiled with mmon, and trimmed with bands of gold and crystal, with fringe of the same amethyst and pearl ornaments, feathers and veil; bouquet of pink roses.

Wrinkles Disappear As if By Magic

(From Household Guest)

"In the removal of wrinkles I have discarded cosmetics entirely," writes Mme. Corsan, the celebrated Parisian beauty expert. "The results they produce are deceptive and never permanent. Massaging is only partially successful and it's too slow a method.

"I've never seen anything work such wonders as a simple, harmless solution any woman can prepare and use at home without the least trouble. A half pint of witch hazel and an ounce of good powdered saxolite are all you'll need. Mix the two and apply this refreshing solution to your face daily. The effect is marvelous—instantaneous. The skin becomes firmer, tighter, — every wrinkle and sag is affected. You feel so refreshed after using the wash: you look refreshed, too; soon you will look ten years younger."

ANSWERS BY J. W. BROWETT, OPTOMETRIST

Q. Why do school children with good sight, require Glasses?

A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength; the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.

ANSWERS BY J. W. BROWETT, OPTOMETRIST

Q. Why do children squint?

A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain; this is nature's way. Study-glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squinting.

VOL XXXIV NO 268 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 22 1911 PRICE TWO CENTS

JAMES KENDRY, EX-M.P., MAY REPRESENT PETER-BORO' IN THE SENATE

Such an Appointment Will Be Advocated by City Council

Otonabee Water Below City In An Infectious Condition, According to Tests Made—City Council Not Asked to Unite with County Council in Deputation to Ottawa.

The City Fathers met in Committee of the Whole last night. There were present Mayor Morrow, Aldermen Kernaghan, Duncan, Metheral, Morgan, Brown, Edgar, Graham, Bradburn and Buller.

The object of the meeting was to consider the suggestion made by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., that the Council join with the County Council in forming a deputation to Ottawa re the question of building a permanent bridge at Pigeon Creek (Bald Lake) and incidentally urging the deepening of the Trent Valley Canal to 9 feet 4 inches.

Mr. Burnham's letter to the foregoing effect was published in The Times yesterday morning.

Another advice received from Mr. Burnham yesterday morning notified Council that he had asked ten members of the House of Commons to be present at the proposed interview with the Minister of Railways and Canals when the Trent Valley Canal deepening project is introduced. All of which goes to show the early and deep interest West Peterborough's member is taking in the needs of his constituency.

Regarding the Pigeon Creek bridge project, Council had not received a request from the County Council to join their deputation to Ottawa next Thursday on bridge construction matters, so did not volunteer joint action. The Board of Works had, however, previously been authorized to arrange a deputation in connection with this matter; they were further empowered to exercise their judgment as to when their deputation goes, and if at the same time as that of the County Council, to act jointly with the latter, should questions in which the city is directly interested be introduced.

The Council, up to last night, had not been advised if the County Council's deputation will take up with the Minister of Railways and Canals the Pigeon Creek (Bald Lake Narrows) bridge or not. In the Pigeon Creek present floating bridge, the city, and counties of Peterborough and Victoria are jointly concerned—The city paying towards it maintenance half of what the county of Peterborough contributes. Hence it was considered that all three municipalities should unitedly approach the department on the question of a permanent bridge, to assure a recognition of the crying need for such a structure.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

As to the deepening of the Trent Valley Canal proposition, Council felt the question to be one of sufficient importance to demand a big deputation representative of all interests along the Canal's route; such a deputation could not be arranged for so early a date, but will be taken up later; and Mr. Burnham was telephoned to that effect last night.

The sections of the Canal now under contract call for a depth of 8 feet; those sections completed are but 6 feet deep.

INFECTIOUS WATER.

Medical Health Officer McPherson's report of his tests of the water at 6 points down the Otonabee showed the water to be contaminated at four out of the six localities tested. That is to say at Rye's boat house, the river is dangerous (from an infectious standpoint); at Crawford's Grove, its condition is suspicious; at the T. A.S. Park, suspicious, at Stewart's, suspicious; one and a half miles further down, clear; seven miles below the city, clear.

This matter will be taken up at another meeting.

MORE LAND WANTED.

Moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That the City Trust Commissioners be asked for another acre of land on which to erect a small pox cottage, to be used in place of a tent.—Carried.

A BAD SPOT.

Mr. Fuller asked that the west end of Chamberlain street, between Alfred street and the boundary, be filled in and gravelled, where the water lies to a considerable depth.—The Board of Works will take this matter up.

MR. KENDRY FOR SENATOR.

The committee agreed with the suggestion of Mr. Burnham, M.P., that this city should be represented on the Senate Board at Ottawa, and a resolution supporting Mr. James Kendry's (ex-M.P.) name as senator will be introduced at Council's next session, when an affirmative vote will be unanimous.

In this connection, a meeting of the Conservatives will be held in Mr. Ruddy's office Thursday evening.

An Awful Charge

At the Women's Institute Convention in Toronto last week Mrs. H. W. Parsons, of Forest, made the following sensational charge. "To-day we are living in a time of great national peril. Women everywhere are refusing to be mothers. Women everywhere are using everything known to science to prevent motherhood. There are men and women living in Ontario to-day who are living lives of nothing less than legalized prostitution. We cannot hope to retain our own self-respect and the self-respect of our husbands if we live like that. If we believe we are temples of the living God, how dare we descend to such low degredation."

DAKOTA TURKS GOING TO WAR

Four Thousand Will Leave United States at Once For Home Land

They Are All Well-to-do and Will Make Sacrifices for Mother Country—Incited by Tales of Italian Cruelty.

Fargo, North Dakota, Nov. 21.—Four thousand Turkish farmers in Morton county, west of Fargo, incited by the press despatches alleging massacres of Turkish women and children in Tripoli, have decided to leave at once for their mother country and spend everything in aiding their countrymen in the battles with Italy, and have sent a representative of this city, who is now in communication with the Turkish embassy at Washington arranging, it is stated, for the immediate transportation of these Turks. They say their representative will proceed at once. They are ready to drop everything and go at once to Turkey. According to reports, the excitement of the Turks is intense.

The farmers have been leaving here for three or four years, being placed on farms there by colonizing companies. They are brought direct from Turkey by a colonizing company. All of them are well to do. The representative of the Morton county Turks this afternoon sent a message to the Turkish embassy at Washington, which said in part: "Three thousand Turkish farmers are determined to go home to fight their country's battles. One thousand are all ready to go. What can be done to get them to Turkey? They wait reply."

MANITOBA GETS SATISFACTION

LONG STANDING BOUNDARY DISPUTE FINALLY SETTLED.

Indemnity Re-Adjusted—Government Will at Once Explore North Land and Open it Up for Settlement.

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—Hon. R. P. Roblin, Premier of Manitoba, announced last night that he had reached a settlement of the boundaries question. "Manitoba," said Mr. Roblin, "comes into her own. After forty years of struggles and effort to secure equality in the confederation of Canada her claims are recognized and she steps forward in line with the other sisters in the Dominion. The boundaries as fixed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier are accepted by Manitoba, but the subsidy, indemnity in lieu of the public domain, are all to be readjusted on a basis to give equality with Saskatchewan and Alberta.

OPEN NEW TERRITORY.

Premier Roblin stated that he would immediately initiate a policy to open up the hinterland of Manitoba which will include the new territory up to Hudson Bay. "I will immediately," he said, "take steps to establish reliable record and data as to Hudson's Bay and the north country and provide transporation facilities that will form easy and immediate access to that great hinterland, the wealth and importance of which has not been appreciated by the people of Manitoba.

We have fought a long and steady battle and have won a glorious fight.

A bill will be introduced this session providing for a settlement of the question.

Premier Roblin and Hon. Colin H. Campbell after the question had been settled left on the night train for the West.

NO COMMUNICATION WITH SIAN-FU, WHERE MASSACRES OCCURED

London, Nov. 21.—The Baptist Missionary Society has received a cablegram from Shanghai stating that communication with Sian-Fu, where the massacre of foreigners occurred, is impossible as the telegraph wires have been cut.

Tai-Yuen, the capital of the Province of Shan-Si, is in ruins, but the missions are safe.

THINKS MONARCHY WILL TRIUMPH.

Peking, Nov. 21.—Advices from Chuen Kiang say not a single foreigner has been killed in the Province of Sze Chuen.

The disagreement between the National Assembly and Premier Yuan Shi Kai is becoming stronger. The Premier's belief in the ultimate success of the Monarchy is now considered undoubted.

He seems to believe that he is responsible to the Throne alone.

RETAIN DYNASTY SAYS YUAN.

London, Nov. 21.—The Peking correspondent of The Times sends a long interview with Yuan Shi Kai, who appears to be in excellent health, full of hopefulness and courage. The Premier advocates the retention of the dynasty as a limited Monarchy, on the ground that the revolutionists would be unable to agree among themselves, and if the Republican party prevail and the dynasty be removed, there will be internal wrangling, leading to anarchy in which foreign interests and lives would be endangered. This would lead to foreign intervention and the partition of China.

London, Nov. 21.—The Daily Chronicle says that Dr. San Yat Sen, one of the Chinese revolutionary leaders, has been spending the last few weeks in London. He was not recognized because of a slight disguise, except a few intimate friends. Dr. Sen, the paper says, started for China yesterday, but the route over which he will travel is kept secret.

MR. HALL AND THE WORKINGMAN.

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir,—No doubt you have often heard the expression "it would make a horse laugh" when something very ridiculous has been said or done. I would suggest that all the horses in Peterborough be gathered on the market square and Mr. Hall be requested to address them and repeat some of the speeches he has made and shed some of his crocodile tears over the hardships of the working men. If there is such a thing as making a horse laugh, then we will have such a chorus of laughter as will be heard for miles. Notwithstanding all Mr. Hall's bluff and bluster I challenge him to mention one kind act he ever did a working man. I understand he has $10,000 to spend in this election, and, if so, I think it would show a better Christian spirit for him to retire from this contest, where he has not the ghost of a chance for election and hand over the $10,000 to be distributed among some of the poor people who have lost their all in purchasing stock in some of the companies he has floated. Will Mr. Hall kindly inform the electors how much stock has been sold in the following companies, viz: The Peterborough Underwear Co., The Colonial Weaving Co., The Cordage Co., The Shovel Factory, The Rapid Tool Co. and The Big Bend Lumber Co. I am told there has been over a million dollars stock sold in connection with the above companies and that he and the sharks employed by him are the only people who have made any money.

Yours truly,
An Anxious Enquirer.

WANTS TO TEACH IN THE WEST.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Can you tell me where I could gain information on teaching in the West—that is—wages, board, etc., and the best section for teachers to go to.

—L. T.

Reply—The West is a large domain and you do not state where you desire to go. Write to the Superintendent of Education in any of the provinces you would like to locate, and he will give you the information you seek.

MR. HALL'S DEFENSE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Mr. L. M. Hayes at Mr. Peeks' Saturday evening meeting, as reported in Monday evening's Review, made an unfair attack upon me on account of my connection with the William Hamilton Company and the Canadian Cordage Company.

I am very much surprised that Mr. Hayes, who knows all the facts in connection with both of these concerns should have so far forgotten the duty that he owes to himself and the citizens of Peterborough that he would wilfully conceal from his audience the true facts of my connection with these concerns.

Mr. Hayes knows that I undertook to organize the William Hamilton Company in the Spring of 1907, but through no fault of my own I was unexpectedly stuck with a personal liability of $240,000.00, being the amount of the purchase price. That I offered to forfeit my deposit of $5000 and drop out, but the Liquidator would not accept it, but compelled me in the midst of a financial crisis that prevailed in this country to make a further deposit of $25,000.00 on account, and close down the works, or else that they would sue me and close both myself and the works down at the same time.

Had the financial statement of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Limited, been correct, I could have carried through the transaction without closing down the works as Mr. Hayes well knows, but on account of their financial statement being untrue I was forced to close down the works, and forced to sue the Liquidator and after the expense of a 26 days' law suit I fin-

TO REPEAL THE NAVAL BILL

THAT IS THE INTERPRETATION PUT ON MR. BORDEN'S SPEECH.

Will Consult Admiralty—Then Bill Will be Submitted at a Referendum or at the Next General Election.

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—The announcement of Premier Borden as to his policy on the navy question created considerable of a sensation at Ottawa.

Mr. Borden's statement is interpreted to mean that the Laurier naval bill will be repealed. The Admiralty will be consulted as to the policy which would be most valuable for the defence of the Empire and a bill will be framed which will either be submitted to the people at a referendum or at the next election. The announcement of Mr. Borden has been well received at Ottawa.

The debate is likely to run for several days, with a division probably on Thursday. F. B. Carvell follows this afternoon and J. A. M. Aikins, the new member for Brandon, will reply. Hon. F. B. Monk may possibly speak this evening and his announcement will be waited with considerable interest.

SWEDEN IS WILLING.

Ready to Allow Dominions to Withdraw from British Treaties.

London, Nov. 21.—In the House of Commons, Mr. F. D. Acland said the Swedish Government had expressed readiness to allow the self-governing Dominions to withdraw from the Anglo-Swedish treaties if they desired. No other governments have yet replied.

HERBERT CASE MAY GO ON

Montreal, Nov. 21.—That the wedding annulment case of Eugene Hebert and his wife, Emma Clouatre, involving the ne temere decree's legality, may still be fought out to a conclusion in the courts despite the husband's withdrawal, was hinted at this morning by Arnold Wainwright, one of the lawyers for the wife.

Judgment was to have been given this morning concerning the withdrawal of Hebert, but owing to the fact that Mr. Geo. W. Cousins, the other attorney for Mrs. Hebert, was absent from the city. Mr. Wainwright decided to defer making motion for judgment. A week is allowed for this procedure. Mr. Wainwright was reticent in making any disclosures as to the possibility of the case being carried further in the courts, but intimated there was possibility that it might go on.

WOMAN WITH $50,000,000 GOES FORTH WITH HER MARKET BASKET

New York, N.Y., Nov. 21.—To-day was Mrs. Hetty Green's birthday. She declared herself too busy to celebrate and said that birthday was as good as any other day for hard work at her desk in her Broadway offices.

"Yes, I'm seventy-six and proud of it," she remarked briskly. "Still young and still happy." Talking with friends she said that she intended to continue in active business for at least another decade.

Mrs. Green has stopped riding in the street cars. Her son, Col. Edward H. R. Green, has a big 60 h.p. automobile, in which Mrs. Green rides down at nine o'clock every morning to her office where she manages her interests which reach $50,000,000.

She still does her marketing, however, and bright and early every morning she takes her market basket and goes forth to strike a bargain with the butcher.

HON. J. J. FOY ON BI-LINGUAL SCHOOLS

Toronto, Nov. 21.—"I desire to give my views on the question of the schools, and to put them briefly and clearly. My views are that the English language should be thoroughly taught in our schools to every pupil by teachers fully competent to teach English. No other language should be taught in those schools. That such is the law that should govern us. That there cannot lawfully be any bi-lingual schools in the Province of Ontario, and if any are found they must cease to exist, and care should be taken to make all schools conform to the law.

"I wish to add that this policy is not one that is in the slightest way unfriendly to any portion of the community, but on the contrary is in the interest and for the benefit of each one of the rising generation. It will remove what would otherwise be a drag on many youth in the race of life, and enable him to fairly compete with his fellows on an equal footing."

SHOT BY FATHER OF WRONGED GIRL.

Philadelphia Saloonkeeper will Plead Justification for the Shooting of Real Estate Man.

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—The interesting question whether the father of a daughter is justified in taking the life of a man who betrays the girl and refuses to marry her will come up in the case of Frank W. McMahon who was placed on trial here to-day charged with the murder of George A. Leary. McMahon is a saloonkeeper and Leary was a well to do dealer in real estate.

The case has attracted much attention because of its many peculiar features. Leary was shot dead on a street corner in West Philadelphia last May. McMahon, when arrested made a statement that Leary had betrayed his daughter and had insulted him when he asked Leary to marry the girl.

At the coroner's inquest McMahon made a statement regarding his daughter's troubles and the coroner promptly discharged him on the ground of justifiable homicide, but he was arrested on a warrant sworn by Leary's relatives charging him with murder.

TOOK PAY TO LURE GIRL TO "TAR PARTY."

Ricord Admits That He Led Miss Chamberlain Into Ambush.

Lincoln Centre, Kas., Nov. 21.—While spectators who crowded the court room almost to suffocation craned their necks in an endeavor not to miss a syllable of her testimony regarding the perpetration of a "tar and feather" outrage by three of the most prominent citizens of the community, Miss Mary Chamberlain, young and pretty, took the stand in Judge Glover's court to-day and related the events of the night of August 7th.

"Why didn't you call for help?" was asked.

"I did call. I screamed. But Richard Chapman who was acting as my escort, had hidden in the bushes nearby and did not appear until it was all over."

Miss Chamberlain related in detail the events of the summer night. She told of her "date" with Ed. Ricord, the village Beau Brummel, of his insistence that she accompany him; of his strange manner as they neared the rendezvous, of the sudden appearance of the masked men, who pointed a gun, afterwards discovered to be a toy pistol, at the buggy, of her appeal to Ricord, and his hasty retreat into the bushes; of being dragged to a huge bonfire, where three men partly stripped her, and held per prostrate while the sticky mass was applied from a bucket.

"When it was all over the men left me," continued the witness. "Ricord came out from his hiding place, and with the tar still dripping from me, we drove to my home.

The day's session opened with the examination of Ed. Ricord, who had previously confessed to having lured the girl to the place where she was to be tarred. Ricord took the stand yesterday, telling how he had been hired to bring the girl out on the night of the "tar party."

DIED SOON AFTER HE HEARD OF FORTUNE.

London, Ont., Nov. 21.—William McGaw, of Kincardine, died here on Sunday shortly after learning that he and other members of his family were sole heirs to a fortune of fourteen millions. The money was left by an uncle who died some time ago at Buenos Ayers. William McGaw and his brother John, who died some time ago, had often heard from their uncle and it was currently reported that he was immensely rich. The first word they had of his death was when an advertisement appeared asking for the relatives to whom had been left $14,000,000. The two McGaw families at once wrote to those in charge of the estate and are awaiting further word. The late uncle was a bachelor and they had not seen him in many years. There are a number of other brothers and sisters who if the news is correct, will share in the fortune.

SAMUEL AND HENRY BRIGGS STARTED FOR HOME AFTER 37 YEARS' ABSENCE.

Met at Boston Hotel—Samuel Started Out as Gold Hunter and Wound Up as an Evangelist.

Boston, Nov. 19.—After a separation of 37 years, during which they had completely lost track of each other, Samuel and Henry Briggs, twin brothers, met by accident in the corridor of a hotel here last night. Both had felt the longing to return to their old home in Salem, where they were born 59 years ago, and had stopped in Boston for the night, registering quite by accident at the same hotel.

When the brothers left Boston 37 years ago they wandered into different parts of the world. Samuel was one of the early gold seekers in Alaska, later prospecting for oil in China, and realizing a fortune on his investments. He then went into the wholesale tobacco business in London, and retired to become a successful evangelist.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

was incorporated by Special Act of the Parliament of Canada for the purpose of carrying on the business of Fire Insurance, as outlined in the Insurance Act and the Special Act of Incorporation.

Capital Stock Authorized by the Board.....$2,000,000
Capital Stock Subscribed to date.....$1,650,000

The Head Office of the Company is in the city of Winnipeg, and, in addition to this, Branch Offices and Agencies will be established throughout the Dominion.

It must be generally conceded that, owing to the satisfactory conditions at present prevailing throughout not only Western Canada, but the entire Dominion, this Company is being organized at a most favorable and opportune time.

Canada, and particularly the Western portion of the Dominion, is advancing in population and wealth more rapidly than at any other time in its history, and every indication points towards a period of great prosperity and development.

The great influx of settlers into Western Canada is resulting in tremendous activity in every line of business. Railroad construction is proceeding on a scale hitherto unknown in this country, and as adequate transportation is of vital importance in moving our immense crops with a proper degree of facility, it is highly encouraging to see so much well-directed energy along the lines of railway extension.

Coincident with railway expansion, we find many new districts rapidly filling up with desirable settlers, bringing with them a good supply of cash and effects. With the settlement of the rural districts, new towns and villages are springing up, which will, during the next few years, become, in many instances, important business centres.

With such unprecedented growth in Western as well as Eastern Canada, involving an expenditure of millions of dollars in building operations, it is at once evident that there is a very extensive and profitable field for a new Fire Insurance Company which will have a thorough organization throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion, and more particularly in the four Western Provinces.

As a great volume of our business will be transacted in the West, it is a matter of the greatest importance that the Head Office of the Company, as well as the Directors, should be located in the West, so that the affairs of the Company may be conducted to the best possible advantage.

DIRECTORS.

The Board of Directors consists entirely of Western men with a very intimate knowledge of Western conditions, and they are, accordingly, well conversant with the financial and general business requirements of the West. They are thoroughly representative of the various important branches of financial, commercial, industrial and professional life in Western Canada, and with their wide reputation for business ability and integrity, as well as financial standing, combined with a long and varied experience, and practical knowledge of business affairs, they are exceptionally well qualified to render excellent service to a large financial institution.

As the Directors have valuable connections with extensive business interests and are also Directors of other financial corporations, as well as being otherwise identified with large and influential companies which control a great deal of high-grade fire insurance, they will be instrumental in placing a large portion of this desirable insurance with the new Company, so that we may safely conclude that from the very beginning of operations a large and profitable business will be secured.

Under these favorable conditions, and with a strong, energetic, as well as experienced and conservative management, combined with the fact that each Director has subscribed for eleven thousand five hundred dollars ($11,500) of the Capital Stock, on which all calls have been paid, and takes an active interest in the welfare of the Company, there is only one conclusion to draw, and that is that the affairs of the Company will be conducted in such a careful, conscientious and intelligent manner that the interests of both policyholders and stockholders will be fully protected.

IT IS WORTHY OF NOTE THAT $1,650,000 OF CAPITAL STOCK HAS ALREADY BEEN SUBSCRIBED BY PROMINENT BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN THROUGHOUT THE DOMINION AND ELSEWHERE.

No commission has been paid to anyone for securing stock subscriptions, and no expense has been incurred in the promotion and organization of the Company, except the expense in connection with securing the Charter and other necessary expenses.

THE CANADA NATIONAL FIRE.

The Canada National Fire, being organized in the West, MAY BE TRULY CALLED A WESTERN COMPANY, and, as such, should receive the liberal patronage and hearty co-operation of the citizens of Western Canada, as well as the support of people from Eastern Canada who desire to become associated with a strong and progressive Canadian Company.

When promoting this Company the Directors were fully convinced that there was a splendid opening in Western Canada for a Company prepared to carry on the business of Fire Insurance on a large and comprehensive scale, and which, at the same time, could offer ADEQUATE PROTECTION TO BOTH POLICYHOLDERS AND SHAREHOLDERS. Accordingly, when making application for a Dominion charter, the Company was incorporated with a capital of $3,000,000.00, of which amount the Directors decided to offer for public subscription the sum of $2,000,000.00.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT FEATURE IN FIRE INSURANCE IS PROTECTION, and with the LARGE CAPITAL, combined with the high standard of Reserve, which will be maintained through careful selection of risks and profits from judicious investments, the Directors and Management feel confident that this Company will be accorded a very hearty reception by Canadian citizens, and will soon rank as one of the leading Fire Companies.

WITHOUT A LARGE AND SUBSTANTIAL CAPITAL FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE POLICYHOLDERS, A FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY IS SERIOUSLY HANDICAPPED, AND DOES NOT AFFORD THE POLICYHOLDER THAT PROTECTION TO WHICH HE IS JUSTLY ENTITLED, and the Directors of this Company, being fully aware of this most important fact, are adopting a very wise policy in OFFERING FOR SUBSCRIPTION SUCH A LARGE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL STOCK, and when our entire stock is subscribed and paid in full it will represent the largest amount of subscribed and paid-up capital of any Canadian Fire Insurance Company, and will be a tower of strength and of very material benefit to the company in carrying on its extensive operations.

GENERAL AGENT FOR CANADA

W. E. FUDGER, ESQ.

It shall be the policy of the Company to use the UTMOST DISCRETION in the selection of desirable risks, and, at the same time, to so widely distribute its business that any danger arising from a possible conflagration at any point may be reduced to a minimum.

The investment of the Company's funds will be given the GREATEST OF CARE AND ATTENTION by the Board of Directors.

Only GILT-EDGE securities will be considered, such as first mortgages on improved, productive real estate, stocks, bonds and debentures of companies of high repute, as well as Dominion securities and municipal, county and school debentures of well-established districts.

As a LARGE PERCENTAGE of these securities is READILY NEGOTIABLE, the Company will have abundant LIQUID ASSETS to meet any possible contingency that might arise.

Our first mortgage investments will be confined to Western Canada, and as the rate of interest obtainable on first-class productive real estate is FULLY TWO PER CENT. greater in the West than in Eastern Canada, the Company will have a DECIDED ADVANTAGE over Companies operating exclusively in the older portions of the Dominion. A fixed policy of the Company is to loan NOT MORE THAN FIFTY PER CENT. of a conservative value of the property, and to stipulate for a definite return of principal, together with interest, each year during the term of the loan. With these periodical repayments of principal, and with land values in Western Canada steadily increasing, the Company's first mortgage securities will continue to improve year by year.

With the active development in Western Canada, a great deal of capital will be required for many years to come, and the Company will, therefore, experience a very ready demand for its funds on high-grade securities and at a profitable rate of interest.

The Directors decided to issue the stock at the price of ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTEEN DOLLARS PER SHARE, being at a premium of fifteen per cent.

THE TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION ARE:

On application, $25.00 per share, which shall include the premium of $15.00 per share, and the balance, payable in ten consecutive half-yearly instalments of $9.00 per share, the first of such half-yearly instalments to become due and payable six months from date of allotment of shares.

Shares may be PAID IN FULL at time of subscription, but if purchased on the INSTALMENT PLAN the subscriber shall have the privilege of paying any or all of the instalments prior to due dates.

The Following Table Shows the Amount of First Call as well as the Subsequent Payments:

No. of Shares.	Amount of First Call.	Half-yearly Payments.

NO BONUS STOCK shall be issued for any purpose whatsoever, and even the Directors, who are very heavy stockholders in the Company, have paid the SAME PRICE for their shares as the general public. NOT ONE SHARE has been or will be issued to any person at a price less than $115.00 per share.

THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY to secure some of the Capital Stock of a Western Fire Insurance Company. With a large amount of desirable and profitable business so readily obtainable by the Company through its valuable and extensive business connections, rapid progress should be made, and with investments carefully selected and unexcelled in earning power, the Company will be enabled to not only pay substantial dividends, but build up a large reserve, and thereby materially increase the value of the stock.

The Directors firmly believe in the policy that EVERY SHAREHOLDER SHOULD CO-OPERATE WITH THE MANAGEMENT of a Company and take an active interest in its welfare. For that reason, it is their intention to WIDELY DISTRIBUTE the CAPITAL STOCK, and by that means obtain the support of the leading business and professional men throughout the country.

With the rapid development of the West during recent years, involving an outlay of many millions of capital, it has become generally recognized that WESTERN CANADA IS VERY MUCH IN NEED OF MORE LARGE FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND ESPECIALLY OF WESTERN ORIGIN, to properly meet the growing requirements of the West, and to not only improve the present financial situation, but to materially assist in retaining, as much as possible, desirable business, with its resultant profits, within our own Western borders.

The business of fire insurance has now grown to such large proportions that it has become a very important factor in the financial and commercial world, and as its scope and influence is so general and widespread it is only natural to find that the question of AMPLE PROTECTION TO POLICYHOLDERS, which is the PRIMARY FUNCTION OF FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES, should be so GENERALLY DISCUSSED AT THE PRESENT TIME.

This important subject has given rise to a very STRONG FEELING in Western Canada that the TIME HAS NOW ARRIVED when the Western people should organize a Fire Insurance Company of such strength and proportions that it will soon rank as one of the leading fire companies of America, and command general respect and confidence, which is so ESSENTIAL to a company that solicits the support and patronage of all classes of the community.

The Directors have every confidence that they will receive the hearty co-operation of not only Western citizens, but of people from every part of the Dominion, to build up a GREAT fire insurance company with AMPLE PROTECTION for the people, and which will be a source of pride and credit to our country.

The following Canadian Government Insurance statistics should prove of ESPECIAL INTEREST:

In the year 1909 the total amount of fire premiums collected in Canada was $1,785,530.00, whereas in the year 1909 the total premiums charged amounted to the large sum of $22,293,638.25, and of this amount $6,551,644.41 was charged by Canadian Companies, $11,518,267.45 by British Companies, and $4,223,721.39 by American Companies.

During the last forty-one years the aggregate amount of fire insurance premiums collected in Canada reached the immense total of $260,740,466.00, of which the large sum of $218,310,047.00 represents the amount of fire premiums collected by FOREIGN COUNTRIES, and which, therefore, was taken out of the country to build up foreign companies and enrich foreign shareholders.

Notwithstanding that a considerable portion of the fire premiums collected in Canada by Foreign Companies has been repaid to Canadian policyholders, through fire losses, it must be evident that the larger the proportion of Canadian fire insurance that is placed with Canadian Companies, the larger is the amount of capital retained in the Dominion and always available for investment purposes, to build up our Canadian financial institutions, and thereby add to the general wealth and prosperity of our country.

The above figures are most significant and clearly demonstrate that while the CANADIAN FIRE COMPANIES have been doing a satisfactory business they HAVE SECURED only a SMALL portion of the Fire Insurance transacted in Canada, or, to be more exact, ONLY TWENTY-TWO PER CENT. of THE TOTAL FIRE INSURANCE WRITTEN IN CANADA, covering a period of the last forty-one years. With the extraordinary progress which Canada has been making during recent years, the field for financial institutions has become so widely extended that there is a CONSTANTLY INCREASING DEMAND for new large financial corporations.

By further reference to our Government statistics it will be observed that at December 31st, 1909, the total number of Canadian Fire Companies operating under Dominion charter was ONLY TWENTY-ONE, and of this number ONLY TWO HAD A PAID-UP CAPITAL IN EXCESS OF $500,000.

In promoting this large Canadian Company the Directors are fully confident that the new organization will, with characteristic Western energy and enterprise, soon come to be recognized as an important factor in the insurance world, and as The Canada National Fire will be instrumental in RETAINING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF CANADA a large amount of money which would otherwise be taken out of the country to build up foreign corporations the people of the growing Dominion will readily see the advisability of giving this Company their MORAL AND FINANCIAL SUPPORT, in order that we may build up a STRONG and VIGOROUS Company which will prove a valuable acquisition to our Canadian monetary institutions.

This is the last opportunity to secure, direct from the Company, some of this desirable stock.

It is worthy of special note that the demand for the stock has exceeded the Directors' most sanguine expectations; in fact, of the $2,000,000 of stock to be issued, $1,650,000 has already been subscribed, and, from present indications, with the large number of applications for stock being received daily, the Directors are confident that the balance of the issue, which is now only $350,000, will be subscribed by August 30th, 1911, the date appointed for the closing of stock subscriptions.

For this reason, the Directors strongly recommend the investing public to mail their applications for stock at their earliest possible opportunity.

Subscribers are requested to kindly fill in attached application form, stating name in full, number of shares desired, occupation and address, and mail the application, along with the first call of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) per share on the stock, direct to the Head Office of the Company, Winnipeg, Man., or, if so desired, application may be made for the stock at any of the Company's Branch Offices or at any Branch of the Royal or Imperial Banks, where application blanks and any additional information will be readily furnished. Applications for stock will be considered in the order received, and on approval of the same by the Board of Directors a certificate for the number of shares subscribed will be issued and mailed the shareholders forthwith. Cheques, Drafts, Money Orders or other remittances on account of stock subscriptions should be made payable to The Canada National Fire Insurance Company.

KING EDWARD VACUM CLEANER

You cannot clean carpets, rugs and furniture by beating. If you think you have, just try a KING EDWARD VACUUM-CLEANER and you will find the article full of dust, which breeds disease.

The KING EDWARD HAND MACHINE has no equal as compared with other hand machines. It is lighter to operate and its suction is much stronger. Its suction is stronger than many of the power machines, and the dusting is done away with. On account of the short stroke one person can operate it on carpets and rugs equally as well as two, and it is about half the weight of other hand machines to carry up and down stairs or from one room to another. It is sold for less money than any of the hand machines. All machines are guaranteed.

Spruce for British Admiralty

The British Admiralty has recently placed an order for 200,000 feet of white spruce to be used in the manufacture of oars for the rowboats of warships. It is perhaps not generally known that the superior quality of the white spruce grown in the Queen Charlotte Islands, off the coast of British Columbia, was discovered years ago by British naval officers of the North Pacific station. The kind of timber was found to be ideally adapted for making oars, and it is now used exclusively for that purpose by His Majesty's vessels throughout the world. The timber will be shipped east by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Light from Sugar

This phenomenon, the cause of which has not yet been satisfactorily explained, may be observed when lumps of loaf sugar are mounted on a lathe and rapidly rotated while a hammer plays lightly against them. An almost continuous radiation of light may be thus produced from the sugar. It has been shown that the light does not arise from heating of the sugar, and it is believed to be caused by some change taking place in the sugar crystals. The act of crystallization is known to be sometimes accompanied by flashes of light. The practical bearing of these experiments is on the question of the possibility of obtaining artificial light by methods as yet untried.

High Sneezing Dangers

Sneezing is one of the greatest perils that confront aeronauts, declares Harry Atwood, the American aviator. "On my flight over Cleveland, Ohio," says Mr. Atwood, "a small insect flew into my nose. I felt the sneezing convulsion coming on and fought against it. Realising that a sneeze was inevitable, I braced myself so that I would not lose possession of my senses, even for an instant. It was the first time I ever had to sneeze while in the air, and it immediately dawned on me that more than one aviator probably owed his death to a sneeze — the spasmodic jerking of the head, the brief loss of sense direction, and probably a jerk of a lever which made recovery of balance impossible. Believe me, I never again want to sneeze while flying. It is one of the most serious perils of aviation."

The fishing waters of the Caspian Sea are divided into plots and let out by the government at auction. Two firms combined and bid in the right to fish in two-thirds of all the fish water. This crowded out the smaller fishermen and made a monopoly. Thus both land and water are being monopolized.

Waste in Armaments.

Despite all the peace movements of the day the expenditures of the nations upon armaments is to-day, with no great war in progress, greater in the aggregate, according to a statement made by the editor of the London Statist, than they have ever been in times of war.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Workshop, Victoria Island, Ottawa," will be received until 4 p.m., on Thursday, November 23, 1911, for the construction of a Workshop, Victoria Island, Ottawa.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

THE CRIMINAL AMONG PLANTS

Thugs of the Vegetable World that Have No Honest Ways, and Live by Strangling Their Brethern.

There are plants of bad character, which are the thugs of the vegetable world, for they live by means of strangling their victims, and have no honest way of gaining their own livelihood. The Broomrape family are all of evil repute, for they throttle the roots of the vetches, of furze, clovers, and other leguminous plants, robbing them of the rich nitrogen which they have collected from the air for their own roots, and seizing this private store for themselves. What could be more like the actions of human thieves? The Tooth-worts which infest the roots of nut-bushes, elms, and other trees are like unto them: and both are singularly wanting in beauty, being clothed in dirty-brown tints, as a rule, and having no green leaves. Even one of the Persicarias (Black Bindweed) has taken to evil courses, for it climbs on the stems of other plants, and strangles them in so doing; and these evil-doers by no means exhaust the list of the criminals of the vegetable world. We can, however, scarcely blame the root-stock of a grafted rose for starving the graft, and throwing up its own suckers; such a proceeding is but too common amongst ourselves, for selfishness is almost universal.

The Dirigible Balloon

It will be remembered that a year or two ago a lot of hysterical people in England were scared half out of their wits over the alleged danger of invasion from Germany by means of dirigible balloons, notes the "Colonist". It was in vain that saner people pointed out that the chief trouble with Count Zeppelin's machines was that they were never sure of going where they were sent, and that they displayed a fondness for such peaceful things as church steeples, groves of trees and other objects usually at right angles or so to the line of flight. The Kaiser has decided that the dirigible is not of much practical use, and is going to experiment with aeroplanes. This recalls the definition given by a boy, who was asked how flying machines could be used to advantage in war. He, having in mind the long list of fatal accidents, said: "By inducing the enemy to go up in them."

Beware of Imitation Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

THAT THY DAYS MAY BE LONG

Avoidable Sources of Physical Degeneration Include Poisoning of Tissues by Meat Putrefaction and Grief Worry and Anxiety.

There is a definite limit set to one's length of years. This limit is an inherent something very difficult to define, which determines the end of the vital span, beyond which life cannot be prolonged. It is one of the very numerous expressions of protoplasmic inertia. It means that no matter how carefully a man likes avoiding accidents and all those poisons which tend to produce degeneration of tissue — those of alcohol, gout, and the toxins of specific infections — nevertheless he can not live on for ever because of an intrinsic tendency in his protoplasm to cease working after so many years have elapsed. Just as a clock, wound up to go for eight days, will stop at the end of eight days, or a projectile fired from a gun can travel no farther than the energy of its charge will permit it, so the organism can endure for a certain time, but no longer than this inherent fatality to cease to live will allow it.

One avoidable source of early tissue degeneration is the absorption of intestinal poison, chemical substances of an injurious nature manufactured in the alimentary canal. As nearly everybody now knows, it is the bacilli of sour milk which antagonise the putrefactive bacteria. The drinkers of sour milk, in Eastern Europe and the tribes of the desert are notoriously longlived.

Lastly, the mind and its various states have, as is universally recognised, an influence on growing old. Grief, worry, and anxiety are well known "to age" people rapidly. Other things being equal, the person of placid temperament is more likely to survive to a ripe old age than the person who frets and fusses and fumes.

Work Without Worrying

A man who can work without worrying can stand almost any amount of it and keep in tip-top condition. The college athletics by which we set so much store merely touch the surface. As often as not the crack oarsman or half-back is the first to break under the strain of business. In modern conditions, except for manual labourers, a man's power of resistance lies not in his muscles but in his nerves. And for sound nerves — in spite of materialistic science — one should bank more upon a state of mind than upon a state of body. In a large way, not to worry means not to take yourself too seriously; to keep a sense of proportion by which, after all, you appear as merely a transitory blot.

"There are a lot of girls who don't even intend to get married."
"How do you know?"
"I've proposed to seven!"

Change of Air

The cyclist was fighting hard against a strong head-wind and wondering what unhappy thought had prompted him to come so far away from home. Darkness was rapidly falling, and, to crown his misery, it was beginning to rain. After a little practice, the rain came down in its best style, and the wheelman got wet to the skin. Then, as the intelligent reader will have anticipated, a piece of glass laid his tyre open. Some people get all the luck.

Presently there drove up from the opposite direction a benevolent old gentleman in a pony-cart. Gazing at the upturned bike, the perspiring wheelman, and the repairing outfit which he had dropped in the mud, he enquired—

"Had a puncture, my friend?"

The cyclist looked up and swallowed his feelings with a huge gulp.

"No, sir," he replied. "I'm just changing the air in the tyres. The other lot's worn out, you know!"

BORN OF KINDNESS

"Beauty," says Shakespeare, "lives with kindness." Lovelier than any face of form or tint, nobler than the keen glance of discerning intellect is the beauty which is born of kindness. We have seen how it transforms harsh and rugged faces through the loveliness which dwells within. There is no beautifier of the face like a beautiful spirit. A kind man is like music passing down the street, the loudest day is brightened by his presence, we take heart of hope concerning the human world. Kindness restores to man the Divine image and likeness.

It is the work of heaven to make people happy, and whoever may be left outside such workers are of that random. Nor are such opportunities scarce — they are in the daily path of all of us. An encouraging word to a servant in the house; a little genial intercourse with a workman in the car; a seat surrendered in the street car to tottering age, or to a woman with or without a baby; a word of thanks to a preacher who may fear that his message has been powerless; something outside his fee to a hard-worked doctor who has rendered some signal service — these may be little things, but, they are often as "rain upon the mown grass."—R. P. Downes.

TRUTHS IN BRIEF

Instead of bringing more happiness to a man, much money is apt to drive away the little he already has.

Morality, which once depended upon hard and external standards, is growing to be an attitude of the spirit.

One hearty laugh together will bring enemies into closer communion of heart than hours spent on both sides in inward wrestling with the mental demon of uncharitable feeling.

Order is the sanity of the mind, the health of the body, the peace of the city, the security of the country. As the beams of a house, so is order to all things.

THOUGHTS FOR A WEEK

Monday

The truly generous is the truly wise;
And he who loves not others lives unblest.

Tuesday

All service ranks the same with God.
There is no last nor first.

Wednesday

All habits grow by degrees,
As brooks make rivers, and rivers run to seas.

Thursday

For every evil under the sun
There's a remedy or there's none.
If there's a remedy, try to find it,
If there's not, try not to mind it.

Friday

A lantern in the hand is worth a dozen stars.
Be a lantern, then, with all your might.

Saturday

Think before you speak, think before whom you speak,
Think why you speak, think what you speak.

Sunday

Talents differ; all is well and wisely put;
If I cannot carry forests on my back,
Neither can you crack a nut.

SERMONETTES

If a man does not seek wisdom, wisdom will not seek him.

Devotion with little prayer is better than much prayer without devotion.

He who seeks a brother without a fault will have to remain without [illegible]

Trouble often comes to show how much we had to be thankful for before her arrival.

What poverty is like that of moral penury? When the head is poor, what mockery is money wealth!

Few people regret the times when they were silent, but many regret and often suffer because of imprudent speech.

People who pray on their knees on Sunday, and prey on their neighbors on Monday, need simplicity in their faith.

The essence of all good work is [illegible] for the right thing done at the right time is as bad as the worst thing at any time.

A Strange Superstition

In many parts of Great Britain the superstition still survives that it is folly or madness to save a drowning man, as he will sooner or later do an injury to the rescuer.

The superstition comes down from our ancestors, yet traces of it exist among the Sioux and other Indians, who seem to have inherited it from aboriginal sources.

The belief is most prevalent in Cornwall and various parts of Scotland. Chinese have the same superstition.

What's Wrong?

Pa—I greatly disapprove of that young Smithson, and one particular reason is his lack of industry in his calling.

Daughter—His calling? Why, he calls seven evenings in the week.

A BOON TO STOCK-RAISERS

To Know How to Cure Colic, Distemper, Colds, Swellings, Etc. —Saves Thousands Each Year.

It is a matter of vital importance to every farmer, horse-owner and stock-raiser to know exactly what to do when one of his animals is taken suddenly sick.

The letter of Mr. Frank F. Fullerton, which we print below, gives information of inestimable value, and tells his experience in curing ailing stock during the past thirty-eight years:

"Several years ago when my horses took colic I used to give them Cayenne pepper in hot milk, but in a few cases only did it help, and because I had no proper means at hand I lost several valuable animals. Some one told me of the success Mr. Wendling, of Brookville, Ont., had in his racing stables with "Nerviline," so I laid in a supply. It wasn't very long before Nerviline saved the life of a valuable stallion of mine, which was worth at least $1,000.00. This horse was taken with colic, and would have died, had it not been for Nerviline. I have used Nerviline for reducing swellings, for taking out distemper lumps, and easing a bad cough, and always found it worked well. I recommend every man who owns horses or cattle to keep Nerviline on hand."

SAVED $1,000 BY NERVILINE

Mr. Fulerton is one of the best known residents of Stormont, and his recommendation as an experienced and practical horseman proved beyond question how valuable Nerviline really is.

Give Nerviline a trial. It's good for man or beast, internally or externally. Large size bottle 50c, or sample size 25c. At all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

"Pardner, I'm a dead, sad story. I was [illegible] on the Colorado desert, alone an' hungry.

"Hence, at the witchin' hour, as the feller says, a large, handsome man might have been observed to sort o' trickle out o' the sage-brush around a water-tank and insert himself in the midst of a side-door Pullman. It was a little jerk-water line, runnin' from the main line down through the farmin' district, an' the car was loaded with crates of Rocky Ford melons. I crawled up near the roof where there was two foot of space and made myself as comfortable as a flea on a setter pup, except for a gnawin' at my inwards reminding me that the tabble de boaty was long overdue.

"All of a sudden a delicious perfume steals up an' saturates my nostrils, like the scent of blushful Hippodromes you read about. It's melons; juicy Rock Ford melons, an' before you could say 'Methusaiem!' I had the top off a crate. Them melons were for Denver an' Chi, and were picked ripe an' prime, an' I don't ever expect to taste anything again so excruciatin'ly delicious. That is, the first six or eight.

"I was dosin' off, perfectly peaceful an' contented, when it happened, I woke up flyin'. I wasn't touchin' a thing. I sailed over them cartes of melons till my feet hit hard against the end of the car. Then I up-ended, an' the jar drove my head between my shoulder-blades; then I went over an' over, like a loop-the-loop; there was a crash, about fourteen tons of melons flew up an' lit on me, an' my lights went out.

"When I come to I was smothered with melons. I couldn't move an inch, an' the sharp corners of crates was proddin' me full of equilateral triangles.

"What had happened was a mighty excitin' game of 'snap-the-whip.' Roundin' a sharp curve, my car, bein' last an' the lash of the whip, was flicked off into a gully, goin' clear to the bottom and landin' in a clump of mosquite bushes. This horrible catastrophe escapes the notice of the trainerew at the time, an' the balance of the train proceeds on its way, triumphant. They remains ignorant, complete, of the calamity, till the yard-master up at the junction discovers he's shy one carload of melons, invoiced, an' one large, amiable gent, uninvoiced, accordin' to specifications.

"Meantime, I'm busy pickin' melons out of my system, tryin' to get room to bat my eyes an' draw my breath just once more for luck. Most of the crates had busted, an' every move I made, more melons would come slidin' on to me. I wasn't broke anywhere, but mashed to a pulp, an' it seemed several years before I got one arm free, dug myself out, an inch at a time, an' got a few lungfuls of air. The car was lyin' on its side, considerably lower at one end than the other, an' up under the peak of the upper corner I had plenty of room. I ate a few melons an' made myself comfortable. The car didn't seem to be hurt none, but I wasn't worryin'. I figured there had been a wreck an' pretty soon some hero'd come along an' dig me out with an ax.

"Nobody did. By an' by it got daylight. I could see it perkilatin' through the ventilator slits; but there wasn't any welcome sound to mar the holy peace an' solitude of that ravine except me hollerin' through the slits. I burrowed down to the door that was top-side, but it was locked fast. Did you ever try to carve yourself out of an iron-bound fruit-car, reenforced with two-by-fours, with a jack-knife? Mebbe it can be done, but towards evenin' my knife broke an' I hadn't made no headway.

"I ate some more melons, but I hadn't no enthusiasm for 'em. I was beginnin' to sort o' founder on a melon diet. A lot of 'em had got all squashed an' mushy in the melly an', lyin' there in a heap with the hot sun beatin' on the car, it wasn't long befofe they began to bubble an' ferment, an' by the end of the second day the atmosphere of that car was somethin' stupenjus. After that I spent most of my time with my nose at a ventilator slit, gettin' all the outside air I could.

"Pardner, not to harrow up your feelin's further, I was in that car eight days! I'd got into a sort of catamcee condition, full of nightmares of melons, when all at once I heard a long "sniff-f-f!" at one of the cracks, an' the idea of any one or anything' wantin' to sniff at the flavor of that car pulled me wide awake with a jump. 'Sufferin' cats!' I yelled, 'lemme out o' this!' But my voice was smothered like a man shootin' into a pillow.

"It got an answer, though, for I heard the sound of a horse, a man called through the cracks, and then: 'Look out!' says he, 'I'm goin' to shoot!' Then bang! bang! bang! the door splintered, an' the staple busted. The door was shoved open, I crawled out, took a long whiff of pure, clear, melonless air, an' collapsed.

"I come to with the whisky an' there was a man an' a pony an' a dog, with long whiskers — the man, I mean. He was one of these hollow-cheeked, long-nosed fellers that allers seem to be on the verge of graspin' an idea an' never connectin' up.

"He gave me more whisky an' got me on my feet. There was a kind of halo of melon-smell all around that car. 'Friend' says I; 'lead me hence! I'm weak as a kitten an' I can't look at that car without emotions risin' in my bosom. Now,' I says, when he'd helped me out o' sight an' smell of the car, 'now, friend, you've saved my life. There's only one more thing I'll ask of you.'

"'What air that?' says he.

"'Why,' says I, 'I want you to let me take a bite out o' that hoss of yours. Just a mouthful somewheres where it won't show. I need a change of diet,' I says, 'to get rid of the taste of melons.'

"Well, the old buck sat an' cackled for fifteen minutes. He actually thought I was foolin'. Finally, seein' I was really done up, he got me on his horse, took me to his ranch, fed me for a week, an 'said my story paid him for it all. He was mighty good to me an' I hated to leave. I haven't been able to look a melon in the face since."

"THE FORT GARRY" HOTEL, WINNIPEG.

Adjacent to the ruins of that historic monument "Old Fort Garry," memorable in the early history of Canada's new Western metropolis is being erected "The Fort Garry," truly representative of greater Winnipeg—a magnificent edifice—to rank with the world's finest hotels, embodying in its construction the most advanced, scientific and architectural ideals. Located in the very heart of the city, to which all lines of traffic converge, it is readily accessible to the railroads and electric car lines, and within a radius of a few blocks of most of the leading theatres, while one minute's walk place one among the largest and most pretentious of the great stores in the centre of the shopping districts, or enable one to reach the great new terminal station of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"The Fort Garry" to be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific will be built of the finest of Canadian granite and buff lime stone, in the style of the old French Chateaux of Normandy and Touraine and will rear its stately heights to fourteen stories, by three hundred and fifty sleeping The building is to have approximate chambers and will be richly furnished in faultless taste. All its bedrooms are to be equipped with every approved modern appointment. Nothing that would in any way contribute to the comfort and welfare of its guests has been overlooked in the preparation of the plans and interior arrangements.

The keynote of the "Fort Garry" as judged from the design and interior arrangements is to be "homelike comfort." From basement to roof top, every detail of construction and furnishing has been worked out in perfect accord with this idea, and would seem to assure the largest measure of personal enjoyment and restfulness to its guests—a place where comfort-loving people might enjoy life to the utmost and feel thoroughly at home.

The main entrance of the hotel faces on Winnipeg's most beautiful thoroughfare "Broadway" and opens upon a spacious and imposing rotunda, which will suggest in its decoration and refinement the cheer and comfort provided within its walls, and from beautiful design, unbroken by columns, lofty in heighth, and finely lighted by broad windows and circular domed ceiling.

The Mezzanine Gallery is also to be a novel feature of "The Fort Garry" and is obtained by the introduction of a storey midway between the office floor and the parlors. It is reached by a broad marble staircase from the main entrance lobby, and is to be finished and decorated in white and delicate shades of color. It overlooks the entrance lobby, dining room, cafe and tea room, and will be used as ladies' parlor, writing room and library. It commands a splendid view of those portions of the hotel where the most life occurs, and yet at the same time affords a quiet sense of retirement.

MR. HALL EXPLAINS

ally recovered judgment against the Liquidator for $45,000.00.

In my eager desire to preserve this important industry to Peterborough, I regret to say, that my public spirit of enterprise has been rewarded with the meanest and most vicious lying abuse.

It is true I helped to organize the Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company, Limited, and it is true that for nearly ten years these works have given employment to upwards of 200 hands. During the time the works were being organized I from time to time, acquired stock in the Company to the extent of $30,000.00 and after nearly every shareholder had invested his money in the Company, I took an additional $15,000.00 of stock in order to increase the Company's working capital, but on account of the fact that Binder Twine was upon the free list, and that the Company was subjected to a world-wide competition and on account of the violent drop that took place in the fibre market following the financial crisis of 1907 this Company, in common with other Companies in the United States was forced into liquidation.

Until the Company is wound up it is impossible to say whether or not the shareholders have actually lost their money in the Company. At all events, I have reasonable grounds to believe, that the shareholders will be able to get something out of it. In the meantime, however, the working men of Peterborough have nothing to complain of in connection with these two institutions, because the Williams Hamilton Company has been preserved to the City and is still running, giving employment to men and the Canadian Cordage Company will be running full blast in the course of a few weeks, giving employment to its old staff of employees.

I sincerely trust that my opponent, Mr. Peck, will see that malicious slanders are not used by his friends, as one of his weapons in this campaign, as my earnest desire is to conduct this campaign on its merits.

Yours truly,
—R. R. Hall.

HER WEIGHT IN GOLD

By Cecil Joyce.

(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.)

The proposal of the Indian people to weigh King George V., on the occasion of his approaching visit to India, against his weight in silver coin and afterwards to distribute the silver amongst the poor in India, recalls an interesting incident in the history of a well-known Irish family, now related for the first time.

"This is the fifth marriage settlement I have had the honour of drawing up for your family, Sir Thomas, and you will excuse me, I hope, expressing my curiosity respecting one peculiarity common to them all."

"I think" interpolated the baronet, "I can anticipate what you are going to say Cheevers. You are puzzled to explain why there is a uniform dowry of £8,000 settled upon my daughters from the date of their marriage, especially when you are aware that a similar sum was settled upon my sisters when they married."

"Precisely, Sir Thomas. To speak openly, I wondered why the sum was not fixed at £5,000 or £10,000."

"I comprehend your meaning fully. You might be a long time searching for a solution of the problem and fail to solve it in the end. It is, however, an interesting story.

"My eldest sister, Ita, was a charming girl, idolised by our parents, the most popular of the young county people of her age, and beloved by the common people. Up to the time immediately preceding the public announcement of her engagement she was regarded as heart-free, and unattached to any of the many eligible admirers with whom she was acquainted. One evening, after dinner, Mr. Strewton, a neighbour of ours, called to know if I could play in a cricket match that was being arranged with a team from the metropolis. Subsequently he asked if my father was alone in the library, as he wished to speak with him. I brought him down to the dear old man, and left the pair of them together, never dreaming of the surprise that interview had in store for us all. About a week later we were apprised that Ita had given her heart to Strewton. That herself and her lover had always entertained mutual affection for each other, though Strewton had made no avowal until his bachelor uncle had spoken to him of the desirability of marrying and avoiding the premature ageing and loss of real live interest in life which is the fate of the overwhelming majority of old bachelors. Strewton avowed his desire to marry my sister but explained that he never felt at liberty to disclose his heart's dearest wish to her, because he recognized that he was dependent upon his uncle's generosity for the wherewithal to set up an establishment of his own. Contrary to the code of the romance writer, Strewton's uncle approved his nephew's action and choice, and guaranteed a generous settlement if the marriage could be arranged to the satisfaction of all parties.

"It was after this interview Strewton ascertained that my sister reciprocated his affection and, later secured audience of the pater. I well remember my father approving of Strewton's manly, straightforward way of urging his suit. 'By George,' he used to say. 'I shall never forget the earnestness with which eulogising Ita, young Strewton averred that she was 'worth her weight in gold,' or the happy thought that prompted me to say, 'that she is, and her own weight in gold will be her wedding dowry.'

"Of course, Cheevers, you remember that my father was Director of a Bank at that period. What do you think he did? One day he brought Ita into the Bank and, in the presence of two other members of the Board, conducted her to the strong room where she was put sitting into a beam and scales constructed on the principle of those commonly seen at the town market-houses throughout the country. When she was comfortably fixed, one of the porters of the establishment was directed to shovel sovereigns into the opposite scale until the gold placed there equalled the weight of the lady on the other side. When the coins were subsequently counted the amount was found to be £8,000, representing, as well as I remember, my sister's weight to be about ten stones. That was the origin of the £8,000 dot in our family."

One of the features in the Mother of Parliaments recently was the maiden speech of Sir W. M. Aitken, the young Canadian millionaire, who, at the last election, captured Ashton-under-Lyne for the Unionist party. The romance of commerce has played a big part in Sir Max's thirty-two years of life. He was "discovered" politically by Mr Bonar Law. "Why not stand for Parliament?" said his friend. Sir Max Aitken turned the idea over in his mind very quickly. He was not a politician in the ordinary sense of the word; but was heart and soul an Empire man. He was not a practised speaker, but he had something to say. Rather late in the day he started his campaign and just talked in a friendly, conversational, way upon the Imperial matters which were near his heart and which he thoroughly understood. He won. At Westminster he is a little bit shy. He does not eagerly embrace chances for self-advertisement.

Europe's First Parrot

So far as known, the first introduction of parrots into Europe occurred in the fourth century B.C., when, it is related, one of the generals of Alexander's army, returning from India, brought with him specimens of the ring-necked parrakeet. These parrakeets, which were called "Alexandrian parrakeets," after the monarch in whose reign they were introduced, are still very popular with bird-fanciers, and are so common in India that sailors continually bring them to Europe and America. They are docile, and while slow in acquiring speech, finally make excellent talkers. Roman writers inform us that they were not eaten in India, but were held sacred because of their ability to reproduce human speech.

He Knew Them All

At one time Professor Snow, a well-known Kansas naturalist, was out with a party of students on his annual insect hunt, states the author of the "Life of a Fossil Hunter," when the owner of a large herd of Texas cattle, who was passing through, noticed the party out on the prairie with their nets in their hands, running about as if possessed. It happened to be the first time that he had ever seen insect-collectors at work, and his curiosity was aroused.

"What are those men doing?" he asked Jim Thompson.

"Catching bugs," was the laconic reply.

"I don't believe it," said the cowman. "They are grown men."

"All right,' said Jim, "you can find out for yourself if you want to."

The man started off after the professor, and I waited, with a good deal of curiosity, to hear his report on the conversation. On his return he was in a brown study. The professor had taken him into his tent, and shown him hundreds of mounted insects, reeling off their names to him until his head whirled.

"Well, did I tell you the truth?" Jim asked.

"That man," said the cow-man, "is the smartest man I ever saw. He knows the names and surnames of all the bugs in this country—"

Caring for the Train-Crews

Welfare work on the Canadian Pacific Railway has reached a high state of perfection. The railway believes that it is to its advantage to carefully look after the bodily welfare of its men and so everything possible is done to further the interests of its employees. At Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver there have been put into commission in connection with the Dining Car Department three new buildings which are the only ones of their kind on the continent. The new buildings which have been erected at a cost of $15,000 are for the use of the employees of the Dining Car Department. Coming into these cities after a long run the men will not have to look up a hotel or boarding house to pass the night in as under the old conditions. Instead they will go to the C. P. R.'s new buildings where they will be cared for in a way that was impossible before.

The new buildings are built to accommodate sixty two employees each and are of the most modern construction in every respect. Everything is free even to their laundry. Conductors chefs and waiters all have separate quarters and these quarters include baths, showers, lavatory, bedrooms, reading rooms, libraries, cardrooms and billiard rooms. Nice lawns and gardens beautify the premises and the men have all the comforts of home.

A feature of the new system is that the men will always be clean and tidy. It is compulsory for the men to take a bath and a change of underwear after each trip. A check system has been installed which makes it necessary for the men to comply with this rule.

Not only does this system guarantee that the public will have clean tidy men to attend to their wants but it also enables the company to keep a strict account of its men. When a car is called away on short notice at night it is not necessary to seek for a crew and the new system, it is expected, will be such a success that the C. P. R. will build these bungalows at all divisional points. As a matter of fact a building of this nature is now projected for Moose Jaw, and it is practically only a matter of time before there is a whole chain of them at all necessary points between Halifax and Vancouver.

GEORGE DURNFORD
Well Known Canadian Banker

Although well known to banking men and other business concerns throughout the Dominion, Mr. Durnford's name is perhaps more familiar to the general public in philanthropic and literary circles. Though born of a military family — his father being a Captain in His Majesty's 69th regiment, Durham Light Infantry — Mr. Durnford's life training has been mainly commercial. From a shipbuilding firm in Quebec, where he was employed for the two years ending 1856, he entered the Upper Canada Bank in Montreal in his eighteenth year, and later became connected with the Bank of British North America, acting as Manager of its Kingston Branch, which he relinquish in 1880, to become secretary and Treasurer of the Canada Co-operative Association. It is as a chartered accountant of the highest rank that Mr. Durnford is best known however, and the finality which marks his methods is widely appreciated by a large clientele.

He is at present Treasurer of the Synod of the Diocese of Montreal (Church of England), which has invested funds of about a million dollars; Treasurer of the Homeopathic Hospital, of the useful Historical Landmark Association, and also of the Numismastic and Antiquarian Society, member of the Board of Trustees, Mount Royal Cemetery, etc., etc. Mr. Durnford is a well-known member of the Montreal Board of Trade and a Justice of the Peace.

R. W. LEONARD
Chairman Transcontinental R. R. Commission.

The appointment of Mr. Leonard to succeed Mr. Parent as chairman of this important commission meets with general approval. In the past, it is claimed politics have counted very much when appointments on the Transcontinental Board were made. In the present instance the work will have the benefit of a supervision that comes from experience. Mr. Leonard is a railway engineer of first-class reputation. He is a man who has made his own fortune in other business. As a partisan asset he does not look to amount to much for the government, but as a national asset he looks good. Mr. Leonard is said to be worth a good many million dollars to Canada in the still uncompleted 50 per cent. of the Transcontinental work.

UNCLE TOBY'S RUSE

"Twenty-six! You surprise me. Yes, sir, you should be married. No young man should pass that age and remain single."

"You did, Uncle Toby," grinned Gerald McIntyre. Tobias Brenton was a confirmed bachelor of many years' standing.

"That's all right, boy," returned his uncle. "I'm the exception. But you should be married. Tell you what—Jerry—"

"What, uncle?"

"The day you get married I'll give you a thousand dollars for a wedding present."

"You will?"

"I will—with one proviso. If you marry anybody but Patience Allene Truesdale."

"Who?"

"Patience Allene Truesdale."

"Who's Patience Allene Truesdale? And why couldn't I marry her? And where does she live?"

"I didn't say you couldn't marry her," replied Tobias Brenton. "I haven't anything to say concerning her. I believe she is now at Collegeville. What I did say was that if you married anyone but her I would give you a thousand dollars."

"Oh, Uncle, I don't know this Truesdale, and there's no possibility of my marrying her, or anybody else."

"It's nearly train time," observed Uncle Toby, rising. "I realize you don't know Miss Truesdale, and so what I said may seem foolish. But you can't say I haven't put the proposition up to you. Think over this getting married, Jerry. A thousand dollars is a thousand dollars, these days. Let me hear from you."

The rest of the day Jerry gave his muscle to the hardware store where he was employed, but not his mind for that was elsewhere.

"Who was Patience Allene — Patience Allene; it was a quaint, sweet name — against whom his uncle seemed so prejudiced.

After supper he changed his clothes, tried on four neckties, and went to Collegeville.

There was chattering and laughter and an undercurrent of paintive tinkling in the College building for three of the party in the center had stringed instruments. From out of the pleasant babel, as Gerald passed the gate a voice said:

"Lead 'My Sweetheart Was a Rover,' Patience Allene."

He met Patience Allene Truesdale presently; the girl of the soprano voice was really she. It took five trips to Collegeville, and three ice cream socials before he accomplished an introduction.

Then he made up for lost time. He called on Patience Allene as often as Normal convention and the girl herself would permit patronized soda fountains and confectionary stores, as well as two moving picture theatres, liberally, and otherwise followed the path which his uncle's words should have barred. He fell heels over head in love with Patience Allene.

He puzzled still over the mystery of his uncle's dislike for her. She came from his uncle's home town, Long Rapids, and when he had craftily introduced his name into the conversation one night, she had spoken glowingly of Mr. Brenton, who was her father's best friend, she said. It was Mr. Brenton who had advised her to attend the Normal, so she could be a high school teacher.

"There's something troubling you, Jerry," she said, so unexpectedly, that he was taken completely off guard. "Tell me what it is."

Jerry, blundering, attempted to finesse it delayed things a little longer, but at last he had to tell.

"Your uncle needn't have worries," she said coolly, when he had finished. "I haven't any designs on you or your prospects. You are wasting time with me; better begin trying to earn that thousand dollars. No, I'm not angry; good night!

Jerry, raging, went home to find Uncle Toby, having dropped into town unexpectedly, the centre of his own merry family circle.

In five minutes Uncle Toby the wealthy, the courted and the masterful was on his way to Collegeville, virtually a prisoner in the custody of this grim and silent young stranger.

"Now, sir," grated Jerry, "I brought you here to say that your prejudice against Miss Truesdale doesn't make any difference. We're going to be married; and we don't need that thousand dollars."

"Is this true, Patience Allene?" asked Uncle Toby.

Patience Allene did not seem to mind the queerness of Jerry's proposal. "Yes," she said, simply; "but, Mr. Brenton, what did you say to Jerry?"

"What did I say, Jerry?"

"You said you'd give me a thousand dollars if I married anybody but Patience Allene."

"Correct. Anything else; any reflection on her?"

"No-o."

He took a hand of each. "My dear young people," he said, "your uncle has 'put one over,' as the boys say. If you dreamed I wanted you to marry, you'd have flown apart. There, now, never mind thanking me. I must be getting back. I suppose the last car goes pretty soon. I'll let you walk that three miles alone. And — the thousand dollars shall be five thousand."

And Uncle Toby smiled whimsically as he went away, yet sighed a little, too; for he knew he was already forgotten.

His Idea of Importance.

'In one benighted region of a certain state in the southwest,' says a Chicago lawyer, 'they cherish some peculiar notions touching the duties of a juror.'

One day a case was being tried, when suddenly the justice exclaimed:

"How is this? There are only eleven jurymen in the box. Where is the twelfth?"

The foreman arose and addressed the court respectfully, as follows:

"May it please your honor, the twelfth juror had to go away on important business, but he has left his verdict with me."

Highest on Earth

The Loa Bridge in the China Andes is the highest bridge in the world. This wonderful construction is four hundred feet high, eight hundred feet long, and stands ten thousand feet above sea-level. It crosses a great ravine some three hundred miles from Antofagasta, on the railway running from that port into Bolivia. This line is also of interest from the fact that it is the highest railway in the world, climbing at one point up to over sixteen thousand six hundred feet above sea-level.

HUDSON'S BAY AND WESTERN PROSPECTS.

Ancient Corporation's Big Increase in Profits.

Some very interesting information regarding western Canadian conditions was given by Lord Strathcona when presiding over the annual meeting of the Hudson's Bay company, held in London recently. After reviewing the excellent reports which had been in the hands of the shareholders for some time, his lordship referred to the conditions which obtain at the present time. He quoted from a cablegram received from the stores commissioner, Mr. Buybidge, at Winnipeg, which stated that the volume of sales for the first five months of the current year had increased $500,000. This is at the rate of $100,000 per month. The cable messages read by his lordship were as follows: —

From Land Commissioner

"From personal observation, which corresponds with reports from the company's surveyor and other authoritative sources, the larger acreage in crop, seeded under ideal conditions, was followed by exceptionally favorable growing weather, and with present season the crop promises to be very considerably larger than any previous harvest yield in western Canada. This will no doubt stimulate the demand for agricultural lands from prospective occupants, and have an invigorating effect on growing cities and towns in the several districts."

From Fur Trade Commissioner.

"Compared with last year the fur catch has declined in British Columbia, Manitoba and Keewatin. An increase has occurred in Saswatchewan, Lake Superior, Lake Huron, St. Lawrence. There is no change worthy of mention in Athabasca. No advice to hand from James Bay, Labrador, Mackenzie river, but it is very probable volume has declined owing to unfavorable winter and scarcity of periodical furs. Adequate supplies have been forwarded districts. Transport service is well organised for efficiency and economy. The prospects are encouraging."

From the Stores Commissioner.

"The volume of sale shop trade for first five months of current year shows increase of over five hundred thousand dollars. Prospects during remainder of sale shop year are excellent, the outlook for a record crop being very favorable."

CALAGARY STREET RAILWAY HAS GOOD HALF-YEAR.

The net profits from the operation of the Calgary street railway system for the first six months of the present year were almost three times as great as for the corresponding half year in 1910.

The comparative statements of the receipts, expenses and profits of the system prepared and submitted to the city commissioners by Superintendent McCauley shows a wonderful growth of the city and increasing patronage of the system.

After deducting five per cent of the gross receipts and paying a percentage of the interest and sinking fund, the net profits for the six months of the year amounted to $49,706.81. For the half year in 1910 the profits amounted to $17,061.

The total revenue for the first half of 1911 amounted to $149,437.57. After deducting the total operated expenses of $75,946.80, five per cent of the gross receipts amounting to $7,471.90 and $16,396.28 for interest and sinking fund, a net profit of $49,706.61 was left.

Spanish 5 and 10 Cent Stores

Spanish newspapers are commenting on the new system of merchandising just introduced into Spain through the opening in Madrid of two bazaars along lines corresponding to the American 5 and 10 cent store. The Madrid bazaars have been started with a stock of toys, cheap jewellery, notions, perfumery, underwear, collars and cuffs, neckties, caps, chinaware, fans, handkerchiefs, belts, brushes, purses, small hardware and other articles priced to sell at 65 centimes, an equivalent of about 13 cents American money.

The American 5 and 10 cent store idea has not been developed in Spain to any extent, although the two bazaars recently established approach the system, at least in the range of articles carried, more closely than anything heretofore attempted.

Bazaars carrying articles offered within a certain price range have been operated in the larger Spanish cities for some time — Malaga has had such a store for over twenty years, prices varying from two to nine cents — but the limited variety of goods obtained and sold at these prices did not strongly attract the [illegible]

How Jones Lost Toes

Jones was a man whose boast had always been that whatever he dared he could do, but his braggadocio ended rather seriously — for him.

His friends declared that he would not stay in a certain haunted room for one night, and as the idea of being afraid of anything was particularly distasteful to him, Jones decided to accept the challenge to do so.

He slipped a revolver under his pillow and slept peacefully for a few hours. Then he was awakened by a peculiar moaning sound, the weirdness of which thrilled him with an apprehensive fear and a longing for home.

Looking towards the foot of the bed he thought he saw — a human hand!

"Remove that hand or I fire!" he shouted, bracing himself up for action.

One—two—three—no reply — then, bang!

And that's how Jones lost three of his toes.

Breakfast and the Morning Mail.

Did you ever hear that it is dangerous to open your morning mail at the breakfast table? According to a Berlin scientist, Professor Kron, it is dangerous—very. Professor Kron has succeeded in tracing several cases of contagion to the old custom of waiting until you sit down at the breakfast table before opening and going through your morning mail. He calls attention to the fact that the average man goes down to breakfast with hands and face scrupulously clean, teeth scrubbed and throat gargled. In that condition he is prepared to eat without danger of swallowing more disease germs than may have possibly escaped the watchful attentions of the cook.

But instead of doing that, he handles letters and papers which have passed through many hands before reaching his own. Between bites he opens envelopes and wrappers, and in doing so unthinkingly paves the way for the absorption of all kinds of germs which may, or may not, do him a great deal of harm.

SPECIES USED FOR LATHS—1910.

Within two years the number of the kinds of wood used for laths has been doubled. This increase is illustrative of the extent to which lath production is becoming an adjunct to larger wood industries. Small quantities of lumber of odd sizes, slabs, and what would otherwise be mill waste are conserved and used to advantage in this way. The Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior has compiled statistics for 1910 showing that twelve species of wood were used in the production of the eight hundred and fifty-two million pieces of lath produced in 1910, worth one million, nine hundred and forty-three thousand dollars. The first six species in importance were spruce, white pine, cedar, douglas fir, hemlock and balsam, which also are the woods used for some time in the manufacture of laths. The remaining six; jack-pine, red pine, yellow pine, poplar, basswood and larch are the new species increasing in importance. Spruce and white pine laths, the two most important species, show a decrease in 1910 from the year previous, but together form nearly seventy per cent. of the annual output. Some million and a half more pieces of cedar were cut in 1910 than in 1909, and the amount for this species of seventy million pieces made up one-twelfth of the total. Prices ranged from $1.25 for yellow pine to $3.18 per thousand for poplar.

New Chateau Laurier.

Work of the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, the new $2,000,000 hotel, constructed by the Grand Trunk System is progressing very favorably.

Nearly all of the plastering of the hotel is now completed and there remains to be done only the lobby, bar and grill room ceiling. Most of the marble floors for the dining room corridor are laid, and after the plaster work of the lobby is completed, work will be started on the marble work of the floor. Heat and light have been in the building for the last two months, and when the plaster is sufficiently dried in the various public rooms, the decorators will be able to commence the interior decorations. Some of the wood work for the big rooms is in the hotel, and the erection of this is going on. The general appearance of the various rooms, is beyond expectation, and when completed will be of the richest effect, artistic in design, and wonderfully beautiful.

has been authorized by the Land Department of the Candian a Pacific Railway to sell to the public CORONATION town lots.

Plan and map may be inspected at the office of The Pacific Realty Co., Limited, 154 Bay Street, Toronto, from 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p. m., except Saturday, when the office closes at 1.00 p.m.

Facts About Coronation

Coronation is the first divisional town east of Lacombe, and is splendidly situated about twenty miles east of Castor, in the centre of some of the finest farming districts of Western Canada. Its natural advantages, combined with important railway developments, assure to it a future of considerable importance. Engineers are now locating two branch lines north and northwesterly from Coronation, and a third line is projected southeasterly to connect with the branch running northwesterly from Swift Current.

CORONATION will be:

A divisional centre on the great new railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton.

An important junctional centre, as three branch lines are already projected.

A distributing centre for a large and wealthy district.

A purchasing centre for thousands of Western Canada's most prosperous farmers.

If you wish to go into business or make a safe and profitable investment you cannot do better than purchase lots at Coronation, which is bound to rapidly become one of the most important towns of the West.

Bad Walking.

The sidewalks throughout the city have been in bad shape for several days, being covered in many places with a heavy coating of ice. The result is that many falls are recorded. An elderly lady slipped near the Post Office yesterday, and received a severe shaking up, but fortunately without serious injury.

Something Big.

The Campbellford Herald reports a proposition to the town from a manufacturing company seeking a suitable place to locate. It is a large concern and would expend from $300,000 to $400,000 on buildings and the equipment, employing 175 hands and whose annual pay roll would amount to $110,000. The representatives of the concern and the town council will meet to discuss the details.

Mexico Oil

The Mexican Oil Fields, will probably break all records in the production of oil. The largest oil wells in the world are now flowing in the Tampico field, and development is just fairly begun. We offer an exceptionally attractive investment in the stock of a conservative Company, just organized, which controls 3500 acres, in the midst of the big producing section of the field. We are certain we can convince any one of the merits of the enterprise, and we want you to

INVESTIGATE

It will only cost you two cents to secure maps, booklet, and full description of what we have to offer. The stock is being sold for the purpose of drilling the property. Oil is now being produced on all four sides of this property. We will give you every opportunity to investigate the proposition itself and the officers in charge of its affairs. WRITE US for full information.

He Likes The Times.

Mr. A. R. Gill one of our esteemed rural route subscribers called yesterday and paid his subscription to the paper. He said he liked The Times very much, and found that it was very popular in his district. Almost every farmer on the rural route have become subscribers, and all tell the same story.

Underwent an Operation.

Mr. Stubbs, of the Collegiate Institute staff, went up to Toronto last week, where he was operated on for appendicitis. He is doing nicely and expects to be able to return to Peterborough in the course of a couple of weeks.

SPEND A WEEK AT ALGONQUIN.

The popularity of the Algonquin National Park, Ontario, has been pronounced this year, and it has been necessary to use at least 25 large tents as an auxiliary to the accommodation of the Highland Inn, at Algonquin National Park Station.

Most people return to their homes in the early part of September, but as this is one of the most delightful months in this territory, those who can make it convenient are advised to spend a week or two there. The hotel is also open all the winter and with the bracing air of this locality (1700 ft. above the sea) a most delightful sojourn can be spent even in the winter months.

A handsome illustrated booklet may be had on this territory upon application to Mr. A. E. Duff, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

A COMFORTABLE ROAD.

Traveller in West Gives Unsolicited Praise to New Railway.

A world-wide traveller, having just returned from a visit to Western Canada, has written to one of the chief officials of the Grand Trunk System his unsolicited opinion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and how it serves the travelling public. He says:

"I had the pleasure of travelling from Edmonton to Winnipeg on the new line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and I would like to say that of the 7000 miles travelled on railways during my last journey the time I spent on the Grand Trunk Pacific was the most comfortable of my entire trip.

"The road-bed is evidently a fine piece of work, the cars clean, and comfortable, the men in charge were most polite and obliging, and any question asked of them was answered in a most gentlemanly manner.

"I would like to refer specially to the dining car service and its equipment, which is the best I have seen. It was in fact a revelation to me after having travelled so far on other roads—the meals being specially good combined with pleasant surroundings and beautifully served.

"I beg to say that if it gives you as much pleasure to read this letter as it gives me to write you, you will perhaps pardon liberty I have taken in addressing you."

This is but a specimen of the many letters that are being received by the Grand Trunk Pacific officials, praising the exceptionally fine road and service that is now being operated in Western Canada.

Real Estate, Mining and Industrial Investments

HOW $100 GREW TO $31620

The value and importance of any enterprise must be based on the profits and dividends it can earn. In this respect the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, is without a parallel in the line of investments.

It combines the attractive factors which are needed to make the perfect investment—viz., safety, large earning capacity and low cost of the stock at the start. It is not at all uncommon for oil stocks to begin at a few cents a share and jump to hundreds of dollars a share—sometimes thousands.

	Started at	Has Sold at
Central	10 cents	$2.10
Monte Cristo	10 cents	$4.00
Lucile	10 cents	$16.00
Silver Tip	25 cents	$4.00
San Francisco and McKittrick	40 cents	$28.00
Kern River	50 cents	$8.75
Peerless	50 cents	$8.75
Puente	$10.00	$150.00
Home	$10.00	$5000.00

This list, taken from San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchange records, could be added to almost indefinitely.

Fortunes have been made from stock increases. stock is $200, YOUR YEARLY PROFIT ON AN INVESTMENT OF $200.

When we have ten wells sunk you can reasonably figure on AN ANNUAL PROFIT ON YOUR HOLDINGS OF $2000.

$2000 A YEAR. DOESN'T THIS APPEAL

Many a case could be cited similar to that of Richard Ellis, clerk in a store in Los Angeles, whose investment of $100 became worth $31,620 in a short time. There are hundreds of such cases in Los Angeles alone.

$2000.00 Profit a Year

Do you realise that stock in the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, at the present price of 30 cents a share is not merely the opportunity of the year—IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

If you have $10, $50, $100 or $500 YOU SIMPLY CAN NOT AFFORD TO PASS IT UP.

If we develop only a 1000 barrel well of 26 gravity oil, this production alone will be sufficient to enable the corporation to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. and at the same time have sufficient capital to continue the drilling of wells.

1000 shares of stock at the present price of 30c costs only $300.

20 per cent. dividend on the par value of the TO YOU? Wouldn't you like to be coming up to this office every three months and getting your dividend cheque for $300?

Remember, too, that your stock holdings in Midway Maple Leaf, if you should want to sell them should be worth $18,000 or sixty times the amount of your original investment.

Consider These Facts

The Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company is working in proven gusher territory, the richest oil zone in the world, controlling 40 acres on one-eighth royalty, with the great advantage of the option to purchase at only $1250 per acre after oil is struck, and the ground must then be worth at least $5000 per acre. This means a clean profit of $150,000 over purchase price. It has been demonstrated completely by gushers on adjoining Standard and Honolulu ground, that this portion of the Midway field is not only the richest portion of the whole district, but that it produces the highest grade of oil found in the entire vicinity, and worth 50 per cent. more per barrel at the well.

$30 cash, or $6 down and $6 a month for four months, buys 100 shares.

$60 cash, or $12 down and $12 a month for four months, buys 200 shares.

$120 cash, or $24 down and $24 a month for four months, buys 400 shares.

$480 cash, or $96 down and $96 a month for four months, buys 1600 shares.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY IN VANCOUVER REALTY

Investors seeking an opportunity to secure large returns for their money will find an exceptional chance offered by Keith Park Land Co., Limited, of Vancouver, B. C. This company has placed on the market for immediate sale the choicest piece of property on the North Shore.

This tract known as Keith Park, D. L. 676, lies at the junction of the Pipe line Road, (owned by the city of Vancouver) and the Keith Road and is the Junction point for North side traffic.

The Second Narrows Bridge, which is to connect Vancouver and North Vancouver will be constructed so that Keith Park will be in the line of its northern end.

It is confidentially expected that a new town will be created at this point. Dominion, Provincial and Municipal subsidies to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars have already been secured for the bridge project and plans are now being drawn for the bridge. It is expected that actual workwill be started within the next ninety days.

Keith Park presents the best chance to buy ahead of the important municipal and government projects that are planned for the North Side. It will stand the most critical investigation.

Full information and maps supplied upon request. Lots range in price from $200 upwards. Terms one-quarter cash, balance in six equal quarterly payments.

A Mathematical Curiosity

Charles Barnes, the American short story writer, was once travelling for local colour, when he entered a cafe which had a coloured water. "I need something to eliminate the robins from my eaves," said Mr. Barnes. "Get me, Sam?" Samuel said he "got" Mr. Barnes. "Ah got just the finest drink what evah pass down a man's throat!" said Samuel. "Al done thought it up mahself. Mah boss nevah starts the day wivout he puts in a layer of 'em." Mr. Barnes ordered one of the new invention. He leaned listlessly on the counter watching Samuel make the toddy. Sam flicked some of this cordial and some of that into the glass, and when finished it tasted to Mr. Barnes's parched gullet as good as it looked. He at once demanded the recipe. "Well, sah," said Sam. "Ah take one-half Scotch whisky and one-half Vermouth and one-half sherry—" Mr. Barnes interrupted. "That can't be right," said he. "There can't be more than two halves in anything." "Boss," said the waiter, "the way Ah mix dat drink there's four halves in it!"

Comfort for the Feet

Here are some useful points from a doctor's advice:

Never wear a shoe that will not allow the great toe to lie in a straight line.

Never wear a shoe that pinches at the heel.

Never wear a shoe tight anywhere or so loose that it does not hold to the foot.

Never come from high heels to low heels at a jump.

Never wear one pair or shoes all the time unless obliged to do so. Two pairs of boots worn a day at a time alternately give more service, and are much more healthy.

Never wear stocking short in the feet. Be sure they will allow your toes to spread out at the extreme ends, as this keeps the joints in place and makes a strong and attractive foot.

Early Morning Drinking.

An agitation is at present being made in Victoria for legislation compelling the early closing of hotels. Mr. Ernest Jones, Inspector-General of Insane, according to a correspondent of the "Lancet", has given his opinion that if the hours of business are to be curtailed, hotels should be closed in the morning rather than at night. He states that the ill-effects of alcohol are almost all traceable to the "early morning nip," and that if facilities in this direction were abolished there would be public benefit. The opinion is said to be strengthened by experience gained in the Government inebriate retreat at Lara, which is under the direction of the Lunacy Department.

Romans in Britain

The Roman galley found during the excavations in connection with the new County Hall for London was moved from Westminster Bridge to the new London museum at Kensington Place the other day. When the oaken beams were hoisted from the Thames mud a quantity of decayed bones was discovered. These included the rib of a man and other human remains, and also the jaw of a dog. Their condition was such that it was found necessary to enclose them in wire netting to prevent them falling to pieces.

The Down-Trodden.

A certain battalion — the Terrors" — possessed but a very small band. The commanding officer's feet — he was a burly farmer — were — well, very large. One day the battalion was to march out, but the music was not forthcoming.

"Where on earth is the band?" queried the adjutant.

For some time there was no reply; but when the question was repeated a gruff voice was heard from the rear rank:—

"I do believe, sir, the colonel trod a it by accident."

SWIMMING AND BATHING

Sir Harry Poland, K.C., contributes to the "Marine Magazine" an article on "Swimming and Bathing," in which he gives advice from his own experience to those who wish to become good swimmers. He says:—One great thing for a swimmer to accomplish is to swim without depending on the use of his hands, thus leaving them free for other purposes," and he recommends the swimmer to learn to dress and undress in the water, and to practice swimming while wearing heavy clothes.

"When I lived on the banks of the Thames, at Strawberry Vale, Twickenham, I used," says Sir Harry, "at a quarter past seven every morning to plunge into the river. I continued to do this for several years, although the dark mornings for about three weeks before Christmas and a few weeks after were a little trying. The great thing to attend to is to take your header directly you are out of bed, and to take care to keep warm until you plunge. For this purpose you should put on a coat lined with flannel, with a thick coat over that, trousers lined with flannel, slippers lined with lamb's wool, and warm gloves. You should stand on a piece of carpet and throw your clothing off like a quick-change artiste, and on coming out of the water you may stand in the open and thoroughly enjoy the east wind for the first time in your life, and the snow, sleet, hail, or rain will only be a diversion. "Cold bathing in winter will not, of course, do for a man whose liver is sluggish or whose heart is weak. As I had to lead a sedentary life it must not be supposed that at any time I was an athlete; on the contrary, I was never very strong, and I mention this solely for the purpose of showing that with the exercise of common prudence almost every youth can do what I was in the habit of doing."

Good nature is the most weak-kneed of the virtues.

Why the Stars Twinkle

The stars appear to twinkle because the rays of light, coming to us from those distant bodies, pass through strata of air of varying density. The ray of light is bent or refracted on passing from a rarer to a denser medium, and vice versa. All objects viewed through heated air—such as that arising from a brick or lime kiln, or even the vapour near the surface of the earth on a hot day—appear to quiver and tremble. The rays of light, coming from the stars, are, so to speak, shaken to and fro by passing through media of varying densities. The light of the planets is similarly affected, but to a less perceptible extent, on account of their comparative proximity.

WHEN THE U. S. FOUGHT TURKEY

A Century Ago United States Took Turkey to Task, and After Daring Attack Work Brought Enemy to Attention.

Most people have forgotten their history to the extent of overlooking the fact that where the Italian fleet is today ships of war of the United States were operating a little over a hundred years ago.

That war was signalized by the loss of an American frigate, but also by what Lord Nelson declared to be "the most bold and daring act of the age." The frigate Philadelphia was one of the vessels built for the war with France, which ended almost as soon as it began. She was on the Mediterranean station, and, under Capt. Bainbridge, went aground on an uncharted reef in the harbor of Tripoli while chasing a prize. The officers and men were captured and confined in dungeons. Thence Bainbridge managed to send word to the Americans to destroy the Philadelphia, which had been hauled off and manned by the Tripolitans.

This enterprise was conducted by Lieut. Stephens Decatur and a volunteer crew. Decatur performed his task of great danger and difficulty with complete success. The Philadelphia was captured, but, of course, it was impossible to take her out. She was set ablaze and the Americans sailed away with only one man wounded. It was a little later that the bashaw was compelled to make peace at the cannon's mouth, and since then the States has had very little interest in Tripoli, as it lies far outside the range of their commerce.

A few years ago an American artist, who was spending some months in Tripoli, hired a diver to go down and bring up some of the wreck of the Philadelphia, which is plainly visible in fair weather. Some of the wood is now in America in the shape of paper weights and the like.

WHY OUR CORNS ARE SO NAMED

Man Pays Irritating Penalty for the Invention and Use of Feet-Wear, and Titles the Outcome a Horn.

As man finds that his unprotected feet are not very safe to use for walking upon, he invents boots and shoes and sandals to protect them. But often we have to pay a penalty for our cleverness, for boots and shoes are apt to cause pressure on the soft, thin skin of our toes just where it lies close to the bone, with scarcely any padding between. The skin, in places where it is padded, can stand occasional pressure very well without injury, but the case is different where the skin is practically just over the bone. If the skin did nothing, it would be worn through in such a case. Therefore it tries to protect itself in circumstances to which it should never have been exposed, and the result is the corn.

A corn is due to a great thickening of the thin, horny layer which is found in the skin everywhere. It can only be really cured by removing the cause which produced it. We can keep a corn in check by paring away the horny material as it gets thicker or by putting something on it which has the same result, but we shall not cure the corn until we cease to apply the pressure which excites and irritates the horny layer of the skin to thicken itself. Corns are named from the Latin word cornu, meaning a horn, and the horns of some animals are also made from the horny layer of the skin.

Mr. Wm. Kennedy, of Bobcaygeon, well-known in Peterborough, has been appointed Superintendent of Public Works for Lindsay district. A better or more popular selection could not have been made.

Seat Up For Trial.

Albert Crouter, was charged yesterday in the Police Court, with the theft of $25 from William Stewart, Emily. He elected to be tried by a jury, and after evidence of witnesses was taken, was sent up for trial at the coming session.

Judgment Reserved.

The case of Manley vs. Cooney in the County Court has been concluded. As far as evidence taken was concerned, Cooney was found guilty of the charge of assault with intent to do bodily harm, and judgment was reserved in the case until to-morrow.

Jarry Gets Five Months.

Albert Jarry, who visited Peterborough a short time ago, and who married a Richmond street girl, and bought her a couple of houses, automobiles and jewelry without paying for them, and then deserted her, has been sentenced to five months in the Central Prison.

Local Man's Success.

Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, of this city, has accepted the position of executive director of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting of the board of directors held on Monday. His task will be to conduct the administrative and executive work of the chamber and establish it on a sound and constructive basis. Mr. Ritchie's many friends in Peterborough will be pleased to hear of his success.

Peterborough Boy Promoted.

Mr. Herbert McMillan of Toronto, late of the Canadian Express Co., of Peterborough, and a former member of the Strathcona Hockey team, has been promoted. He is now Canadian Express messenger on the Toronto-North Bay route, and is running in conjunction with Mr. G. Telford, who is also an old Peterborough boy.

Laid at Rest.

The remains of the late Robert H. Leary were interred yesterday afternoon at the Little Lake cemetery, a large number of citizens following in procession to the grave. Rev. F. J. Sawers conducted the services. The pall bearers were eight in number, as follows: T. A. S. Hay, T. Cruickshank, James Storey, J. H. Garbutt George E. Elliott, R. Deane, W. E. Conway and Dr. King, and the City Council attended in a body.

Lecture Last Night.

The local Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society held an interesting meeting in the chemical laboratory of the Collegiate Institute last night. A lecture illustrated by many slides was given on "How the surface of our nearest companion became rough; how the mountain range was formed, and how the hollow mountains, with their cones, originated."

More Rural Routes.

There is likely to be another rural mail route established in East Peterborough, covering the main road to Keene, and back by way of the Lang and the Fife settlements. Mr. Sexsmith, M.P., will no doubt be able to get the matter arranged without trouble.

New C.P.R. Line.

The new C. P. R. line to Georgian Bay will be completed in a week or ten days, when regular trains, it is expected, will be put on. The Toronto Construction Company, who have the contract of the grading, have made splendid progress, and are now engaged in putting on the finishing touches. It is expected there will be two passenger trains each way between Peterborough and Georgian Bay.

Goes to Toronto.

Toronto Globe: Rev. W. L. Armitage, Picton, is the new rector of St. Mark's Anglican church, Parkdale, succeeding Ven. Archdeacon Ingles. His work for education attracted attention there, a fine collegiate institute being the result of his efforts. Rev. Mr. Armitage is a former rector of All Saints', Peterborough, and is well known in Western Ontario. Rev. T. W. Wallace, Woodstock, is to succeed Rev. Canon Broughall at St. Stephen's. Formerly of Oakville, Ontario, he went to St. Paul's, Woodstock, following Bishop Farthing of Montreal. His induction takes place next month.

C.P.R. Construction Work.

Lindsay Warder: Mr. H. L. McLean, chief engineer on the C.P.R. construction work, has taken rooms at the Hotel Benson, where he will reside until spring. The offices will not be moved from Lindsay until work is proceeded with in some other district in the Dominion.

For Sale at Bookstores.

R. J. Soden's.
F. C. Cubitt's.
Trebilcock Bros.
Times' Bookstore.

Engagement of Military Bands.

Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, has come out flatfooted with the statement that regimental bands in uniform, may march in parades on the twelfth of July, St. Jean Baptiste Day, St. Patrick's Day or any other day in which they can make an honest dollar, provided the British flag is carried at their head. This will be pleasing news for the 57th, which has been obliged to refuse engagements on account of military regulations.

Working This Way.

Lindsay Warder: Surveyors have been working south of Lindsay between the 6th and 7th concessions, in Ops, locating the line of the C.N.R., which in the near future is expected to reach town. The proposed line in coming here will, according to reports, start from Oshawa, and follow a line intended to promote the best interest of the road. With all those lines passing through our town, and the drawing of certain industries, Lindsay will bear proudly the title which it now bears of the Commercial Town.

Mr. R. M. Demistoun's Address.

Mr. R. M. Demistoun, of Winnipeg, formerly of this city, delivered an eloquent address at the Business Science Club's monthly banquet on Wednesday evening last. He painted in glowing colors the many advantages Canadians enjoy, frequently without adequate appreciation, and the storm of applause that went up as he sat down bore testimony to the effectiveness of his effort.

Was Shot in Neck.

Mr. Hawkins, overseer for the section of the Seymour power line, two miles south of Tweed, who is well-known in Peterborough, had a narrow escape from serious injury while out partridge hunting on Saturday last. He was accompanied by a son of Mr. James Bowers, a neighbor, and when separated the boy shot at a partridge which was in direct line with him. The result was that Mr. Hawkins received a portion of the charge (BB in size) some entering his neck, chest, and arm, which have proven to be very painful. No serious results are anticipated.

Graveyard Coughs and Colds

CURED QUICKLY BY CATARRHOZONE.

A cough or cold this season of the year paves the way for pneumonia or consumption. The best remedy is "Catarrhozone." It eases a cough in five minutes, and colds cannot exist but a few hours where it is used. Mrs. H. L. Chenowith, residing at Glendive, Montana, was worried by a "graveyard" cough. In the following letter she tells how Catarrhozone cured her in one week:

"I had a bad cough for several months last fall that settled on my lungs. I was worried very much to think that nothing I used could shake it off, but reading in the Halifax "Presbyterian Witness" of the wonderful cures Catarrhozone was effecting, I decided to try it. The irritability and soreness was taken out of my throat in a few days, and in less than one week it entirely cured my cough.

"It is with great gratitude and pleasure that I recommend Catarrhozone. I am sure it will benefit and cure all who use it."

(Signed) Mrs. H. L. Chenowith.

The reason Catarrhozone always cures is that it goes right to the sore spot, which it heals and makes well quickly. It is antiseptic and destroys disease germs in every part of the system. For Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis, nothing compares with Catarrhozone. It is very pleasant and simple to use, contains no injurious drugs, and is warranted perfectly safe to use. Catarrhozone Inhaler is suitable to use in a street car, theatre, church, any place, at any time. Complete outfit costs but $1, and is guaranteed to cure or your money back. Trial size 25c, sold by druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

WEDDING BELLS.

Hitchins—Birchall.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Birchall, Stewart street, when their eldest daughter, Miss Lucy Birchall, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. W. C. Hitchins, of Havelock, of the C.P.R. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. C. Riddiford, the bride being given away by her father. The couple were unattended.

The house was prettily decorated with maiden hair fern and other beautiful floral designs. After the ceremony a sumptuous repast was partaken of, by the few intimate friends gathered on this joyful occasion. After each one having done justice to the meal, games were indulged in, and a pleasant time was spent until the wee sma' hours o' the morning. The gathering dispersed tendering congratulations and good wishes to the bride and groom.

The bride was the recipient of many useful and valuable presents, the gift of the groom being a handsome sunburst pearl pendant.

The happy couple left on the early train yesterday morning for Toronto Hamilton and other western points, and on their return will reside in Havelock.

GARRISON SERGEANTS' CONCERT

A concert was held in the Recreation Rooms of the Armouries last evening which was well attended. The different numbers were heartily applauded.

Judging by the talent displayed, there is no reason why the contemplated weekly concerts which are to be held in the Armouries should not be successful, and also an inducement for recruiting.

The following took part in the programme:

Q.M. Sgt. Edwards, chairman.
Song—Pte. Renshaw.
Song—(comic)—Mr. M. Palmer, who was called for encore.
Song—Mr. J. Palmer. Which was well received.
Instrumental—Pte. Renshaw.
Recitation—Q.M. Sgt. Edwards.
Song—(comic)—Mr. M. Palmer.
Song—"Holy City"—Q.M. Sgt. Edwards.
Song—Q.M. Sgt. Edwards.
Song—(Military)—Mr. M. Palmer.
Recitation—Mr. Johns.
Song—Master Arthur Johnston. Who was loudly applauded.
Song—"The Village Blacksmith"—Mr. W. McIlroy.
Mr. Devey, accompanist.

Mr. McIlroy's voice never seemed so good as it did last night. He was in splendid trim, his resonant voice being almost perfect. Encore—"The Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomand."

Recitation—Mr. Johns.

An address was given by Lieut.-Col Clegg, who complimented the committee and those taking part for the splendid programme furnished and spoke favorably of the plan of holding weekly concerts, which the committee intend to do during the winter months.

Song—Mr. Dudley
Song—"Our Gallant British Soldier"—Mr. Dudley.
National anthem.

COLLIDED WITH AUTOMOBILE.

Boys Coasting Down Hill Narrowly Escape Serious Injury.

A quartette of youngsters had a very narrow escape of being seriously if not fatally injured on Monday evening, while coasting down Murray street hill, when they crashed into an automobile at the intersection of Murray and Water streets. The party consisted of George Richardson, who had his elbow fractured; Fred Marshall, injured about the head; Carl Gumpricht, bruised about the legs and Charlie Richardson, who was badly shaken up.

MR. HALL IN SELWYN

He and Mr. G. A. Gillespie Deliver Stirring Addresses in Temperance Hall

A meeting in the interests of Mr. R. R. Hall took place last night in the Temperance Hall, Selwyn, which was well attended and enthusiastic. The roads were none too good, but notwithstanding this, the electors turned out in goodly numbers and listened to the addresses of the candidate and Mr. Gillespie.

Mr. Hall said that one of the leading planks in his platform was that the Workman's Compensation Act should be radically remodelled, embodying the best features of the English and German Acts, and extended so that the mechanics and workmen in our factories would be properly compensated and without a law suit.

As many farmers sons are working in our factories it is important that the farming community should take a deep interest in this important legislation. There is hardly a week goes by in the City of Peterborough but what some employee loses his life or limbs or is permanently or partially disabled and through no fault or carelessness on the part of the employee. The employee is sure to get the worst of it because the present compensation law is bristling with all sorts of petty legal quibbles that invite expensive litigation and the result is that the employee without money is often beaten out of his rights or else he is compelled to accept a mere pittance for an injury that may permanently disable him for life.

The Whitney Government during this last seven years have done nothing whatever in order to improve the position of workmen in our factories and it is not likely that they will do anything that will benefit the workmen.

The attitude of the Whitney Government in sending out word that the labor candidate in the City of Hamilton must be defeated at all costs, shows that their sympathies are against the workmen and that their sympathies are against the workmen having a fair and just law placed upon the Statute book.

"The employers to-day spend large sums of money in protecting their premises against fire," said Mr. Hall, "and as a result, the risk of loss by fire is reduced to a minimum. It is to the interest of the employer to do this."

In the same way it should be made to the interest of the employer to guard his employees against injury. Dangerous machinery and places should be properly guarded and every precaution should be taken by the employer to protect the lives and the limbs of his employees. If the liability of the employer is increased you will find, that the employer will be as diligent in devising ways and means to protect his employees from injury as he is to devise ways and means to protect his buildings and plant from injury by fire. It is a great deal better that a mechanic and workman should never be injured than that he should be injured and receive compensation. No amount of money can compensate a man for the loss of his sight or his limbs.

"The Workman's Compensation Act that I advocate," said Mr. Hall "will prove to the mechanic and workman a double blessing. It will tend to save them from injuries and it will compensate them for injuries that they may receive."

Mr. G. A. Gillespie followed with a stirring address, covering the main issues of the campaign.

At the conclusion of the addresses cheers were given for the Liberal candidate and the King.

WHITEHEAD MAY COACH TRENTON.

ANSWERS BY J. W. BROWETT, OPTOMETRIST

Q. Why do school children with good sight, require Glasses?

A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength: the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.

Q. Why do children squint?

A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain; this is nature's way. Study-glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squinting.

DEPUTATION INTERVIEWED HON. FRANK COCHRANE WANT T.V.C. COMPLETED

EXTRA OF CANADA GAZETTE ANNOUNCES RESUMPTION OF COAL DUTIES IN WEST.

Resignations Expected—Mr. Preston's Letter Received by Department of Trade and Commerce—The Treat Valley Canal.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—A delegation headed by Gerald White, M.P., waited on the Prime Minister, and Hon. F. D. Monk this morning, and urged upon them that the Government undertake immediately the Georgian Bay Canal. Mr. Borden stated that he would give the matter his consideration.

MR. PRESTON'S RESIGNATION.

The Department of Trade and Commerce has received the resignation of W. T. R. Preston, who was Trade Commissioner in Holland. Other resignations are looked for very shortly.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

A deputation consisting of W. H. Bennett, M.P., J. Wright, M.P., J. H. Burnham, M.P., J. A. Sexsmith, and several Orillia business men, interviewed Hon. Frank Cochrane this morning in regard to the completion of the Trent Valley Canal to Georgian Bay. The canal is at present finished to Lake Simcoe.

ON GO THE COAL DUTIES.

An extra of the Gazette issued today contains an order-in-council declaring that the ordered passed on July 31st by the late Government, providing for a refund of the duty on coal imported for use in Eastern British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba shall become inoperative on and after December 6th. This action is taken because of the resumption of work by the coal miners of Eastern British Columbia and Alberta.

AN EDITOR GONE WRONG.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I notice in The Times that "Rev." Dr. J. A. Macdonald, editor of the Toronto Globe, has been telling the people of Chicago, that the Canadian people are now in a repentant mood in regard to their action in defeating the reciprocity pact with the United States.

I think most people will regard this statement as absolutely untrue. If the vote were taken to-morrow, whether this country would agree to reciprocity or not, with its attendant evils, I am sure the majority against the proposal would be many times greater than it was on September 21st last.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space, I am, &c.

—John Wishart.

WHY I VOTE CONSERVATIVE.

Editor Morning Times.

As many of my fellow countrymen have asked for information concerning the coming Ontario Election, I have obtained literature giving full information as to the records of the Ross (Liberal) administration and the Whitney (Conservative) government. I approached this matter with a perfectly open mind and after studying it fully, I intend to vote for Mr. Peck and the Whitney government, and I shall give you my reasons for doing so and I want you to examine well what I write, and after you have done so I honestly believe you will agree with me, that the record of the Whitney government is a grand record, a splendid record, and an achievement that compels our honest admiration and ensures our votes on Dec. 11th. I challenge anyone to disprove the figures I intend to give you. They are taken from the Government Blue Books. I intend to use no exaggerated language, but to state fairly and squarely the record of the present government, and compare it with the late Liberal Administration. Before I go any further, I have told you in the press, that you will have to register again for this election—that all who have resided in Canada for 12 months, and in Peterborough for 3 months can claim a vote if they register. But don't forget you must register again.

In 1904 at the Provincial election the Ross (Liberal) government were defeated and were succeeded by the present Whitney administration. Before Sir James Whitney took over the reins of government the province was heavily in debt. Speaking to a deputation from the University Sir George Ross said, "The normal revenue is about one million dollars short of the normal expenditure. If it had not been for the result of timber sales, a reduction of expenditure, or an increase of taxation would have been necessary. The Government has put a tax on corporations, and there was a complaint. Where can the money be got if not by taxation." As Sir George was Treasurer as well as Premier you will see he certainly knew what he was saying and I have quoted his exact words. You see the situation, heavily in debt the Liberal Premier could see no way

GERMAN NAVY MAKES NORTHERN NATIONS MAD

Object to Constant Manoeuvres in Scandinavian Waters—British Officials are Watching Fleet Closely

Copenhagen, Nov. 21.—Public irritation in Denmark and Norway continues to grow over the manoeuvres of the German fleet in Scandinavian waters.

This feeling has been increased rather than allayed by the publication of officially inspired articles explaining the manoeuvres in the Danish "Berlingske Tidende" and the Norwegian "Morgenbladet." It is believed that these explanations were made at the request of the German government, but the people refuse to accept the assurance that the Baltic Belts are used only as the natural through passage for the German warships.

The visits of the German fleet have been made for the last five or six years, and with one or two exceptions have been undertaken without the formality of notifying Denmark and Norway.

Exercises have taken place in all Danish waters, and at night they have been held without shaded lanterns or without any lights. This has resulted in considerable damage, and the compensation paid has proved far from adequate. The chief

ONTARIO GETS 146,400 MILES

Toronto, Nov. 22.—The Province of Ontario acquires by the Manitoba boundary arrangement 146,4000 miles or 93,696,000 acres of new territory. This added on is equal in size to about two-thirds of the whole of the old Province.

The new territory is largely unknown, excepting along the rivers Severn, Winisk and Attawabiskat. The Severn with its branches drains the larger part of this area.

A LONG SEA COAST LINE.

The coast line on Hudson Bay extends for about 525 miles, but apparently it does not provide any good harbours. It is believed that there is iron and copper in the new territory, while there is abundant pulpwood in the southern portion. As to agricultural possibilities little is known.

MR. HALL IN HARVEY

Holds Successful Meeting Last Night at Ventriss' School House

Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal candidate, is conducting an energetic campaign, and is meeting with much encouragement. Considerable interest is gradually being aroused in the election, and this will no doubt increase as election day approaches. Last night a well attended meeting was held in Ventriss' School House, Harvey, which was addressed by Mr. Hall and others.

In dealing with the issues of the campaign, Mr. Hall said that an elector who accepts the educational policy of the Whitney Government and is prepared to support them must be easily satisfied. They have demoralized our elementary educational system. They have filled the rural schools with unqualified teachers in every part of the Province. The rising generation of boys and girls are not receiving a fair chance under the Whitney Government on account of the fact that they are not receiving a proper elementary education. 2000 French Canadians who cannot speak a word of English are being added to our population every year. The French Canadians want to learn English in this English speaking Provinces and the Whitney Government deprives them of that advantage.

Sir James Whitney and his Minister of Education are responsible for this state of things. An elector has to be a very strong party man if he is prepared to accept the apologies of the Whitney Government on this question.

The Whitney Government certainly cannot shelter themselves behind the fact that at this late date they are having Dr. Merchant make an investigation and an enquiry into the facts. If the Minister of Education were any good at all and if he had competent inspectors under him who performed their duty the disgraceful condition that has grown up would never have been allowed to exist.

"I have not," said Mr. Hall, "the slightest doubt but what every public school inspector has done his duty and I have not the slightest doubt but that the Whitney Government had the fullest and the widest knowledge of the fact that there are scores of schools in the Province in which the English tongue is never spoken. This must be remedied. Properly qualified teachers must be trained and increased Provincial aid must be given for the purpose of making sure that every child in the Province obtains a thorough knowledge of the English language along with his elementary education.

Mr. Wm. Simpson also delivered a stirring address, dealing with the main issue of the campaign, and making a strong plea for the election of Mr. Hall.

At the conclusion of the addresses the meeting broke up with cheers for Mr. Hall and the King.

Lit a Cigarette With a Real $1,000 Bill.

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—Sigurd Hartig, a real estate dealer, formerly of Cincinnati, accidentally lit a cigarette with a $1,000 bill here yesterday. He intended to burn only the end of a bit of yellow paper protruding from the edge of the bill for the edification of his friends.

A BIG ROW IN LIBERAL CAMP

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—While the Liberals have been endeavoring in vain to stir up strife in the Conservative party on the Naval question they have succeeded in starting a big row in their own camp over reciprocity. There is a decided clearage in the Liberal ranks as to whether to continue the fight for reciprocity or to drop it entirely.

Hugh Guthrie announced it was a dead issue, but W. F. Carvell and Hon. Wm. Pugsley, speaking for the Maritime Provinces, declared they intended to continue the fight. It is understood the Liberals of Ontario and Quebec are anxious to drop the question. When the first Liberal caucus is called it promises to be far from a love feast.

DEBATE RESUMES.

D. D. McKenzie, Cape Breton North, will continue the debate for the Liberals to-day and will be followed by Arthur De Wett Foster, the man who beat Sir Frederick Borden. Both Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and Hon. J. D. Monk are expected to speak, and when they clash, a duel as exciting as the famous Lemieux-Bourassa duel is expected.

Ridpath Stronger.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Bruce Ridpath is getting stronger day by day, and Dr. McKeown is sure that he will recover. He continues to talk at random, but occasionally talks sensible for a few minutes. Even in his delirium he has never spoken of the accident and it is not likely that he knows anything about it. "He will get over it," said one of the house surgeons at St. Michael's Hospital, "but he will be a sick, weak man for a long time to come."

Mob Would Lynch Him.

Mobile, Ala., Nov. 22.—A mob had formed at Louisville, Miss., and is threatening to lynch B. F. Walker, a private detective, under arrest for perjury. Walker is involved in the Janie Sharp murder case. It is believed he had much to do with the arrest of two men later freed. One man now stands convicted of the murder, but he has been granted a new trial.

STRATTON-WARREN TRIAL REGULAR—WILL HAVE TO APPEAR AT NEXT ASSIZES

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Judge Riddell ruled to-day that the proceedings against J. R. Stratton and J. J. Warren, who were indicted with the other provisional directors before the county judge, were quite regular because the charge as there made by the Crown differed slightly from the present charge, and Judge Winchester had a perfect right to give judgment in that case.

They were not, however, his Lordship held, released on the present indictment and would have to appear at the next assizes. This also applied to Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, who was included in the indictment.

ARCHBISHOP BRUCHESI IS AROUSED

BY TORONTO AND WINNIPEG COMMENT ON QUESTION OF MIXED MARRIAGES.

Constitutional Right—Catholics in Quebec Declare That Their Rights Are Guaranteed by Treaty.

Then, in the Province of Quebec, when we demand that the civil power recognize the impediments on marriages ordained by the Catholic Church, we do not solicit any favor, but demand a right guaranteed by treaty, by the constitution of the country and by the laws of our civil code. Those who desire information on this point might read with profit the judgment of Chief Justice Sir L. A. Jette, in the Lamarameé-Evans case, and also the decision of Justice Lemieux, Mathieu and Curran in the Durocher-Degre case in the Court of Review in 1901.—Archbishop Bruchesi.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 22.—Roused by Toronto and Winnipeg comment on the Shaughnessy-Graham wedding which is represented as shattering the ne temere decree, Archbishop Bruchesi issued astatement to-day. He declares that he has doubt whether the decree has ever been read by its critics and if read, is certainly not understood.

"The Act," asserts the Archbishop "is spoken and written about as though it were promulgated for Canada alone, although it has been in force since Easter, 1908, and that in every country in the world.

"One thing that makes evident proof that the sense of this decree is not properly understood is that there has been published under prominent headlines in the Toronto newspapers regarding the Shaughnessy-Graham marriage, "The Ne Temere shattered to pieces," and so on. The ne temere decree has nothing to do with the Shaughnessy-Graham marriage. The diocesan rules have not been modified but for very serious reasons I have simply acted according to conscience and my right to accord dispensations of mixed religion. The marriage ceremony was celebrated exactly according to the laws of the church, before the priest.

BREAKING EXISTING MARRIAGES.

"The decree is made only for Roman Catholics, non-Catholics, whether baptised or not, if they contract between themselves, are not bound to observe the Catholic forms of either engagement or marriage. People profess to be scandalized because a marriage, really null and void, has been so declared by competent authorities, and how comes it, per contra, that no one makes any outcry against the thousands and thousands of cases of divorce every year in England and the United States? We no longer hear any protestation against the fact, that at least 18 bills for divorce will be presented at the current session of the Canadian Parliament, and moreover, in these numerous cases of divorce it is not simply, as in the Hebert-Cloutier case, a void marriage which is declared null, but those are truly existing marriages which are to be broken it is the civil status of the parties which is to be changed."

Friends All Marrying, Teacher Felt Lonely.

New York, Nov. 22.—Miss Ledee Quirk, a school teacher, 32 years old tried to commit suicide to-day because, so she told the police, all her friends were getting married, and she was lonely.

Peeling the Face

(From Modern Housekeeper)

Women are beginning to realize how dangerous and how unnecessary is the painful and expensive surgical operation known as "face-peeling." Many clever society women noted for their exquisite beauty, accomplish the desired result themselves at home, with perfect safety and no pain, expense or detention indoors. They simply use ordinary mercolized wax, which can be obtained at almost any drug store. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning. The mercolized wax slowly absorbs the half-dead outer skin, causing it to flake off day by day in fine, almost imperceptible particles like flour. The fresh, vigorous young skin underneath soon shows forth, blooming radiantly with health and beauty. The face begins to look years younger, though the use of the process absolutely defies detection by the closest observer.

Naturally this process also removes all such minor facial blemishes as freckles, tan, moth patches, liver spots, fine wrinkles, pimples, etc.

HARNESSED HIS WIFE WITH TEAM OF MULES

Liberty, Mo., Nov. 22.—Lafayette Choate yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of having harnessed his wife with a team of mules and compelled her to help harrow the field. He was sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment. He had been in jail four months awaiting trial. His wife is suing for divorce.

DOCTOR AND NURSE ARE UNDER ARREST.

It Is Alleged That They Did Not Tell All They Knew at Inquest.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 22.—A Journal special from Ubly, Huron County, says that Dr. Robert McGregor and Mrs. Margaret Gibbs, a nurse, were arrested to-day and taken to jail at Badaxe. It is charged that they did not tell all they knew in their testimony at the inquest regarding the deaths of John Wesley Sparling and his three sons. Suspicions of arsenic poisoning have been raised in connection with the four deaths.

Sparling died in 1903 in a hospital at London, Ont. Peter, the eldest son, died in July, 1910 and Albert, the second son, died last May. Cyril, died in August. After the latter's death Albert's body was exhumed.

The coroner's jury to-day rendered a verdict of "death by arsenic poisoning," on the case of Albert Sparling. Dr. McGregor and Mrs. Margret Gibbs, of London, Ont., were taken from their rooms after they had retired for the night and hurried to Badaxe in an automobile.

THREE MEN DROWNED.

Upturned Boat Tells of a Tragedy in Big Lake.

Wadsworth, Nov. 22.—Word has just been received here of three more victims of the severe storm of the 11th instant. Three men, John Wolf, Peter Katsonas and Tim Maddocks, who started out from supply camp 15 of S. G. Grant & Co., with a boat load of provisions for camp No. 2, north of here. When they failed to make their regular trip, search was made with the result that the pointer was found floating in the middle of Big Lake, bottom up. It is supposed that they got lost in the fog and were overtaken by the storm of Saturday night and their boat swamped. No trace has been found of the bodies.

It is evident that John Wolf at other times taken different names, as mining certificates were found among his belongings, one date August 9th Mine, Nova Scotia, November 16th, 1910, giving the name of Stanton Corosah, and one bearing date Nuggins Mine, County of Cumberland, Nova Scotia, February 6th, 1911, and giving the name of Johan Govayr.

PROOF FOR WOMEN WHO STILL SUFFER

THAT THEY CAN FIND RELIEF IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Mrs. Lois McKay suffered from Pains in the Back, Side and in the region of the Heart—Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

Tiverton, Digby Co., N.S., Nov. 22—Every day seems to bring a message of cheer for the weak, run-down women of Canada. To-day's message comes from Mrs. Lois McKay, a well-known resident of this place. She like others, has found new life in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Before I used Dodd's Kidney Pills," Mrs. McKay states, "I suffered with a bad pain in my back and side, pains in my bowels, and sharp, cutting pains around the heart.

"I was always tired. Sometimes when I sat down I could hardly get up out of the chair. But thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills, my pain is all gone and my back is well. I have proven for myself that Dodd's Kidney Pills are good. Female trouble is nearly always caused by diseased Kidneys. The position of the female organs and the Kidneys shows how one is dependent on the other. That's why weak women find new life in Dodd's Kidney Pills. They always cure diseased Kidneys.

BANK DIRECTORS ACQUITTED.

Judge Instructed Jury to Find Four Farmers Bank Men Not Guilty.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—One more step towards clearing up the affairs of the defunct Farmers Bank so far as the court proceedings are concerned was taken this morning in the assize court, when ajury under the direction of Mr. Justice Riddell, returned a verdict of "not guilty" in the case against John Watson, Alexander S. Lown, John Ferguson and Alexander Fraser, charged on some dozen or more counts with conspiracy to obtain money from the Farmers Bank and its subscribers, conversion of the money to their own use and theft.

"THE FORT GARRY" HOTEL, WINNIPEG.

Adjacent to the ruins of that historic monument "Old Fort Garry," memorable in the early history of Canada's new Western metropolis is being erected "The Fort Garry," truly representative of greater Winnipeg—a magnificent edifice—to rank with the world's finest hotels, embodying in its construction the most advanced, scientific and architectural ideals. Located in the very heart of the city, to which all lines of traffic converge, it is readily accessible to the railroads and electric car lines, and within a radius of a few blocks of most of the leading theatres, while one minute's walk will place one among the largest and most pretentious of the great stores in the centre of the shopping districts, or enable one to reach the great new terminal station of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"The Fort Garry" to be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific will be built of the finest of Canadian granite and buff lime stone, in the style of the old French Chateaux of Normandy and Touraine and will rear its stately heights to fourteen stories, by three hundred and fifty sleeping. The building is to have approximate chambers and will be richly furnished in faultless taste. All its bedrooms are to have private bathrooms and are to be equipped with every approved modern appointment. Nothing that would in any way contribute to the comfort and welfare of its guests has been overlooked in the preparation of the plans and interior arrangements.

The keynote of the "Fort Garry" as judged from the design and interior arrangements is to be "homelike comfort." From basement to roof top, every detail of construction and furnishing has been worked out in perfect accord with this idea, and would seem to assure the largest measure of personal enjoyment and restfulness to its guests—a place where comfort-loving people might enjoy life to the utmost and feel thoroughly at home.

The main entrance of the hotel faces on Winnipeg's most beautiful thoroughfare "Broadway" and opens upon a spacious and imposing rotunda, which will suggest in its decoration and refinement the cheer and comfort provided within its walls, and from beautiful design, unbroken by columns, lofty in height, and finely lighted by broad windows and circular domed ceiling.

The Mezzanine Gallery is also to be a novel feature of "The Fort Garry" and is obtained by the introduction of a storey midway between the office floor and the parlors. It is reached by a broad marble staircase from the main entrance lobby, and is to be finished and decorated in white and delicate shades of color. It overlooks the entrance lobby, dining room, cafe and tea room, and will be used as ladies' parlor, writing room and library. It commands a splendid view of those portions of the hotel where the most life occurs, and yet at the same time affords a quiet sense of retirement.

HER WEIGHT IN GOLD

By Carlin Joyce.

(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.)

The proposal of the Indian people to weigh King George V., on the occasion of his approaching visit to India, against his weight in silver coin and afterwards to distribute the silver amongst the poor in India, recalls an interesting incident in the history of a well-known Irish family, now related for the first time.

"This is the fifth marriage settlement I have had the honour of drawing up for your family, Sir Thomas, and you will excuse me, I hope, expressing my curiosity respecting one peculiarity common to them all."

"I think" interpolated the baronet, "I can anticipate what you are going to say, Cheevers. You are puzzled to explain why there is a uniform dowry of £8,000 settled upon my daughters from the date of their marriage, except when you are aware that a similar sum was settled upon my sisters when they married."

"Precisely, Sir Thomas. To speak openly, I wondered why the sum was not fixed at £5,000 or £10,000."

"I comprehend your meaning fully. You might be a long time searching for a solution of the problem and fail to solve it in the end. It is, however, an interesting story

"My eldest sister, Ita, was a charming girl, idolised by our parents, the most popular of the young county people of her age, and beloved by the common people. Up to the time immediately preceding the public announcement of her engagement she was regarded as heart-free, and unattached to any of the many eligible admirers with whom she was acquainted. One evening, after dinner, Mr. Strewton, a neighbour of ours, called to know if I could play in a cricket match that was being arranged with a team from the metropolis. Subsequently he asked if my father was alone in the library, as he wished to speak with him. I brought him down to the dear old man, and left the pair of them together, never dreaming of the surprise that interview had in store for us all. About a week later we were apprised that Ita had given her heart to Strewton. That herself and her lover had always entertained mutual affection for each other, though Strewton had made no avowal until his bachelor uncle had spoken to him of the desirability of marrying and avoiding the premature ageing and loss of real live interest in life which is the fate of the overwhelming majority of old bachelors. Strewton avowed his desire to marry my sister but explained that he never felt at liberty to disclose his heart's dearest wish to her, because he recognised that he was dependent upon his uncle's generosity for the wherewithal to set up an establishment of his own. Contrary to the code of the romance writer, Strewton's uncle approved his nephew's action and choice, and guaranteed a generous settlement if the marriage could be arranged to the satisfaction of all parties.

"It was after this interview Strewton ascertained that my sister reciprocated his affection and, later secured audience of the pater. I well remember my father approving of Strewton's manly, straightforward way of urging his suit. 'By George,' he used to say, 'I shall never forget the earnestness with which eulogising Ita, young Strewton averred that she was 'worth her weight in gold,' or the happy thought that prompted me to say, 'that she is: and her own weight in gold will be her wedding dowry.'

"Of course, Cheevers, you remember that my father was Director of a Bank at that period. What do you think he did? One day he brought Ita into the Bank and, in the presence of two other members of the Board, conducted her to the strong room where she was put sitting into a beam and scales constructed on the principle of those commonly seen at the town market-houses throughout the country. When she was comfortably fixed, one of the porters of the establishment was directed to shovel sovereigns into the opposite scale until the gold placed there equalled the weight of the lady on the other side. When the coins were subsequently counted the amount was found to be £8,000, representing, as well as I remember, my sister's weight to be about ten stones. That was the origin of the £8,000 dot in our family."

One of the features in the Mother of Parliaments recently was the maiden speech of Sir W. M. Aitken, the young Canadian millionaire, who, at the last election, captured Ashton-under-Lyne for the Unionist party. The romance of commerce has played a big part in Sir Max's thirty-two years of life. He was "discovered" politically by Mr. Bonar Law. "Why not stand for Parliament?" said his friend. Sir Max Aitken turned the idea over in his mind very quickly. He was not a politician in the ordinary sense of the word; but was heart and soul an Empire man. He was not a practised speaker, but he had something to say. Rather late in the day he started his campaign and just talked in a friendly, conversational, way upon the Imperial matters which were near his heart and which he thoroughly understood. He won. At Westminster he is a little bit shy. He does not eagerly embrace chances for self-advertisement.

Europe's First Parrot

So far as known, the first introduction of parrots into Europe occurred in the fourth century B.C., when, it is related, one of the generals of Alexander's army, returning from India, brought with him specimens of the ring-necked parrakeet. These parrakeets, which were called "Alexandrian parrakeets," after the monarch in whose reign they were introduced, are still very popular with bird-fanciers, and are so common in India that sailors continually bring them to Europe and America. They are docile, and while slow in acquiring speech, finally make excellent talkers. Roman writers inform us that they were not eaten in India, but were held sacred because of their ability to reproduce human speech.

THE EARTH'S COLORS

Lowly Mosses and Lichens Contribute Chiefly to Most Striking of the Planet's Color Scene.

The two great elements of difference in the same landscape in winter and summer are, of course, the presence of snow in winter and of leaves and grass in summer. If we could look at our globe from the moon the variation in its aspect due to seasonal changes would perhaps be even more striking than it appears to those on the surface.

In fact, we sometimes lose sight of the very important part which vegetation plays in giving color to what might be termed the countenance of the planet.

It is not the higher forms of plants that always produce the greatest effect in this way. Some of the most striking scenes upon the earth owe their characteristic features to mosses and lichens. The famous "crimson cliffs" of Greenland, which extend for miles northward from Cape York, derive their splendid color from the growth of red lichen that covers their faces. The rocky pass called the Golden Gate in the Yellowstone National Park owes its rich color and its name to the yellow lichen covering its lofty walls.

Considered as a whole the vegetation of a planet may give it a characteristic aspect as viewed from space. That its broad expanse of forest and prairie land causes the earth to reflect a considerable quantity of green light to its neighbors is indicated by the fact that at the time of the new moon a greenish tint has been detected overspreading that part of the lunar surface which is then illuminated only by light from the earth.

SUSPENDED TROLLEY CARS

Latest Model if Torpedo Shape, Propeller-Driven, and Indications are it will Prove a Success.

While the use of a suspended car is not altogether new, yet the one now being tried out in California is unique in many ways. The chief point of interest is the fact that it is driven by a huge propeller, itself of novel design, which is operated by a 25 horse-power gas engine. The car is no mere toy model, but a fifty-feet structure of steel and aluminium, which has a carrying capacity of 56 passengers. It is built in a torpedo shape, and will be covered with a light, flexible covering, with celluloid windows. In addition to the propeller in the rear, another will be placed in the front of the car, doubling its power, and acting as an auxiliary in case of break-down.

The short length of overhead track, about a quarter of a mile, has made it impossible to test the new device for speed, but it operates perfectly, showing that it is no mere theoretical invention. Forty people have been carried with ease at one time.

A number of ingenious devices, tilting planes to lighten the car while in motion, apparatus for raising and lowering the car at stations, etc., have been designed to perfect this new vehicle.

A Remarkable Chimney

A chimney two miles high with a brook running through is certainly something of a novelty. Such a chimney exists in connection with the copper works at Cwmavon, near Aberavon, in Glamorganshire, Wales. This is how it came to be built:

About sixty years ago the copper smoke from these works was the plague of the neighboring countryside. It settled upon and destroyed the grass for twenty miles round, while the sulphur and arsenic in the fumes affected the hoofs of cattle, causing gangrene. The company tried all sorts of devices to remedy the trouble, but in vain. Finally Mr. Robert Brenton, who was later engineer of the Sind Railway in India, solved the problem.

The copper works are at the foot of a high, steep mountain. Mr. Brenton constructed a flue or chimney running continuously from the base to about one hundred feet above the summit, following the natural slope of the ground. The brick which lined it and of which it was largely constructed was burned close by. A small spring, rushing out near the mountain top, was turned into the chimney, and allowed to flow through almost its entire length to condense the smoke. Once a year it is swept out, and about a ton of precipitated copper obtained. Its top can be seen for between forty and fifty miles.

A World in the Forming

The planet Jupiter, whose volume is 1279 times that of the earth, and superior in dimensions and weight to all the other planets put together, is just now attracting the attention of astronomers. M. Giacobini, of the Paris Observatory, who has made a special study of Jupiter, has described a red spot which possesses a relative fixity, but within the last year its mobility has increased in great proportion, and its longitude by about 30 degrees. It is possible this may be the forming of a new continent, but who can say so with certainty? M. Camille Flammarion, however, expresses himself with confidence in the matter. "We are assisting at the creation of a world. Under our dazzled eyes a new world is being created in the infinity, and in Jupiter we hail the world of the future."

England's Surplus Women

The proportion of females to males in the population of England and Wales was 1,057 to 1,000 in 1801; it then declined census after census, though with some irregularity, down to 1851, when it stood at 1,043 to 1,000. Ever after that a change in the opposite direction set in, and up to 1901 there was a slight but continuous increase in the proportion of females to males. The proportion of females to males was the same in 1911 as in 1901, viz., 1,048 to 1,000.

KING EDWARD VACUM CLEANER
You cannot clean carpets, rugs and furniture by beating. If you think you have, just try a KING EDWARD VACUUM CLEANER and you will find the article full of dust, which breeds disease.
The KING EDWARD HAND MACHINE has no equal as compared with other hand machines. It is lighter to operate and its suction is much stronger. Its suction is stronger than many of the power machines, and the dusting is done away with. On account of the short stroke one person can operate it on carpets and rugs equally as well as two, and it is about half the weight of other hand machines to carry up and down stairs or from one room to another. It is sold for less money than any of the hand machines. All machines are guaranteed.

Birdcages and Disease.

Bedsteads and birdcages are among the sources of plumbism — the deadly lead poison disease — according to a report by Dr. Robert Edginton in the current "British Medical Journal". "In putting together chandeliers and gas-fittings white lead is used in the joints," he says, "and it is the custom of the workmen to test the joints by sucking the air out of the tubes, so that in this case the lead is probably conveyed directly into the stomach." The process which figures highest (with seventeen cases in a list of eighty-four instances of plumbism) is the painting of motor-car and coach bodies, safes, and stoves, whose glossy enamel-like surface exacts a heavy toll from the workers owing to the lead dust inhaled during the repeated sand-paperings involved in securing a perfectly smooth surface. House painters come next, and on the same level as regards frequency of poisoning are the girls who smooth down the paint of bedsteads and birdcages with their hands to get an enamel-like surface. Cases of lead poisoning among tinners and kettle makers are ascribed to the mixture of lead and tin used for the inside surface of kettles and saucepans.

Willie—Papa, what is the meaning of the expression "touch and go?"

Papa—It's very simple, my son. It means extreme speed, and refers to the professional borrowers who make a touch and get away so fast you seldom see them again.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Workshop, Victoria Island, Ottawa," will be received until 4 p.m., on Thursday, November 23, 1911, for the construction of a Workshop, Victoria Island, Ottawa.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residences of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

ONTARIO
Provincial Loan of $1,000,000.

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, under the authority of Chapter 4, of the Statutes of Ontario, 1911, invites subscriptions from the public for a loan of $1,000,000 on bonds of the Province of Ontario, or "Ontario Government Stock."

The bonds will be dated 1st November, 1911, and payable on the 1st November, 1941, in denominations of $1,000 each, with coupons attached for interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st May and 1st November in each year, at the office of the Provincial Treasurer, Toronto, or at the offices of the Bank of Montreal, in Montreal, Canada, and in New York, N. Y., at the holder's option. Bonds will be made payable to bearer, but on request will be registered in the office of the Provincial Treasurer and endorsed as payable only to the order of certain persons or corporations, and on request of holders will be exchanged for "Ontario Government Stock" at any time.

The issue price during the month of November, 1911, will be 102 for each $100, and after the 30th day of November, 1911, the issue price will be 102 and interest accrued from the 1st November, 1911.

ALL BONDS AND INSCRIBED STOCK ISSUED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE SAID ACT ARE FREE FROM ALL ONTARIO PROVINCIAL TAXES, CHARGES, SUCCESSION DUTY AND IMPOSITIONS WHATSOEVER.

Purchasers of Stock or Bonds will be required to send certified cheque with the application, payable to the order of the "Provincial Treasurer of Ontario."

This loan is raised upon the credit of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Ontario, and is chargeable thereupon.

A. J. MATHESON,
Provincial Treasurer.

A Thought for To-day

As in that which is above Nature, so in Nature itself: he that breaks one physical law is guilty of all. The whole universe, as it were, takes up arms against him, and all Nature, with her numberless and unseen powers is ready to average herself upon him, and on his children after him, he knows not when nor where. He, on the other hand, who obeys the law of Nature with his whole heart and mind, will find all things working together to him for good. He is helped and befriended alike by the sun above his head and the dust beneath his feet: because he is obeying the will and mind of Him who made sun, and dust, and all things: and who has given them a law which cannot be broken.—Kingsley.

Thought it was a Crack.

A corpulent gentleman with a large appetite entered a mean-looking restaurant, and ordered a chop, and waited twenty minutes. Then the waiter reappeared with a plate on which rested a dab of mashed potatoes, a bit of meat burnt almost to a cinder, out of which emerged a long, thin piece of bone.

The waiter set it down before the starving gentleman and hurried off.

"See here," called the customer, "I ordered a chop."

"Yes sir," replied the man, "there it is."

"Ah, so it is," mused the hungry man, readjusting his spectacles. "I thought it was a crack in the plate."

Spruce for British Admiralty

The British Admiralty has recently placed an order for 200,000 feet of white spruce to be used in the manufacture of oars for the rowboats of warships." It is perhaps not generally known that the superior quality of the white spruce grown in the Queen Charlotte Islands, off the coast of British Columbia, was discovered years ago by British naval officers of the North Pacific station. The kind of timber was found to be ideally adapted for making oars, and it is now used exclusively for that purpose by His Majesty's vessels throughout the world. The timber will be shipped east by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Light from Sugar

This phenomenon, the cause of which has not yet been satisfactorily explained, may be observed when discs of loaf sugar are mounted on a lathe and rapidly rotated while a hammer plays lightly against them. An almost continuous radiation of light may be thus produced from the sugar. It has been shown that the light does not arise from heating of the sugar, and it is believed to be caused by some change taking place in the sugar crystals. The act of crystallisation is known to be sometimes accompanied by flashes of light. The practical bearing of these experiments is on the question of the possibility of obtaining artificial light by methods as yet untried.

Small but Intelligent

I had been seated but a few minutes on the front porch of an old colonial house (says a correspondent) when my attention was called to a number of ants clustering around the base of the column at the head of the steps. My host, observing the direction of my gaze, then told me the following story—"I had observed," he said, "that ants were eating away the wood below the floor, and yesterday I filled the hole up with borax, thinking to end the difficulty. An hour later I saw an ant work its way through the borax on to the floor, and crawl down the steps to the ground, followed by other ants. In less time than I can tell you, they had arranged themselves with the utmost precision in a perfectly straight line, horizontally and vertically, from the hole to the ground, down the five steps. Then, to my amazement, the ant at the edge of the hole passed a bit of the borax, which I had pounded, not powdered, to the next in line, who in turn passed it on until it reached the ant on the ground. In half an hour they had conveyed all of the borax in the hole to a neat little pile at the foot of the steps, and the army then marched back to their quarters with the same quiet precision."

THAT THY DAYS MAY BE LONG

Avoidable Sources of Physical Degeneration Include Poisoning of Tissues by Meat Putrefaction and Grief Worry and Anxiety.

There is a definite limit set to one's length of years. This limit is an inherent something very difficult to define, which determines the end of the vital span, beyond which life cannot be prolonged. It is one of the very numerous expressions of protoplasmic inertia. It means that no matter how carefully a man lives, avoiding accidents and all the poisons which tend to produce degeneration of tissue — those of alcohol, gout, and the toxins of specific infections — nevertheless he cannot live on for ever because of an intrinsic tendency in his protoplasm to cease working after so many years have elapsed. Just as a clock, wound up to go for eight days, will stop at the end of eight days, or a projectile fired from a gun can travel no farther than the energy of its charge will permit it, so the organism can endure for a certain time, but no longer than this inherent fatality to cease to live will allow it.

One avoidable source of early tissue degeneration is the absorption of intestinal poison, chemical substances of an injurious nature manufactured in the alimentary canal. As nearly everybody now knows, it is the bacilli of sour milk which antagonise the putrefactive bacteria. The drinkers of sour milk, in Eastern Europe and the tribes of the desert are notoriously long-lived.

Lastly, the mind and its various states have, as is universally recognised, an influence on growing old. Grief, worry, and anxiety are well known "to age" people rapidly. Other things being equal, the person of placid temperament is more likely to survive to a ripe old age than the person who frets and fusses and fumes.

Work Without Worrying

A man who can work without worrying can stand almost any amount of it and keep in top-top condition. The college athletics by which we set so much store merely touch the surface. As often as not the crack oarsman or half-back is the first to break under the strain of business. In modern conditions, except for manual labourers, a man's power of resistance lies not in his muscles but in his nerves. And for sound nerves in spite of materialistic science one should look more upon a state of mind than upon a state of body. In a large way, not to worry means not to take yourself too seriously; to keep a sense of proportion by which, after all, you appear as merely a temporary fact.

"There are a lot of girls who don't intend to get married."
"How do you know?"
"I've proposed to several."

Change of Air

The cyclist was fighting hard against a strong head-wind and wondering what unhappy thought had prompted him to come so far away from home. Darkness was rapidly falling, and, to crown his misery, it was beginning to rain. After a little practice, the rain came down in its best style, and the wheelman got wet to the skin. Then, as the intelligent reader will have anticipated, a piece of glass laid his tyre open. Some people get all the luck.

Presently there drove up from the opposite direction a benevolent old gentleman in a pony-cart. Gazing at the upturned bike, the perspiring wheelman, and the repairing outfit which he had dropped in the mud, he enquired—

"Had a puncture, my friend?"

The cyclist looked up and swallowed his feelings with a huge gulp.

"No, sir," he replied. "I'm just changing the air in the tyres. The other lot's worn out, you know!"

ANGEL OR CATARO

By Kit Brun

Many years ago, relates a woman writer, a lonely man dwelt in a cave up in the hills where rise the waters of the Iwaga. None know whence he came, nor who he was, except that he called himself Randolph Jackson, and that he had made himself a habitation in the cave.

Beyond the lodge the hill arose. Its crest looking towards the north-west where Greylock loomed and opposite towards the south-eastern hills, below the valley lay the guarding hill precipitate in its descent. At the bottom the river murmured over an pebbled bed and between the forested hills. For the stately pines the jagged oaks and spruce and the graceful birches were crowding close on either side, and far upward, till they reached the fertile fields that the first settlers had cleared.

From the front of the cave Randolph could look far across the valley, and could see no human habitation or human being; only now and then he might watch an eagle soaring across, or see a fox skulk away in the shadow, or hear the soft flap of the wings of an owl, when the great darkness had come down.

Randolph worked for the farmers down beyond the valley and for his pay mostly provisions. Money was scare then in all this region, and trade was made by bartering. So from one he took the cloth spun and woven there, that another farmer's wife made his garments from. Another gave him meat, another potatoes. From a fifth he secured the maple sugar that was his only luxury and from a sixth the pork that served as meat or now and then a pat of butter. And then, too, he could use his musket, and sometimes also furnished himself a meal from the tender flesh of a rabbit, coon or quail; he would stride down the valley and from a brook on the other side of the river draw out an unsuspecting, unsophisticated trout. So Randolph lived.

One winter morning Randolph arose long before light, for he had work with a farmer down the valley whose hours were early, and he must be there to help before the tardy winter sun arose above the eastern hills. The winter had been hard, a thick coat of snow lay upon the ground. A day or two before more had come, and then had turned to rain, and then the rain had frozen into sleet, and formed a crust, hard enough to bear up the fox taken away from home, unawares and unfortunate, but not hard enough to bar the weight of the lone cave-liver.

When the long day's work was done, and the weary oxen in their stalls, and the dog snoring in the chimney corner and dreaming of the fox he had seen that day, Randolph started to his sheltering cave, across his shoulder a bag of potatoes, a side of salt pork, and a loaf of corn bread, given him by kindly Mistress Leonard. But it was darker than ever then. The dim ghosts of farm buildings, or towering trees were only a visible inky darkness, the fog was so thick and close. And Randolph had no lantern, and perforce must find his way, alone and unlighted, up the slope of the valley to the ledge that made his roof tree. And he was tired, and painfully groped his way along the beaten road that was his path for a part of the distance.

Then he left it to try and find his path through the forest trees, his path alone, for none other lived in that valley, and none other ever passed that way.

Did he find it? He could not tell, but groped darkly and alone through the misty trees. Soon he could not tell where he was. He could not tell how far up the hillside he had come, nor where the edge began its sinuous length. And he paused alarmed at last.

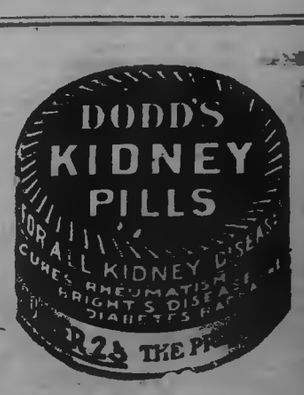
And then, far off in the distance, there came a noise, indistinguished at first from the breath and whisper of the fir tree, then more plain and plainer yet until it seemed to Randolph, that it was a voice crying. "This-a-way! This-a-way! Heere-eere! This-a-way!"

"Hey" said the wanderer, and paused perplexed. "This-a-way!" cried the voice. "What was that?" he ejaculated. "Heere-eere!" pealed the voice far away in the darkness behind the spruces. "Heere-eere!" it pealed again and again. Randolph wiped the sweat from his brow, replaced his old fur cap, and went on again, slowly and painfully up the snow clad hill. Again it seemed to him that his path was not here, and again he paused, and then "This-a-way!" cried the voice. "This-a-way! Here heere-eere."

And the clump of dark [illegible] trees stood at hand seeming [illegible] to him, and locked their [illegible] outlines. When he stumbled [illegible] that he had no [illegible] paused again, [illegible] voice would be [illegible] in the [illegible] "This-a-way! This-a-way!" And he climbed the [illegible] pausing [illegible] of the [illegible] far away called plaintively "This-a-way!" or near at hand, [illegible] with [illegible] silence, [illegible] the valley. "This-a-way!"

Until at last, [illegible] humored to [illegible] lost ways from home, he [illegible] saw [illegible] glimmer of a fire; the [illegible] Burnew from his fire of the morning and [illegible] stumbled across the [illegible] of his own hold with a sigh of relief, and threw himself down upon his couch of fir branches, tired and content.

And always, when he told the story of his long wanderings up the hillside in the dark night, and mistook the sound that had come to him and led him upward in safety, he said that he never knew if it was an angel, calling him or a catamount.



SIR JAMES WATSON

This eminent English physician is one of the greatest authorities on diseases of the respiratory organs.

In a recent address, Sir James Watson stated that the commonest of all disorders is Catarrh, and that not one person in ten thousand passes the winter without an attack of some sort.

Sir James advocates local treatment very strongly, and says that it is all nonsense trying to treat Catarrhal diseases by stomach medicines, atomizers, douches and snuffs.

Local treatment is applied most scientifically by Catarrhozone, which is inhaled into the nose, throat and lungs, and drives the disease completely out of the system.

Catarrhozone is a rational, common sense treatment; it clears the air passages, makes breathing easy, and relieves at once. Physicians prescribe Catarrhozone with gratifying results, and pronounce it a specific for Catarrh in any part of the system.

Sir Theo Cox, one of the most prominent citizens of Ottawa, Ont., says: "I want to recommend Catarrhozone. It is a nice, clean cure for Catarrh. Cured me perfectly, and is well deserving of a trial from everyone at all afflicted by Catarrh or throat trouble."

Mr. G. F. Fadden, of Royan, Que., writes: "In my opinion Catarrhozone is the only cure for Catarrh. I had the disease in its worst form but only got relief from Catarrhozone. It cured me quickly and permanently, and I have no fear of the Catarrh ever returning.

The foregoing brief extracts, like thousands of others that the proprietors of Catarrhozone have received, prove that the proper remedy to use is Catarrhozone. It is quite different from the ordinary Catarrh preparation, and is warranted to prove entirely satisfactory. If it fails your money will be refunded, so if not benefited you won't be out of pocket.

All druggists sell Catarrhozone. Complete outfit, hard rubber inhaler, liquid for recharging, etc., costs $1; trial size, 25 cents. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y.

BI-LINGUAL SCHOOLS.

One argument advanced against doing away with bi-lingual schools is that the children who speak French will suffer, that the first three years of their school life will be used up in learning English, and that they will receive no instruction in other subjects. The Kingston Standard maintains that there is no force in this argument and results in the United States prove that to be the case. There the children of foreigners pick up enough English in a few months to be able to converse and also to understand what is said to them. Those who use this argument use it simply for the purpose of having French retained in the schools. The fact is it is a gross injustice to any child to allow him to grow to manhood in this Province without a thorough knowledge of English.

THE MINISTER OF MILITIA.

Col. Sam Hughes, the popular Minister of Militia, is beset by a number of enemies who are fortunately too small to notice. For instance, a few days ago there was telegraphed all over Canada that Col. Pelletier, chief of the garrison at the Citadel, Quebec, was to be replaced by Major Holtorf, Toronto, the additional information being given that "Major Holtorf is a nephew of Col. Hughes." The inference is plain: Col. Hughes was favoring his relative! It was a good story, but it lacks one essential—truth. Major Holtorf is not a nephew of Col. Hughes. He is not a relative of any kind. And thus another lie is nailed on the head.

When the Minister of Militia makes promotions it may be depended upon that they will not be by favor but will be by merit.

Why I Vote Conservative

out but by increased taxation. Now Sir James Whitney's government have not only wiped out this deficit and provided a surplus, but they have done so without increasing direct taxation. Not only have they done this, but they have also increased the grants to Education by $760,000, increased also the grants to Agriculture by $450,000, the grants to hospitals and charities by $120,000, and best of all, it has given to the municipal treasuries, thus relieving the people of that amount in taxes $92,000 in one year, also $150,000 in aid of good roads. To-day, instead of as in the Liberal Government's time, in the words of their Premier, "the normal expenditure exceeding the normal revenue by a million dollars, the Whitney government gives us a surplus of over $1,637,766, and this after and in addition to the increased grants stated above, paying the interest on the loans made to carry through the Government (Temiskaming) Railway, and the Hydro-Electric project. Now is not this good able and sound finance? Isn't it good government to turn a debt of a million into a surplus of over a million, besides the increased grants as quoted. The Whitney Government have in this matter of the finances of the Province, certainly acted in a statesmanlike and able manner that compels our admiration and respect. Not only under the last Liberal government did the expenses exceed the receipts by a million dollars, but the finances of the Province in their hands were in a most deplorable condition. The public accounts show that at that time the surplus of J. S. Macdonald had disappeared, the debt was growing and the deficit was an annual visitor. In proof of my statement, let us look at the growth of the debt and ask ourselves where it would have ended, had not Sir James Whitney's government been returned to power. Here are the official figures showing the growth of the Liberal debt:—

1891	$3,229,420
1900	5,214,698
1904	6,714,957

So you see plainly the debt had increased 3½ millions in 13 years. Now with an open mind, compare this state of things financial with how we find things to-day with a large surplus of over $1,600,000, and all this the work of only six years. The Liberal Government in 13 years, added nearly 3½ millions to the debt. In six years the Conservative party not only wipe that out, but give us a surplus of over a million to the good. What financiers thought of the condition of the Provincial credit and finances is proved in this way. In 1904 the Ross government tried to float a loan of $6,000,000, in order to meet the cost of building the Temiskaming Railway, and the best offer they could get for the bonds was 93, after the finances of the province had been put into good shape by the Whitney government the same loan was obtained at 98½. You can see for yourself what this means exactly you can see the moral standing of the Whitney government. When they came into power the Whitney administration felt that the province of Ontario was not receiving its fair share of the subsidy which the Dominion Government were granting and they raised a campaign in which the other provinces joined, asking for a larger subsidy, and giving as its reasons the increased sums Ontario was paying to the Dominion Government in Customs and Excise duties and also the greater amount Ontario was spending in public services for the people. Before this appeal of Sir James Whitney this province received a fixed annual grant under the original terms of Confederation, regardless altogether of the large increase in population and consequent increased cost of administration. What was the result, instead of receiving as before, the sum of $80,000 yearly, an amendment to the terms of Confederation was made by the Dominion Government and Ontario was granted no less than $240,000 a year, or exactly three times the sum it received before Sir James took action, and besides this, the sum of 80 cents per head of the population, as ascertained from time to time, instead of 80 cents per head for the population as it stood in 1861. In this letter I have stock to finance, because in my opinion, it is of the first importance in good sound government. In my next letter I shall show you how the Whitney government has increased the grant to Education (raised also teachers salaries), also increased grants to Agriculture and good roads, increased grants to Charities and Hospitals and given in one year to the Municipal Treasuries the sum of $92,000. In subsequent letters I shall show you more reasons why I intend to vote for Mr. Peck and when I have done so, I feel confident you will agree with me.

Unexcelled Facilities ∴ ∴ Prices Low

In keeping with the general surroundings of the Chateau Laurier, the new $2,000,000 hotel, constructed by the Grand Trunk Railway System at Ottawa, the pictures for the bedrooms have been purchased and consist of some of the best reproductions of famous masterpieces from the London, Paris, and Berlin galleries. They will be framed in moulding that will harmonize with the fittings of the several floors, including Louis XV., Louis XVI and Colonial styles. Care and great taste has been used in the selection of the pictures so that they will add to the cheerfulness of this magnificent hotel.

TRANSCONA PARK, - - WINNIPEG

The $5,000,000 work shops now being built by the Transcontinental Railway will soon be completed and Transcona inside of one year, will have a population of 20,000.

A new street car extension will be built next year from Winnipeg along the Nairn Road through Transcona.

The Grand Trunk are building a $20,000 station to the south of this sub-division.

The Canadian Pacific has just completed the purchase of the S.E. Quarter of Section No. 17, and will erect a fine new station to accommodate traffic to and from Winnipeg and to provide access to the new Winnipeg Golf Grounds that will be opened next year.

The G.T.P. Shops to be Opened Jan. 6, 1912

These shops now employ over 1,000 men, and when completed will be, next to the Angus shops at Montreal, the largest and best equipped railway shops in the Dominion of Canada. They are not all completed. This will take some two years or more, when they will employ upwards of 5,000 men. Factories have been started in Transcona that will also employ a large number of men. It is only a question of time before Transcona has a population larger than Regina, Saskatoon or Moose Jaw. Transcona property has been on the jump for some time, and, as soon as things have fairly started, property here will increase in value very materially. Get a lot or two in Transcona Park before prices advance. They are very low now. Transcona Park is close to town, and you can watch development from day to day. As soon as the street car line is built along the Nairn Road you will be able to build in this sub-division and be in easy reach of Main Street and Portage Avenue.

TORREN'S TITLE

No incumbrance on this property. If you are not satisfied with your investment in two years' time you may, on giving notice to the Vendor, receive all your money back with six per cent. interest added. We have had special forms printed including this as part of the Agreement of Sale and these will be issued by the owners of the property on receipt of your first payment.

Inside lots about the same distance west of Main Street, Winnipeg, as Transcona Park is east, are selling from $20.00 to $70.00 per foot. The small buyer has not much chance of making big money buying at these prices, as the demand for residential property over $50.00 per foot is limited; on the other hand buying at five to seven dollars a foot in a growing manufacturing and residential centre like Transcona Park, the small investor has a good chance of making a big thing. Get right into the game and secure an early choice.

You have no doubt noticed advertisements of subdivisions in and near different towns throughout the west. Have you ever compared prices and localities? If so, you must have realized that the chances of any immediate or rapid advance in value must be in favor of the locality in or near a large city like Winnipeg, with its Manufacturies, its Railways and Business Centres, as compared with a small prairie town. Transcona must eventually be part of Winnipeg. There is no buy on the market to-day equal to Transcona Park, at the prices and terms we offer.

GERMAN NAVY

damage has been done to fishing interests and submarine cables. The German boats themselves have not escaped. In a collision between two torpedo boats one was destroyed.

This constant turmoil in Danish waters has excited much adverse comment from the public, and it is firmly believed that the exercises are being held in preparation for actual war. It is charged that the Germans have obtained as much information in regard to Danish waters as is possessed by the naval department of Denmark. Only a short time ago six German torpedo boats steamed boldly into Knobelvig, which, as "closed water," is supposed to be forbidden to all foreign warships. Even the inspired explanations do not deny that German fighting ships intrude Danish seas where they are not supposed to go.

In the meantime the British authorities are maintaining the closest observation of the movements of German naval vessels in Scandinavian waters. It is asserted that all British consulates have received instructions to report promptly the arrival and movement of all German warships. In this connection it is reported that a retired British naval officer has been sent to act as consul on a special mission in Jutland.

Danish-Americans have long desired a visit to the United States of a Danish fleet, and from present plans their wish will probably be gratified on the opening of the Panama Canal. The visit of the American fleet here last May has given impetus to the plan, and it is now generally discussed in naval circles.

The fleet would represent Denmark at the opening of the canal, and later pay courtesy visits to the chief American ports. It is likely that a Danish prince, who is a naval officer, will be detailed to accompany the fleet.

Artificial Diamonds

Berlin, Nov. 21.—A new method of making diamonds has just been discovered by Dr. Werner Von Bolton, a chemical expert connected with the Siemens-Halske Laboratory here.

The process is based on the decomposition of lighting gas by a mercury amalgam, whereby the carbon contained in the gas is crystalled into diamonds. As these diamonds are extremely minute small bits of diamond dust are introduced into the apparatus where they serve as mother crystals upon which larger diamonds are gradually built up.

The process is still in the experimental stage, and the diamonds are small, but it is hoped that Dr. Von Bolton's discovery may result in the solution of the problem of manufacturing diamonds by artificial means.

UNCLE TOBY'S RUSE

"Twenty-six! You surprise me. Yes, sir, you should be married. No young man should pass that age and remain single."

"You did, Uncle Toby," grinned Gerald McIntyre. Tobias Brenton was a confirmed bachelor of many years' standing.

"That's all right, boy," returned his uncle. "I'm the exception. But you should be married. Tell you what—Jerry—"

"What, uncle?"

"The day you get married I'll give you a thousand dollars for a wedding present."

"You will?"

"I will—with one proviso. If you marry anybody but Patience Allene Truesdale."

"Who?"

"Patience Allene Truesdale."

"Who's Patience Allene Truesdale? and why couldn't I marry her? And where does she live?"

"I didn't say you couldn't marry her," replied Tobias Brenton "I haven't anything to say concerning her. I believe she is now at Collegeville. What I did say was that if you married anyone but her I would give you a thousand dollars."

"But, Uncle, I don't know this Truesdale, and there's no possibility of my marrying her, or anybody else."

"It's nearly train time," observed Uncle Toby, rising. "I realize you don't know Miss Truesdale, and so what I said may seem foolish. But you can't say I haven't put the proposition up to you. Think over this getting married, Jerry. A thousand dollars is a thousand dollars, these days. Let me hear from you."

The rest of the day Jerry gave his muscle to the hardware store where he was employed, but not his mind for that was elsewhere.

"Who was Patience Allene — Patience Allene; it was a quaint, sweet name — against whom his uncle seemed so prejudiced.

After supper he changed his clothes, tried on four neckties, and went to Collegeville.

There was chattering and laughter and an undercurrent of paintive tinkling in the College building for three of the party in the center had stringed instruments. From out of the pleasant babel, as Gerald passed the gate a voice said:

"Lead 'My Sweetheart Was a Rover,' Patience Allene."

He met Patience Allene Truesdale presently; the girl of the soprano voice was really she. It took five trips to Collegeville, and three ice cream socials before he accomplished an introduction.

Then he made up for lost time. He called on Patience Allene as often as Normal convention and the girl herself would permit patronized soda fountains and confectionary stores, as well as two moving picture theatres, liberally, and otherwise followed the path which his uncle's words should have barred. He fell heels over head in love with Patience Allene.

He puzzled still over the mystery of his uncle's dislike for her. She came from his uncle's home town. Long rapids, and when he had craftily introduced his name into the conversation one night, she had spoken glowingly of Mr. Brenton, who was her father's best friend, she said. It was Mr. Brenton who had advised her to attend the Normal, so she could be a high school teacher.

"There's something troubling you, Jerry," she said, so unexpectedly, that he was taken completely off guard. "Tell me what it is."

Jerry, blundering, attempted to finesse it delayed things a little longer, but at last he had to tell.

"Your uncle needn't have worries," she said coolly, when he had finished. "I haven't any designs on you or your prospects. You are wasting time with me; better begin trying to earn that thousand dollars. No, I'm not angry; good night!

Jerry, raging, went home to find Uncle Toby, having dropped into town unexpectedly, the centre of his own merry family circle.

In five minutes Uncle Toby the wealthy, the courted and the masterful was on his way to Collegeville, virtually a prisoner in the custody of this grim and silent young stranger.

"Now, sir," grated Jerry, "I brought you here to say that your prejudice against Miss Truesdale doesn't make any difference. We're going to be married; and we don't need that thousand dollars."

"Is this true, Patience Allene?" asked Uncle Toby.

Patience Allene did not seem to mind the queerness of Jerry's proposal. "Yes," she said, simply; "but, Mr. Brenton, what did you say to Jerry?"

"What did I say, Jerry?"

"You said you'd give me a thousand dollars if I married anybody but Patience Allene."

"Correct. Anything else; any reflection on her?"

"No-o."

He took a hand of each. "My dear young people," he said, "your uncle has 'put one over,' as the boys say. If you dreamed I wanted you to marry, you'd have flown apart. There, now, never mind thanking me. I must be getting back. I suppose the last car goes pretty soon. I'll let you walk that three miles alone. And — the thousand dollars shall be five thousand."

And Uncle Toby smiled whimsically as he went away, yet sighed a little, too; for he knew he was already forgotten.

His Idea of Importance.

"In one benighted region of a certain state in the southwest,' says a Chicago lawyer, 'they cherish some peculiar notions touching the duties of a juror.'

One day a case was being tried, when suddenly the justice exclaimed:

"How is this? There are only eleven jurymen in the box. Where is the twelfth?"

The foreman arose and addressed the court respectfully, as follows:

"May it please your honor, the twelfth juror had to go away on important business, but he has left his verdict with me."

Highest on Earth

The Loa Bridge in the China Andes is the highest bridge in the world. This wonderful construction is four hundred feet high, eight hundred feet long, and stands ten thousand feet above sea-level. It crosses a great ravine some three hundred miles from Antofagasta, on the railway running from that port into Bolivia. This line is also of interest from the fact that it is the highest railway in the world, climbing at one point up to over sixteen thousand six hundred feet above sea-level.

HUDSON'S BAY AND WESTERN PROSPECTS.

Ancient Corporation's Big Increase In Profits.

Some very interesting information regarding western Canadian conditions was given by Lord Strathcona when presiding over the annual meeting of the Hudson's Bay company, held in London recently. After reviewing the excellent reports which had been in the hands of the shareholders for some time, his lordship referred to the conditions which obtain at the present time. He quoted from a cablegram received from the stores commissioner, Mr. Burbidge, at Winnipeg, which stated that the volume of sales for the first five months of the current year had increased $500,000. This is at the rate of $100,000 per month. The cable messages read by his lordship were as follows: —

From Land Commissioner

"From personal observation, which corresponds with reports from the company's surveyor and other authoritative sources, the larger acreage in crop, seeded under ideal conditions, was followed by exceptionally favorable growing weather, and with present season the crop promises to be very considerably larger than any previous harvest yield in western Canada. This will no doubt stimulate the demand for agricultural lands from prospective occupants, and have an invigorating effect on growing cities and towns in the several districts."

From Fur Trade Commissioner.

"Compared with last year the fur catch has declined in British Columbia, Manitoba and Keewatin. An increase has occurred in Saswatchewan, Lake Superior, Lake Huron, St. Lawrence. There is no change worthy of mention in Athabasca. No advice to hand from James Bay, Labrador, Mackenzie river ,but it is very probable volume has declined owing to unfavorable winter and scarcity of periodical furs. Adequate supplies have been forwarded districts. Transport service is well organized for efficiency and economy. The prospects are encouraging."

From the Stores Commissioner.

"The volume of sale shop trade for first five months of current year shows increase of over five hundred thousand dollars. Prospects during remainder of sale shop year are excellent, the outlook for a record crop being very favorable."

CALAGARY STREET RAILWAY HAS GOOD HALF-YEAR.

The net profits from the operation of the Calgary street railway system for the first six months of the present year were almost three times as great as for the corresponding half year in 1910.

The comparative statements of the receipts, expenses and profits of the system prepared and submitted to the city commissioners by Superintendent McCauley shows a wonderful growth of the city and increasing patronage of the system.

After deducting five per cent of the gross receipts and paying a percentage of the interest and sinking fund, the net profits for the six months of the year amounted to $49,705.51. For the half year in 1910 the profits amounted to $17,061.

The total revenue for the first half of 1911 amounted to $149,427.57. After deducting the total operated expenses of $75,964.80, five per cent of the gross receipts amounting to $7,471.98 and $16,295.28 for interest and sinking fund, a net profit of $49,705.51 was left.

Spanish 5 and 10 Cent Stores

Spanish newspapers are commenting on the new system of merchandising just introduced into Spain through the opening in Madrid of two bazaars along lines corresponding to the American 5 and 10 cent store. The Madrid bazaars have been started with a stock of toys, cheap jewellery, notions, perfumery, underwear, collars and cuffs, neckties, caps, chinaware, fans, handkerchiefs, belts, brushes, purses, small hardware and other articles priced to sell at 65 centimes, an equivalent of about 13 cents American money.

The American 5 and 10 cent store idea has not been developed in Spain to any extent ,although the two bazaars recently established approach the system, at least in the range of articles carried, more closely than anything heretofore attempted.

Bazaars carrying articles offered within a certain price range have been operated in the larger Spanish cities for some time — Malaga has had such a store for over twenty years, prices varying from two to nine cents — but the limited variety of goods obtained and sold at these prices did not strongly attract the

Jones was a man whose boast had always been that whatever he dared he could do, but his braggadocio ended rather seriously — for him.

His friends declared that he would not stay in a certain haunted room for one night, and as the idea of being afraid of anything was particularly distasteful to him, Jones decided to accept the challenge to do so.

He slipped a revolver under his pillow and slept peacefully for a few hours. Then he was awakened by a peculiar moaning sound, the weirdness of which thrilled him with an apprehensive fear and a longing for home.

Looking towards the foot of the bed he thought he saw — a human hand!

"Remove that hand or I fire!" he shouted, bracing himself up for action.

One—two—three—no reply — then, bang!

And that's how Jones lost three of his toes.

Breakfast and the Morning Mail.

Did you ever hear that it is dangerous to open your morning mail at the breakfast table? According to a Berlin scientist, Professor Kron, it is dangerous—very. Professor Kron has succeeded in tracing several cases of contagion to the old custom of waiting until you sit down at the breakfast table before opening and going through your morning mail. He calls attention to the fact that the average man goes down to breakfast with hands and face scrupulously clean, teeth scrubbed and throat gargled. In that condition he is prepared to eat without danger of swallowing more disease germs than may have possibly escaped the watchful attentions of the cook.

But instead of doing that, he handles letters and papers which have passed through many hands before reaching his own. Between bites he opens envelopes and wrappers, and in doing so unthinkingly paves the way for the absorption of all kinds of germs which may, or may not, do him a great deal of harm.

SPECIES USED FOR LATHS—1910.

Within two years, the number of the kinds of wood used for laths has been doubled. This increase is illustrative of the extent to which lath production is becoming an adjunct to larger wood industries. Small quantities of lumber of odd sizes, slabs, and what would otherwise be mill waste are conserved and used to advantage in this way. The Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior has compiled statistics for 1910 showing that twelve species of wood were used in the production of the eight hundred and fifty-two million pieces of lath produced in 1910, worth one million, nine hundred and forty-three thousand dollars. The first six species in importance were spruce, white pine, cedar, douglas fir, hemlock and balsam, which also are the woods used for some time in the manufacture of laths. The remaining six ; jack-pine, red pine, yellow pine, poplar, basswood and larch are the new species increasing in importance. Spruce and white pine laths, the two most important species, show a decrease in 1910 from the year previous, but together form nearly seventy per cent. of the annual output. Some million and a half more pieces of cedar were cut in 1910 than in 1909, and the amount for this species of seventy million pieces made up one twelfth of the total. Prices ranged from $1.25 for yellow pine to $3.18 per thousand for poplar.

New Chateau Laurier.

Work of the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, the new $2,000,000 hotel, constructed by the Grand Trunk System is progressing very favorably.

Nearly all of the plastering of the hotel is now completed and there remains to be done only the lobby, bar and grill room ceiling. Most of the marble floors for the dining room corridor are laid, and after the plaster work of the lobby is completed, work will be started on the marble work of the floor. Heat and light have been in the building for the last two months, and when the plaster is sufficiently dried in the various public rooms, the decorators will be able to commence the interior decorations. Some of the wood work for the big rooms is in the hotel, and the erection of this is going on. The general appearance of the various rooms, is beyond expectation, and when completed will be of the richest effect, artistic in design, and wonderfully beautiful.

has been authorized by the Land Department of the Candian a Pacific Railway to sell to the public CORONATION town lots.

Plan and map may be inspected at the office of The Pacific Realty Co., Limited, 154 Bay Street, Toronto, from 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p. m., except Saturday, when the office closes at 1.00 p.m.

Facts About Coronation

Coronation is the first divisional town east of Lacombe, and is splendidly situated about twenty miles east of Castor, in the centre of some of the finest farming districts of Western Canada. Its natural advantages, combined with important railway developments, assure to it a future of considerable importance. Engineers are now locating two branch lines north and northwesterly from Coronation, and a third line is projected southeasterly to connect with the branch running northwesterly from Swift Current.

CORONATION will be :

A divisional centre on the great new railway route from St. Paul to Edmonton.

An important junctional centre, as three branch lines are already projected.

A distributing centre for a large and wealthy district.

A purchasing centre for thousands of Western Canada's most prosperous farmers.

If you wish to go into business or make a safe and profitable investment you cannot do better than purchase lots at Coronation, which is bound to rapidly become one of the most important towns of the West.

Something Big.

The Campbellford Herald reports a proposition to the town from a manufacturing company making a suitable place to locate. It is a large concern and would expend from $300,000 to $400,000 on buildings and the equipment, employing 175 hands and whose annual pay roll would amount to $110,000. The representatives of the concern and the town council will meet to discuss the details.

Mexico Oil

The Mexican Oil Fields, will probably break all records in the production of oil. The largest oil wells in the world are now flowing in the Tampico field, and development is just fairly begun. We offer an exceptionally attractive investment in the stock of a conservative Company, just organized, which controls 3500 acres, in the midst of the big producing section of the field. We are certain we can convince any one of the merits of the enterprise, and we want you to

INVESTIGATE

It will only cost you two cents to secure maps, booklet, and full description of what we have to offer. The stock is being sold for the purpose of drilling the property. Oil is now being produced on all four sides of this property. We will give you every opportunity to investigate the proposition itself and the officers in charge of its affairs. WRITE US for full information.

He Likes The Times.

Mr. A. R. Gill one of our esteemed rural route subscribers called yesterday and paid his subscription to the paper. He said he liked The Times very much, and found that it was very popular in his district. Almost every farmer on the rural route have become subscribers, and all tell the same story.

Underwent an Operation.

Mr. Stubbs, of the Collegiate Institute staff, went up to Toronto last week, where he was operated on for appendicitis. He is doing nicely and expects to be able to return to Peterborough in the course of a couple of weeks.

SPEND A WEEK AT ALGONQUIN.

The popularity of the Algonquin National Park, Ontario, has been pronounced this year, and it has been necessary to use at least 25 large tents as an auxiliary to the accommodation of the Highland Inn, at Algonquin National Park Station.

Most people return to their homes in the early part of September, but as this is one of the most delightful months in this territory, those who can make it convenient are advised to spend a week or two there. The hotel is also open all the winter and with the bracing air of this locality (1700 ft. above the sea) a most delightful sojourn can be spent even in the winter months.

A handsome illustrated booklet may be had on this territory upon application to Mr. A. E. Duff, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

A COMFORTABLE ROAD.

Traveller in West Gives Unsolicited Praise to New Railway.

A world-wide traveller, having just returned from a visit to Western Canada, has written to one of the chief officials of the Grand Trunk System his unsolicited opinion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and how it serves the travelling public. He says :

"I had the pleasure of travelling from Edmonton to Winnipeg on the new line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and I would like to say that of the 7000 miles travelled on railways during my last journey the time I spent on the Grand Trunk Pacific was the most comfortable of my entire trip.

"The road-bed is evidently a fine piece of work, the cars clean, and comfortable, the men in charge were most polite and obliging, and any question asked of them was answered in a most gentlemanly manner.

"I would like to refer specially to the dining car service and its equipment, which is the best I have seen. It was in fact a revelation to me after having travelled so far on other roads—the meals being specially good combined with pleasant surroundings and beautifully served.

"I beg to say that if it gives you as much pleasure to read this letter as it gives me to write you, you will perhaps pardon liberty I have taken in addressing you."

This is but a specimen of the many letters that are being received by the Grand Trunk Pacific officials, praising the exceptionally fine road and service that is now being operated in Western Canada.

Real Estate, Mining and Industrial Investments

HOW $100 GREW TO $31620

The value and importance of any enterprise must be based on the profits and dividends it can earn. In this respect the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, is without a parallel in the line of investments.

It combines the attractive factors which are needed to make the perfect investment—viz., safety, large earning capacity and low cost of the stock at the start. It is not at all uncommon for oil stocks to begin at a few cents a share and jump to hundreds of dollars a share—sometimes thousands.

	Started at	Has Sold at
Central	10 cents	$2.10
Monte Cristo	10 cents	$4.00
Lucile	10 cents	$16.00
Silver Tip	25 cents	$4.00
San Francisco and McKittrick	40 cents	$28.00
Kern River	50 cents	$8.75
Peerless	50 cents	$8.75
Puente	$10.00	$150.00
Home	$10.00	$5000.00

This list, taken from San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchange records, could be added to almost indefinitely.

Fortunes have been made from stock increases. stock is $200, YOUR YEARLY PROFIT ON AN INVESTMENT OF $300.

When we have ten wells sunk you can reasonably figure on AN ANNUAL PROFIT ON YOUR HOLDINGS OF $2000.

$2000 A YEAR. DOESN'T THIS APPEAL

Many a case could be cited similar to that of Richard Ellis, clerk in a store in Los Angeles, whose investment of $100 became worth $31,620 in a short time. There are hundreds of such cases in Los Angeles alone.

$2000.00 Profit a Year

Do you realise that stock in the Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company, Limited, at the present price of 30 cents a share is not merely the opportunity of the year—IT IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

If you have $10, $50, $100 or $500 YOU SIMPLY CAN NOT AFFORD TO PASS IT UP.

If we develop only a 1000 barrel well of 26 gravity oil, this production alone will be sufficient to enable the corporation to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. and at the same time have sufficient capital to continue the drilling of wells.

1000 shares of stock at the present price of 30c costs only $300.

20 per cent. dividend on the par value of the TO YOU? Wouldn't you like to be coming up to this office every three months and getting your dividend cheque for $500?

Remember, too, that your stock holdings in Midway Maple Leaf, if you should want to sell them should be worth $18,000 or sixty times the amount of your original investment.

Consider These Facts

The Midway Maple Leaf Oil Company is working in proven gusher territory, the richest oil zone in the world, controlling 40 acres on one-eighth royalty, with the great advantage of the option to purchase at only $1250 per acre after oil is struck, and the ground must then be worth at least $5000 per acre. This means a clean profit of $150,000 over purchase price. It has been demonstrated completely by gushers on adjoining Standard and Honolulu ground, that this portion of the Midway field is not only the richest portion of the whole district, but that it produces the highest grade of oil found in the entire vicinity, and worth 50 per cent. more per barrel at the well.

$60 cash, or $12 down and $12 a month for four months, buys 200 shares.

$120 cash, or $24 down and $24 a month for four months, buys 400 shares.

$480 cash, or $96 down and $96 a month for four months, buys 1600 shares.

A CHANCE TO MAKE MONEY IN VANCOUVER REALTY

Investors seeking an opportunity to secure large returns for their money will find an exceptional chance offered by Keith Park Land Co., Limited, of Vancouver, B. C. This company has placed on the market for immediate sale the choicest piece of property on the North Shore.

This tract known as Keith Park, D. L. 676, lies at the junction of the Pipe line Road, (owned by the city of Vancouver) and the Keith Road and is the Junction point for North side traffic.

The Second Narrows Bridge, which is to connect Vancouver and North Vancouver will be constructed so that Keith Park will be in the line of its northern end.

It is confidentially expected that a new town will be created at this point. Dominion, Provincial and Municipal subsidies to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars have already been secured for the bridge project and plans are now being drawn for the bridge. It is expected that actual workwill be started within the next ninety days

Keith Park presents the best chance to buy ahead of the important municipal and government projects that are planned for the North Side. It will stand the most critical investigation.

Full information and maps supplied upon request. Lots range in price from $200 upwards. Terms one-quarter cash, balance in six equal quarterly payments.

THE LOST SODOM AND GOMORRAH

Searchers Fail to Locate the Sites of the Cities that Were Consumed by Brimstone Showers but Exploration Still Proceeds.

To the majority, perhaps, the Dead Sea is invariably associated with Sodom and Gomorrah. No one knows exactly where these cities stood. They have been variously placed at the north end, on the west side, at the south end, and on the east side of the Dead Sea. Popular tradition has always most conveniently pointed to the north shore the place visited by tourists and pilgrims from Jerusalem, as the site. No less an authority than Canon Tristram, however, places the site on the east side. At Callirrhoe, on the east side, there is certainly palpable evidences of volcanic upheaval, not to mention the combustible substances in sulphur, bitumen, and possibly oil that might have played a part in the overthrow of these ancient cities. The Zerka — a stream almost as great as the Arnon and amid surroundings of much the same character, but having a small plain on the seashore that might very well be cultivated — flows into the sea some fifteen minutes' journey further north from Callirrhoe. Here, as elsewhere, the wild oleander with its beautiful pink flower is abundant, also the reed with its feathery tuft or bloom "shaken by the wind," and referred to by Christ; also the willow, the Tamarisk, and the "Gharaf," a pretty-looking wild fruit much like a cherry. Mount Nebo, from which Moses viewed the Promised Land, is about opposite the north end of the sea, on the tablelands, and Medaba about ten miles inland, in a straight line. Between Medaba and Kerak, before crossing the River Arnon, lies the ancient Dibon, where was discovered the historic Moabite Stone. At the south end of the Dead Sea is the open country, the Bible "Araba", with only one slight rise above sea-level, which fact gave rise to the wild scheme of connecting the waters of the Mediterranean and the Red Seas, thus furnishing the English with an alternate route to India, in case someone shut off the Suez Canal.

Elastic for the Hair.

Some girls have invented quite a clever scheme this Summer to keep their locks in place in or out of the house by using the tiniest kind of hat elastic around the brow. It makes a tiny ridge, barely visible, where it tightens the hair, but the locks can easily be pulled up above it with a hair pin.

Romans in Britain

The Roman galley found during the excavations in connection with the new County Hall for London was moved from Westminster Bridge to the new London museum at Kensington Place the other day. When the oaken beams were hoisted from the Thames mud a quantity of decayed bones was discovered. These included the rib of a man and other human remains, and also the jaw of a dog. Their condition was such that it was found necessary to enclose them in wire netting to prevent them falling to pieces.

The Down-Trodden.

A certain battalion — the Terrors" — possessed but a very small band. The commanding officer's feet — he was a burly farmer — were — well, very large. One day the battalion was to march out, but the music was not forthcoming.

"Where on earth is the band?" queried the adjutant.

For some time there was no reply; but when the question was repeated a gruff voice was heard from the rear rank:—

"I do believe, sir, the colonel trod on it by accident."

SWIMMING AND BATHING

Sir Harry Poland, K.C., contributes to the "Marine Magazine" an article on "Swimming and Bathing," in which he gives advice from his own experience to those who wish to become good swimmers. He says:—One great thing for a swimmer to accomplish is to swim without depending on the use of his hands, thus leaving them free for other purposes," and he recommends the swimmer to learn to dress and undress in the water, and to practice swimming while wearing heavy clothes.

"When I lived on the banks of the Thames, at Strawberry Vale, Twickenham, I used," says Sir Harry, "at a quarter past seven every morning to plunge into the river. I continued to do this for several years, although the dark mornings for about three weeks before Christmas and a few weeks after were a little trying. The great thing to attend to is to take your header directly you are out of bed, and to take care to keep warm until you plunge. For this purpose you should put on a coat lined with flannel, with a thick coat over that, trousers lined with flannel, slippers lined with lamb's wool, and warm gloves. You should stand on a piece of carpet and throw your clothing off like a quick-change artiste, and on coming out of the water you may stand in the open and thoroughly enjoy the east wind for the first time in your life, and the snow, sleet, hail, or rain will only be a diversion. "Cold bathing in winter will not, of course, do for a man whose liver is sluggish or whose heart is weak. As I had to lead a sedentary life it must not be supposed that at any time I was an athlete; on the contrary, I was never very strong, and I mention this solely for the purpose of showing that with the exercise of common prudence almost every youth can do w I was in the habit of doing."

Good nature is the most weak-kneed of the virtues.

Why the Stars Twinkle

The stars appear to twinkle because the rays of light, coming to us from those distant bodies, pass through strata of air of varying density. The ray of light is bent or refracted on passing from a rarer to a denser medium, and vice versa. All objects viewed through heated air—such as that arising from a brick or lime kiln, or even the vapour near the surface of the earth on a hot day — appear to quiver and tremble. The rays of light, coming from the stars, are, so to speak, shaken to and fro by passing through media of varying densities. The light of the planets is similarly affected, but to a less perceptible extent, on account of their comparative proximity.

WHEN THE U. S. FOUGHT TURKEY

A Century Ago United States Took Turkey to Task, and After Daring Attack Work Brought Enemy to Attention.

Most people have forgotten their history to the extent of overlooking the fact that where the Italian fleet is today ships of war of the United States were operating a little over a hundred years ago.

That war was signalized by the loss of an American frigate, but also by what Lord Nelson declared to be "the most bold and daring act of the age." The frigate Philadelphia was one of the vessels built for the war with France, which ended almost as soon as it began. She was on the Mediterranean station, and, under Capt. Bainbridge, went aground on an uncharted reef in the harbor of Tripoli while chasing a prize. The officers and men were captured and confined in dungeons. Thence Bainbridge managed to send word to the Americans to destroy the Philadelphia, which had been hauled off and manned by the Tripolitans.

This enterprise was conducted by Lieut. Stephens Decatur and a volunteer crew. Decatur performed his task of great danger and difficulty with complete success. The Philadelphia was captured, but, of course, it was impossible to take her out. She was set ablaze and the Americans sailed away with only one man wounded. It was a little later that the bashaw was compelled to make peace at the cannon's mouth, and since then the States has had very little interest in Tripoli, as it lies far outside the range of their commerce.

A few years ago an American artist, who was spending some months in Tripoli, hired a diver to go down and bring up some of the wreck of the Philadelphia, which is plainly visible in fair weather. Some of the wood is now in America in the shape of paper weights and the like.

WHY OUR CORNS ARE SO NAMED

Man Pays Irritating Penalty for the Invention and Use of Foot-Wear, and Titles the Outcome a Horn.

As man finds that his unprotected feet are not very safe to use for walking upon, he invents boots and shoes and sandals to protect them. But often we have to pay a penalty for our cleverness, for boots and shoes are apt to cause pressure on the soft, thin skin of our toes just where it lies close to the bone, with scarcely any padding between. The skin, in places where it is padded, can stand occasional pressure very well without injury, but the case is different where the skin is practically just over the bone. If the skin did nothing, it would be worn through in such a case. Therefore it tries to protect itself in circumstances to which it should never have been exposed, and the result is the corn.

A corn is due to a great thickening of the thin, horny layer which is found in the skin everywhere. It can only be really cured by removing the cause which produced it. We can keep a corn in check by paring away the horny material as it gets thicker or by putting something on it which has the same result, but we shall not cure the corn until we cease to apply the pressure which excites and irritates the horny layer of the skin to thicken itself. Corns are named from the Latin word cornu, meaning a horn, and the horns of some animals are also made from the horny layer of the skin.

Doctor Tells Cause And Cure of Wrinkles

(From Springfield Republican)

"Stop to consider what produces wrinkles and sagginess of skin," said Dr. Elizabeth Blinn at the Woman's Club last evening. "Premature aging, mal-nutrition, etc., cause the flesh to shrink, lose its youthful plumpness and firmness. The skin then is too large for the flesh underneath; doesn't fit tightly and snugly as it used to—it wrinkles or sags.

"It must be plain that to tighten the skin, make it fit the face perfectly in every place, will effectually remove the hateful wrinkles and bagginess. This is easily and harmlessly accomplished by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel and using the solution as a face lotion. The ingredients you can get at any drug store. The results are surprising. The skin immediately tightens up, becoming firm and fresh as in youth. Every wrinkle and sag is affected at once."

Typhoid by Vaccination.

It will be interesting for the readers of The Times to learn that the treatment of typhoid fever by vaccination is being very successfully reported to in the Winnipeg General Hospital. This institution is said to be the only one in Canada which is undertaking the treatment of the scourge by inoculation. In New York City it is doing wonders, according to authentic reports. It might be worth while for the Peterborough Medical men to investigate the method of treating one of the most prevalent of diseases.

Italians Departing.

During the past few days nearly a dozen sons of Italy have left Peterborough for their native land. It is not for the purpose of helping their country in its war with Turkey that they are going, but to visit their people. Good wages and constant employment has enabled them to save sufficient to make the journey. Every man of them will return bringing others with them no doubt.

Registration Starts To-morrow.

The dates for the registration for the Provincial elections to be held on December 11, are announced as November 24, 25, 27 and 28, with morning, afternoon and evening sittings, at the following hours: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.; 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.; 7.30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Registration can be made at the following places:

Will Support Bill.

Ottawa Citizen: Mr. J. H. Burnham, the member for West Peterborough in the House of Commons, will endorse the proposal of the Brockville Socialists that the election deposit be abolished. The Brockville branch of the Socialists have written Mr. John Webster, M.P., reminding him of his promise to introduce a bill to abolish the deposit. Mr. Burnham states that if the bill is introduced he will support it. "It is the only logical conclusion to manhood suffrage," he said. "If the franchise is free there should be no barrier to the rest of it. I am prepared to give my hearty support to a bill to do away with the deposit."

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of the late Archie H. Seymour took place on Tuesday from Oshawa to Prince Albert cemetery in Port Perry, when a large number of former friends assembled to pay their final respects to the departed. That his popularity was widespread and his premature demise deeply regretted was plainly evidenced by the numerous beautiful floral tributes laid on the casket. Included among them were wreaths and designs from the following: Prudential Insurance Company, Mrs. Hagan, Mr. and Mrs. Fursey, Miss Wesley and Miss Cann, J. I. Allen and E. J. McIver (jointly), of the Prudential company.

The funeral was under the Knights of Pythias direction, the casket bearers being all members of that fraternal society. An impressive service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Greatrix of Oshawa. Besides the sorrowing survivors, there were present from Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. R. McGill Hood, Miss Jennie Browne, Mr. Robert Browne and Mr. Charlie Seymour.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. Harold Fowler has returned to Toronto after a visit with his sister Mrs. Tillcock, 145 Stewart street.

Mr. James Thompson, M.P.P., of Havelock, was in the city yesterday on business.

The many friends of Conductor "Daddy" Haskill, will be pleased to learn that he is improving slowly.

Colonel the Hon. Sam. Hughes and Mrs. Hughes have taken the residence of Mrs. H. Allan Bates, 440 Wilbrod street, Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Creasman have returned from Norwich, where they spent a few days the guests of their parents.

TRANSCONA PARK, WINNIPEG, CAN.

Splendid Opportunity to Secure Lots in a Growing Place.

We call the attention of investors to the large advertisement to be found in to-day's issue, of Transcona Park, Winnipeg. This is undoubtedly one of the greatest opportunities that eastern investors will have of making money, as the property is sure to rapidly increase in value.

Lots 30 x 100 to a 16-foot lane, $5 to $7 per foot. Cash required, only $15 and $10 per month, thus being within the grasp of mechanics and others with limited means at their disposal.

Another important feature about the sale of lots is that Messrs. Clark & Munro, the owners, will agree to refund money in two years' time, if purchasers are dissatisfied, and pay 6 per cent interest. Could anything be fairer?

OBITUARY.

Mr. William James Martin.

Another old and respected resident of Peterborough, passed away suddenly on Tuesday night, in the person of Mr. William James Martin, of 253 Dalhousie street. The deceased had only been ill for a few days. A few days ago Mr. Martin became ill, although he had been in his usual good health in the morning attacked by an internal hemorrhage from which he did not rally, the end coming very suddenly.

Deceased was 72 years of age and was born in Peterborough, where he lived all his life. He was a good citizen and earned the respect of all who became acquainted with him and he will be sincerely mourned. 48 years ago he was married to Miss J., of Peterborough, George H., of Los Angeles, Clara T. at home, Albert of Toronto, and Eliza, Ida and Wilham J., at home.

The deceased was one of the oldest members of Peterborough Lodge, A. F. and A.M., and will be greatly missed by the Masonic fraternity.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence, 253 Dalhousie street, to Little Lake cemetery. There will be service at the house at 2 o'clock.

IMMENSE NEW GAS WELL AT BOW ISLAND

DAILY PRODUCTION OF NEW WELL 5,000,000 CUBIC FEET.

Widespread interest is being manifested in the opening of another new gas well at Bow Island, which is producing natural gas at the rate of 5,000,000 cubic ft. every 24 hours. Attention was first attracted to Bow Island when the gas well, known as "Old Glory," was discovered. At the time of its discovery, "Old Glory" with its daily production of 8,365,000 cubic feet of gas, was the largest natural gas well on the American Continent. But in addition to "Old Glory", Bow Island has four other gas wells, one of which is producing 28,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

The opening of this new gas well gives Bow Island a daily production of 61,365,000 cubic feet of gas every 24 hours and the distinction of being the world's greatest natural gas field.

The Canadian Western Natural Gas Co., which controls the Bow Island gas field, and in which the Canadian Pacific Railway is understood to be interested, is to supply natural gas to Calgary and the work of piping the gas from Bow Island to Calgary is now under way.

In its enormous supply of natural gas, Bow Island, with its practically unlimited supply of cheap fuel, will be able to offer unusual inducements to manufacturers and it is generally conceded that Bow Island will become an important manufacturing centre. The town, although less than two years' old, already has a population of 400 and presents to the eye of the visitor a scene of remarkable activity and development.

The Grand Pacific Land Co., Limited, with head offices in Winnipeg, Man., controls a part of the townsite of Bow Island and has appointed Geo. Ruth & Co., 395 Water St., Peterboro', as its exclusive Peterboro' representative for the sale of Bow Island lots. Complete information as to the World's Greatest Natural Gas Field and the opportunities for profitable investment in Bow Island may be had by calling upon or writing Geo. Ruth & Co., at Peterboro', or the Grand Pacific Land Co., Limited, at Winnipeg.

Dying of Cholera

Local Physician Says Thousands Dying in Europe Can Be Saved With Proper Medicine.

What is it that keeps down cholera cramps, and summer complaints in America? Ask any doctor or live druggist and he will tell you "Nerviline." Just fancy, a million bottles are sold every year to people who use Nerviline for stomach disorder, cramps, flatulence, and summer complaint. For fifty years in most Canadian homes no other pain-relieving medicine but Nerviline is kept. Nothing cures the aches, pains and sickness of the entire family so quickly as Nerviline.

LETTER NO. 4672

"As far back as I can remember, at least 50 years ago, there was never a time that our house was without 'Nerviline.' In the summer time, when the children ate green apples and got sick with diarrhoea and cramps, it was Nerviline that cured them. My father used Nerviline frequently to cure gas on his stomach and acute indigestion. There are but few minor ailments that Nerviline does not cure, and I know of no medicine so useful; in fact, so indispensable around the home as Nerviline.'

This letter, written by Mrs. N. C. Butcher, a well known resident in Battersea, shows the high opinion entertained of Nerviline by those who have used it constantly for nearly half a century.

You'll never regret using Nerviline. Get it to-day, keep it on hand for an accident or sudden case of sickness in your home. Refuse anything else offered you instead of Nerviline. Large size bottle 50c. or sample size 25c. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

ENNISMORE.

Mr. Frank Crough visited friends in Peterborough last Saturday.

St. Martin's church was the scene of a very pretty wedding last Tuesday morning, when Miss Lizzie Crowley became the bride of Mr. Joseph Holland. The bride was assisted by Miss Katie Holland, sister of the groom, while Mr. Jos. Crowley acted as best man. The bride was the recipient of many costly and beautiful presents.

Mr. Jimmie Crough, of Smith, spent Sunday the guest of Miss J. Killen.

A sad death occurred here on Sunday night in the person of Mr. Ian. Cadigan, son of D. Cadigan. The deceased who was 22 years of age was in excellent health until a few days ago. The funeral will proceed from his father's residence, Tuesday morning to St. Martin's church, and thence to St. Martin's cemetery for interment.

UNION CREEK.

Judging from appearances it would seem that hoary winter has come with the intention of staying. Cutters and sleighs are the order of the day now.

Master Harold Scarlett entertained a number of his young friends a week ago Saturday, it being the occasion of his twelfth birthday. An enjoyable time was spent by all.

The wedding was solemnized in Lindsay Wednesday, of Mr. Walter Schell and Miss Nellie White. The happy couple returned to their home at the end of the week.

Miss Hales, teacher, spent the week end at her home in Lindsay.

The sad death occurred last week of Mr. John Flaherty. The deceased young man had been working at Bracebridge and was taken ill. Medical skill could not avail, and the sufferer passed away. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones.

Many of the people around here took sleigh loads of turkeys to Monmount on Tuesday last, to be shipped out, a good price was received for them.

The usual service was conducted in the school house on Sunday last.

Mr. Geo. English returned home from the West recently. We are sorry to report that he met with a serious accident before leaving, which rendered one limb almost helpless. As a consequence, he is obliged to use crutches in order to get around. His many friends hope that he will soon be entirely well.

SMITH.

Mr. Broderick, I.P.S., paid his semi-annual visit to the school. He was accompanied by the Presbyterian missionary, Mr. Bain, from Hall's Bridge.

Don't forget the entertainment and tea on the 28th, under the auspices of the ladies' aid. A good program is being prepared.

Rev. Mr. Coon, of Lakefield, will preach anniversary services in the Wesley Methodist church next Sunday, Nov. 26th, morning and evening.

Mrs. Mowry and Mrs. Halpin, of Peterborough, were the guests of Mrs. P. Nichols over Sunday.

The Epworth League held its weekly service on Monday night this week, when at the close of the service, the members presented Miss Josie Northey with a magnificent fountain pen.

Miss Northey, who is leaving to take a nurse's training course, has very capably acted in the capacity of President of the League for the past year, and was also a valuable member of the choir. She will be greatly missed in the church and the entire community. The best wishes of all go with her in the noble work she has chosen.

APSLEY.

The hunting season for 1911 is closed, and the hunters have all gone out Some were well satisfied with their success, while others had indifferent luck. A few more years of hounding, and a deer will be a curiosity. I see in your g.f.j. that some hunters have been reporting a great slaughter of deer by wolves. Now your reporter ought to know better. It's almost impossible for a wolf to catch and pull down a deer when the ground is bare and lakes open. They may when the snow is very deep, or there is a crust that will carry a wolf, but not a deer. I have spoken to a good many hunters on their way out and not one of them had seen where wolves had killed deer, nor any signs. Wolves are scarce, at least in this section. A few bears have been seen, but heard of only one being killed.

Wm. Hales, Reeve of Chandos and Wm. Tucker, Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther, have gone down to attend the meeting of the County Council.

Miss Myrtle Windsor is visiting her cousins in Port Hope.

Miss Annie and Miss Kate Tucker were visiting friends in Apsley Sunday.

Lots of snow here and good sleighing. Twelve miles north there is about two feet of snow.

Anvil Jim had an anxious time during the past week, but it's all right now, and Jim can sleep and dream, of apple pies and good rich cream.

There was no meeting at the Hall of Wisdom Saturday night. A few who had recovered from the effects of the roast given at the last meeting, gathered at the hall, but found the President had business on hand that could not be neglected, so after giving him all sorts of advice, such as applying electric oil, camphor oil, hot water, &c., it was finally decided to send for a bottle of Seagram varnish and the members went home, leaving Jim to his lonesome watch, promising to call when the varnish came.

The work on the government dam, Long Lake, is being pushed forward. Mr. E. Wigg, foreman.

The Peterborough Lumber Co. are building some dams on Stony Creek, north to conserve the water for the drive next spring. There will be a big drive on Eel's Creek.

Mrs. John Rickles of Clanricarde, has gone on a six weeks' visit to her parents, Rainy River district.

Zadok Hales has returned home from an extended trip to the North-West, and is one more who is quite content with the back woods.

A freak deer was killed north of Apsley last week. It was a roan colored doe, with spike horn still in the velvet.

There will likely be another store opened in Apsley during the coming week.

Miss Eva Armstrong of Peterboro', is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. Armstrong.

Mr. David Hastie is improving his residence.

Miss Jennie Carey of Peterborough, is visiting her mother, Mrs. George Carey.

We are glad to know that Mr. Jeffrey Dinsdale who has been ill, is able to be out again.

There was a large party held at the residence of Mr. Allen Esson on Wednesday evening.

A number of the young people of Lang, took advantage of the snow storm and held a sleighing party Wednesday evening.

Mr. Wm. Edwards, Jr., has gone to Peterborough, where he has secured a situation.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Edwards, Sr., spent Saturday in Peterborough.

Mr. Albert Speirs and Master Harold, spent Wednesday fox hunting. We understand they secured a fine species.

We understand that Miss Janet Keitel has been confined in the house with a bad cold since attending the Douro dance and also that Miss Cora Speirs has had a cold too, but not quite so bad.

We learn that Mr. Babe Elmhurst had a very enjoyable time at the Douro dance.

We are sorry to know that Mr. Richard Elmhurst is ill again, but hope for a speedy recovery.

ANSWERS BY J. W. BROWETT, OPTOMETRIST

Q. Why do school children with good sight, require Glasses?

A. Mainly to save the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength; the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.

Q. Why do children squint?

A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain; this is nature's way. Study-glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squinting.

TIBITANS TO THROW OFF YOKE OF CHINESE THRONE

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS AT YA TUNG HAS ALREADY BEEN COMPELLED TO FLEE.

Imperialists are Happy—Think Yuan Shi Kai Can Put Down Revolt—Foreign Teachers in a Bad Way.

London, Nov. 23.—The Pekin correspondent of The Times says the revolt has reached Tibet, the Chinese Customs officials at Ya Tung being compelled to withdraw. Word that the Tibitans have risen against the Chinese may be expected at any time.

TO PUT DOWN REBELLION.

Peking, Nov. 23.—Yuan Shi Kai is now practically dictator. The indications are that he has decided to embark on a vigorous campaign against the rebels in Peking and Tien Tsin, renewing the censorship and ferreting out the agitators. It is evident that he is acting without regard to the National Assembly. The sessions of the assembly hereafter will probably be few. The monarchial members met privately yesterday. They numbered 41. The republican members feel that they can accomplish little. The Peking Imperialistt' determination and hopefulness are peculiarly persistent.

Officials admit that Han Yuan cannot be captured, since the gunboats deserted. Nearly 100,000 soldiers, in Chan Tung, Chi-Li, Ho-Nan, Manchuria, and around Hankow have not yet declared for a republic, but not a single Provincial Assembly has failed to indicate its republicanism. Two of the provinces, however, have been held in restraint by fear of the military authorities.

MUST BORROW MILLIONS.

The Government's greatest problem is that of finances. How long the officers will remain loyal without their salary cannot be foretold, but the troops will follow the officers. Up to the present the salaries have been paid, but for further payments the Government will have to depend on foreign loans.

The Franco-Belgian loan for $30,000,000, negotiated by Baron Cottu, was signed recently, but has not been concluded. It is guaranteed by all the revenues not already pledged. An attempt is now being made to borrow $5,000,000 from certain New York Bankers. It is believed that China has defaulted on the Anglo German loan of 1896.

HUNDREDS OF TEACHERS OUT.

Several hundred foreign teachers and professors in the government schools and colleges are distressed at the prospective breaches of contracts. Only the Imperial University continues open, and it is almost without students.

NE TEMERE DECREE DEFEATED LAURIER, SAYS LE CANADA

Montreal, Que., Nov. 23.—"Le Canada," the French morning paper says:

"The hostility to the ne temere decree, which engages in the eight provinces of Canada only the conscience of Catholics, was one of the principal features in the defeat of Sir Wilfrid Laurier on September 21st last.

"This hostility was exploited by the Conservative politicians with such success that they aroused all Anglo-Protestant public opinion, not only in Canada, but in England as well, against the decree. This terrible sowing broadcast, which evidently fell on good ground, may produce a crop of which they will never be able to choke the development. They have sowed the wind and they will reap the tempest.

The Anglo-Protestant papers, including the most Liberal in politics, hope to force through a law which will legalize the marriage of Catholics celebrated in contravention of the law of the church. Public opinion among the Anglo-Protestants has been so aroused by the ends that they are demanding from the Federal Parliament a law which can result in only one thing—the introduction into Canada of the civil marriage. And we will have to combat a formidable force if we wish to keep intact the integrity of our Provincial rights.

"And now see how we are menaced by the shackles of the Tory-Orangeist press against Laurier, the French Canadian Catholic."

HUSBAND DEAD, WIFE DYING

Montreal, Nov. 23.—Stretched on a bier in a tiny room of a small house at 256 Bourbonniere street, lies the body of David Martin, aged 47. In the next room on a bed lay his wife, who is expected to die any moment. From their mother's death bed to their father's bier, nine children ranging in age from 18 months to 18 years pass to and fro.

On Sunday evening, Mrs. Martin, who had spent a happy day with her children, complained of feeling ill. Her husband set out for a doctor. The doctors were still in the house when Mr. Martin complained of severe pains in the chest and back and thinking it was merely a chill, the doctors sent him to bed. He fell asleep.

"How well he is sleeping," said one of the children next morning, as she opened the door.

The oldest child entered, touched her father's hand. It was cold. During the night he had died of heart failure.

WEDDING BELLS.

McIlmoyle—Robeson.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at "Riverview," South Monaghan, the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Latimer, on Wednesday of last week, when Clarissa Mabel Robeson, of Enniskillen, was united in marriage to Mr. Harry C. McIlmoyle, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McIlmoyle, of Selwyn.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Robeson, father of the bride, assisted by Rev. F. W. White, B.A., of Fraserville. Mrs. Kidd, sister of the bride, played the wedding march as the bridal party entered the drawing room and took their places under an evergreen arch draped with white ribbon.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a beautiful Empire gown of white Brussels net over white silk with point lace, and satin trimmings, and carried white chrysanthemums. Miss Florence Orchard, of Oshawa, who acted as bridesmaid, looked charming in a dress of pink mmon, with gold spangled net and pink satin trimmings, and carried pink chrysanthemums. Mr. Ernest Porter, of Peterborough, supported the groom. The drawing room was beautifully decorated in yellow, while the decorations of the dining room were pink and white.

Among the numerous presents was a handsome cheque from the groom's father. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome set of blue wolf fare, to the bridesmaid a pearl crescent brooch, and to the groomsman a pearl tie pin.

After a dejeuner and a short reception, Mr. and Mrs. McIlmoyle left for a short trip, the bride travelling in a smart tailored suit of grey tweed with a plumed hat to match.

Mrs. McIlmoyle, whose president of Fraserville, was very popular and her numerous friends wish her and her husband bon voyage through life. Mr. and Mrs. McIlmoyle will reside in Toronto.

Irwin—Brick.

The home of Mr. Frank Degen, 601 Stewart street, was the scene of a pretty wedding Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Frances Adeline Brick, daughter of Mr. Patrick Brick, Verulam, was united in marriage to Mr. William John Irwin, son of Mr. John Irwin, of the Township of Emily. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Canon Davidson, in the presence of the immediate friends of the family. The bride was given away by Mr. Frank Degen. The presents were many and beautiful and evidenced the high esteem in which the contracting parties were held by their many friends. The happy couple left on the 4:38 train for Toronto and points west. On their return they will reside in the Township of Emily.

SMASH WINDOWS TO ATTRACT ATTENTION.

"What Else Could Poor Thing Do?" Asks Lady Katherine Somerset.

New York, Nov. 23.—Lady Katherine Somerset, daughter-in-law of Lady Henry Somerset, arrived here yesterday on the White Star Liner, Oceanic, on her way to New Zealand via Vancouver, where she will spend a month visiting friends. She was met at the pier by Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, and will stay on Fifth Avenue until to-night, when she will leave for Montreal.

When asked about the cause of women's suffrage in England, Lady Katherine smiled and said:

"You know that I am in sympathy with them, and I think they have been treated very badly by Mr. Asquith, who has not kept his promise to them."

"Did you read the cable despatches about the smashing of windows in London?" she was asked.

"Oh, yes, I read it in the wireless message that was posted on board this morning, but what else could they do, poor things, after the way they had been treated? It was necessary to attract public attention of the public to their wrong."

We wish to call your attention to the fact that most infectious diseases such as whooping cough, diptheria and scarlet fever are contracted when the child has a cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will quickly cure a cold and greatly lessen the danger of contracting these diseases. This remedy is famous for its cures of colds. It contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given to a child with implicit confidence. For sale by all dealers.

CONTEMPTIBLE METHODS.

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir,—In this morning's issue there appeared a letter signed "An Anxious Enquirer", in which Mr. R. R. Hall was attacked in a most vicious and ungentlemanlike manner. I ask the people of Peterborough is this the kind of a man that is tolerated in the city? Why does he not come out in his true colors and sign his name? It appears to me that instead of Mr. Hall having made some ridiculous speeches, this biased writer has done even worse than he accuses Mr. Hall of doing, and it would not be a bad idea, instead of having Mr. Hall address a lot of horses, that the armory or some other place be secured and this obnoxious writer be given the opportunity of expressing himself and then give him the horse laugh. I am sure that if he was known, every horse that passed him would in some manner let him hear enough horse laugh and every true-hearted Canadian would resent the dirty, miserable, under handed on slaught which he has made on Mr. Hall, who is a gentleman, and not mean enough to stoop as low as this man has done. I, for one, know of several instances of kindnesses done for workingmen and others by Mr. Hall, and have many times heard his pleasant greeting to people, who in all likelihood would be ignored by "An Anxious Enquirer."

The letter expresses a desire on the part of the writer, that Mr. Hall show a Christian spirit and distribute the $10,000.00 among the poor. Possibly this man is a degenerated Tory and is about as confident of Mr. Hall's defeat as the average Tory was at Mr. Hall's last candidature and election.

I think I express the sentiments of the average young Canadian when I say that such a dirty attack on a fellow Canadian will swerve many a young man from the party which will harbor such a man as signs himself, "An Anxious Enquirer."

MR. HALL AT YOUNG'S POINT.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Mr. R. R. Hall is certainly a trier. He tries hard to win votes, there is no doubt about it, he really does want to be M.P.P. He is wooing labor, education and agriculture, and a very ardent suitor he is. Somehow his courtship lacks sincerity and he has to resort to so many false statements to help (?) him. His false statements however, are so unmistakably untrue, that the only inference I can draw is, that he is afraid of the truth. Why does he not woo truth in this election? I have been reading his address at Young's Point and the way he avoids truth suggests a quarrel between them. He asks, "what is the cause of the rural population of Ontari decreasing?" Now, all who know the truth, know well enough that the rural population of Ontario is not decreasing. Here are the true figures:

Rural population, 1909	1,049,240
Rural population, 1907	1,043,658
Increase	5,582

These figures are taken from the Bureau of Industries report and compiled from the yearly assessment returns.

So much for Mr. Hall's depopulation bogey. Now for his reason? He says it is because the Whitney Government is doing nothing to make farming profitable, or to make farm life attractive. He goes on to say, the Whitney Government have done nothing to show the farmers the results of successful experiments. What is the truth of this matter? There is no truth in his statements, as I proceed to prove. To begin with financial support to agriculture by the Whitney and Liberal Governments:

Appropriation, 1911	908,639
Appropriations, 1904	$475,678
Whitney Increase	$432,961

This is an increase of 89 per cent. rather a good way of doing nothing.

Now further, to interest the farmer in profitable farming, the Whitney

SIXTY WERE DROWNED

Trained Plunged Into River—Rushing Current Submerged Passengers Escaping From Car Windows

Saumur, France, Nov. 23.—Sixty passengers, it is estimated lost their lives through the plunging of a train into the river Thouet this morning, owing to the breakdown of a railbridge on the state railway at Montreuil Bellay in the department of the Marne-et-Loire.

The train, which had started from Angers, was travelling to Poitiers. It contained about 100 passengers. While it was crossing the bridge over the Thouet the structure which, had been greatly weakened by recent floods broke down crashing with the whole of the cars in the swollen stream.

Many of the passengers who succeeded in getting out of the cars through the windows, tried to save themselves by clinging desperately to tops of trees, which showed above the surface of the water. In most cases, however, they were quickly washed away by the rushing current.

All the boats in the locality had been carried off by the inundations, so that it was impossible for the people of the neighborhood to assist much in the work of rescue.

No exact information is yet available as to the number of victims or as to those rescued, but it is believed that between 50 and 60 have been drowned.

50,000 FEMALES ARE AFFECTED BY STRIKE

Berlin, Nov. 23.—A general strike of the Berlin cloak and suit makers and workers in the children's clothing trade, occurred to-day. The strikers demand from 10 to 15 per cent. increase of wages, with a guarantee of the maintenance of the higher rate for several years.

The strike effects 50,000 female home workers and 3,000 tailor intermediaries. Picketing has been ordered by the trades union to prevent the giving out of materials by the manufacturers.

The strike will affect the delivery of spring models which are due to be despatched to New York in a month.

Chatham, Ont., Nov. 23.—Barricaded in the house, with a vicious dog and a double-barreled shot gun, Thos Murphy of Thamesville successfully defied a posse that attempted to arrest him as a dangerous character.

Murphy, who is subject to spells, had previously driven Pc. Stewart from the house. Constable O'Neil, who tried to secure him, was cut about the face with broken glass. Further efforts will be made to capture Murphy.

ITALIAN WARSHIPS BOMBARDED AIN ZARA.

Heavy Firing on Turkish Works with Captive Balloon Telephoning the Ranges.

Tripoli, Nov. 23.—Italian warships yesterday continued a heavy bombardment of the Turkish works at Ain Zara, a captive balloon telephoning the ranges.

Tuesday's artillery fire at the Sciarscitt trenches was the sharpest since October 23, two caravans attempting to approach the oasis near the Sahal District being scattered. A military aviator went on a scouting expedition as far as Tangura. He reports a large force mobilizing there, thought to consist mainly of Arabs.

The flood water has been completely drained out and the Italian lines and works are being strengthened.

SECOND JARRY OPERATES

Toronto, Nov. 23.—When Joseph Reopel, a young French-Canadian coming from Ottawa walked into the Detective Department this forenoon to register a complaint that he had lost a gold watch, he failed to get out again. Detective Tipton, being an expert at remembering faces, recalled the man as one he had seen in the McLaughlin Motor Car Company's garage attempting to purchase a machine two weeks ago, when the detective was working on the Jarry case. Reopel's actions created some comment at the time, and a hint from the salesman that he might be a "second Jarry."

Reopel had lived up to the prediction and enlarged upon it, the variation being that Reopel was caught by the authorities before he had time to marry the girl on whom he had been lavishing his fictitious wealth for the past ten days.

WEDDING IN TWO WEEKS.

Reopel came to this city ten days ago. He met Flora Garner, of 242 George street, shortly after, and according to the police, was to have married her in two weeks. In the meantime, Reopel has purchased an automobile, jewelry, clothes, and furs to the value of several thousand dollars, and paid for them by issuing false cheques, and by the giving of promisory notes, payable on demand. The man is wanted in Montreal for similar conduct.

Six charges were brought against Reopel in this morning's police court before Magistrate Denison, and the goods which had not already been sent to the girl's address had been ordered to be sent there.

He ordered furs to the value of $1,310 from the Sellers-Gough Company, a cheque being tendered in payment. The auto bought from the McLaughlin Company was valued at $1,100 and the jewelry, diamonds and silverware from Ryrie Bros., were paid for by a $261 cheque. These three amounts he is charged with attempting to obtain by fraud.

Three charges of stealing are brought against him by the Robert Simpson Company, M. Thaeler and Son, 344 College street, and Gordon Wilson, of 164 Jarvis street. From Simpson's Reopel obtained an opera cloak for the girl, a manicure set engraved with Miss Garner's initials, a chatelaine and several yards of silk, the payment being a cheque for $91.94. From Thaeler and Son, the girl was enriched by a silk dress, an opera cloak and several other garments ordered to be cut up. Here a cheque for $225 was offered to cover future purchases as well. From Gordon Wilson, it is a charge of stealing a raincoat, a razor, and a hat.

WEARS GOOD CLOTHES.

Reopel is a young man, quite French in appearance, was stylishly dressed, and when he appeared before the police was making use of the alias Almond. He has been living at 103 Ontario street.

Reopel was brought into court and charged with the three latter cases, of procuring goods by false pretences. He pleaded guilty to all, and upon the request of the Crown Attorney was remanded for aweek to make enquiries as to his past.

MILITANT WOMEN, ONE AFTER ANOTHER, PREFERRED JAIL

MRS. LAWRENCE, HEAD AND FRONT OF SUFFRAGETTE'S RIOTS, GIVEN A MONTH.

Others Scorned Fines and Refused Option to Pay—"Police Not So Brutal," Says Mrs. Lawrence.

London, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, the head and front of Tuesday's Suffragette riots, was the central figure of to-day's trial. She was standing unconcernedly in the prisoners' enclosure and listened to the evidence in support of the charge of assaulting the police and obstructing them in the performance of their duty. When the magistrate sentenced her to a months' imprisonment without the option of a fine she did not flinch.

According to the evidence, Mrs. Lawrence, at the head of thirty women, stormed the cordon of police time and time again. She struck a policeman in the face twice and struggled for fifteen minutes when she was arrested and taken away.

Mrs. Lawrence made a statement in court in reference to the roster produced yesterday. It called on the women to assemble in their thousands and "see fair play and protect women from being brutally victimized by the police in uniform and plain clothes as they were on Black Friday 1910, when as the result of ill-usage one woman died and many were seriously injured.

NO BRUTAL USAGE.

She now remarked "I am glad to state that as far as the police in my vicinity was concerned there was no repetition on Tuesday of the brutal usage of women. I am inclined to think that what happened on the former occasion was done on the instructions of the Government."

She added that such scenes were repugnant to women, but that that was the only way to secure freedom for women. She protested against the Government's shameless insult to women by enfranchising more men while leaving women voteless.

A long line of window-wrecking suffragettes filed in and out of the court room. The accused, almost without exception, took their sentences with Spartan indifference, choosing jail in preference to the payment of fines.

MADE SPEECH IN COURT

Mrs. Kathleen Bothwell managed to deliver a brief speech in spite of the protests of the magistrate. She had broken a big plate glass window on the Strand.

"It is out of my great love for humanity, and particularly my devotion to women and children, that I did this," she said. "Sex disqualification is the root of all social evils and I am prepared to do anything the militant branch of the Suffragettes dictates in order to gain the vote."

NE TEMERE TO BE DISCUSSED

To be Dealt with at Conference of Premiers

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—One of the most important matters which will come up for discussion at the meeting of the Provincial Premiers to be held here in the near future, will be a question directly pertaining to the Ne Temere Decree.

It is understood that a strong movement is on foot and that petitions signed by thousands of electors in the different provinces have been, and will be forwarded to each of the ten provincial premiers, including Premier Gouin, of Quebec, asking them to either act upon the matter themselves, or to unite and demand of the Federal Government the creation of a uniform marriage law.

While it is doubtful and improbable that the conference can take any action with regard to such a delicate and important matter, in so far as their own Governments are concerned, at least one of the Premiers, while in Ottawa recently stated that the question of marriage laws would be one of the questions to be taken up.

Whether or not an agreement would or could be reached, as to whether the creation of a uniform marriage law for the Dominion, would be in the general interest, he could not say but at all events he was quite positive that the conference would at least place itself upon record, as to whether or not the marriage laws of the country should or should not be amended. The discussion of the question, with the other equally interesting one of representation, lends tremendous public interest throughout Canada, as to what the results of the conference will be.

TRANSCONA PARK, - - WINNIPEG

The $5,000,000 work shops now being built by the Transcontinental Railway will soon be completed and Transcona inside of one year, will have a population of 20,000.

A new street car extension will be built next year from Winnipeg along the Nairn Road through Transcona.

The Grand Trunk are building a $20,000 station to the south of this sub-division.

The Canadian Pacific has just completed the purchase of the S.E. Quarter of Section No. 17, and will erect a fine new station to accommodate traffic to and from Winnipeg and to provide access to the new Winnipeg Golf Grounds that will be opened next year.

The G.T.P. Shops to be Opened Jan. 6, 1912

These shops now employ over 1,000 men, and when completed will be, next to the Angus shops at Montreal, the largest and best equipped railway shops in the Dominion of Canada. They are not all completed. This will take some two years or more, when they will employ upwards of 5,000 men. Factories have been started in Transcona that will also employ a large number of men. It is only a question of time before Transcona has a population larger han Regina, Saskatoon or Moose Jaw. Transcona property has been on the jump for some time, and, as soon as things have fairly started, property here will increase in value very materially. Get a lot or two in Transcona Park before prices advance. They are very low now. Transcona Park is close to town, and you can watch development from day to day. As soon as the street car line is built along the Nairn Road you will be able to build in this sub-division and be in easy reach of Main Street and Portage Avenue.

TORREN'S TITLE

No incumbrance on this property. If you are not satisfied with your investment in two years' time you may, on giving notice to the Vendor, receive all your money back with six per cent. interest added. We have had special forms printed including this as part of the Agreement of Sale and these will be issued by the owners of the property on receipt of your first payment.

Inside lots about the same distance west of Main Street, Winnipeg, as Transcona Park is east, are selling from $20.00 to $70.00 per foot. The small buyer has not much chance of making big money buying at these prices, as the demand for residential property over $50.00 per foot is limited; on the other hand buying at five to seven dollars a foot in a growing manufacturing and residential centre like Transcona Park, the small investor has a good chance of making a big thing. Get right into the game and secure an early choice.

You have no doubt noticed advertisements of subdivisions in and near different towns throughout the west. Have you ever compared prices and localities? If so, you must have realized that the chances of any immediate or rapid advance in value must be in favor of the locality in or near a large city like Winnipeg, with its Manufactories, its Railways and Business Centres, as compared with a small prairie town. Transcona must eventually be part of Winnipeg. There is no buy on the market to-day equal to Transcona Park, at the prices and terms we offer.

Make early application and secure a choice site.

IMMENSE NEW GAS WELL AT BOW ISLAND

DAILY PRODUCTION OF NEW WELL 5,000,000 CUBIC FEET.

Widespread interest is being manifested in the opening of another new gas well at Bow Island, which is producing natural gas at the rate of 5,000,000 cubic ft. every 24 hours. Attention was first attracted to Bow Island when the gas well, known as "Old Glory," was discovered. At the time of its discovery, "Old Glory," with its daily production of 8,365,000 cubic feet of gas, was the largest natural gas well on the American Continent. But in addition to "Old Glory" Bow Island has four other gas wells, one of which is producing 28,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

The opening of this new gas well gives Bow Island a daily production of 61,365,000 cubic feet of gas every 24 hours and the distinction of being the world's greatest natural gas field.

The Canadian Western Natural Gas Co., which controls the Bow Island gas field, and in which the Canadian Pacific Railway is understood to be interested, is to supply natural gas to Calgary and the work of piping the gas from Bow Island to Calgary is now under way.

In its enormous supply of natural gas, Bow Island, with its practically unlimited supply of cheap fuel, will be able to offer unusual inducements to manufacturers and it is generally conceded that Bow Island will become an important manufacturing centre. The town, although less than two years' old, already has a population of 400 and presents to the eye of the visitor a scene of remarkable activity and development.

The Grand Pacific Land Co., Limited, with head offices in Winnipeg, Man., controls a part of the townsite of Bow Island and has appointed Geo. Ruth & Co., 326 Water St., Peterboro', as its exclusive Peterboro' representative for the sale of Bow Island lots. Complete information as to the World's Greatest Natural Gas Field and the opportunities for profitable investment in Bow Island may be had by calling upon or writing Geo. Ruth & Co., at Peterboro', or the Grand Pacific Land Co., Limited, at Winnipeg.

KING EDWARD VACUM CLEANER

You cannot clean carpets, rugs and furniture by beating. If you think you have, just try a KING EDWARD VACUUM CLEANER and you will find the article full of dust, which breeds disease.

The KING EDWARD HAND MACHINE has no equal as compared with other hand machines. It is lighter to operate and its suction is much stronger. Its suction is stronger than many of the power machines, and the dusting is done away with. On account of the short stroke one person can operate it on carpets and rugs equally as well as two, and it is about half the weight of other hand machines to carry up and down stairs or from one room to another. It is sold for less money than any of the hand machines. All machines are guaranteed.

Birdcages and Disease.

Bedsteads and birdcages are among the sources of plumbism — the deadly lead poison disease — according to a report by Dr. Robert Edginton in the current "British Medical Journal". "In putting together chandeliers and gas-fittings white lead is used in the joints," he says, "and it is the custom of the workmen to test the joints by sucking the air out of the tubes, so that in this case the lead is probably conveyed directly into the stomach." The process which figures highest (with seventeen cases in a list of eighty-four instances of plumbism) is the painting of motor-car and coach bodies, safes, and stoves, whose glossy enamel-like surface exacts a heavy toll from the workers owing to the lead dust inhaled during the repeated sand-paperings involved in securing a perfectly smooth surface. House painters come next, and on the same level as regards frequency of poisoning are the girls who smooth down the paint of bedsteads and birdcages with their hands to get an enamel-like surface. Cases of lead poisoning among tinners and kettle makers are ascribed to the mixture of lead and tin used for the inside surface of kettles and saucepans.

Papa—It's very simple, my son. It means extreme speed, and refers to the professional borrowers who make a touch and get away so fast you seldom see them again.

A Thought for To-day

As in that which is above Nature, so in Nature itself: he that breaks one physical law is guilty of all. The whole universe, as it were, takes up arms against him, and all Nature, with her numberless and unseen powers is ready to average herself upon him, and on his children after him, he knows not when nor where. He, on the other hand, who obeys the law of Nature with his whole heart and mind, will find all things working together to him for good. He is helped and befriended alike by the sun above his head and the dust beneath his feet: because he is obeying the will and mind of Him who made sun, and dust, and all things: and who has given them a law which cannot be broken. — Kingsley.

Thought it was a Crack.

A corpulent gentleman with a large appetite entered a mean-looking restaurant, and ordered a chop, and waited twenty minutes. Then the waiter reappeared with a plate on which rested a dab of mashed potatoes, a bit of meat burnt almost to a cinder, out of which emerged a long, thin piece of bone.

The waiter set it down before the starving gentleman and hurried off.

"See here," called the customer, "I ordered a chop."

"Yes sir," replied the man, "there it is."

"Ah, so it is," mused the hungry man, readjusting his spectacles. "I thought it was a crack in the plate."

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Workshop, Victoria Island, Ottawa," will be received until 4 p.m., on Thursday, November 23, 1911, for the construction of a Workshop, Victoria Island, Ottawa.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Spruce for British Admiralty

The British Admiralty has recently placed an order for 200,000 feet of white spruce to be used in the manufacture of oars for the rowboats of warships. It is perhaps not generally known that the superior quality of the white spruce grown in the Queen Charlotte Islands, off the coast of British Columbia, was discovered years ago by British naval officers of the North Pacific station. The kind of timber was found to be ideally adapted for making oars, and it is now used exclusively for that purpose by His Majesty's vessels throughout the world. The timber will be shipped east by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Light from Sugar

This phenomenon, the cause of which has not yet been satisfactorily explained, may be observed when discs of loaf sugar are mounted on a lathe and rapidly rotated while a hammer plays lightly against them. An almost continuous radiation of light may be thus produced from the sugar. It has been shown that the light does not arise from heating of the sugar, and it is believed to be caused by some change taking place in the sugar crystals. The act of crystallisation is known to be sometimes accompanied by flashes of light. The practical bearing of these experiments is on the question of the possibility of obtaining artificial light by methods as yet untried.

Small but Intelligent

I had been seated but a few minutes on the front porch of an old colonial house (says a correspondent) when my attention was called to a number of ants clustering around the base of the column at the head of the steps. My host, observing the direction of my gaze, then told me the following story. "I had observed," he said, "that ants were eating away the wood below the floor, and yesterday I filled the hole up with borax, thinking to end the difficulty. An hour later I saw the ant work its way through the boards on to the floor, and crawl down the steps to the ground, followed by other ants. In less time than I can tell you, they had arranged themselves with the utmost precision in a perfectly straight line, horizontally and vertically, from the hole to the ground, down the five steps. Then, to my amazement, the ant at the edge of the hole passed a bit of the borax, which I had pounded, not powdered, to the next in line, who in turn passed it on until it reached the ant on the ground. In half an hour they had conveyed all of the borax in the hole to a neat little pile at the foot of the steps, and the army then marched back to their quarters with the same quiet precision."

RESCUED FROM THE IDOL

By Angus Franthier

The sun was beating pitilessly down with that intense white heat that only those who have traversed in tropical countries can realise. The long white road was covered with a cloud of dust in which swarms of flies buzzed noisily while its entire length was taken up by a straggling mass of humanity, all pressing towards one goal.

And in the midst of this motley crowd a single European mounted on a stout pony, his pith helmet showing up with marked distinctness, and his rainbow-hued headgear surrounding him.

Dismounting from his pony at some little distance from the entrance to a temple Roydhouse flung the rein to one of the numerous hangers-on who swarmed round him, eager to pick up a few annas; and proceeding on foot he strode toward the grotesquely-carved and gaudily-decorated portals of the holy place.

As Jack Roydhouse entered from one side, a long procession of priests trailed in from the other, several of them carrying lights that burnt with the same curious faint blue light and as they advanced they chanted in a low tone some sort of doxology in praise of the deity they worshipped.

Suddenly waving their torches the lights flashed up brilliantly, revealing to Roydhouse's astonished gaze the idol he had come such a distance to see. Grotesque in the extreme, and yet so strangely weird that it was absolutely forbidding; whilst to add to its barbaric splendour it bore on its legs and arms jewels that would have been worth a king's ransom.

But it was the head that naturally attracted Roydhouse's attention. Was he dreaming? He rubbed his eyes and gazed again. True, the face was hideous to a degree, with protruding ears and a long, beak-like nose. But the eyes! By what conjuring trick had those priests effected such a marvellous deception.

At the termination of the ceremonies, and when the worshippers began to file slowly out, Roydhouse, passing through the Hall of Columns, suddenly felt himself plucked by the sleeve, and a native woman, closely veiled, with one finger held to her lips, thrust a small piece of paper into his hand; then, disappeared from view.

Half a mile down the road he seated himself on a moss grown stone, and drew forth the strange note.

It read:—"I see you are an Englishman. For God's sake come to the south entrance of the temple at midnight. You may be able to rescue me from a living death. You will—"

There the strange letter finished. Evidently the writer had been interrupted.

Leaning against some palm stems, and almost indistinguishable amid the luxurious undergrowth, were the forms of two men.

"Keep quiet, man. See! the door is opening."

Roydhouse gazed intently in the direction indicated, and sure enough the small door had opened an inch or two. Slowly, and without any sound, it swung back, till it was wide enough to admit the passage of a female figure clothed in white.

For one second the figure hesitated; then, evidently recognising the Englishman, advanced and he at once discovered that it was the Indian woman who had thrust the note into his hand.

"'Tis even here, my lord!" And the woman as she spoke took his hand and placed it upon what he could feel was an iron-bound door.

"'Tis through here I pass the memsahib her food, and it was through here she gave me the letter to my lord."

Then, as though another door had been opened farther off the sound of a chant came suddenly surging on his ear, and at the same instant a piercing shriek rang out, and a voice in unmistakable English called "Help!"

Roydhouse blew out the lock with a revolver shot, and there, facing him, and struggling in the grasp of two priests, was what he might have taken for a human being, but for the head.

To his last hour he will never forget the sight — the tall, graceful form, the bare white arms. But the face, with its ghastly whiteness, its protruding ears and beak-like nose! Then at an instant the solution flashed across his brain. It was a mask similar to those he had seen used by the lamas in distant parts of Thibet, and darting forward he wrenched the wearer from the hands of those who held her, and before they had recovered from their surprise, had knocked one senseless with the butt-end of his revolver, and sent the other sprawling with a well-planted blow between the eyes.

With his knife he quickly severed the cords that bound the hideous thing, and as it fell apart there was revealed to his gaze the pale face and golden hair of Miss Paradine, daughter of the Colonel who had mysteriously disappeared some time before.

During the ride back to Fakrabad, Miss Paradine confided to Roydhouse that she had been kidnapped by the priests, and being taken to the Black Temple had been forced to act the part of an idol; and how, the body of the real idol being hollow, she was concealed within it with the exception of her head, which, enclosed in the hideous mask, was visible to the public gaze; and as her eyes were allowed to be seen, the priests had reaped an abundant harvest from the credulous natives who came to worship at the shrine of the Idol with the Living Eyes.

A week after the occurrence related above, Murray Bover, coming suddenly into Roydhouse's room, caught his friend gazing intently at a small locket in which reposed a tiny curl of golden hair.

"Hullo, old man!" he cried gaily. "Let's know when the wedding is coming off."

No preacher can make a success at fishing for men and angling for flattery at the same time.

Old Bitterness Not Obliterated.

That all the bitterness of feeling arising out of the Civil War has not yet disappeared is shown by the action of the Governor of South Carolina in characterizing General Sherman, who led "the march to the sea," and who incidentally destroyed a great deal of Southern property, as a "scoundrel." The Governor has gone further and issued orders that all school histories in use in the State shall say that the city of Columbia, which was destroyed during the march to the sea, was destroyed by the express orders of General Sherman.

TO HELP THE EXPORT TRADE

Well Known Business Man of Montreal Urges Canadian Manufacturers To Wake Up and Get After Foreign Trade

Mr. George E. Johnston, the well-known financier is urging the manufacturers and traders of Canada to consolidate and form an association through which authentic information of the wants of other countries—particularly South America—could be secured for the benefit of Canada. Mr. Johnston's appeal, in part, is:—

Has not the time arrived when we should put forth some concerted action whereby we would render valuable aid to our Canadian exporters. This might be accomplished by following the example of our neighbors to the south of us by the formation of a Canadian Export Association. Our export trade is growing at a remarkably rapid rate and the work of such an association would be to enable our expanding manufacturers and traders who may be anxious to participate in profitable overseas business. It would be the purpose of the suggested association to establish an intelligence department and through the agency of accredited correspondents who would supply ruling prices, point out new markets and fresh sources for the purchase of our raw material.

It may be news to many Canadians to know that there is scarcely a country in the world where Canadian merchandise does not find a ready market, both in the countries of the Old and New World. We have now a direct steamship service to Australia, New Zealand and the Far East and we have lately turned our attention to the development of trade to Latin South America and with most promising results.

From January 1st to September 30th of last year, the exports and imports between Canada and Argentine aggregated $5,051,467, which is $3,000,000 more than the previous year. During the nine months above mentioned, Canada sent to Argentine $2,869,913 worth of goods and bought from that republic $2,181,554.

In looking over all the countries' trade with each of the Republics of South America, I personally believe that our trade of 1910 with the Argentine might be duplicated in each one of the other Republics, if we put the proper trade machinery into operation. Canada in the last few years, has been developing her export trade at a very rapid rate.

I would like to see our government assist in establishing a direct line of steamships with South America. This would facilitate the work of an energetic and patriotic Canadian Export Association. In many ways South America presents a very attractive field for Canadian business men and I believe, as one personally acquainted with South America and its business, that there is no doubt a large trade could be worked up, if proper attention were paid to cultivating the republics of South America. As everyone knows, South Americans for the most part, are not competitors of Canada. They buy what we have to sell and sell us commodities which we require. The only exception to this statement is the Argentine Republic and even with this republic our export trade last year was over $5,000,000. Canada should have, next to Great Britain, the first claim upon South American trade, because of the fact that the chief commercial houses of South America are English and would naturally give a preference to Canada. There is invested in South American enterprises at the present time, over two billions dollars of British money and as a result of this large amount of British capital invested, Canada, as a part of the British Empire, would receive a cordial welcome should she energetically seek closer trade relations with South American countries.

As a Canadian much interested in Canadian enterprises, I would like to see a system of organized effort to extend and enlarge our export trade and for that purpose, I would suggest the formation of a powerful league, known as the Canadian Export Association, which league ought to secure diplomatic influence for the successful exploitation of Canadian commerce. In order to secure a remunerative business for a direct steamship line, the government might grant a subsidy, which subsidy would not be required after a more extensive trade had been developed, as it would soon be apparent that Canadian steamships would soon have a paying cargo each way.

It might be pointed out that the greater part of manufactured goods used in South America are imported and that there is hardly an article manufactured in Canada which would not find a ready and profitable sale in the south. Implements are used there in enormous quantities. Cement is used in millions of tons. Leather goods, including saddles, boots and belting are everywhere in great demand owing to the agricultural nature of the country. The bulk of this trade is now going to Americans, Germans and the Belgians. We in turn need their asphalt, nuts, mutton, hides, mahogany, rice, rubber, wool, etc. Our Canadian government has neglected putting a live, energetic Canadian representative in each one of the Republics of South America and I think the time has arrived for either the government or such an association as I have indicated to take immediate steps towards the development of our Canadian trade in the south.

Mr. Johnston invites correspondence from manufacturers and traders of the Dominion on the subject and if there is sufficient interest manifested, necessary steps will be taken to organize an export association and to develop and extend our export trade.

The Devil-Troddens.

A certain battalion — the Terrors", possessed but a very small band. The commanding officer's feet — he was a burly farmer — were — well, rather large. One day the battalion was to march out, but the music was not forthcoming.

"Where on earth is the band?" queried the adjutant.

For some time there was no reply; but when the question was repeated, a gruff voice was heard from the rear rank:—

"I do believe, sir, the colonel trod on it by accident."

A Startling Revelation

The friends of Miss Mary McKenzie, of London, were astonished to hear that she had gone into consumption.

This sad intelligence came as a shock to Miss McKenzie's many friends. In the early fall she contracted a heavy cold which developed rapidly into Catarrh, and finally made such rapid advances that the bronchial tubes and lungs became affected.

Although the doctors said nothing short of a change of residence to the south would benefit, on the advice of a Dundas Street druggist Miss McKenzie decided to thoroughly test Catarrhozone, which is warranted to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes.

Miss McKenzie says: "After my druggist had recommended Catarrhozone I spoke to my friends about it and they all said it was such a good remedy that I commenced forthwith to inhale it five or six times each day. I breathed it deeply into my lungs, and felt its beneficial action very quickly. It seemed to go where other remedies did not reach, and was so pleasant and convenient that I did not mind using it very frequently, which, probably, was the cause of it curing my obstinate case so quickly. Certainly no case of Catarrh or Bronchitis should go uncured if the sufferer can get Catarrhozone, which is a sovereign remedy, worthy of the highest recommendations.

Miss McKenzie's case needs no enlargement. She was in a critical condition, apparently beyond the aid of doctors' medicines.

Catarrhozone has cured her, and others in her condition should no longer experiment with uncertain, untried treatments, but should turn at once to catarrhozone, and in it they will find relief and cure unobtainable by other means. Remember the name, Catarrhozone. Complete outfit guaranteed to cure. Price $1.00. Small size 25 cents. Druggists or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

CANADIAN PEAT BOGS.

The known peat bogs of Canada are estimated to cover an area of approximately 36,000 square miles, says the Canadian Engineer, from which about 28,000,000,000 tons of air-dried peat could be produced. This is said to be equal in fuel value to some 14,000,000,000 tons of coal. To encourage the utilization of these resources, a peat bog of 300 acres with an average depth of 8-feet has been acquired by the Canadian Government, at Alfred, near Caledonia Springs, Prescott County, Ontario. About five mile of ditches have been dug, and a storage shed, blacksmith shop and office have been built. It is estimated that the erection of a plant capable of producing 30 tons of air-dried peat daily should not cost very much, and since workable peat bogs are scattered throughout the farming regions of Ontario and Quebec, the most economical for utilizing this fuel would be the erection of a number of plants at convenient points, to be operated in the interests of the neighboring communities.

A NEW CENSUS NEEDED.

The Dominion census taken this year was so bungled that the new government is obliged to consider the expediency of taking the census over again. There is reason to believe that very many places have been under-rated. A conspicuous case was that of Saskatoon, which was given 12,000 population by the census. The citizens organized a new local census, 200 volunteers taking part, and they reported 19,000 population. Apparently the official census men got only about two-thirds of the population. Now comes Moose Jaw with a civic census which places the population far in advance of the figures credited to that town by the federal bungle. A police census of Winnipeg would unquestionably disclose thousands more of actual population then reported by the government court.

GEORGE DURNFORD

Well Known Canadian Banker

Although well known to banking men and other business concerns throughout the Dominion, Mr. Durnford's name is perhaps more familiar to the general public in philanthropic and literary circles. Though born of a military family — his father being a Captain in His Majesty's 68th Regiment, Durham Light Infantry — Mr. Durnford's life training has been mainly commercial. From a shipbuilding firm in Quebec, where he was employed for the two years ending 1856, he entered the Upper Canada Bank in Montreal in his eighteenth year, and later became connected with the Bank of British North America, acting as Manager of its Kingston Branch, which he relinquish in 1880, to become secretary and Treasurer of the Canada Co-Operative Association. It is as a chartered accountant of the highest rank that Mr. Durnford is best known however, and the finality which marks his methods is widely appreciated by a large clientele.

He is at present Treasurer of the Synod of the Diocese of Montreal (Church of England), which has invested funds of about a million dollars; Treasurer of the Homeopathic Hospital, of the useful Historical Landmark Association, and also of the Numismactic and Antiquarian Society, member of the Board of Trustees, Mount Royal Cemetery, etc., etc. Mr. Durnford is a well-known member of the Montreal Board of Trade and a Justice of the Peace.

Not Room for Both

"I know Ames comes in for a lot of praise because he hunts with a camera instead of a gun," Forbes began, in a slightly acrid tone. "It never seems to strike people that there may be more than one kind of brutality."

"What's the matter with Ames?" demanded one of the men on the clubhouse porch.

"Up in Canada last fall, Forbes readily resumed, "I went off by myself one day, when Ames was fiddling over his kodak, and I stumbled fast on a black bear. Because I was the only thing in sight, very likely, I became the immediate object of her attentions. I had only a slight lead, but I was going pretty well when Ames poked through the brush and took in the situation.

"'Hold on there, old chap!' he yelled. 'You're too far ahead. I can't get you both in!'"

Caring for the Train-Crews

Welfare work on the Canadian Pacific Railway has reached a high state of perfection. The railway believes that it is to its advantage to carefully look after the bodily welfare of its men and so everything possible is done to further the interests of its employees. At Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver there have been put into commission in connection with the Dining Car Department three new buildings which are the only ones of their kind on the continent. The new buildings which have been erected at a cost of $15,000 are for the use of the employees of the Dining Car Department. Coming into these cities after a long run the men will not have to look up a hotel or boarding house to pass the night in as under the old conditions. Instead they will go to the C. P. R.'s new buildings where they will be cared for in a way that was impossible before.

The new buildings are built to accommodate sixty two employees each and are of the most modern construction in every respect. Everything is free even to their laundry. Conductors chefs and waiters all have separate quarters and these quarters include baths, showers, lavatory, bedrooms, reading rooms, libraries, cardrooms and billiard rooms. Nice lawns and gardens beautify the premises and the men have all the comforts of home.

A feature of the new system is that the men will always be clean and tidy. It is compulsory for the men to take a bath and a change of underwear after each trip. A check system has been installed which makes it necessary for the men to comply with this rule.

Not only does this system guarantee that the public will have clean tidy men to attend to their wants but it also enables the company to keep a strict account of its men. When a car is called away on short notice at night it is not necessary to seek for a crew and the new system, it is expected, will be such a success that the C. P. R. will build these bungalows at all divisional points. As a matter of fact a building of this nature is now projected for Moose Jaw, and it is practically only a matter of time before there is a whole chain of them at all necessary points between Halifax and Vancouver.
